"Why, cer—. Yes, of course; if it hadn't been for Oscar sunflower seeds would be as they have been for years, a drug in the market. People may talk as they like, but he has been the means of causing money to flow through a good many channels, and the seedsmen's turn to thank the advent has arrived."

"Is the flower a difficult one to raise?"

"Why, bless you no. It is the easiest of any. It requires no care, and will grow rapidly anywhere where there is plenty of sun."

"What have the seeds been used for heretofore?" the reporter asked.

"Oscar Wilde says in his lecture that the impression that the sunflower is used as an æsthetic diet is erroneous—he is mistaken. In Portugal, meal is made from the seeds, from which bread is made; and when roasted they make an excellent substitute for coffee. The seed in its natural state is eagerly sought for by birds, and in the country sunflowers are raised for the seeds, which are used in large quantities for chicken food. It is very fattening, so if you are served with lean chickens at your boarding-house this summer you may thank Mr. Wilde and the more important demand he has created for the seed as a feast for the eyes. The seed contains a great quantity of oil, which is fit for burning in lamps and which is in some European countries made into a good substitute for olive oil. There won't be a garden or door-yard in Newport, Saratoga or any of the principal watering-places that won't have its Helianthus annuus tuberosus or multiflorus this summer," said the young man as he was called away to weigh out half a pound of cabbage seed.

A Mighty Power for Good.

Will the papers of thirty years hence show as great an improvement as have the papers of the last thirty years? They will undoubtedly improve. They are a rapidly growing power. Their influence was never greater than it is to-day. They mold public opinion. They make and unmake our rulers to a large extent. They shape and enforce our laws. They are the terror of evil-doers, and the guardians of the public interests. Their watchfulness excels official zeal. They give tone to the communities in which they are published, each according to the measure of its ability and standard. In this free land their power is greater than that of the king in his dominions, and more stable. They reach every nook and corner of the land, cheering the lonely, upholding the weak, advising the strong, helping all. A tremendous power indeed. How they smite the wrong and uphold the right! The press of the country is incorruptible. It is honest, independent and unpurchasable. Office-holders may fail in the discharge of duty, and congresses and legislatures may go astray, but the independent press remains, a faithful protector of the people's interests, a purifier of politics, a defender of the country, a teacher of sound morals, a mighty power for good. May it ever continue such.—Northampton Gazette.

Mosquitoes and Elephants.

Thick as is an elephant's skin, no living creature suffers more from flies, mosquitoes, leeches and other vermin than he. The pores are very large, and gadflies and mosquitoes, leeches, etc., worm themselves into the hollow and suck to repletion. Thus the whole day long they are constantly throwing up dirt, squirting saliva or water to get rid of the pests, to the great annoyance of their riders. They snore a good deal when asleep, and I have often seen them resting their heads on an outstretched foot when lying down. They are very human like in many of their ways. They scratch themselves with the tip of their proboscis, and if they cannot reach the place with that they take up a branch and use that. Natives say they plug up bullet holes with clay, but I never knew an instance of it myself.—London Field.

The longest span of wire in the world is used for a telegraph in India, over the river Kistnah, between Bezorah and Sectanagram. It is more than 6,000 feet long, and is stretched between two hills, each of which is 1,200 feet high.

With thermometers placed at four feet and at fifty feet above the ground, Mr. George Dines has obtained readings which lead him to believe that the average maximum temperature for every month is always greater and the average minimum lower near the ground than at a considerable elevation.

Experiments have shown that firing with a nine-inch twelve-ton gun at armor plating three and four inches thick, representing a deck of a vessel inclined between ten degrees and fifteen degrees, in no instances caused penetration, although full charges were used.

The general belief that the joints of animals have always a synovial fluid serving as a lubricant is, according to Dr. Lambert, an error. The elephant, with his relatively moderate motions and great weight, has admirable cartilages, but absolutely no lubrication therefor.

Spices.

"Indeed there are but very few people outside the trade who can realize the amount of business done yearly in this city in such seemingly small articles as nutmegs and cloves," said Mr. W. A. Morris, a New York spice broker, to a reporter. "There are as many fluctuations and as much speculation in spices as there are in coffee or stocks. Our trade changes with the season as much as any other, and at the present time cloves are weak. There is always a heavy demand for cloves during the winter theatrical season, as that spice goes far in making a play enjoyable. There were during the past year received at this port 1,170,697 pounds of cloves. Just imagine how far back that will put the population of the country when you consider the number of matrimonial engagements a single clove has been the means of breaking. As to nutmegs there were received during the year 582,544 pounds, or 263 tons, which, at the rate of 100 nuts to the pound, make 58,254,400, or a little over one apiece to every person in the United States. The white powder you see on nutmegs is, lime, which is used as a coating against worms. Of pepper there arrived here during the year 14,621,843 pounds, which represent $2,100,000, with the duty, which is five cents a pound, paid. The importation of other spices, such as cinnamon, ginger and allspice, is carried on in as large a proportion, and many fortunes are made and lost in a year in what is seemingly considered a petty business."

Glass Shingles.

A Pittsburg firm has been granted a patent for the manufacture of shingles composed of glass. It is claimed for this material that it is so much more durable, stronger and more impervious to rain than slate or any other substance now used. The manufacture of the shingles will also be comparatively inexpensive, and can be placed in position by any ordinary workman. These shingles have the advantage of slate in several particulars. In consequence of their shape they lie solid on the roof, and can be used on comparatively flat roofs, and they will admit of persons on them without danger of fracture, a quality which slate does not possess. They are interlocked so as to leave no interstices between them, and one rivet holds each pair of shingles, so that they cannot be forced from their places by the wind or other atmospheric disturbances. They are also made so as to have very little waste material. It takes 300 slates, each 8x12 inches, to cover what is technically known as a "square" of roof (a square measuring ten feet either way,) but 150 of these shingles will suffice for the same space. Glass is likewise a non-conductor of electricity, and houses with these roofs will need no lightning conductors. Although the kind of glass intended to be used in these shingles is non-transparent glass, a roof with colored border and opalescent body is said to be very handsome.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

They are at work in England on a dictionary of the English language which will take 7,000 quarto pages, or four and a half times the size of Webster's dictionary. The first part (letter A) will require 400 pages, and will be ready this year.

The increase in cotton spinning in the South of late years is indicated by the statistics of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina, which show an increase of 381,600 spindles during 1881 and 1882. This represents an investment of $9,763,200 in machinery and a consumption of 120,000 bales of cotton a year.

The wife of Lieutenant De Long shared her husband's ambition. During the preparations for his fatal expedition one of their lady friends in Washington remarked that nearly all the other officers were unmarried men, and said that the little family he was leaving were worth more to his life than all the glory he would gain. "Would you then," he asked pleasantly, "let the bachelors have all the glory?" and his wife added: "I want him to go. I am as enthusiastic for him as he is."

Always dot amounts of money in the right place. A period put in the wrong place makes considerable difference, as is shown by the fact that some Chickasaw Indians took up a collection in their church in behalf of foreign missions, and thus raised $4.00. By the mistake of a printer, who put a dot in the wrong place, the $4.00 became magnified into $400. As this seemed a phenomenal sum for the poor Chickasaws to give, their great liberality was commented on by the various religious papers, and held up as an example for other Christians to copy. The dot has now been put in the right place.

The city authorities of Paris, France, have granted a plot of land, at Montesouris park, for a school of insectology. This school will be founded by the Central Society of Agriculture and Insectology. There will be a museum of insects, useful, auxiliary and noxious. An experimental apairy has already been constructed, and this is being supplemented by a silkworm nursery and mulberry plantation. It is proposed finally to add a collection of insectivorous mammals, birds and reptiles, and to institute lectures, conferences and periodical exhibitions.

Kate Field and Oscar Wilde are reinforced from an unlooked-for direction. A farm laborer, in a letter to an agricultural exchange, advocates the use of knee breeches, and gives some practical reasons for their use which have escaped æsthetic notice. He says farmers would use leggings with them below the knees, which could be easily removed, whereas, in plowing or other rough work, mud now lodges on the pantaloons, and is apt to stay there. Besides trousers of the present fashion are so loose that they not only admit dust to the delicate cuticle of the laborer, but also permit the encroachment of the sly and vindictive yellow jacket.

We have fallen upon times of curious anomalies in trade. The Pacific States are shipping wheat to Australia. San Francisco sends flour to Texas, New Orleans and St. Louis. Europe sends potatoes, cabbages and other vegetables to America. American boxed meats are being reshipped from Liverpool to New Orleans, and from Antwerp to New York, and we lately read that a cargo of American flour had been brought back because the price here is better than in England. Inter-communication facilities allow the shifting of the world's supplies as the ballast of a ship is shifted from side to side. The possibility of a protracted famine, or even of unmeasurably high prices, in any portion of the civilized world is, year by year, being rendered less possible. When a general system of crop reporting prevails, supply and demand may be regulated with unvarying certainty.

According to a late census bulletin the State of New York has more farms in it than any State in the Union, except Illinois and Ohio. Illinois has 255,741, Ohio 247,189, New York 241,058. The number is constantly increasing. In 1850 New York had 170,621 farms; in 1860 196,993; in 1870 216,253. Out of all the farms in New York 201,186 are occupied by the owners and 21,748 are leased "on shares," and 18,124 rented for money. Every State shows, with each decade, an increase in the number of farms. This is largely due to the fact that as parents die the farm is divided up among the children. In the newer States the farms at first are very large, but as the country fills up and the land becomes more valuable the farms are divided and sold off. Rhode Island has 6,216 farms, of which five are over 1,000 acres; forty-eight over 500 acres, 2,929 over 100 acres. In New York there are 281 farms over 1,000 acres; 1,315 over 500 acres, and 36,275 over 200 acres.

Some of the revised figures and opinions concerning the sun, as the result of the most recent observations, aided by improved methods and appliances, are of peculiar interest. Thus, the former calculations, which placed the sun at 95,000,000 miles from the earth, and which remained unquestioned for so many years, are now changed, on the highest authority, so as to present a mean distance of 93,100,000 miles. Not less interesting are those investigations which deal with the solar temperature, respecting which the most diverse opinions have existed until lately among men of science, these opinions differing, in fact, all the way from millions to the comparatively low temperature of 3,632 degrees Fahrenheit. The figures now most generally received are those of Professor Rosetti, of Padua, who, after the most profound and prolonged study, places the sun's temperature at about 18,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Another notable fact is the recent discovery of oxygen in the sun's atmosphere—the first discovery, indeed, of the existence of any non-metallic element there.

Thomas McElrath, of Marlborough, has not slept in thirteen years. He looks hale and hearty, is over seventy years of age and weighs over 200 pounds. A statement of Mr. McElrath's condition and feelings is made as follows: Mr. McElrath resides in Marlborough village, and is a regular and devout attendant of the Presbyterian church, of which the Rev D. O. Niven is the pastor. Mr. McElrath was asked how his health was, and he replied that he took "no comfort at all." All through the "silent watches of the night" he neither nods nor dozes. He says he puts in the time reading the Bible, Psalms and religious literature. He has abandoned the use of all remedies, and quietly waits "for the coming of the Lord." He is active, apparently, but does not work at all, except in doing odd jobs around his residence. Mr. McElrath's neighbors say that they have gone to his house at all hours of the night, and he is always found alert and wide awake. Mr. McElrath is quite well-to-do in this world's goods. Until this spring the sleepless man lived on his fruit farm, situated several miles west of the village, where he now resides, as above stated. Mr. McElrath is serious when he says—and conscientiously believes—that he has slept "nary a wink in thirteen long years."

The official history of the Franco-Prussian war has just been completed, and contains a long array of statistics which afford comprehensive details of the size and losses of the opposing forces in the great and sanguinary struggle. The victorious German army, according to this record, consisted of 1,451,944 privates and 44,420 officers, of which enormous force 33,101 officers and 1,113,254 privates took active part in the battles. During the interval of the armistice the German forces in France were restored to the full war force, and on March 1, 1871, there were on French soil 823,648 Germans, which number also included non-combatants. At this time, when the total armed German forces amounted to 1,350,708 men, the available French soldiery reached a total of 251,000 men fit for field service. The loss of the German army was 6,247 officers and 123,453 of the private ranks. Of this vast sacrificial list, 17,572 died on the field of battle; 10,710 died from the effects of wounds received; 316 were accidentally killed; and thirty committed suicide. Diseases of various kinds, chiefly typhus, carried off 12,253, thus limiting the number who died natural deaths to only thirty per cent. of the whole list of the perished. It is reported that the full losses of the French army during their disastrous engagements can never be accurately known, and the record just published indicates only the number of prisoners of war made by the victors.

Exciting Pursuit.

Some excitement was caused recently in Ventnor (Isle of Wight) among the crowds of holiday people now thronging the town by a nearly fatal misadventure to one of the visitors, who was blown out to sea alone in a small boat. By mere chance it happened that one of the coast guard noticed a black speck further out than any boat was usually to be seen, and by the aid of a powerful telescope he was able to discern that it was a small skiff containing a man who had lost one of his oars, and was now helpless, with night approaching and a strong gale blowing off shore. Instantly a cry was raised, a four-oared gig was launched, and volunteers having sprung in, was pulled in the indicated direction, but by this time the skiff had faded from sight on the horizon. Even when the gig had steadily pulled five or six miles from shore no trace could be found of the smaller boat. At length, after an hour's search, she was sighted, and an exciting chase ensued, which resulted in the rescue and safe return after nightfall of both boats, welcomed by a crowded assemblage on the shore.

LADIES' DEPARTMENT.

Marriages Without Love.

Mr. Froude's biography of Carlyle gives us a clearer insight into the causes of the shadows which rested over the life of that most unhappy of men. His wife, a brilliant and sensitive girl, was in love with Edward Irving, but finding it impossible that they should ever marry was persuaded to listen to Carlyle's suit, because she believed that he would rise to great prominence.

His success surpassed her highest hopes, but he was selfish and hard to cruelty in his treatment of her. He kept her for six years in a lonely house on a barren moor, in absolute solitude, while he was engrossed in writing, sometimes passing whole days without speaking a word to her. She was his cook, char-woman, even ostler, but not his companion. She performed her duty faithfully, but in bitterness of soul.

"I love my husband," she said, frankly, years after their marriage, "but I never have been 'in love' with him. I married for ambition, and it has been more than gratified. But my life has been most miserable."

Carlyle and his wife were sympathetic in intellect, both were conscientious in fulfilling in every point their duties to each other. Nothing was lacking to the union but that magical, intangible something called love, without which every sharp point of character and temperament of each was left bare to goad and wound the other. Life, for which they were so largely dowered with power and opportunity, was for both a long, and unfortunately for others, a garrulous rage of disappointment.

One of the most brilliant women in America, long a leader in society, was asked once what fate she would choose for her daughter, if she could control her life.

"To be the obscure, loving wife of a man who loved her," was her reply.

Dorothy Patterson, who was known and loved throughout Great Britain as "Sister Dora," the faithful, self-sacrificing nurse, and head of great hospitals, said, shortly before her death: "I should have been a better woman if I had been married to a man fit to control me, whom I could have loved and obeyed."

Nothing can be more false or impure than the silly habit of flirtation and the weak fancies in which boys and girls idly indulge; but the strong, deep love which endures through life is the only basis for a happy marriage. It may not always be possible or right that a man or woman who so regard each other should marry. But they marry without it at their peril. No fortune, nor success, nor obedience to duty can supply its place, if it is lacking between husband and wife.

News and Notes for Women.

There are only three Chinawomen in New York.

Athens, Ga., has an old maid who will not even let her servants admit a man into the yard.

It is estimated that 65,000 women are earning their own living in honest employment at the present time in New York.

The trustees of Columbia college, in New York, have decided by a vote of twenty to two against the proposition to admit women as students to the college.

The female employes of the London postoffice are found to give the greatest satisfaction, and out of a staff of 1,533 in the central telegraph office 600 are women.

Some of the French ladies of fashion are rebelling against the dressmakers who are wastefully crowding several kinds of material in meaningless shapes into one dress.

The bride at a Bay City (Mich.) wedding would submit to kisses only on condition that they were paid for at $1 each. They sold readily at that price, and $182 was realized for a charity.

A New York woman has made her will on silver cards, taking out a piece of each card in the shape of a crescent—no two being alike—and giving this piece to different heirs. They are to receive what she has bequeathed them on the cards into which their crescent pieces fit.

Clara Belle moralizes in the Cincinnati Enquirer on the ruinous effect of candy-eating in New York: "We are making the fortunes of confectioners, dentists and doctors," she says; "we are squandering our pocket-money with the recklessness of drunkards. The amount of variously poisoned sugar-eaters here is unprecedented."

At a recent New York wedding the bride cake was built in four tiers. Around the lowest of these six satin bows were arranged; each hung on a pearl button, which formed the handle to a diminutive drawer. Just before the cutting of the cake each of the half-dozen bridemaids laid her hand upon a bow and drew out the drawer beneath, which, needless to say, contained a pretty gift.

Fashion Notes.

Side robes are seen on all very dressy costumes.

Irish and ficelle laces are both in high favor.

Silk skirts are preferred to all others for underwear.

Few underskirts are worn, and those are not starched.

All Italian bonnet braids are of a deep yellow tint.

The wildest combinations of color are the most popular.

The fleur-de-lis is a favorite design upon cream-colored satines.

Turn-over collars, with fancy neck-ribbons, are very fashionable.

Tinted surah is the favorite material for silk underskirts, chemises, drawers and camisoles.

Very low embroidered slippers are worn with embroidered stockings; the embroideries should match.

Half-inch wide stripes of color on white grounds are a feature in muslin ginghams and printed lawns.

Black lace insteps for stockings are worn with black dresses, and colored lace ones with colored toilets.

An eccentric fancy in hosiery is the stocking of green silk with a peacock's feather in tinted gold on the instep.

Pointed corsages, puffed paniers and bouffant tournures make those who wear them look very Elizabethan.

Parasols are very large, and made to look larger by the lace and embroidered volantes with which they are bordered.

Novelties in real jewelry are pale pink pearls and turquoises mounted together, and set in small fine diamonds.

Ladies with æsthetic tastes are having dresses made of Madras muslin window curtains in Oriental designs and colors.

Large emeralds and pale yellow topazes, separated by diamonds, are frequently mounted together in a lace pin.

There has been an immense demand for fine fancy metal candlesticks and fine porcelain and metal oil lamps this season.

Color in jewelry is at present studied as a fine art. It takes an artist to blend colored stones to advantage in fine ornaments.

Fewer foreign carpets are sold than formerly, on account of the improved quality of American manufacture in this line.

Some of the new hats and bonnets are as large as parasols; others no bigger than a saucer, and others still are of medium size.

Pale rose and blue, and rose and cardinal red, are beautifully combined in the gauzy dresses made for midsummer watering-place wear.

Terra-cotta, copper color, corn color or cream-tinted camel's-hair, enlivened with cardinal, are favorite combinations in new French tea gowns.

Ficelle, or twine lace, so plentifully used this spring, resembles macrame lace, the only difference being that the ficelle is very much more delicate and finer in fiber.

A Tuscan straw gypsy's hat, faced with dark-green velvet, and trimmed outside with a wreath of hazel nuts and foliage, is among a number of other stylish models.

Small jeweled lace-pins, matching the color and design of the earrings, are now used to fasten bonnet strings. The prettiest of these are in the form of crescents, arrows or butterflies, made of pearls and tiny diamonds.

Hair-dressing has come to be a simple matter now that all false hair is dispensed with. Simple styles prevail for the back hair such as small knobs and coils, while the front hair covers the forehead with rings and short curls and gives the low, broad Greek brow.

The prospective decadence of satin has brought new repped silks into the market. Among these is Bengaline, soft and pliable, yet with large cords, also the new English silks that are called Victorias, and are made with heavy repps, yet are as yielding as the thinnest taffeta.

The Country Editor.

The chief recreation of the country editor is in correcting and punctuating, with a blue pencil and a pair of shears, voluntary communications on "Temperance," "The Uses and Abuses of the Potato Bug," "Ensilage as a Means of Grace," etc., etc. When he has a controversy going on in his columns between two rival theologians, it is quite a holiday time for him, and gives him leisure to pay off the arrears of 'cussing that he feels he owes the advertising agents who try to seduce him into inserting a five-inch display advertisement, top of column next to reading matter, one year for $7.50, payable in wooden type and patent can openers.

The country editor is usually a good fellow, and, in the spirit of progress and in all that pertains to the advance of modern civilization, he is generally far ahead of his surroundings. Many of the foremost men in the land have risen from the editorial throne of a country weekly paper.—Texas Siftings.

The Plowman and His Team.

Behold the whistling plowman with his team.
He and his oxen drink from the same stream;
Oxen and oxygen make up his blood,
And, like the brutes, perhaps he chews the cud.
No, not like brutes; they never chew that quid
For who would eat their sirloins if they did?
They smoke before the plow and on the street,
And on the platter when prepared to eat.
Tobacco smoke is nauseous to the breed;
They'll take a horn, but never touch the weed.
The only snuff they take is snuff of air;
They are good sober oxen everywhere.

A Picture Worth Beholding.

Hanging between two small windows, and catching the light from a larger one opposite, in one of the offices of Adams Express company, at 59 Broadway, New York—the office occupied by Mr. W. H. Hall, head of the delivery department—is a plainly finished but neatly framed chromo about 2½ by 3 feet in size, which is looked upon by hundreds of people daily, on many of whom it has a wonderful and salutary effect. It represents a flight of half a dozen rough stone steps leading from the swarded bank of a placid lake to a little rustic temple set in the rugged side of the mountain which rises in stupendous proportions in the background all covered with a rank luxuriant growth of foliage in brush and tree. In the open door of this little temple stands a half concealed figure, with an arm and hand extended, holding forth a small, dimly defined package, while seated on the sward at the foot of the steps an aged pilgrim, barefooted, lame and decrepid, bears a staff in one hand, and in the other holds before his dim eyes a small bottle, whose label he eagerly scans. This label bears the words: "St. Jacobs Oil."

The Great German Remedy.

Simple as this little chromo appears in its unostentatious position, it has an influence which it would be difficult to estimate.

"It is to that picture and the persuasions of Mr. Hall," said Mr. Edward J. Douglass, a gentleman connected with Mr. Hall's department, "that I owe my present ability to perform my work. Some weeks ago I was violently attacked with sciatic rheumatism, and hour by hour I grew worse, and nothing my family or the doctor could do gave me any relief, and I began to think in a few days that my case was hopeless and that I was doomed to be an invalid and helpless cripple for life. But at last I thought of that picture which I had often looked at with but little interest, and then Mr. Hall came to my bedside, and, telling me how St. Jacobs Oil had cured him of a worse and longer standing case than mine, urged me to use the same remedy. I did so that very night, directing my wife not to spare it but to apply it thoroughly according to the directions, which she did with a large piece of flannel cloth saturated with the Oil, and then bound the cloth to the affected parts. The next morning I was free from pain, and although a little sore in the hip was able to dress myself, and the next day I resumed my duties in the office as sound as a dollar. Here I am now in full health and strength, having had no touch of rheumatism or other pain since. Whenever I see one of our drivers or any other person who shows any symptoms of lameness or stiffness, I point him to the picture in Mr. Hall's office, and then direct him to go for St. Jacobs Oil at once."

A city chap, who had escorted a country girl to the theatre, thinking to please her, went out and bought some apples. When he placed them in her lap she spoke up loud enough to be heard all about: "What do you take me for, a cider mill?" City chap collapsed; he couldn't stand the press.

Railroaders' Relief.

That most comfortable Ticket Office 187 West street, New York, is presided over by Mr. C. V. V. Ward, who thus addressed one of our representatives recently: "Some months ago I had rheumatism in my right arm, and was unable to raise it. I was advised by a friend to use St. Jacobs Oil. I did so, and before the second bottle had been exhausted my arm was perfectly well.—Brooklyn Eagle.

TORMENT, INDEED.

Life's vexations do not generally come to one like a storm descending the mountain or like a whirlwind; they come as the rain does in some sections of the world—gently, but every day. One of life's discomforts is presented herewith: According to popular impression, hot weather, mosquitoes and mad dogs all flourish at the same time and are chargeable to the malefic influence of the Dog Star. Speaking of dogs and the Dog Star reminds us of a boy's story of a dog and the consequences, which we herewith give in a short extract from the boy's letter: "Golly, Bob, you ought to hav been there last night to seen the fun. Tom Winkins' dorg Toddles was a-settin' at the gate a-gazin' at the Comb, when along comes old Sykes durned rat terrier and the 2 walked over the fence and the[y] fought. The terrier proved too much for Toddles, and afore they could haul him off the [illegible] ground he had made a good square meal off his hide. Tom was in despair. A kind looking gentleman in a broad brim hat told him to get a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil and rub him with it, and it would cure him in no time. What does Tom do but steal into the chapel at Vesper time and slide into Father Jacobs confessional box and beg of him a bottle of his oil with which to rub his dorg. The Father felt of Tom's head; it was hot an' afore Tom could utter a prayer, two men were luggin' him home followed by a great crowd, who kept at a safe distance, thinking he had been bit by a mad dorg. The more he kicked and screamed to be let free, the tighter they held on to him." In reference to another torment the Chicago Western Catholic recently wrote: "Mr. Josh P. Harvey, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, of this city, has spent over two thousand dollars in medicine for his wife, who was suffering dreadfully from rheumatism, and without deriving any benefit whatever; yet two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil accomplished what the most skilled medical men failed in doing. We could give the names of hundreds who have been cured by this wonderful remedy did space permit us. The latest man who has been made happy through the use of this valuable liniment is Mr. James A. Conlan, librarian of the Union Catholic Library of this city. The following is Mr. Conlan's indorsement:

UNION CATHOLIC LIBRARY ASSOCIATION,
204 Dearborn Street,
CHICAGO, Sept. 16, 1880.

I wish to add my testimony to the merits of St. Jacobs Oil as a cure for rheumatism. One bottle has cured me of this troublesome disease, which gave me a great deal of bother for a long time; but, thanks to the remedy, I am cured. This statement is unsolicited by any one in its interest.

Very respectfully,
JAMES A. CONLAN, Librarian."

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

We cannot afford to have our prosperity hang upon the policy of corporations.

Political truth is certain to attain fruition sooner or later, however backward the harvest may be. Democracy is truth.

It is rumored in Philadelphia that the Democrats will nominate Major-General Hancock for Governor of the State.

We cannot arrange any system of gambling which will increase wealth, since wealth comes only from labor properly applied.

Self government based on local intelligence, local experience, local wishes and feelings, is a fundamental American principle.

It is a demoralizing idea that the public service exists not for the benefit of the whole people, but for the selfish gain of office-holders.

The maintenance of free institutions and the essential interests of the people require that all elections shall be free and pure, and honestly returned.

It will be reliable progress towards freedom and virtue, when political offices claim men to fill them and when the discharge of their duties is held to be a sacred trust.

No party can govern a country for the public welfare that is not national in its origin and character, and that does not steer strictly by the chart of honor and honesty.

Judge McCormick, of this County, last week fined several jurors who had failed to answer to their names when called, five dollars each. The Judge means business in this shirking of duty.

No government has the right to say that the reward of one man's industry shall be taken to reward another man. Equal protection to all and a fair field for all, rich, moderate and poor, is the Democratic maxim.

After a long debate in the House on Monday, the Republicans adopted the amendment to the rules prohibiting dilatory motions in the contested election case, the Speaker supporting all their points of order.

It is the duty of the men of labor, upon whose industry and skill we all depend for the material blessings of life, to strengthen by every honorable means their influence for good, both socially and politically.

The moment a foreigner becomes naturalized, his allegiance to his native country is severed forever. He experiences a new political birth. He is an American, entitled to full national protection both at home and abroad.

When the States surrendered certain great rights for the sake of a more perfect Union, they retained rights as valuable and important as those they relinquished for the common weal. That is sound Democratic doctrine.

Prudent economy in National, State, County and Municipal administration, an honest and steady standard of value, and a system of taxation which shall make the rich as well as the poor bear their just proportion of the expenses of government, are the requisites of public prosperity.

We this week publish County Collector Sheridan's Annual Financial Statement. From it is gathered that the financial affairs of the County are in a prosperous condition under Democratic administration. The people of Union County are to be congratulated on having so efficient and careful a Collector as P. Sheridan.

The House of Representatives on Wednesday deprived Mr. Dibble of his seat and gave it to the contestant, Mackey. A resolution to censure the Speaker for his arbitrary decisions during the contest was offered by the Democrats and ordered to be laid on the table. The session was the most turbulent since the contest began.

An employer who for the labor of a workman agrees to give wages, does not for such consideration purchase his vote, and any attempt on the part of an employer to control the political action of an employee by coercion or intimidation, either directly or indirectly, is an innovation of the rights of citizenship and a base effort to corrupt the purity of the ballot-box.

Decoration Day was generally observed as a holiday throughout the country. At Gettysburg, General Hawley, of Connecticut, delivered the oration and ex-Secretary Blaine also delivered a short speech. In Plainfield the day was observed only by a general suspension of business. There was no public demonstration whatever made in the decoration of graves with flowers.

Last year, when Mayor King crushed the small boys of Philadelphia by his edict against fireworks, the dealers protested that the order was issued so near the 4th of July that they were put to a great loss by having purchased supplies which they could not sell. The Mayor has forestalled the use of that complaint this year by giving ample notice that the ordinance will be rigidly enforced, and the Chief of Police has issued a proclamation to that effect.

The Radical press of the State are anxious about the Third District Congressional honors. They have been shouting that Hon. Miles Ross has held the position they lust after, for four consecutive terms. They are mistaken. Mr. Ross is now faithfully serving his constituents for the fourth time, and if he wants another term—why, its hard to tell, dear stalwarts, what may happen to you. Miles is considered a "winner" when he starts out.

A law of the United States declares as follows—"Every person who steals or embezzles, or knowingly applies to his own use, or who unlawfully sells, conveys or disposes of any ordnance, arms, ammunition, clothing, subsistence, stores, money, or other property of the United States, furnished or to be used for the military or naval service, shall be punished, &c." Had that salutary enactment been enforced, as it should have been, one or more unscrupulous partisans now in Congress actively engaged in ousting legally elected Democratic members, would have ruminated in a far less cheerful place.

THE NEW JERSEY CENTRAL.

In pursuance of the order made by Chancellor Runyon for an election of Directors by the stockholders of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, a meeting of the present Board of Directors of the company was held Wednesday afternoon of last week, at which meeting it was unanimously decided to call a meeting of the stockholders for an election of nine Directors of the company, to take place on Friday, the 23d day of June next, at the company's office, in Jersey City, between the hours of 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. of that day. The transfer books to remain closed from Friday, June 2d, at 3 o'clock p. m., until Monday, June 26th next.

The Inspectors are to be named by the Board of Directors, to be subject to the approval of the Chancellor, and the Receiver is directed to facilitate the proceedings for such election in every way in his power.

The present stockholders of the company are therefore to have the opportunity of selecting a board of directors who will properly represent them in the management of the affairs of the company.

SENATOR McPHERSON.

The Washington correspondent of the Newark Journal, in an article on "National Politics," pays the following compliment to New Jersey's honored U. S. Senator:

"Both parties are vigilant and determined. New Jersey is Democratic. Her history is identified with the triumphs of the Democracy, and yet Republicans have struggled with endless energy to strip her of her legitimate representation, in State as well as Congressional legislation. With a clean and unqualified Democratic majority in the State, she is yet—by political huxtering—subjugated to Republican legislative control. By this means the minority expect to place a Republican in the seat of John R. McPherson in the Senate. His term expires on the 3d of March, 1883. The Legislature elected this Fall will determine the question. In reviewing the term of Senator McPherson there is nothing to be said that does not redound to his credit and to the honor and dignity of the position. The period has been an eventful one. From the day he entered the Senate he has been indefatigable in his labors, zealous in the performance of every duty, neglecting no just demand, active to serve all. Intelligent to appreciate and judicious to promote every public interest and every private right, he has been as faithfully the representative of the people as any member in that distinguished body. He has been prompt to sustain every interest of New Jersey. No one has ever appealed to him for support of a great cause and failed. As Chairman of the Naval Committee he commanded public confidence, and won and deserved public commendation. Conscientiously just, progressively active, and fearlessly distinct in his principles, no man in the Senate of the United State is more respected or more trusted. Thoroughly versed in public affairs, largely comprehensive of our national policy, with extended experience, Senator McPherson combines the elements of statesmanship to a remarkable extent. He equivocates with no one—frank, generous, quick, able, and determined, he is always ready for action. He is a Democrat in all the elements of Jeffersonian principles and practical government. He sees what is requisite and pursues it with the true ardor of positive conviction. No one questions his integrity, his ability is conspicuous in his whole career. He battles to win and wins to command respect. Great interest is felt here in his return to the Senate. No man in the Senate of the United States is more implicitly trusted or more universally respected. If New Jersey does not return him to the Senate, it will neither consult the interest of the Democracy, or the influence of the State in the councils of the nation. He is not accustomed to being defeated—defeats have had no part in his past history. Equal to every emergency, and adequate to any test, if any man deserves the continued confidence of his State and his party, that man is John R. McPherson. As a Jerseyman I am proud to be the advocate of such a man. As a Democrat I feel it no less a duty than a pleasure to point to his career as the highest incentive to his continued support. Such, I believe, is the true sentiment of the New Jersey Democracy."

The Water Company.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

There is a host of people in our city who are opposed to the granting of the exclusive privilege to the Plainfield Water Supply Company, asked by them of the Common Council, for the following reasons:

1st. The Water Company would be a monopoly in its most intense form, as it would for all time to come, and forever and ever, prevent and debar competition in the supplying of water (by water works) to our citizens, manufacturers, Fire Department and the city itself, unless at the end of thirty years the city should buy the works; and should the city not purchase said water works at the expiration of thirty years, then the "Monopoly Company" are to have ten years more of exclusive right; the city at the end of each decade thereafter, shall be possessed of the right to purchase, which if they should not do, will perpetuate the monopoly to the end of time, and until the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll.

If the privilege asked for is granted by our Common Council, no man or body of men can ever construct Water Works in this city in opposition to or in competition with the present scheme, which is especially intended for the benefit of a few capitalists and not in the interest of our citizens, present or prospective.

2d. In addition to the foregoing objections there is the very serious question of sewerage staring us in the face, as to how it is to be done and how it is to be paid for. The probabilities are, (and it is hard to see any other solution) our citizens would be burdened with a financial load that would be grevious to bear, and crushing in its weight. Now, as our Common Council was not elected for the purpose of creating monopolies and fostering a few capitalists, but to legislate for the masses of our citizens and to protect rather than enslave them, it is earnestly hoped that the Council will say to our would-be monopolists, "No, Gentlemen; we cannot do this great wrong and sin against the people." If the Common Council should grant the exclusive right asked for, they would certainly commit a "monumental error" for which the people would surely hold them to a strict accountability.

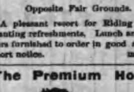
The Premium Horse!



SPARTAN, JR.
SPARTAN, JR., is a bright bay, 16 hands, foaled May 1, 1877, of superb style and trotting action, correctly gaited, with the finish and appearance of the highest type of the gentleman's roadster. He has won for himself a reputation which has no peer in the State. He has taken 3 first premiums in State and County; when four years old, in 1881, he took First State Special at Waverly Park of $100, over 10 competitors, of all ages, for best stallion standing in the State. Gentlemen wishing to raise stock, either for speed, road or coach will find the three combined in this promising young horse, also the best crosses that America or England can produce. Lovers of fine stock are invited to call and see this beautiful young horse.
PEDIGREE:
SPARTAN, JR., was sired by Spartan (record 2:24), grandsire Ethan Allan (record 2:15), never beaten in double harness.
Spartan, Jr.'s 1st dam was the noted mare Hattie, sired by Nelson, she took First State Special Prize at New Jersey State Agricultural Society in 1878 and 1879 of $100 each, best family of colts in the State. 2d dam by Fiddler, (record 20 miles in 60 min. 25 sec., never beaten) be by Monmouth Eclipse, son of American Eclipse. 3d dam by Sebeseah, son of Whalebone.
Spartan's dam was a thoroughbred running mare by Lexington; Ethan Allen's 1st dam by Vermont Hambletonian; 2d dam Parish Hambletonian; 3d dam by Long's Tornado, he by American Eclipse.
Terms $30 to insure. Money to be paid when mare proves with foal. Will make the season of 1882 at the Stock Farm of E. & L. V. D. Shepherd, Bound Brook, N. J.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

On for an Opera House.

Wild strawberries are plenty enough to pick.

Regular meeting of the Common Council on Monday evening.

The hay crop will be enormous and other yields promise immensely.

Anyone having a well-bred Scotch terrier to sell, will find a customer by informing us of such desire.

This section has been visited with continued rains the past week, which have caused a rise in the streams.

The Elizabeth Chess Club will pay a return match with the Plainfielders on Monday evening next, in this city.

We have had lots of rain, but yet the street-sprinkler's collector calls each week with the facial area of a Jumbo.

Eusebius says we should be thankful for the recent rains that obviate the necessity of manipulating the pump-handle.

The Board of Managers of the Plainfield Fire Department holds its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening of next week.

The meetings in Howell Division, Sons of Temperance room, will be continued next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. All are welcome.

The Young People of the M. E. church have fixed upon the 15th and 16th of June for a Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival. Look out for it.

If Plainfield had an Opera House it would be visited by many such first-class companies as the "Patience" combination that was so greatly enjoyed.

Commencing next Sunday and thereafter during the Summer, Sunday School at the Crescent Avenue Church will be held at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Postmaster Pope announces another mail from New York, ready for delivery at 12 o'clock noon, thus making four received in Plainfield daily from that city.

The Mansion House bar is securing a very enviable reputation for its ecstatic champagne cocktails made from imported wine and other palatable ingredients.

The regular monthly meeting of the Union Club, of this city, will be held at its Club House, corner of Broadway and Ninth streets, on Monday evening, the 7th inst., at 8 o'clock.

During Saturday night last, the stores of Mr. Geo. W. Rockfellow and Commissioner of Alms Vanderbeek, were entered by sneak thieves unknown, who, however, left without stealing anything.

Mr. Benj. R. Haines entertained a few of his friends at his residence on Front street, Decoration Day, where glass ball shooting was indulged in, "Ben," as usual, having the least number of 0's in his score.

It is right and proper that the Plainfield Fire Department should have a Parade this Fall. Let the Board of Managers so order, and preparations may begin at once, if necessary, to make the affair particularly successful.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Stockholders of the U. & M. C. M. A. A., will hold a meeting on the Grounds to consult upon the feasibility of holding a Fair during the coming Fall, and as to the prospects of the success of such an event.

Among our new advertisements to-day is the announcement of Mr. Leal who intends opening in September a boys school on Front street opposite the residence of Dr. Chase. Those desiring circulars may obtain such by addressing post office Box 126.

It is stated that the City Hotel property at New Brunswick, has been leased by Mr. Henry W. Abbott, and the house will shortly be opened under the name of the "Abbott House." "Harry" has many friends in this section who will be pleased to learn of this new venture of his.

What to him was love or hope? What to him was joy or care? He stepped on a plug of Irish soap the girl had left on the topmost stair; and his feet flew out like wild, fierce wings and he struck each stair with a sound like a drum, and the girl below with the scrubbing things laughed like a fiend to see him come.

The result of a neighborly quarrel between two Third street residents, was the arrest of one by the other last week on the charge of malicious slander. City Judge Runyon set to-morrow as a day of hearing; and those who love to pry into the personal disagreements of others are looking forward to the trial with unbounded delight.

Commissioner of Alms Vanderbeck has made two trips to the Insane Asylum at Morris Plains within the past ten days, to deliver into the hands of the authorities there, two insane patients from this city, the first being John Clifford and the last, Mary Dane. The Commissioner speaks in the highest terms of praise of the workings of the institution.

In spite of the storm, the M. E. church was "comfortably crowded" on Tuesday evening by the admirers of Rev. J. H. Vincent, who had gathered to hear a discourse by that able speaker. In the morning, also, he delivered a sermon from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church, which was enjoyed by a large assemblage.

Twenty-four of the twenty-five little ones in charge of the Children's Home, have been taken sick with the measles and scarlet fever, and three have died. The managers are therefore specially in need of night dresses and other comforts for their unfortunate patients, and trust the public will generously respond with liberal contributions.

The Independent Order of Odd Fellows of this city took up a collection on Monday evening for the purpose, and donated quite a sum for the benefit of the Children's Home inmates. Those who so illadvisedly gainsay the benevolence of secret organizations, must now follow the example set or else confess themselves less open-hearted and open-handed.

The Committee in charge of the erection of North Plainfield's new Public School building, is awaiting the decision of the State Superintendent regarding the legality of the proceedings at the late Township meeting. Following the expected endorsement of the action taken, the Committee will advertise for proposals and specifications from architects and builders.

Among the noticeable decorations in North Plainfield Cemetery on Tuesday, was that placed upon the grave of Joseph L. Force, of Co. I, 3d N. J. Vols. The decorations were an agreeable surprise to the relatives of the deceased, having been placed there by his comrade, Mr. Thos. McDonald of this city, who was with the soldier when he received his death wound and cared for him while life ebbed away.

The only Original New Orleans Minstrels, that have year after year so delighted and amused our public with its charming programme of variety and worth, will again give an entertainment at VanDeventer Hall, to-morrow evening, the 3d inst. Many new stars and pleasing features have been added since the last appearance here, in place of the "Gold Band Concert" that before occupied a portion of the evening.

The Westfield Hotel property has been greatly improved in looks recently by its owner, Wm. Stitt. The buildings have been neatly painted outside and within, the walls also being handsomely papered. The new proprietors, Messrs. Hart Moore, formerly of New Brunswick and Charles Godshalk, an experienced Hotel manager, have re-furnished the place in a fine manner, and will be pleased to receive a call from the traveling public and friends. Under the management of the new firm no doubt the Hotel will prove a success.

The case of the City vs. Day, the progress of which has been noted in these columns from time to time, has at last been finally settled so far as the jurisdiction of our local Court is concerned. Coming up for re-trial last Friday, the defence waived its right to a jury and allowed the matter to go by the decision of City Judge Runyon. The latter declared the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $100—followed by a suspension of sentence until all necessary preliminaries required to bring the matter before the higher Court, could be arranged.

At the closing Sociable of the Crescent Avenue Church Young People's Association, on Friday evening last, a programme of great variety was offered and accepted by the large attendance with much appreciation. Messrs. Chas. Hyde and Lemuel Serrell, Jr., entertained those present with some very clever chemical experiments and the glories of the electric light. Miss Ada Marsh—of whose talented piano playing we have before spoken—performed most acceptably some very difficult compositions of instrumental music, which were flatteringly received. A remarkably able banjoist, Mr. Merritt, played that instrument exceedingly well, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Simonson—the latter gentleman also favoring the audience during the evening with a baritone solo, that was very well sung. With others, we can not but regret that the occasion closed a successful series of such entertainments under the auspices of the Y. P. A. of the Crescent Avenue Church.

The Plainfield Fire Relief Association will meet next Thursday evening in the parlors of Zephyr H. & L. Co., at 8 o'clock.

This is an apple bearing year, and it is predicted that the crop will exceed even that of 1880, which was the largest for twenty years.

At the Trinity Reformed church next Sunday, the Rev. A. V. V. Raymond will preach in the morning and Dr. E. P. Ketcham in the evening.

Very few householders have yet acquired sufficient confidence in the weather to transplant their house plants in door yards and gardens.

Vennor says: "We have seldom seen it fail—and we are backed by the records of half a century—that thunder in April is indicative of a wet mid-summer in those sections of country in which it has been experienced."

Patent right men are now traveling over the country with all sorts of new devices to catch and fleece the unwary out of their money. We advise farmers and others to be very cautious in bargaining or signing papers for strangers, no matter how glibly they may talk.

On Wednesday of next week, at 10:30 a. m., Mr. T. J. Gillies will sell by auction on the premises, all the household furniture, farming and gardening implements at the late residence of Mrs. E. M. Weiss, Park avenue opposite the U. & M. C. M. A. A., Grounds.

An amateur naturalist, who has made a careful study of circus advertisements for the past five years, states that eleven elephants, each unquestionably the largest in the world, are stalking through the country and innocently causing more deliberate lying than can ever be atoned for.

As soon as there is a prospect of a continuance to the fair weather the lovers of archery will be in the field, armed with the weapons of their favorite pastime, and ready to literally knock the stuffing out of the hundreds of bright new targets that will be set up at the commencement of the season.

Eighteen young and tender chickens, the property of Mr. Michael Heffreon of Cottage Place, were ruthlessly snatched from this world recently by the hand of death. Mr. H. suspects a neighbor, Mr. Philip Tisch, of having administered cold poison to the fowls, and a public trial will probably be the outcome of the tragedy.

For the latest styles in derbys and straw hats the public is patronizing Mr. M. Vermeule on Front street opposite Somerset. At his establishment an entire outfit for a Summer vacation can be procured including a valise, trunk &c., while the assortment of lap robes and carriage sheets is very extensive. When we add that his prices are the lowest ever offered, our citizens will understand that Vermeule is the man to patronize.

The walls of Force's Billiard Parlors, on Front street, are adorned with a set of pictures, representing sporting scenes, which have no counterpart in this city. They consist of portraits of the celebrated trotting horses, "St. Julien," (King of the Turf) "Maud S.," (Queen of the Turf) and the well-known Boston team "Mill Boy" and "Blondine," driven by their owners, when they made their best records. The pictures are by the great sporting artist, Scott Leighton. Call and see them.

On Saturday afternoon of last week the Warren Mission Chapel in North Plainfield was filled with visitors, upon the occasion of the closing of the Industrial School for the season. Owing to sickness the large average daily attendance of scholars was somewhat reduced, but about ninety took part in the exercises arranged by their teachers and an interesting programme resulted. Miss Clara Dunn and Miss Julia Ketcham had charge of the musical part of the affair, which was, in consequence, satisfactorily conducted. The Rev. Jesse L. Hurlbut addressed the gathering; while the distribution of prizes and pleasing exercises by the school, were the main features of the occasion. A bountiful supply of refreshments at the close, gladdened the sense of taste.

Base Ball.

Quite an interesting game of base ball, that recalled pleasing memories of old times, took place at the lot at the corner of Eighth street and Division during Tuesday morning. The match was between two picked nines selected from Plainfield's coming men, and was decidedly interesting at times in spite of the need of practice that was so apparent. J. W. Murray Jr's team especially, was wofully deficient in ability to hold or handle the ball, and although its captain behind the bat opened the game by putting out three men in the first inning, his good example was not followed by the rest of the players. Mr. Gavett's team was remarkably strong for a nine that had given so little attention to the game in late years, but the six old P. A. C. members that were included had not forgotten how to play. The following is the score for the seven innings that composed the game.

New Jersey Editorial Association.

The Twenty-Sixth Annual Re-union of the New Jersey Editorial Association, will be held at Cresson Springs, on the Alleghany Mountains, on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, commencing Tuesday, June 27th, and ending Saturday, July 1st. The party will leave Philadelphia on Tuesday, June 27th, at 10:20 a. m., arriving at Cresson at about 7 p. m. Returning, will leave Cresson on Saturday morning, July 1st, and arrive in Philadelphia in ample time to enable every one to reach home the same afternoon.

Early application for Tickets, the price of which will be $15, should be made to either of the following members of the Executive Committee:

Sinnickson Chew, Camden—by all persons residing in Atlantic, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester and Salem Counties.

Charles Bechtel, Trenton—by all in Burlington, Hunterdon and Mercer Counties.

James S. Yard, Freehold—by all in Monmouth and Ocean Counties.

John F. Babcock, New Brunswick—by all in Middlesex and Somerset Counties.

Louis S Hyer, Rahway—by all in Essex, Hudson and Union Counties.

A. A. Vance, Morristown—by all in Bergen, Morris, Passaic, Sussex and Warren Counties.

All applications for tickets should be made before June 15th, as every application will have to be submitted for approval to the Executive Committee, who have power to approve or reject all persons. They should also know by that time the full number of persons who will compose the excursion party, in order to complete the arrangements for their accommodation in time.

CHARLES BECHTEL,
Secretary.

The Stillman Memorial.

As announced in our last, a meeting was called by the citizens of Plainfield, at Assembly Hall on Monday evening last, to consult as to plans and means for erecting a suitable memorial which should express their appreciation of the services of the late Dr. Stillman in the cause of education, and at the same time carry out some of his well-known plans for the advancement of that work.—Although the object was so worthy a one, but a handful of the public attended; and even out of the sixteen signers of the request that such a meeting should be called, only five indicated by their presence their sympathy with the project.

On motion of Mr. J. W. Murray, Mayor L. V. F. Randolph was chosen Chairman and City Clerk O. B. Leonard the Secretary of the meeting. The Mayor opened with a few well-chosen and appropriate remarks, and subsequently called upon the Revs. E. P. Ketcham and Jesse L. Hulburt to address the assemblage. The former delivered a beautiful eulogy of the philanthropic labors of the late Dr. Stillman for the cause of education in Plainfield, and was followed by Mr. Hurlbut who outlined a plan of building that might best serve the purpose of intellectual advancement as well as to be a living record of the benevolence of him it was designed to honor. The Secretary read a letter from the Rev. A. H. Lewis expressing the writer's regret at his inability to be present, and signifying his sincere sympathy with the object of the meeting. Geo. H. Babcock Esq., briefly stated what it seemed would be the most desirable and beneficial memorial to erect, and Messrs Mason W. Tyler and J. W. Murray also spoke earnestly in favor of the project. The outcome of the meeting was its entire endorsement of the scheme in view, and the chair was directed to appoint a committee of nine, including the Mayor of the city and representatives from the Board of Education, Library Trustees, Common Council and the Township of North Plainfield—the authority of the committee to extend in whatever direction would be for the interest of the plan.

We Wonder!

Who can attract a larger audience and hold it interested for a longer time, than the Rev. J. H Vincent.

Whether the Council, on Monday evening, will grant the petition of the Plainfield Water Co.

Why the Union Club of this city does not build an Opera House.

Whether the higher court will be unusually severe on our City Judge, when it sets aside his decision in the Day case.

What will happen a year from now.

Why anyone was so foolish as to miss hearing "Patience" sung by Prof. Williams' combination.

Whether the Fire Board will order the Alarm Tower to be re-built or only strengthened.

Who ordered the telephone wire that connected the City Jail, to be cut.

Which Fire company will make the handsomest show in the Parade, this Fall.

Whether VanDeventer Hall will hold the crowd that will patronize the New Orleans' Minstrels, to-morrow evening.

When we are to have Water Gas.

Whether Father DeBerg will ever be as popular with the masses, as was the Rev. J. P. Morris.

What other city of the same size, displays so little sentiment with the occurrence of Decoration Day, as does Plainfield.

Whether the U. & M. C. M. A. A., will hold a fair during this year.

Who will neglect to liberally contribute towards the comfort of the sick little ones in charge of the Children's Home.

Whether there was ever a more worthy and successful institution than the North Plainfield Industrial School.

Who will be the next Mayor of Plainfield.

When North Plainfield's new Public School will be opened.

Why the Young People's Association of the Crescent avenue church, doesn't have social entertainments all the year round.

Personalia.

Miss Kate Rawson of Jersey City, is visiting friends in North Plainfield.

Mr. and B. H. Davies of Rockview avenue, have returned from a short visit to Norfolk, Va.

Mr. George Miller is back again in this city from Colorado, having found that climate too strong for his health.

The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond has so entirely recovered from his recent illness, as to be out again, looking and feeling much better than ever.

The many friends of County Clerk Vosseller throughout the State will learn with pleasure that his health is improving steadily. Selah.

Captain and Mrs. B. F. Depew leave Plainfield for the Poland Spring House, Maine, on Thursday next, where they will spend the Summer season.

Mr. Wm Day, of No. 81 West Front street, has leased the fine residence of Lambert Heyniger Esq., on Union ave., and will shortly remove there with his family.

Mr. Robert S. Miller and family who have been spending the past season in New York city, have returned to their Plainfield residence on Park Place for the Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Davis, on Monday last, lost by death their son Arthur after a short illness. The funeral at the M. E. church, on Wednesday afternoon, was largely attended.

Mr. Eugene Eelas, Secretary of Warren Eng. Co. No. 3, was presented on Friday evening last by the fellow members of his Company, with a literal donation of money that was received with heartfelt thanks.

Mr Harry Lindsley, the organist of the Crescent avenue church, is steadily recovering from his late severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. During his absence from the organ, his place has been occupied by Mr. Clark W Evans and and others.

Mr. Googe B. De Revere, formerly manager of the Park House, is having a very successful season at his new hotel on Rye beach, New York. He has been so fortunate as to secure a most courteous and efficient clerk in Mr. Thomas Harding of this city.

The illness of Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis prevented his preaching in the Crescent avenue church on Sunday last, as was his intention. Dr. E. P. Ketcham occupied Dr. Bliss' pulpit instead, and delivered one of his universally interesting and instructive sermons.

Press dispatches, last week, reported the sudden death by drowning of Mr. Hermann Rietzel, who will be remembered as the young pianist that achieved such great success before a Plainfield audience at the Y. M. C. A. Course concert of November 24th, 1881.

Father DeBerg, the new pastor of St. Mary's parish, occupied the pulpit of that church on Sunday last and made an enviable impression upon the congregation by his eloquence, his intelligence and a promise of fortitude. He boldly expressed his intention to "stay," and certainly showed a becoming valor in grappling with such an unharmonious flock.

Death has again brought a double affliction to the hearts of loving parents. Following the death of their infant boy a few days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Chase, of North Plainfield, on Friday last, lost their little daughter Alice, a bright and beautiful child who had warmed their hearts with the sunshine of her affection and cheered their home with her sweetness of disposition. The little ones were buried side by side in Evergreen Cemetery at Elizabeth, on the same day of the week.

Patience.

The rendition of Gilbert & Sullivan's great musical satire—the æsthetic opera of "Bunthorne's Bride"—at VanDeventer Hall on Friday evening last, was as perfect as vocal ability and artistic talent could make it. The cast was a superb one, reflecting great credit upon the judgment of Mr. W. F. Williams, the Director of the Company, in selecting the parts; and we feel safe in saying that no better production of this opera in all its features, has ever been attained outside of the city of New York. "Patience," as sung and acted by Miss Marie Hunter, was as faultless as any interpretation of the character we have ever seen—not excepting Miss Carrie Burton of the original cast. Mr. Henry Rolland's "Bunthorne" was quite praiseworthy, and indeed only in one or two lines was he below the inimitable Ryley's creation. His reading of "I'm a cursed thing" needs toning down, and the entire cutting out of the contortion act that accompanies it; otherwise nothing was wanting to improve the acting of the part and what little vocal power in addition may be desired, is unattainable. Of Mr. Black's "Grosvenor" and Miss Girard's "Lady Jane," we spoke in praise last week and can add nothing further. Since the first night the entire company shows marked improvement, with the exception of the two last mentioned—they did their best then, and will continue so to do. Of course with age and experience Mr. Black will achieve more ease and grace, but let us hope he will never lose that admirable conscientiousness that impels the endeavour to accomplish all within his power.

The Chorus of Maidens was extremely pleasing in every particular and the Dragoons in all their efforts were deserving of great credit. The sextette in the first act needed a softer tenor, but Mr. Dale had previously so pleased the audience with his solo of "appeal," that the subsequent harshness was forgiven. But no such generosity was displayed towards Mr. Will Bryant's gymnastics in trying to "look both angular and flat." Mr. Williams had a "Dead Eye" once in his company, who was full of this sort of "india-rubber business." Let him remember that it was decidedly objectionable, and curb the Major's writhings before some audience expresses publicly the disapprobation that was apparent on Friday last. Otherwise Mr. Bryant as well as the entire company showed the careful drilling of an experienced manager, and Mr. Williams may well be proud of the combination of talented artists he has brought together and trained to such perfection.

The monthly rates for June for the use of the telephone, is now due and payable at the General Office.

Don't forget the "Tubular Hot Blast Oil Stove," the best in the world, at D. W. Littell's, No. 8 North avenue.

The pupils of Mrs. W. H. Griffen will give a private exhibition at her studio in this city on Friday, the 16th inst, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Cards of invitation will be issued for the event.

Digitated stockings, or stockings having a separate compartment for each toe is the latest feminine whim. Between putting on stockings of that kind and working on tight gloves, the belle of the future will never be able to catch a train.

Farmers are by this time warned against a tree peddler and lightning rod agent combined in the same person. He is traveling through the country selling a tree to the credulous, which he says he discovered in South Africa when he was with Stanley, which not only produces a delicious fruit, but protects any buildings near which it stands from lightning.

Muhlenberg Hospital.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Governors, held at the Hospital, Wednesday evening, May 31st, the following report was received and accepted:

To the Board of Governors:—

In presenting this their first formal report, the Managing Committee of Muhlenberg Hospital take pleasure in announcing that the institution is in good internal condition and prepared for its appropriate service. The task of organizing into working order an establishment of the kind has been attended with many difficulties and no insignificant amount of labor, but your committee happily believe the pathway to practical usefulness now well opened, and that a moderate, but reliable revenue, based on annual contributions, is only needed to make the Hospital permanently prosperous. To meet that necessity, we confidently rely upon the intelligent liberality of our friends and fellow citizens.

The Hospital has been open for the reception of patients since November 29th last, say six months, and during that period 28 have received treatment, with the following result:

Discharged cured	10
" improved	9
" unimproved	3
Died	1
Remaining under treatment	5

Of the foregoing patients 21 were females and 7 males, and their nativity was as follows:

United States (3 colored)	17
Ireland	6
England	2
Scotland	1
Austria	1
Norway	1

Respectfully submitted,
E. M. Rodman,
F. Chamberlain,
John M. Whiton,
Mason W. Tyler,
Nathan Harper.
Committee.

Plainfield, N. J., May 26th, 1882.

The following named officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Rev. E. M. Rodman.

Vice Presidents—Mason W. Tyler, F. Chamberlain.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

John Kane, found a pair of spectacles on Friday evening last; an owner is wanted for the same.

Charles Young had the misfortune to have his celebrated trotter, Fleetwood, die on Saturday morning last.

At the target shooting on Tuesday afternoon on the grounds near the depot, gotten up under the supervision of the proprietor of the shooting gallery, Mr. Naar, Joseph Carver made the best score at all three ranges, 100, 200 and 300 feet, making 46 and 44 points out of a possible 50.

Stephen S. Mapes, Jr., won the solid silver badge on Tuesday evening, at Naar's gallery. He and Mr. John Dorvall had tied during the week and shot the same off on Tuesday evening, the score standing as follows—Mapes, 69; Dorvall, 68, out of a possible 75. They had tied on 73.

"Children's Day" will be observed next Sunday, June 4th, in the Congregational church. There will be a special sermon in the morning by the pastor. The Children's service will be held in the afternoon at 4 o'clock; Rev. Mr. Hurlbut of Plainfield will make the address. The Brooklyn Anniversary hymns will be used.

On Monday, May 29th, inst., C. F. W. Wittke was married to Miss Theresia Lichtenstein, of Brooklyn, at the residence of the bride, and on Tuesday evening he had a regular old fashioned German home-bringing at his newly erected residence, corner Broad & Elm streets. The boys gave Charley a serenade with drums and fife; he treating them handsomely. The invited guests, after the supper, enjoyed themselves in the giddy dance until the wee small hours. Music by Messrs. Applegate and Wilcox.

On Friday May 26th, William F. Adams, painter of Plainfield, appeared before Justice Jaques and made a complaint against John W. Filmore for larceny of paint brushes and paints. Filmore was arrested by officer Marsh, and brought before the Justice and an examination held. Mr. Adams sustained his complaint by identifying a large paint brush which was in Filmore's possession at the Westfield Hotel, where he had been engaged in painting. The Justice held Filmore to bail to await the action of the October term of Courts.

Lewis Theis, one of our farmers residing in the southerly end of the Township, had quite a serious runaway on Friday last. He had been to the village with his horse and buggy, and having an extra horse tied behind, on his way home while passing under the railroad bridge on Westfield avenue, the horse attached to the buggy became unmanageable and upsetting the vehicle, threw Mr. Theis out, but not seriously injuring him. Both of the horses ran down Westfield avenue, making bad wreck of the wagon, but were finally stopped at Rob't. Woodruff's, about one mile from the village. The horses were but very little injured. One of the carpenters of our town has never been known to move as fast in his life as he did to try and stop the runaway.

On the ball grounds on Tuesday afternoon, the "Smoky Hollow Uprisers" challenged the "Pale faced Club" to a game of base ball. Mr. Charles McQuoid was chosen umpire. After considerable discussion by the captains of the two nines regarding the size and weight of the ball, game was called at 3:20 p. m. The "Smoky Hollow" boys went to the bat and after seven innings were played, game was called. The following is the score—"Pale faces" 18 runs; "Uprisers" 11. But very few runs were earned on either side. Both clubs, owing to want of practice, let the ball slip through their fingers very often.

At the Pigeon match on Tuesday, the following scores were made, Conductor Wm. Clark, coming ahead every time:

1ST. MATCH.

W. Clark,	5	killed out of	5	birds.
C. Young,	4	"	5	"
C. M. Smith,	4	"	5	"
W. Dallas,	4	"	5	"
Geo. Young,	4	"	5	"

In shooting off the ties for second place, George Young won.

2D MATCH.

W. Clark,	4	"	5	"
M. Mulford,	2	"	5	"
C. E. Young,	3	"	5	"
W. Dallas,	3	"	5	"
Geo. Young,	3	"	5	"

On Saturday morning last there was quite an exciting time at Mugginsville, about a mile from the village of Westfield. The facts are about as follows: It seems for several years past a number of persons living in the neighborhood of the cross roads, on Road Dist. No. 4, have been in the habit of pasturing their cattle along the streets, greatly to the annoyance of pedestrians along the side walks; it having become a regular nuisance and contrary to the State law on the subject. On the morning above mentioned, Mr. Henry J. Holmes had turned his three cows into the street, having a young son of his to watch them. The day before he had allowed the cows to trespass upon the lands of Wm. Clark. He had been repeatedly told by Mr. Clark if it occurred again he would certainly enforce the law in the case. Mr. Clark's son, William A., had been told by his father if the cattle came in front of his property, for him to drive them to the Public Pound, which is at Robert Woodruff's, one mile south of the village of Westfield. Mr. Clark started with the cattle down Mountain avenue and had got them to the main street in the village, where he was met by Mrs. H. J Holmes who had got in front of the cattle with a large lash whip, endeavoring to turn them back home. Mr. Clark and Mrs. Holmes had a lively time all along Broad street; some of the time the cattle getting the blow from Mrs. Holmes' lash whip and part of the time Mr. Clark receiving the blows. Mr. Clark, meeting one of his neighbors along the street who had also been very much annoyed by the cattle, received assistance, and together they finally succeeded in landing them in the Pound. Mrs. Holmes followed until she found them under lock and key when she returned to the village where her husband was at work and consulted him; they finally made up their minds that the law was against them, and went to the Pound and paid the expenses on the cattle and returned home with them. We have understood that only last week one of the same cattle seriously hooked a small child of Mr. A. E. Clark's, on Mountain avenue.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

IF NEARLY DEAD,
after taking some highly puffed up stuff, with long testimonials, turn to Hop Bitters, and have no fear of any Kidney trouble, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Liver Complaint. These diseases cannot resist the curative power of Hop Bitters; besides it is the best family medicine on earth.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES.
Beware of the stuff that pretends to cure these diseases or other serious Kidney or Liver diseases as they only relieve for a time, and make you ten times worse afterwards, but rely solely on Hop Bitters, the only remedy that will surely and permanently cure you. It destroys and removes the cause of disease so effectually that it never returns.

ROSE COLD AND HAY FEVER.
Messrs. White & Burdick, Druggists, Ithaca, N. Y.—I can recommend Ely's Cream Balm to relieve all persons suffering from Rose Cold and Hay Fever. I have been a great sufferer from these complaints; by using the Balm have had great relief. I have recommended it to many of my friends for Catarrh, and in all cases where they have used the Balm freely have been cured.—T. Kenney, Dry Goods Merchant, Ithaca, N. Y.
Messrs. Wm. Rust & Sons, Druggists, New Brunswick, N. J. Since boyhood I have been troubled with Catarrh and Hay Fever, and have been unable to obtain permanent relief until I used Ely's Cream Balm, which has cured me. After a few days use I could sleep all night.—E. L. Cloughman, New Brunswick, N. J. Price 50 cents. Apply into nostrils with little finger.

WE USUALLY LEAVE IT TO Doctors to recommend medicines, but Parker's Ginger Tonic has been so useful in our family in relieving sickness and suffering, that we cannot say too much in its praise.—[Salem Argus.]

MANY WONDER HOW Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it simply essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ. See other column.

HOW TO SECURE HEALTH.
It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, skin, etc. It corrects indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man and Beast. For use externally and internally.

DR. ROGER'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP instantly destroys worms and removes the Secretions which cause them.

$1200 per year can be easily made at home working for E. G. Rideout & Co., 10 Barclay St., New York. Send for their catalogue and full particulars. sly1

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning the protection of the public health and the record of vital facts and statistics relating thereto," approved March eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in addition to the powers conferred by the act to which this is a supplement, any board of health of any city, borough or incorporated town, or of any town governed by a commission, or the board of health of any township as constituted under the act to which this is a supplement, shall have power at any stated or adjourned meeting of such board, to pass, alter or amend ordinances in relation to the public health in such city, borough, town or township for the following purposes, to wit:

I. To aid in the enforcement of the state law as to the adulteration of all kinds of food and drinks, and to prevent the sale or exposure for sale of any kind of meat or vegetable that is unwholesome and unfit for food;

II. To define and declare what shall be nuisances in lots, streets, docks, wharfs, vessels, piers, and all public or private places in such city, borough, town or township, or in any part thereof;

III. To prevent the spread of dangerous, epidemic or contagious diseases in such city, borough, town or township, or any part thereof, and to declare when the same has become epidemic, and to maintain and enforce a proper and sufficient quarantine whenever such boards may deem the same necessary;

IV. To regulate, control or prohibit the keeping or slaughter of all kinds of cattle, sheep, goats and swine in such city, borough, town or township or any part thereof;

V. To regulate, control and prohibit the accumulation of offal and all decaying or vegetable substances in any place in such city, borough, town or township, public or private.

VI. To prohibit and remove any nuisance or offensive matter in any public highway, road, street, avenue, alleyway or other place, public or private, in such city, borough, town or township, and to cause the removal of the same at the expense of the owner;

VII. To compel the proper return of all births, deaths and marriages in such city, borough, town or township, by physicians, midwives, natives, clergymen, magistrates, and all others professionally officiating at such death, birth or marriage; and in case any of the persons directed by this act, or whose duty it is under the laws of this state to make returns of vital facts and statistics, shall fail or neglect so to do in any county, city, town or township of this state, they shall be liable in an action at law to a penalty of fifty dollars, said action being in the form of an action of debt, and may be prosecuted by any state, city or township board of health in the name of the state, and so much of the amount received as may be necessary to pay the court expenses of said suit may be used therefor, and the remainder shall go to the board bringing the suit for the sanitary use of said board;

VIII. To secure the sanitary condition of tenement houses, jails, prisons and all public buildings in such city, borough, town or township;

IX. To regulate, control or prohibit the cleaning of sewers, and the dumping of garbage, and the filling of sunken lots or marsh lands, and to provide for such filling of sunken lots, in any part of such city, borough, town or township.

2. And be it enacted, That in the making of ordinances, any board of health may adopt and ordain the same in the form of a code, or each ordinance may be separate and apart by itself, and in all cases said board shall cause such code, ordinance or ordinances to be published for at least three weeks, once in each week, in some newspaper printed and circulating in the city, borough, town or township in which such code, ordinance or ordinances shall take effect, and in case no newspaper shall be printed in such city, borough, town or township, then the said code or ordinance shall be posted in five public places in such city, borough, town or township, and published for the said period of time in some newspaper published in the county and circulating in such city, borough, town or township.

3. And be it enacted, That any board of health may amend or repeal any part or section of such code or ordinance as they may see fit, such amendments to be passed and published as aforesaid.

4. And be it enacted, That every code, ordinance, amendment or repealer shall take effect in thirty days after the date of the first publication.

5. And be it enacted, That any board of health may prescribe a penalty for the violation of any of their ordinances or sections of any code they may make and ordain as aforesaid, not to exceed one hundred dollars and not less than ten dollars; and every district court in any city, and every justice of the peace in such county, and any police justice or recorder in any city, is hereby empowered, on oath or affirmation made according to law that any person or persons has or have violated any section of the code or any of the ordinances of any such board as aforesaid, to [illegible]

6. And be it enacted, That no district court of any city, justice of the peace, police justice or recorder shall have jurisdiction of any offence against any code or ordinance of any board of health, which offence shall take place outside of the territorial jurisdiction of such district court, justice of the peace, police justice or recorder, as such territorial jurisdiction is now established by law.

7. And be it enacted, [illegible]

8. And be it enacted, That section eight of the act to which this is a supplement, be amended so as to read as follows:

8. And be it enacted, That whenever such nuisance, source of foulness, or cause of sickness hazardous to the public health shall be found on private property, the board of health of the city, borough, town or township within whose limits it may be, shall order the owner to remove the same at his own expense, within such time as the said board may deem the public health to require, [illegible] occupants; if the owner resides out of the state, or cannot be reached with the notice speedily enough for the preservation of the public health, a notice left at the house or premises with the tenant or occupant shall suffice; if the owner thus notified shall not comply with such notification or order of the local board of health within the time therein specified, said board shall proceed to remove said nuisance, source of foulness, or cause of sickness hazardous to the public health, and such board of health shall have a right to recover, by action of debt, the expenses incurred by such board in such removal, from any person or persons who shall have caused or allowed such nuisance, source of foulness, or cause of sickness hazardous to the public health, and from any owner, tenant or occupant of premises who, after notice as aforesaid, shall have failed to remove such nuisance, source of foulness, or cause of sickness hazardous to the public health, within the time specified in such notice; and in case such board of health fail to recover by such action an amount sufficient to defray such expenses, or shall deem it inexpedient to bring such action they may present a bill, certified by such board or by a majority thereof, for such expenses or for such part thereof as may not have been recovered by such action, to the proper officers of such city, borough, town or township, and such bill shall be audited and paid by the authorities of such city, borough, town or township in the same manner and by the same officers as bills for the ordinary current expenses of such city, borough, town or township are paid; provided however, that in case any injunction or stay of proceedings in any form is applied for to prevent any board of health from proceeding with the removal of any alleged nuisance, source of foulness, or cause of sickness hazardous to the public health, such injunction shall not be issued until the local board has been notified to appear and be present at the hearing of such application, but the failure of the owner, tenant or occupant to cause removal, or the refusal of the court applied to to grant an injunction or stay of proceedings, shall not prevent the party or parties making the application from any suit at law and recovery of damages, if the alleged nuisance be shown to have been in no way hazardous or prejudicial to the public health, but in no case shall such damages be allowed or recovered, unless it be shown that the board of health abating such alleged nuisance had no probable cause for their action in the premises.

9. And be it enacted, That annual appropriations may be made to defray the expenses of the board of health of each city, borough, town or township, in performing the duties imposed upon it by this act, and the act to which this is a supplement, in the same manner as appropriations are made to defray the current expenses of such city, borough, town or township, respectively.

10. And be it enacted, That the board of health of any city, borough, town or township in this state, shall have the right to declare any epidemic or cause of ill health so injurious or hazardous as to make it necessary to close any or all of the public or private schools in the limits of such city, borough, town or township; but in case of public schools, the same shall not be closed except by the direction of the board of education, school trustees, or other body having the control and direction thereof; but such board of education, school trustees, or other body having control of public schools, may cause any or all of the schools under their control to be closed, if in their judgment such closing be necessary for sanitary purposes.

11. And be it enacted, That any board of education, school trustees or any other body having control of the schools, may, on account of the prevalence of any contagious disease, or to prevent the spread of such contagious disease, prohibit the attendance of any teacher or scholar upon any school under their control, and may specify the time during which such teacher or scholar shall remain away from such school, and may prohibit the attendance of any unvaccinated child who has not had the smallpox, upon the school under their control, and shall also have power to decide how far revaccination shall be required, if a case or cases of smallpox have occurred in the city or district.

12. And be it enacted, That the term "city," as used in the act to which this is a supplement, or in this act, shall apply to such cities, boroughs, towns or other incorporated municipalities within the limits of any township, and also that the term "township board of health" in either of said acts, shall apply only to such board of health as is constituted and required in any township under the act to which this is a supplement.

13. And be it enacted, That this act shall not apply to any city, borough or incorporated town in counties of this state now having a county board of health duly constituted before the passage of the act to which this is a supplement.

14. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLVI.

An Act respecting the appointment of clerks of the grand juries in certain counties of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in each and every county in this state having a clerk of the grand juries in such county, such clerk shall hereafter be appointed by the court of oyer and terminer of such county, under the seal of said court; and such clerk shall hold his office for the term of one year, unless sooner removed by said court.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLVII.

An Act to provide ways and means to defray the expenditures of the state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be assessed, levied and collected on the real and personal property in this state, as exhibited by the abstracts of ratables from the several counties made out by the several boards of assessors for the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, and filed in the office of the comptroller of the treasury, a state tax of one mill on each dollar of the valuations contained in the said abstracts, and the proceeds of the said tax are hereby appropriated and shall be applied as follows: there shall be paid to the commissioners of the sinking fund of this state such sums as the laws of this state now in force require to be paid from the state treasury, on account of the maturing bonds issued by the state in pursuance of "An act authorizing a loan for the purposes of war," &c., approved May tenth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and the several supplements thereto; and the residue of the proceeds of the said tax shall be paid into the state fund and shall be appropriated and applied to defraying the necessary expenses of the state, and to the payment of such appropriations as have been made or shall be made by the legislature; which tax shall be levied, assessed and collected in the manner directed by the laws of this state for levying, assessing and collecting the sums required to be raised by taxation for county, city, township or other public purposes.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the comptroller to apportion the said tax at the rate aforesaid, among the several counties in proportion to the amount of real and personal estate taxable in the said counties respectively, as shown by the abstracts as aforesaid, and it shall be his duty to transmit within thirty days after the passage or approval of this act, to the county collector of each county, a statement of the amount of said tax apportioned to said county; and the said collector shall lay the said statement before the assessors of the townships and wards within his county, at their next meeting, to apportion to city and township taxes, and the said assessors shall thereupon proceed to assess the said tax according to law; and it shall be the duty of the collectors of the several counties, to pay to the state treasurer the quotas of the said tax due from their respective counties on or before the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and to pay the same out of the first moneys which shall be paid to them by the several city, township or ward collectors of their respective counties, any local or special law to the contrary notwithstanding.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLVIII.

An Act explanatory of an act entitled "Act to regulate fees," approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

Whereas, doubts have arisen as to the construction of the act of which this is explanatory, in respect to the payment of fees of the clerk of the supreme court, and of the court of oyer and terminer, and general jail delivery in criminal cases, because of the provisions contained in section two of said act, wherein it is provided that no costs are to be allowed where the indictment is quashed, judgment arrested or the defendant acquitted or discharged for want of prosecution, therefore, in order to remove said doubts,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the word costs, as it appears in section two of the act of which this act is explanatory, under the title "fees" of the clerk of the supreme court, and of the court of oyer and terminer, and general jail delivery in criminal cases," shall not be construed to apply to the fees of said clerks, for subpoenas and other writs, and sealing the same where said writs have been legally served in cases investigated by the grand jury, or either of them, as specified in that part of said section.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLIX.

An Act for the preservation of health of female employees.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of all employers of females in any mercantile business or occupation to provide and maintain suitable seats for the use of such female employees, at or beside the counter or work bench where employed, and to permit the use of such seats by such employees to such an extent as may be reasonable for the preservation of their health.

2. And be it enacted, That any violation of this act by any employer shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and, on being thereof convicted, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, at the discretion of the court.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLX.

An Act relative to the payment of costs of conviction and the expenses of transporting persons sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the costs of conviction of every offender sentenced to hard labor and imprisonment in the state prison, and the expense of transporting such offenders to the state prison, at the rates now or hereafter to be established by law, shall be paid by the county collector of the county in which the conviction is had, on a certificate of the taxed bill of costs, signed by the clerk of the court in which conviction is had and countersigned, as to the receipt of the offender by the keeper of the state prison; provided that if the county collector aforesaid is not satisfied as to the correctness of such taxed bill of costs it shall be his duty to return the same to the court where such conviction was had, in order that the same may be re-examined and retaxed by said court, which it is hereby made the duty of said court to do; and if the said county collector is not satisfied as to the correctness of the charges for transport, it shall be his duty to refer the same to the board of chosen freeholders and to be governed by their action in regard to the same.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general and special, inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

NATIONAL TRUST.

We know not who stands immediately responsible for the violation of propriety, if not common decency, shown in the selection of a notorious infidel to be the Decoration Day orator in New York, but we are free to denounce the act as an insult to religious and patriotic sentiment.

It must be admitted that Ingersoll is an eloquent and able speaker, one who can mould language with masterly skill, but the blasphemous opinions he entertains and boldly utters in public, certainly disqualify him to essay historical events which are inseparably connected with an implicit faith in the guidance and protection of Divine Providence.

The oration he pronounced on the recent national holiday was a graphic review of country and countrymen, yet, throughout its entire delivery, not a single acknowledgment of that Supreme Ruler who made and has preserved us a united and prosperous people escaped his lips.

In that Ingersoll was not inconsistent, because he ignores the existence of a God—he scoffs at religion.

To permit such a man to speak on such an occasion was the offence committed against the Christian spirit of the age and the true glory of country.

There abides the crime and disgrace.

If ever a people on the wide face of earth had cause to gratefully remember the goodness of God, and unceasingly render Him homage for blessings received, they are those who bear the name of American.

Columbus, the intrepid discoverer, swayed by religious devotion, signalized his landing on the shore of a newly-found Western world by kneeling in adoration beneath the planted banner of the cross. The early settlers—the Puritans of Massachusetts, Baptists of Rhode Island, Quakers of Pennsylvania, Catholics of Maryland, Episcopalians of Virginia, and the Huguenots of Carolina, from all of whom sprang the living worth of the Republic, with zeal and sincerity owned the supremacy and implored the favor of a Power greater than human. When in the progress of time the peoples' assembled representatives decreed Independence, they made the deed illustrious by appealing thereby to the Supreme Judge of Heaven for the rectitude of their intentions, and amid the darkness and perils of the subsequent contest for nationality, the immortal Washington oft times bowed in prayer for Heavenly wisdom and strength to champion the bleeding cause of freedom.

So from the very beginning to the present hour, reverence for and dependence upon Almighty God has been our hope and our safety as a people, and sad indeed will dawn the day when that shall cease to be a sacred and acknowledged duty.

Follow the example of Washington, and, like him, trust in God.

PARTISAN MADNESS.

The late action of the Republicans in the National House of Representatives by which Mr. Dibble, of South Carolina, was unseated and Mr. Mackey installed, formed one of the most glaring partisan outrages that ever sullied the records of legislation and brought reproach upon the name of free representative government.

The original contest was Mackey against O'Connor, but the last named gentleman having died before the assembling of Congress, in due conformity with law and precedent, an election was held to fill the vacancy, whereby Mr. Dibble became legally chosen and commissioned.

Notwithstanding all that, Mackey pursued his contest against a dead man, and the Republican majority in Congress, regardless of the fact that the sitting member was in reality unimpeached, and that the Committee on Elections had refused to investigate alleged documentary frauds on the part of the bogus contestant, sustained Mackey's claim and swore him in.

Such was the intended purpose of Cameron, Robeson and Kiefer, an unsavory trio, from the start, and the means used to accomplish it—the changing of the Rules of the House by an illegal method in order to gag the minority, and the arbitrary refusal of the Speaker to entertain legitimate motions of appeal, rudely trampled under foot every principle of parliamentary right and fair dealing.

The Democrats very properly fought the premeditated outrage to the extent of their ability, and will receive therefor the thanks of all honest and impartial thinking men.

Ex-Governor Moses of South Carolina, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for swindling.

U. S. Senator McPherson and wife sailed for Europe on Saturday last in the Celtic.

The thirteenth annual re-union of the Army of the Potomac will be held in Detroit, Mich., on the 14th and 15th inst.

The indications are that the elections in Oregon have been carried by the Republicans.

LOCAL ANNEX.

Fire Matters.

The Board of Managers of the Plainfield Fire Department met in regular meeting at the Council rooms on Wednesday evening. Present—President VanWinkle and Messrs Depew, Flaig, Jones and Morris. In the absence of Mr. Gillies, Mr. Morris was appointed Secretary, and the reading of the minutes was dispensed with. The books of Assessor Hubbard were presented by that officer and accepted. Treasurer Depew reported as balance on hand, last report, $1,401 18, receipts to June 1st, $150 49, disbursements to date $1,156 52—leaving a balance of $395 15. Mr. Morris reported as follows, which report was received and laid on the table with its accompanying bills:

Your Committee to whom was referred the bills of L. E. Clark for collecting fire taxes for the years 1878, 1879, 1880 and 1881, amounting to $466 40, and bills for stationery and stamps amounting to $45 95—making a total of $512 35; would report, that it is impossible for your Committee to know whether said bills are correct or not, without having all the books and papers used by Mr. Clark in said business, so that an examination can be made of the same and Mr. Clark's accounts investigated. It will be observed that on Mr. Clark's bill for services, stationery and stamps for the years 1878, 1879 and 1880, amounting to $403 96, there is an entry in the following words "original rendered June, 1881." So far as your Committee know and the records of the Board show, no such bill or claim was presented to the Board at the time stated, or at any other time excepting at the last regular meeting of the Board, and upon which your Committee is now reporting. All of which is respectfully submitted.

(signed) E. L. Morris, Chairman
S. Flaig
Committee on Repairs & Supplies.

Mr. Jones from the Com. on Wells stated that some time since, as instructed by the Board, bids had been received for building two fire wells on Grandview avenue and at Franklin Place. A motion to award the contract to the lowest bidder had then been made and laid on the table; which motion he desired to call up at the proper time. A number of communications were received from the several fire companies, applying for certificates of exemption, nominating candidates for membership, etc., on which no final action was taken. Mr. Alexander Gee was unanimously confirmed as a member of No. 2 Engine Co. The following bills were ordered paid: R. E. Davis, $24 50; W. B. Grannatt, $5; W. L. Force & Bro., 20 25, and R. Wurtman, 7. Other claims referred to the Com. on Repairs and Supplies. The Secretary read the opinion of Messrs. Van Winkle & Maxson, to the effect that a fireman is not exempt from taxes on property owned by such fireman's wife or mother. Mr. Morris presented the following which—after some private discussion—was adopted.

Resolved, That L. E. Clark be and hereby is directed to forthwith hand over to the Treasurer of the Board, all books and papers in his possession that relate in any manner to the collection of fire taxes.

A resolution was also adopted to the effect that no indebtedness in amount exceeding $10 shall be incurred by the Com. on Repairs and Supplies without action of the Board to authorize it. A communication was received from Mr. J. N. Jenkins, offering to lower the fire tower, look-out and bell, and build again on a firmer foundation, for $250. The Board directed the Committee to secure specifications and advertise for proposals for the work. Contract for building the two fire wells referred to above, was awarded Wm. Hand at $140, each, complete, to be finished by August 15th, 1882. The Board then adjourned until Wednesday evening, June 28th, when it will meet at No. 2's house to make the usual arrangements for the extra services and precautions of July 4th.

The following is a resolution that was not presented, but will probably be considered at the next regular meeting of the Board:

Resolved, That the annual September inspection and review of the several companies of the Department be omitted the present year; and instead thereof, a general parade, inspection and review be and is hereby ordered to take place on Thursday, Oct., 19th next, whereat all the companies belonging to the Fire Department shall participate.

Union & Middlesex Counties' Mutual Agricultural Association.

An interesting meeting of the Stockholders of the Union & Middlesex Counties' Mutual Agricultural Association was held at the Secretary's office on the Fair Grounds, last Friday afternoon. There was a fair attendance of members and a free exchange of sentiment regarding the financial condition of the Association, which will result favorably in the end. Although not formally decided on, there is no doubt but that the Association will hold a Fair this year the week following that of the State Fair at Waverly, in September. It was decided that additional stock to the amount of $4,000 be sold to raise funds wherewith to liquidate the indebtedness of the Association. Before adjournment of the meeting over one hundred shares (representing $1,000) were taken by members present and there is no doubt but that the whole amount will speedily be disposed of. Later in the evening the Board of Directors held a meeting and elected officers to serve the ensuing year as follows:

President—John I. Holly.
Vice Presidents—N. Robins, O. T. Waring and James S. Vosseller.
Secretary—E. C. Pearson.
Treasurer—J. W. Johnson.

Mr. Smith W. Laing, of Middlesex was elected a member of the Board of Directors in place of Mr. W. C. Smith, of same County, resigned.

In the retirement of Mr. Vosseller from the Secretaryship, the Association looses a valuable and efficient officer. His place, however, is filled by an able man in the person of Mr. Pearson. The Board of Directors, and officers are composed of energetic and influential citizens, and it will not be their fault if the next Fair of the Association is not a success.

The Fire Department Limits.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

I desire through the medium of your paper, to correct a statement made by "Tax Payer" in last week's Central Times, in regard to the Fire limits of the Plainfield Fire Department. Said correspondent is very much mistaken in respect to the territory embraced within said limit; he makes the statement that only about one-fourth of the City of Plainfield is within the fire district; such a conclusion is erroneous, as the larger part of North Plainfield, and the entire City of Plainfield—with the exception of a small portion of Netherwood, and a strip of the Short Hills—are covered by the boundaries of the Department. CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

Oh for an Opera House.

HIGH SCHOOL Commencement, Thursday evening, the 29th inst.

ANOTHER unfortunate protege of the Children's Home died on Tuesday morning. Three more are dangerously ill.

THE church donations to the relief of the inmates of the Children's Home, were very large, ranging in sums from $40 to $150.

THE Second Annual Picnic of Warren Hose Co. will take place at Wooden's Grove on Thursday afternoon and evening the 22d inst.

MESSRS. A. J. Bleecker & Son, advertise in this issue a sale of valuable building lots on Eighth street, to take place on Saturday of next week.

"ONE Year Ago" this week THE CONSTITUTIONALIST appealed to the public for the erection of a telephonic system of communication throughout the city.

IN this year's High School Commencement, the Brown prize will be given by Geo. H. Babcock, Esq., and the Stillman award has been assumed by Mr. Jacob Kirkner.

MR. Chas. Zimmer at No. 19 West Front street, has just refurnished his billiard room with new pool and carom tables from the celebrated makers Messrs H. W. Collender & Co.

THE contract for the plumbing and gas-fitting of the residence to be built for ex-Councilman O. T. Waring on Park avenue, has been awarded to Mr. Wm. Addis of North avenue.

MARY Brown and Margaret Miller alias Moore, indicted by the Grand Jury for larceny from the person of Peter Clawson, at Scotch Plains, were tried before a jury at Elizabeth on Thursday, and found guilty.

WE this week again publish a supplement in addition to our regular sheet, and with pleasure announce that one more issue will probably complete our duty of publishing the laws according to our appointment by the State.

NO Common Council should publicly announce a defalcation in the accounts of an officer of the city, who is believed to be both honest and faithful, without as publicly presenting a detailed statement conclusively proving the assertion.

THE pupils of Mrs. Austin's Craig Place School will hold a fair for the benefit of the Children's Home, during the afternoon of Saturday the 24th inst., at the school rooms. These earnest little workers in so deserving a cause, should be well patronized.

SIMPSON & Co., the Ice Merchants, are out with a handsome new delivery wagon, built in a substantial manner by Homan, of Somerset street. "John" is proud of the vehicle, as he has a right to be. This popular firm now have four delivery wagons on the road to fill their orders.

—THE usual Soiree Musicale will take place at Miss Kenyon's Seminary on Seventh street, during Tuesday evening next, from 8 to 10 o'clock. The young ladies who will take part are the Misses Marsh, Handren, Porter, Whitton, Ayres, Jackson, Beck, Sandford, and VanName.

THE Plainfield Saengerbund is the first association to arrange for a Summer excursion. On Friday, July 14th, accompanied by their friends, the merry singers will visit Hudson Grove, and Echo Bay on the Long Island Sound, and enjoy a day of varied pleasure and gratification.

THE wearer of a calico dress having set herself on fire and died one day last week from using the sole of her shoe to strike a match, the staid Philadelphia Ledger suggests that all women who adopt from their male relatives this method of striking a light should borrow their clothes, too.

MR. Lewis Cass Teller was arrested on Wednesday by Constable Weaver of North Plainfield, on the charges by his wife of assault and battery and by his mother-in-law of forcibly entering her premises. The accused was sent to Somerville on the 11:45 train by order of Justice S. O. Horton.

THE "Original" New Orleans Minstrels, on an economical scale, appeared at Van Deventer Hall, last Saturday evening, to a crowded house. The vocal abilities of the troupe were unusually inferior, but in other lines of entertainment the few performers that composed the artistic corps were more or less pleasing.

THE little unpleasantness that has arisen between certain neighbors on Third street near Central avenue, culminated on Saturday in legal proceedings before City Judge Runyon in civil and Justice Wadsworth in criminal suit. The affair furnished food for gossipers, and is interesting only to the principals and those who love to meddle with the affairs of others.

THE old-established drug business of Mr. Wm. H. Voorhees at No. 21 West Front street, has been purchased by Mr. Jno. G. Staats, formerly of New Brunswick and recently connected with Messrs W. H. Schieffelin & Co., of New York. Mr. Staats will continue the business at the present stand, retaining those efficient clerks Messrs. Greenleaf Voorhees and Louis R. Wright.

THE young ladies of the M. E. church are at present devoting considerable time and attention to the arrangement of an ice cream and strawberry festival which will take place under their management during the evening of Thursday and the afternoon and evening of Friday of next week. The affair will be held in the church parlors, and music will be a feature each evening.

COMMENCING on Monday next and extending throughout the entire week, Messrs. Edsall & Price will offer their opening sale of bargains for the Summer season. These sales have been in the past extensively patronized by the public, while in the present case a reference to the prices of the special lots advertised elsewhere, will prove our assertion that such a general reduction of goods has seldom ever before been offered.

THE Fifteenth Quarterly Convention of the N. J. Temperance Teachers' Association, will be held at the Crescent ave. Presbyterian church on Thursday of next week. The programme of exercises includes an Address of Welcome at 11 o'clock a. m., by Mrs. Jos. W. Yates, President of the Plainfield Womens' Christian Temperance Union. The evening exercises will be held in the Trinity Reformed church at 7:30 o'clock.

ONE day recently Miss Lizzie A. Paff of Scotch Plains and a former resident of this city, was almost burned to death by reason of her apron catching fire from a stove over which she was stooping. As the flames blazed up the front of her dress, she threw her head back and called to her brother for assistance; and to such admirable presence of mind she owes her narrow escape. Young Paff hearing her cries arrived on the scene in time to extinguish the flames before any serious result was effected.

MR. M. C. Dobbins, formerly of the old stand at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, has given up his recently established business at Philadelphia, and at the request of his many patrons in this city has re-opened in Plainfield on North avenue. At this new establishment in the McIntyre building, Mr. Dobbins will carry his customary first-class stock of imported and domestic cigars, cigarettes, all grades of tobacco and a general line of smokers' articles, besides manufacturing those many special brands that have made his cigars so popular with the public.

ON Tuesday afternoon at No. 53 West Front street, the celebrated firm of Hecker & Co., opened a free exhibition of the merits of their baking powder and the excellent qualities of their prepared, self-raising and griddle-cake flours. A courteous manager and competent cook are in attendance to explain the method of using any of these articles of pastry-making, and to mix and cook cake, biscuits, bread and other delicacies for the entertainment of the visiting public. The ladies of our city should all attend before the close of the exhibition—"such an opportunity may not occur again" of being initiated into the mysteries of cookery and receiving free samples of one of the best baking powders in the World.

A Telephonic Accommodation.

The New Jersey Telephone Company, in all other places where it has an established exchange, possesses arrangements with the Western Union Telegraph Company by which [illegible] messages can be sent direct to the Telegraph Office. But the Plainfield office is yet operated by the railroad's employees whose duties are such the company is unwilling to have them give attention to the Telephone. To give such convenience, however, our enterprising Telephone company has employed a messenger by which means any of the subscribers desiring to send a telegram can do so by telephoning it to the Central Office. The message will be immediately forwarded to the Telegraph office, and paid for by the Telephone Co's obliging manager. Settlement for the same can be handed in at the Telephone office, or will be collected with the monthly bills. The Telephone office is open night and day, including Sundays.

One Year Ago.

Ex-Principal Barick of the North Plainfield Public School, was expelled from the Reformed church of America.----- There was a total eclipse of the moon during midnight of the 11th.----- The Muhlenberg Hospital had a fair for its benefit at VanDeventer Hall, the profits of which reached the sum of $1,535.06 ----- The Park avenue Baptist church held a festival with great success.----- Lots of rain.

North Plainfield's New School House.

Attorney General John P. Stockton having certified to the legality and correctness of the late action of the inhabitants of North Plainfield Township, in the proceedings looking towards the erection of a new Public School building, the Trustees will shortly advertise for plans, specifications and proposals and the District Clerk will advertise the sale of bonds. All desiring information, in any relation whatever to the subject, may secure such by personal application to the Trustees.

The Oil Cloth Works.

A new general superintendent for the Oil Cloth Factory has been secured in the person of Mr. Wm. H. Haines, formerly of Newark, a man thoroughly competent in every respect. Ever since the factory started, a disadvantage has been experienced of a lack of steam power, as well as a faulty adjustment of a number of steam pipes. The old boiler that was used in "Bird's Mill" so long, has been set up and being 40 horse power, will add about 50 per cent. to the steam power of the establishment. It requires from 10 to 15 horse power to run the machinery of the mill and 100 horse power to heat the many miles of steam pipes running through the establishment, for the purpose of drying the oil cloth. Everything is now working satisfactorily.

An Evening's Diversion.

A "Pound Sociable" was held in the Lecture Room of the M. E. church on Thursday evening last. A large number of persons were present. The admission fee for everybody was one pound of something or other, and as each person present represented a pound or at least a package, there were enough of the latter piled upon a large table to "stock up" any well regulated "curiosity shop." After a hearty hand-shaking, interchange of greetings, a general promenade, etc., were indulged in, an "auctioneer" was secured in the person of Mr. A. B. Reynell. His fitness for the task will be apparent when we state that the gentleman named is a Life Insurance Agent, and by the way he "improved the occasion" and the high prices he obtained for what, in many cases, proved to be articles of worth less than $2, it was evident that he could out-Gillies any auctioneer in New-Jersey. Whatever may be said as to the character of the articles sold, one thing was certain, they were all very nicely "done up"; some were "done up" "just too elegant for anything" the object being in many cases to more effectually conceal the general nothingness within. Quite a sum was realized and everything passed off pleasantly and satisfactory.

We Wonder!

When that Opera House is to be built.

Why the remnants of the Plainfield Vocal Society don't form an old Folk's Concert combination.

Whether the Mayor intends to appoint another regular policeman.

Why the middle of September would not be the best time for the Firemen's Parade.

Who will be Dog Pounder this season.

Why the Irish-Republican Club was only fined $20 for selling liquor without a license, and Mr. Day who had a license was fined $100 because some one else sold it against his orders.

Whether there is a chess club in "Jersey" that can beat the Plainfielders.

What the Water Supply Co. will do next.

Whether there will be any one left in Plainfield after the Saengerbund Excursion leaves on the morning of July 14th.

Why so little interest is so far apparent in the coming High School Commencement.

Whether the North Plainfield School Trustees will be able to purchase the strip adjoining lot on which they desire to erect the new building, or be compelled to condemn it.

What is the use of getting vexed with the Telephone Co., for such difficulties as will arise by reason of your own failure to observe the rules and follow instructions.

Who is to be Delinquent Tax Collector.

What started Runkle of the Flemington Democrat wondering.

The Chess Tournament.

At Laing's Hall on Monday evening, the second match of this year's tournament at chess between the Elizabeth and Plainfield clubs, was played and resulted as is customary in a victory for our city, making the fourth successive match that has brought defeat to the Elizabethans. One unusual—and decidedly unfair—feature of the contest was the importation of three New York players that were put in the place of members of the Elizabeth club, thus adding an illegitimate strength to the latter. The result was as follows, after a contest that lasted from 8 o'clock p. m. to 2:30 o'clock of Wednesday morning:

PLAINFIELD.	ELIZABETH.
Theirs—lost.	Dimock—won.
Dewey—won.	Paregner—lost.
Jackson—won.	LaFuley—lost.
Hunt—won.	Diehl—lost.
Dunham—won.	Conger—lost.
Gilbert—lost.	Morris—won.
Lloyd—won.	Crane—lost.
Suydam—won.	Mulford—lost.
Carey—lost.	Christians—won.
Drake—won.	Loster—lost.
Opdyke—lost.	Grant—won.
Reed—won.	Piegonka—lost.
Long—won.	Pope—lost.

When the time arrived for the departure of the Elizabeth train, Mr. Opdyke surrendered his game rather than insist upon his opponent remaining all night to finish it. Mr. Reed would have done the same had not Christians intruded himself and suggested a move of which Dr. Piegonka availed himself. This occurrence having created some excitement the train was missed, and Mr. Reed's opponent returned to be defeated after a game that lasted over six hours.

The total was: Plainfield won 9; Elizabeth 4. Total for the tournament: Plainfield 17; Elizabeth 7.

Hymeneal.

PARKER—SHUNK.

At St. Stephen's church, Harrisburg, Pa., on Thursday evening of last week, Mr. James Parker, Jr., son of Captain James Parker, formerly of this city, was married to Miss Gertrude Wyeth, daughter of William Findlay Shunk, Esq., a former resident of Putnam avenue and one of the originators of the Gilbert Elevated R. R. The bride is a granddaughter of ex-Governor Shunk of Pennsylvania, and the wealth of the State was present at the ceremony. The occasion will long be remembered as one of the most distinguished of gatherings.

BROOKS—AMES.

During the same evening, at the residence of Charles I. Ames, Esq., father of the bride, on Crescent avenue, the Rev. E. M. Rodman performed the marriage ceremony of Miss Sallie Baily Ames of this city and Charles E. Brooks of New York. The occasion drew together one of the most brilliant assemblages ever seen in Plainfield, including the best of our higher society and many representatives of New York's most select families. The bride was attired in a white satin dress that was a mass of the most exquisite embroidery—entirely the work of her own fingers. The bridesmaids were Miss Fox formerly of this city, Miss Porter, daughter of Gen. Fitz John Porter, Miss White of Crescent avenue and Miss Marsh of New York—a quartette of youth and beauty, that was creditable to the occasion. Following the ceremony at five o'clock, a dejeuner was served by the celebrated Pinard; and the subsequent reception was a display of representative wealth and tone. The presents were magnificent, and included costly tokens of esteem from the large circle of relatives and friends that are possessed by the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks sail for Europe to-morrow and upon their return in September will occupy the handsome residence that the groom has furnished for his bride, in New York city.

KAUFMAN—MYERS.

On Wednesday evening last, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Myers, Miss Maria Louise Myers and Mr. Harry B. Kaufman were united in marriage by the Rev. John C. Bliss of the Crescent avenue church. The bride's two sisters acted as her maids, while personal friends of the groom performed the duties of ushers. The best of Plainfield's upper ten was present, and the affair was unusually notable by reason of the many handsome costumes worn and the array of valuable presents. The bridal party left by special car at 9:30 p. m., on a wedding trip, returning in a few weeks to the residence of Mr. Myers, where they will reside in the contemplated absence of the bride's parents in Europe.

Next Tuesday evening at the parsonage, Mrs. J. C. Bliss will entertain the Sunday School teachers of the Crescent avenue church.

New Commissioners.

On Thursday of last week at the Somerset County Circuit Court, on motion of Messrs. Suydam & Jackson, attorneys of North Plainfield Township, Judge Magie appointed Messrs. John D. Bartine, Frederick J. Frelinghuysen and Samuel C. Blackwell as commissioners to assess the costs, damages, etc., of grading and macadamizing Somerset street.

An Excellent Purpose.

On Sunday evening, June 11th, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, there will be a union of moral forces for the strengthening of the temperance alliance and the weakening of the liquor league. Important speeches will be made and no doubt a collection taken. The public generally are expected to be present and the Common Councilmen in particular. The Rev.'s Bliss, Lowry and Manchee are expected to address the gathering.

The Old Folk.

At the Park avenue Baptist church on Thursday evening of last week, was given an Old Folk's Concert that attracted a large and "brilliant audience." The chorus consisted of about thirty voices, the possessors of which were selected mainly from the late Vocal Society of this city, led by the renowned Father Baldwin, accompanied by the Home Musical Association Orchestra of Newark, and with Miss Oriana Kinney, Miss Bessie Miller and Miss Ayres as soloists.

The instrumental music, of brass, string and reed, was especially enjoyable, and the cornet solos of Prof. D. B. Dana, with which the assemblage was favored at the close of the programme, evidenced the performers' talent and was an admirable exposition of scientific tonguing. The choruses embraced selections that were pleasing if not difficult, and on the whole entirely satisfactory in spite of an apparent absence of sufficient rehearsal with the orchestra. The double quartette of male voices we are impelled to state, was far from perfect, and such opinion we feel assured is also held by the gentlemen themselves—Messrs Elmer Runyon, Chas. Naylor, Orson Green, Geo. Curtis, David Runyon, R. J. Shaw, Frank Runyon and O. T. Roberts. The solo parts of the full choruses, sung by Miss Mary L. Runyon, Mrs. H. N. Gibson and Mrs. E. A. Mosher, were quite agreeably sung, while the special soloists, Miss Kinney, Miss Miller and Miss Ayres, were greatly appreciated by their hearers and received flattering recalls in return for their gratifying efforts.

The programme included a recitation by Miss Mary L. Runyon, given with so much character and faultlessness of expression, as to almost render enjoyable the thread-bare selection, "The New Church Organ." In reply to an enthusiastic encore, Miss Runyon gave that harrowing composition—"Found Drowned," in a manner that showed the steady improvement the elocutionist has effected since she was last heard by our public. An annex entertainment in the chapel assumed the form of a collation, where, at numerous tables scattered around the room, those desiring inner refreshments were waited upon by bewitching damsels attired as in ye olden tyme.

Debt Raising.

According to an announcement made by the pastor of the M. E church, the Rev. Thos. H. Stockton, two weeks previous, a very praiseworthy and indeed a very successful attempt was made on last Sunday morning by the members of this church to liquidate the debt of $10,000 that has been hanging like a mill-stone around the neck of the church for the last 11 years. Efforts had been made to secure the services of Bishop Simpson, Chaplain McCabe and others to preach upon this occasion, but without success. The sermon was preached by the Rev. J. L. Hurlbut, who took his text from Acts 13, 1. The discourse was full of interest concerning the beginning, growth, persecutions and loyalty of the early Christian church, and of its highly commendable missionary spirit, poor in this world's goods as they were. This was especially true of the church at Antioch, with which Paul and Barnabas so faithfully labored. The preacher then spoke briefly of the faithfulness of the few who, in the midst of difficulties, organized the Plainfield M. E. church half a century ago, and of the effort to be made to pay off its present indebtedness. The small attendance present naturally suggested a postponement of any attempt at raising money. (It will be remembered that a convenient thunder storm kept quite a number of persons away who would have been glad to have been there, while others who so deeply sympathized with the Rev. Mr. Raymond during his sickness that they yielded to an irresistable desire to attend his church so as to have an opportunity to congratulate him upon his recovery.) However, no allusion was made from the pulpit concerning small attendance, thunder storm or anything of the kind, but the subject matter in hand was entered upon by those who were present with an earnestness and determination that gave assurance of success. It was proposed (as announced by the pastor) that an attempt would be made first—to raise $5,000, one-half of the entire debt. This was soon accomplished by means of $100, $50, $25 and $10 subscriptions. Two secretaries at the desk and the pastor with a black board, kept tally; and the rapid manner with which subscriptions were hurled at them from all parts of the congregation seemed at times to confuse them, but an occasional "lull" gave them an opportunity to straighten up their figures and get ready for the next shower. When the $5,000 had been secured, it was expected that the proceedings would be closed forthwith; but a gentleman who had already given liberally, surprised all present by offering to give $500 toward the second and last $5000, provided the whole amount would be raised. Scarcely had the people recovered from the shock when another gentleman arose and offered to give one-quarter of any amount that might be raised, i. e. he would give $1,250 if the balance of $5,000 would be raised. Such exhibitions of whole-souled generosity were, it is needless to say, gratefully and fully appreciated by the rest of their co-workers (as well as by the absentees.) The two offers spoken of were made by two gentlemen who would be glad to have their generosity kept from the public gaze, but as it is the province of journalism to publicly record generous acts, we consider it due to themselves as well as to the church-loving public to give their names. Mr. James McGee, who contributed more than one-fifth of the whole amount sought to be raised; the other gentleman alluded to is Mr. George Burgess. It is true that the others' subscriptions were prompted by an equal generosity, but the names mentioned should be made public as their acts are, from the fact that while many would give but cannot, many could that will not. There were some who subscribed who did the same thing fifty years ago when the church was first organized, though only three or four of the old organizers are left, the rest have "fallen asleep." As matters now stand, $6,000 have been secured and $1,750 pledged, on condition that the whole of the last $5,000 be raised. It is due to some who were not present to say that they were lawfully detained, but, "though absent in body were present in spirit," as their subscriptions were "on hand." The utmost harmony prevailed during the service and it is perfectly safe to say that the whole amount will be paid on or before Oct. 1st, at which time an appropriate semi-centennial service will be held, and a reunion, so far as possible, of all the old pastors and members will be present. "Jimmy" Rodgers, the first pastor of the M. E. church in Plainfield, and through whose indefatigable efforts, to a very great extent, the first building was erected, is still alive and in the active ministry, and will undoubtedly be present if he lives to see the 1st of next October. The old gentleman related the following incident to the writer of these lines: When he was engaged in soliciting funds for building a Methodist church in Plainfield, he went into a blacksmith's shop in Rahway and made known his mission to the blacksmith and asked for five dollars. The knight of the anvil eyed his visitor very sharply and said "Look o'here, young man, if you dominies knowed how hard we blacksmiths have to work, you wouldn't have the cheek to come from Plainfield and ask me for $5. to help build your church." "I don't see anything so very hard about it," replied the 'Dominie.' "O! you don't, eh?" replied the blacksmith, as he mechanically shoved a bran new horseshoe nail off the anvil and dropping his hammer; then placing his fist on his hips, said "See here; you say you don't see anything so hard about blacksmithing. I'll tell you what I'll do; you make a nail like that, pointing to the one he had just finished, and I'll give you $5." "All right," said the Dominie, "give me your apron." He put it on, took hold of the handle of the bellows and took the scraper and began to scrape the coal up over the fire in a very familiar manner, when it flashed across the mind of the blacksmith that the Dominie had "been there before." "That'll do," said the blacksmith, "here's your five dollars." "O! no," said the Dominie, "I'll make the nail," and so he did, as good as the blacksmith ever did, for the Dominie had served his time at the business. He left the shop with the $5 in his pocket and the old man recalls this incident with many others of his early ministry, with a good deal of pleasure, and if he should be spared to come to Plainfield he will receive a most hearty welcome.

CRANFORD is nearly distracted over the continual tootings of a lot of amateur brass bandists.

Council Proceedings.

Required to Establish Itself as a Corporation.

MONDAY EVENING, June 5th, 1882.

The Council met in regular meeting at 8 o'clock.

Present—President Rushmore and Messrs. Depew, Gardner, Ginna, Kaufman, Lindsley, Livingston, J. Simpson, R. Simpson and Thompson—10.

Absent—Mr. Newhall.

The minutes of the adjourned special and regular meetings of May 1st, the adjourned meeting of the 8th and the special meeting of the 23d, read and approved.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

By Mr. Livingston, applications of R. H. Holmes for a truck license, of Thos. H. Taylor and A. Laine for hack licenses, of Jas. Killoran, W. Perrine, W. Coleman and J. C. Hoff, for license as cartmen, and of L. Bird, J. A. Bonner, E. Eisenberg and F. & A. Mobus for pedler's licenses.

Ref'd to Com. on Licenses.

By Mr. Ginna, a communication from Wm. N. Pangborn, resigning his appointment as Collector of delinquent taxes.

On motion of Mr. Ginna seconded by Mr. Lindsley, resignation accepted.

By Mr. Simpson, the petition of Messrs. Berry & Thorn to erect an awning over the sidewalk of their premises at the corner of Front street and Park avenue.

Ref'd to Lamps Com. with power.

By Mr. J. Simpson, the petition of I. A. Connett to erect an awning over the sidewalk of his premises on the northwest corner of Peace and Second streets.

Ref'd to Lamps Com. with power.

By the same, the petition of S. E. Hart to erect a frame stable in the rear of his lot at No. 10 West Second Street.

Ref'd to Lamps Com.

By Mr. R. Simpson, a petition from residents and property owners on South avenue, Netherwood, at or near the intersection of Leland avenue, requesting the Council to repair the avenue in that vicinity which at times was in an impassible condition.

Ref'd to Streets Com.

By Mr. Depew, a communication from the Plainfield Water Co., containing a supplement to its former proposition, and agreeing, among other things, that the time for which the exclusive right is requested be reduced to twenty years, promising to furnish an abundant supply of water at a price not to exceed that charged in other cities in the State similarly situated, and asking that a committee be appointed by the Council to report in relation to the sanitary effect of such works without a system of sewerage.

On motion of Mr. Livingston, seconded by Mr. Ginna, laid on the table.

PRESENTATION OF CLAIMS.

By Mr. Depew—N. Y. & N. J. Gaslight Co. (May) $128 93; M. Estil, 23 37; Plainfield Gaslight Co., (May) 244 44 and C. W. Kimball, 179 96. Ref'd.

By Mr. Gardner—Chasics Winston, $10 75; C. W. Dodd, 58 34; R. Randolph, 28 39; G. W. Grant 15 00; M. Conway, 5; G. Smith, 4 25, and H. Hamilton 1 65. Ref'd.

By Mr. Kaufman—E. O. Chamberlin, $50 10 and W. L. Force & Bro., 77. Ref'd.

By Mr. Ginna—Plainfield Relief Asso., $40 50; Lyon & Vail, 25; L. A. Conner, 6; Mrs. D. F. Randolph, 46; Mrs. J. Wilkins, 9; A. Vanderbeek, 22 70; Supreme Court costs, 19 62, and Jno. M. Buck (for examination of the late Collector's books) 200. Ref'd.

By Mr. R. Simpson—Jno. C. Mecker (work on streets for May) $176 59. Ref'd.

Mr. Depew presented the financial reports of the Treasurer and Collector for the month of May.

Read by the Clerk and ordered filed.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. Ginna, from Special Committee to examine the books of ex-Collector Clark reported a deficiency in that officer's accounts.

On motion of Mr. Kaufman, seconded by Mr. J. Simpson, received and ordered filed.

Also a communication from Mr. Clark, denying the deficiency claimed, which with the above was referred back to the Committee for examination and comparison.

Mr. Ginna from Alms Com., reported as correct, claims of Plainfield Relief Asso., $115 47 and Cook & Bro., 32 41.

Ref'd to Aud. Com., with the request that the same be reported on that evening.

Mr. J. Simpson from Aud. Com., reported as correct a number of claims which were laid on the table.

Mr. Depew from Finance Com., reported as correct, claims of G. W. Moore, $22 58 and 9 28.

Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Mr. Thompson, from Com. on Fire, Water & Lamps, reported as follows on the proposition in their hands:

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 5th, 1882.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Your Committee to whom was referred the proposition of Messrs. John W. Murray, Joseph W. Yates, James Clark, John H. Evans, Edward L. Finch, Geo. H. Babcock, James P. Hubbard and J. Kirkner, as incorporators of the Plainfield Water Company, to erect water works and lay pipes for supplying water for household and other purposes, one of the conditions being that the City Council are to give the said corporation exclusive right to lay pipes, &c., for the distribution of water for the term of thirty (30) years, respectfully report that they are satisfied, upon a thorough consideration of the subject, that it is not in the power of the Council to accept any proposition based on such a condition, as it is contrary to the laws of the State, and public policy, to grant a monopoly, and in support of this conclusion we submit herewith the written opinion of Craig A. Marsh, Esq., Counsel to the Corporation.

We therefore return the proposition without approval.

WM. THOMPSON,
E. H. DEPEW,
Committee on Fire, Water & Lamps.

Moved by Mr. Livingston, seconded by Mr. Ginna, that the report be received and referred back with the supplementary proposition to the Lamps Com. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Livingston, seconded by Mr. Kaufman, that a committee of three be appointed to consider the question of the sanitary effect upon the city of the introduction of Water Works. Carried.

The President subsequently appointed as such committee: Messrs Newhall, Ginna and Kaufman.

Mr. Ginna, from Laws Com., reported—on the report of the Lamps Com., approving the petition of Messrs. Pierson to lay mains and pipes through the streets for the purpose of furnishing water, gas—that the petitioners should first perfect the organization of their corporation before an ordinance was drafted, and when such was done the Com. would prepare such an ordinance as was desired.

Moved by Mr. Kaufman, seconded by Mr. Depew, that the report be received and placed on file.

Amended by Mr. Depew, seconded by Mr. Ginna, that the petitioners be furnished with a copy of the report.

Mr. Lindsley moved as an amendment, that the clause, promising to draft an ordinance if the recommendations should be fulfilled, be stricken out. Not seconded.

The original motion of Mr. Kaufman as amended by Mr. Depew, was carried. Mr. Lindsley voting in the negative.

Mr. Ginna, from Laws Com., reported that celluloid-cotton was being manufactured at the corner of Sycamore and Fourth streets, and that such was highly inflammable and under certain conditions explosive, but as great care was taken the Com. would recommend no interference with the manufacture.

Report received and placed on file.

Mr. Livingston, from License Com., reported favorably on the petitions presented earlier in the evening for sundry hack, truck, cart and pedler licenses.

Petitions taken up separately and granted.

Mr. Ginna, from Laws Com., reported as correct claim of J. W. Buck, $200.

Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Mr. Gardner, from Police Com., reported as correct sundry claims for regular and special Police duty. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Mr. R. Simpson, from Streets Com., reported as correct claims of J. C. Mecker, $208.44, and J. A. Thickstun, $19.65. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

By the same, a favorable report on the petition for a crosswalk at Spooner ave., and Seventh street, with a recommendation that the petition be granted.

Report received and recommendation adopted.

Mr. Ginna moved the adoption of a resolution authorizing the City Judge to retain in his hands $50 of such fines as he may receive, the same to be used in the proceedings of the city against those violating its ordinances.

Resolution lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—President Rushmore and Messrs. Ginna, Livingston and J. Simpson—4.

Negative—Messrs. Depew, Gardner, Kaufman, Lindsley, R. Simpson and Thompson—6.

It was moved by Mr. Ginna, that when the council adjourn it be to meet on Monday evening the 12th inst. Carried.

By the same, that the resolution appointing W. N. Pangborn as Collector of delinquent taxes, and all resolutions in relation, be rescinded. Carried.

By Mr. Depew, that all bills in the hands of the Auditing Com., be reported upon that evening.

By Mr. Ginna, that the bond of W. N. Pangborn be returned. Carried.

The rules were suspended and Mr. J. Simpson, from Aud Com., reported as correct all bills in the hands of the Committee.

On motion, laid on the table.

Mr. J. Simpson presented the following remonstrance against the proposed Water Works, signed by a number of citizens and property owners:

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

We the undersigned residents and property owners do most respectfully protest against the passage of the bill now before your body, proposing to supply the city of Plainfield with water.

Believing that the franchise proposed to be given is too valuable to be disposed of without [illegible] compensation, we claim that the use of such amount of water as might be required for the extinguishment of fires, would be but small payment for the valuable privilege to control our water supply for the term proposed, viz: 30 years.

We further insist that if it be deemed wise at this time to agitate this question that the Common Council shall advertise for proposals, as to terms required by corporations or individuals, desiring to invest in the construction of water works in this city.

We do further claim that the voice of the people, as expressed through the agency of the ballot, should be consulted before adopting any measure affecting our citizens so vitally.

Signed by 82 Property-Holders.

Ref'd to Com. on Fire, Water & Lamps.

Mr. Ginna moved a resolution directing the City Treasurer to draw a warrant for $25 to the City Judge, to be used for necessary court expenses. Carried.

By Mr. Livingston, a resolution directing the City Treasurer to present a report at the regular July meeting, giving a comparison of the liabilities of the city at that date and Jan. 1st, 1882. Carried.

Council then adjourned.

Personalia.

J. W. Murray, Esq., and family will spend the Summer at Luzerne, N. Y.

Miss Pister of Philadelphia, is the guest of Gen. and Mrs. Wm. H. Sterling.

Ex-councilman Alexander Gilbert and family are at the Seminary for the Summer.

Mr. & Mrs. Wm. H. Voorhees leave for their Summer cottage at Asbury Park, next week.

Mr. Asa Collier has been spending a few days with his family, who are visiting at Baltimore, Md.

Councilman Livingston has returned from a short fishing trip with a string of 80 brook-trout to his credit.

Mr. E. C. Morse is prominently spoken of as Delinquent Tax Collector in place of Mr. W. N. Pangborn, resigned.

Mr. Walter Freeman is suffering from a fracture of the cords of his leg, the result of intense earnestness expended in base ball playing.

Mr. W. J. Leonard of the Central Times is one of the many distressed parents burdened with the presence of measles in their families.

The Rev. Thos. H. Stockton will on Monday evening next, address the Young Peoples' Union of the M. E. church on "Bread and Bread Eaters."

Messrs. L. W. Serrell, E. L. Bonny, G. A. Chapman and H. E. Needham were last Monday evening elected life deacons of the First Baptist church.

Mr. James Connelly has been grievously afflicted in the loss by death of his wife and infant, both of whom died last week, within a short time of each other.

The Rev. C. J. Woodruff of Bayonne, formerly of Dunellen, will preach in the Seventh Day Baptist church at New Market, to-morrow the 10th inst, at 10:30 a. m.

The Mayor and Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph have the sympathy of the entire community with them in the loss last week of their youngest child. Other of the children have been ill but are steadily recovering.

Mr. Gabriel Bachman left Plainfield last week for the bedside of his brother who was lying dangerously ill at Denver, Col. Before returning Mr. Bachman contemplates extending his trip into a journey to Salt Lake City and other points of interest.

Mr. Al. Foote, who but recently was on his way towards recovering from an attack of measles, has since been seriously ill from another cause, but his physician reports that the present symptoms of the patient are very favorable and encouraging.

Rev. and Mrs. Stockbridge who were expected to arrive from Europe this week, have been compelled to postpone their departure until the latter part of July. Mrs. Stockbridge was so unfortunate as to severely strain her back, which occurrence necessitated a change of plan.

Uncle Freeman Shotwell and wife, Mrs. Joseph Vail and Master Frank Shotwell, will leave shortly for Albany and Niagara, thence to visit relatives at Pontiac, Ill. The party will be absent about two months, and although their presence will be missed we unite with their friends in wishing them an enjoyable journey.

Dr. E. W. South left yesterday for a vacation of two weeks. He will go as far West as Indianapolis, where the American Institute of Homœpathy convenes next week. Mrs. South goes with him. Dr. Miller of Philadelphia is in charge of his practice until his return.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

It is reported we are going to have a French doctor locate in our town.

The report of vital statistics for Westfield township, month of May, shows 7 deaths, 4 births and 1 marriage.

Mr. A. W. Moffett has broken ground for his new residence on corner of Cedar Lane and Rahway road, Clark township.

On Tuesday last a small dog at Amos C. Allen's, bit a niece of Mrs. Munday's in the mouth. The dogs ought to be muzzled.

The children of the public school are practicing singing, dialogues &c., for the last day of school, when they expect to have a fine time.

The Smoky Hollow boys have challenged the "Pale Faced" club to another game of base ball, on Saturday next, at which time they expect to carry off the laurels.

Mr. Charles B. Peddie has made quite an improvement in front of his residence, corner of Broad and Chestnut streets, in terracing the embankment and making a fine lawn. W. B. Woodruff was the artist.

Edward Pierson, son of Mr. John Pierson, residing on Prospect street, started on Thursday morning, June 8th, inst., for Pine City, Minnesota, he having resigned his position in New York city, to accept one in the lumber trade in that State.

The coal and freight trains were detained for some time early Wednesday morning, at our depot, owing to the breakage of one of the journals of the tender of engine No. 68. An extra engine was sent from Elizabethport to take the train.

The Presbyterian church fair and festival was held on last Thursday evening in the church Lecture room where there was a large attendance. The supply of refreshments ran out about 10 p. m., and quite a large sum for the church treasury was netted.

Mr. Ratchford who was arrested last week for an assault and battery upon two of his neighbor's children, was again brought before Justice Jaques on Tuesday last for disorderly conduct, and after a very lengthy examination was sentenced to ten days confinement in the County Jail.

John R. Barcalow received the contract from Freeholder Mapes, for building a culvert across South avenue, at its junction with Broad street, Mr. Barcalow's bid being the lowest among several. This is an improvement long needed, as the old culvert has been nearly broken in for some time.

W. J. Brown, a resident of our town for the past ten years, received a letter last week from a cousin in England, stating that one of his uncles in London had died and left a will, in which Mr. Brown was one of the legatees and received a considerable amount of money. Mr. Brown expects to sail for London on Saturday next.

Application is about to be made to the Court of Common Pleas for the appointment of Surveyors of the highway, to take into consideration the extension of Orchard street and Kimball avenue, from Elm to Prospect street. There is no cross street between Broad street and Dudley avenue, which are nearly a half-mile apart.

Henry J. Holmes and wife signed an agreement not to allow their cows upon the public highway for the space of three years, under a forfeiture of one hundred dollars. This will end the cow trouble at cross roads for some time, unless some of the other residents in that neighborhood persist in allowing their cattle at large upon the highway.

The ladies of the Methodist Episcopal church held their Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival on Wednesday evening, the 7th inst. There was a large attendance, the Sunday school room and church parlors being crowded the whole evening. The refreshment stands were well patronized and the receipts far exceeded the expectations of the ladies in charge.

The case of Moffett vs. Gale for damages done to horses and wagon last summer—which was tried in the fall before Justice Godfrey, and a verdict rendered for the plaintiff—will be retried before the Court of Common Pleas on June 19th. Messrs. Suydam & Jackson of Plainfield represent Mr. Moffett, and Messrs. Gilhooly and Marsh, of Elizabeth, Mr. Gale.

A Public Hall.

We were sorry to observe by the large attendance at the recent meeting called for the purpose of considering a plan looking towards the erection of a library and public building in this city, that so little enthusiasm was felt by the community in a project of such vital importance to the good of all. Those who were present, however, displayed an earnest sympathy that we trust will be expended; and the result of the labors of the committee of nine representative citizens that the Mayor is to select, we feel assured will be the speedy erection of such a building as is needed in Plainfield. Although the years of devotion to the cause of education that have been expended by the late Dr. Chas. Stillman, demand just such a lasting recognition as would be secured by embracing in the title of the contemplated building the name of the deceased, yet such is not a compulsory provision and is an after consideration to be left to the voice of the stockholders or subscribers. Let us have such a hall erected as we have week after week been demanding, with a public library, reading room, smaller hall for debating and literary societies, council chamber and court room (if desirable) and such other conveniences as the city has long needed. Call it "Library Hall," the "Plainfield Opera House," "Stillman Memorial" or whatever name you please—so long as the requisite accommodations are available the title is of no importance. Let $50,000 at least be expended, half in the form of a bonded debt if necessary with a division of the profits among the stockholders or appropriated towards the increase of library accommodations. Now that the scheme is under way, do not halt, but force its successful completion, and the efforts and support of those who secure such a desired benefit will be appreciated by the community.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

IF NEARLY DEAD,

after taking some highly puffed up stuff, with long testimonials, turn to Hop Bitters, and have no fear of any Kidney trouble, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Liver Complaint. These diseases cannot resist the curative power of Hop Bitters; besides it is the best family medicine on earth.

[illegible]

Beware of the stuff that pretends to cure these diseases or other serious Kidney or Liver diseases as they only relieve for a time, and make you ten times worse afterwards, but rely solely on Hop Bitters, the only remedy that will surely and permanently cure you. It destroys and removes the cause of disease so effectually that it never returns.

WE USUALLY LEAVE IT TO DOCTORS to recommend medicines, but Parker's Ginger Tonic has been so useful in our family in relieving sickness and suffering, that we cannot say too much in its praise.—[Salem Argus.]

MANY WOMEN [illegible] How Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it simply essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ. See other column.

HOW TO SECURE HEALTH.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, skin, etc. It corrects indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man and Beast. For use externally and internally.

DR. ROGER'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP instantly destroys worms and removes the Secretions which cause them.

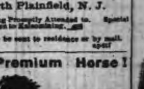
The Premium Horse!



SPARTAN, JR.
SPARTAN, JR., is a bright bay, 16 hands, foaled May 1, 1877, of superb style and trotting action, correctly gaited, with the finish and appearance of the highest type of the gentleman's roadster. He has won for himself a reputation which has no peer in the State. He has taken a first premium in State and County; when four years old, in 1881, he took First State Special at Waverly Park of $150, over 19 competitors, of all ages, for best stallion standing in the State. Gentlemen wishing to raise stock, either for speed, road or coach will find the three combined in this promising young horse, also the best crosses that America or England can produce. Lovers of fine stock are invited to call and see this beautiful young horse.
PEDIGREE:
SPARTAN, JR., was sired by Spartan (record [illegible]), grandsire Ethan Allen (record 2:15), never beaten in double harness.
Spartan, Jr.'s 1st dam was the noted mare Hattie, sired by Nelson, she took First State Special Prize at New Jersey State Agricultural Society in 1878 and 1879 of $100 each, best family of colts in the State. 2d dam by Fiddler, (record 20 miles in 59 min. 28 sec., never beaten), he by Mambrino Eclipse, son of American Eclipse. 3d dam by [illegible].
Spartan's dam was a thoroughbred running mare by Lexington; Ethan Allen's 1st dam by Vermont Hambletonian; 2d dam Parish Hambletonian; 3d dam by Long's Tornado, he by American Eclipse.
Terms $50 to insure. Money to be paid when mare proves with foal. Will make the season of 1882 at the Stock Farm of R. & L. V. D. Shepherd, Bound Brook, N. J.

CHAPTER CLXI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act respecting licenses in cities, incorporated boroughs, [illegible] seaside resorts,'" approved March twenty-fifth one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of an act entitled "An act respecting licenses in cities, incorporated boroughs, or police, sanitary and improvement commissions, and incorporated camp meeting associations or seaside resorts," approved March twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the common council, board of aldermen, or other governing body of any city, incorporated borough, town, or police, sanitary and improvement commission, incorporated camp meeting associations or seaside resort, or other municipal corporations in this state, to make and establish ordinances for the following purposes, viz: license and regulate cartmen, porters, hack, car, omnibus, stage and truck owners and drivers, carriages and vehicles used for the transportation of passengers baggage, merchandise, goods and articles of any kind, auctioneers, common criers, hawkers, peddlers, pawnbrokers, junk shop keepers, keepers of bath houses, boarding houses and news stands, sweeps and scavengers, traveling shows and circuses, and to fix the rates of compensation to be paid therefor, and to prohibit unlicensed persons and vehicles from acting or being used in such capacities; and the fees for such licenses may be imposed for revenue; provided that no person or persons shall be required to take out a license for the selling of any product of his farm.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting the orphans' court, and relating to the powers and duties of the ordinary and the orphans' court, and surrogates" [Revision].

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever, upon the settlement of the accounts of executors or trustees under a will, or of commissioners in partition, the usual commissions shall have been allowed them, according to law, and in pursuance of the provisions of the will, or of the direction of the court, any money shall remain in the hands of, or be intrusted to, any such person or persons for investment, the interest of which is required to be paid to any legatee or other person that may be entitled thereto, it shall and may be lawful, upon any subsequent accounting, for the court before which said account shall be presented for settlement and allowance, to consider the actual pains, trouble and risk of such accountant, and to allow such commission upon the interest or income received as to the said court shall be deemed fair and just; provided, that said allowance shall not exceed the sum of five per centum on such interest or income.

2. And be it enacted that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXIII.

An Act for the support of the New Jersey state reform school for boys.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the trustees of the New Jersey state reform school for juvenile delinquents, to make and submit a report to the governor of the state, at the expiration of every three months, dating from January first, anno domini, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, showing the average number of boys maintained in the school during such period, which said report shall be duly certified by the president and attested by the secretary of the board; and in order to support the said school, the treasurer of this state shall pay, out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to the treasurer of the New Jersey state reform school a sum not to exceed the maximum amount of twenty-five dollars, as shall be found necessary by the trustees and governor of this state, for each boy maintained in said school for such period, upon a warrant of the comptroller, to be continued three successive years.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXIV.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of railroad corporations and regulate the same," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in case the capital stock of any railroad company formed under the act to which this is a supplement, or otherwise, shall be found more than sufficient for constructing and operating its road, the board of directors of such company, upon first obtaining the consent in writing of at least two-thirds in amount of all the stockholders of such company, may, by resolution, to be entered on the minutes, reduce the capital stock of such company, in accordance with such consent, to such amount as will be sufficient for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating its railroad; a copy of which resolution, certified by the secretary of such company, under the common seal thereof, shall, within thirty days after the passage thereof, be filed in the office of the secretary of state of this state.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning the protection of public health, and the record of vital facts and statistics relating thereto," approved March eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the state board of health shall be empowered from time to time to visit any state, county or township almshouse, asylum, prison, jail, court house, reform school, or other public institution, for the purpose of making inquiry and examination into the sanitary condition of such almshouse, asylum, prison, jail, reform school, or institution, and making report thereon.

2. And be it enacted, That the state board of health shall be directed to confer with the trustees of the state normal school, as to definite instruction to be given in the practical care of the health of teachers and pupils, and as to provisions for such instruction.

3. And be it enacted, That the state board of health be empowered to add the state geologist and the superintendent of vital statistics as ex-officio members of said board.

4. And be it enacted, That every physician making official report to the bureau of vital statistics, shall be entitled to receive from the treasurer of the state, a copy of the annual report of the board, and of the bureau of vital statistics.

5. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the state board of health to secure a full outline of blanks and methods relating to the United States census of one thousand eight hundred and eighty, and in connection with the report of vital statistics, to investigate what is feasible as to a state census in its extent and methods and mode of tabulation, and for this purpose they may expend from the appropriation of said board a sum not to exceed one hundred dollars.

Approved March 31, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXVI.

Supplement to "An act respecting surrogates," [Revision], approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the surrogate of any county in this state may, in his discretion, from time to time, select and appoint some competent person as deputy surrogate, who shall hold his office during the pleasure of the surrogate of such county for the time being, and who shall, in the absence of the surrogate, have full power to perform all the duties of the office of surrogate including the taking of oaths and affirmations, in as full a manner as the surrogate could perform such duties; that before entering upon the duties of his appointment such deputy surrogate shall take and subscribe the following oath before one of the judges of the court of common pleas of said county: I, , being appointed deputy surrogate by the surrogate of the county of , do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will truly, faithfully, and impartially execute the office of deputy surrogate of said county agreeably to law, according to the best of my skill and understanding, so help me God; which oath or affirmation shall, by the judge before whom the same is taken, be delivered or safely transmitted to the secretary of state to be filed among the public papers of his office; and such deputy surrogate may, if the surrogate appointing so demand, enter into a bond to such surrogate in such sum and with such sureties as such surrogate shall request, conditioned that such deputy surrogate shall well, truly, faithfully and impartially execute, perform and discharge the duties of his office, and that he will pay over and account for all moneys that shall come to his hands.

2. And be it enacted, That any deputy surrogate appointed under this act shall [illegible] gate appointing him, and that nothing in this act contained shall be considered or construed as entitling such deputy surrogate to any fees or to any other compensation than that paid him by such surrogate under the agreement between them.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

Positions for Advertisements.

"We call the attention of our brother publishers to the nuisance that is creeping in upon us, in the matter of "special positions" for advertisements. Almost every advertiser, of patent medicines especially, demands a "special position," and that is generally "the first advertisement following reading matter, or at top of column next to reading matter," and, if in the hurry and bustle of making up, you chance to get the "ad" out of its position for one insertion, a volley of postal cards is poured upon you by next mail, calling your attention to the fact, and notifying you that they cannot allow pay for that issue.

This is getting to be such a nuisance that it is high time for publishers to set their foot down on all such propositions; and so soon as this is done, the advertisers will learn that their advertisements can and will be read as soon in one position as another, and publishers will be saved a great annoyance. Parties in Philadelphia have already made us four unsuccessful offers—until the last offer has more than doubled the first—for a special position; but we have about determined that all foreign advertisements must take the run of the paper or be kept out. What publisher will join us in this war upon advertising nuisances?"—Bound Brook Chronicle.

As we have been carrying on such a war for the past year, we are glad to welcome the above journal and all others of the same opinion into the ranks. Hardly a week passes without our being compelled to refuse advertisements demanding special position, and so often are we called upon to express our sentiments in relation to this and other demands, that we have issued a printed form of reply, one clause of which reads as follows:

"Dealing, as we do, with a number of advertising agents, all insisting that the advertisement they send shall 'occupy position in column next to or immediately following reading matter'—and in some cases insisting upon being placed and kept at the top of the column—we are compelled explicitly to refuse any such special demand, and claim the privilege of placing any advertisement wherever may be most convenient to ourselves."

We might also add that about a month ago we threw up a $45 yearly contract with Messrs. N. W. Ayer & Co., of Philadelphia, (after it had run a few months) because they would not be satisfied with such position as was most convenient to us.

LEGAL NOTICES.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Charles McLaren, Sarah A. McLaren, James W. Raynor, Alice E. Raynor, Edgar F. Peck, John Tyler, [illegible]

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Louis M. Noe and Sarah M. Noe, executors of Jonathan R. Noe, deceased, are complainants, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainants on or before the fourteenth day of July next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by [illegible] M. Bonnel to Nathaniel Bonnel, dated April twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, and now held by the complainants on lands in the township of New Providence, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey; and you, Charles McLaren, are made a defendant because by the record it appears that you are owner of a portion of the mortgaged premises; and you, Sarah A. McLaren, are made defendant because as the wife of Charles McLaren you may claim some interest in the said premises; and you, James W. Raynor, are made defendant because by the record it appears that you are the owner of a part of the mortgaged premises; and you, Alice E. Raynor, are made defendant because as the wife of James W. Raynor you may claim some interest in the premises; and you, Edgar F. Peck, are made a defendant because it is alleged you claim to have or to have had some interest in the premises by purchase or otherwise; and you, John Tyler, executor of Leander Devoe, deceased, are made a defendant because you claim to hold a mortgage on part of the said premises; and you, Alfred J. Cammeyer and George G. Nason, are made defendants because you claim to hold a judgment against Mary J. Valentine; and you, E. [illegible] Callender, are made a defendant because it is alleged you claim or have claimed some interest in said premises by purchase or otherwise.

Dated May 12th, 1882. Fees—$10.50.

Forty Years Ago.

Three gay little lads on a winter's night
Sat cracking their nuts by the pine-tops' light—
Sat cracking their nuts, and, laughing with glee
At the wonderful things they would go and see.
That was forty years ago.
Round the cot and pine-wood fen
Now a noble city stands
There with many toiling hands,
And the little lads are men.

Said Harry: "I really don't know which is best,
To shoulder my rifle and go to the West,
Or to harpoon the whales in the Arctic seas;
But I shall be sure to do one of these."
That was forty years ago—
And the hunter never went.
He's a man of stocks and shares,
Great among the "bulls" and "bears,"
And a railroad president.

Little Willy said slowly: "I hate the noise
And crowd of cities; and I shall go, boys,
To some far Western prairie and pitch my tent,
And live like Robinson Crusoe, content."
That was forty years ago.
Willy is a merchant-book;
Willy's name's in every land;
Every market feels his hand,
And his word is good as gold.

Now Jack had been reading a wonderful tale,
And he said: "I shall go, if my plans do not fail,
To be Captain Ali Baba, and find me a cave,
With forty good soldiers, all clever and brave."
That was forty years ago.
Jack's a judge of sternest sort;
No one stands like him for law;
Thieves and gamblers stand in awe
Of his unrelenting court.

A COOL SCOUNDREL.

My profession isn't a popular one. There is considerable prejudice against it. I don't myself think it's much worse than a good many others. However, that's nothing to do with my story. Some years ago me and the gentleman who was at that time connected with me in business—he's met with reverses since then, and at present isn't able to get out—was looking around for a job, being at that time rather hard up, as you might say. We struck a small country town—I ain't agoin' to give it away by telling where it was or what the name of it was. There was one bank there; the president was a rich old duffer; owned the mills; owned the bank; owned most of the town. There wasn't no other officer but the cashier, and they had a boy who used to sweep out and run on errands.

The bank was on the main street, pretty well up one end of it—nice, snug place, on the corner of a cross street, with nothing very near it. We took our observations, and found there wasn't no trouble at all about it. There was an old watchman that walked up and down the street nights, when he didn't fall asleep and forget it. The vault had two doors; the outside one was chilled iron and had a three-wheel combination lock; the inner door wasn't no door at all; you could kick it open. It didn't pretend to be nothing but fire proof, and it wasn't even that. The first thing we done, of course, was to fit a key to the outside door. As the lock on the outside door was an old-fashioned Bacon lock, any gentleman of my profession who chances to read this article will know just how easy that job was and how we done it. I may say here that the gentlemen in my line of business having at times a great deal of leisure on their hands, do considerable reading, and are particularly fond of a neat bit of writing. In fact, in the way of literature, I have found among them—however, this being digression, I drop it, and go on with the main job again.

This was our plan: After the key was fitted I was to go into the bank, and Jim—that wasn't his name, of course, but let it pass—was to keep watch on the outside. When any one passed he was to tip me a whistle, and then I doused the glim and lay low; after they got by, I goes on again. Simple and easy, you see. Well, the night as we selected, the president happened to be out of town; gone down to the city, as he often did. I got inside all right, with a slide lantern, a breast-drill, a small steel jimmy, a bunch of skeleton keys and a green baize bag to stow the swag. I fixed my light and rigged my breast-drill, and got to work on the door right over the lock.

Probably a great many of your readers is not so well posted as me about bank locks, and I may say for them that a three-wheel combination lock has three wheels in it and a slot in each wheel. In order to unlock the door you have got to get the three slots opposite to each other, at the top of the lock. Of course, if you know the number the lock is set on, you can do this; but if you don't, you have to depend on your ingenuity. There is in each of these wheels a small hole, through which you put a wire through the back of the lock, when you change the combination. Now, if you can bore a hole through the door, and pick up those wheels by running a wire through those holes, why you can open the door. I hope I make myself clear. I was boring that hole. The door was chilled iron; about the neatest stuff I ever worked on. I went on steady enough; only stopped when Jim—which, as I said, wasn't his real name—whistled outside, and the watchman toddled by. By-and-bye, when I'd got pretty near through I heard Jim—so to speak—whistle again. I stopped, and pretty soon heard footsteps outside, and I'm blowed if they didn't come right up the bank steps, and I heard a key in the lock. I was so dumbfounded when I heard that, that you could have slipped the bracelets right on me. I picked up my lantern, and I'll be banged if I didn't let the lid slip down and throw the light right on to the door, and there was the president. Instead of calling for help, as I thought he would, he took a step inside the door, and shaded his eyes with his hands and looked at me. I knowed I ought to knock him down and cut out, but I'm blest if I could, I was that surprised.

"Who are you?" says he.

"Who are you?" says I, thinking that was an innocent remark as he commenced it, and a trying all the time to collect myself.

"I'm the president of the bank," says he, kinder short; "something's the matter with the lock?"

By George! the idea came to me then.

"Yes, sir," says I touching my cap; "Mr. Jennings, he telegraphed this morning as the lock was out of order and he couldn't get in, and I'm come on to open it for him."

"I told Jennings a week ago," says he, "that he ought to get that lock fixed. Where is he?"

"He's been a writing letters, and he's gone up to the house to get another letter he wanted to answer."

"Well, why don't you go right on?" says he.

"I've got almost through," says I; "and I didn't want to finish up and open the vault till there was somebody here."

"That's very creditable to you," says he; "a very proper sentiment, my man. You can't," he goes on, coming round by the door, "be too particular about avoiding the very suspicion of evil."

"No, sir," says I, kinder modest like.

"What do you suppose is the matter with the lock?" says he.

"I don't rightly know yet," says I; "but I rather think it's a little wore on account of not being oiled enough. These 'ere locks ought to be oiled about once a year."

"Well," says he, "you might as well go right on, now I'm here; I will stay till Jennings comes. Can't I help you?—hold your lantern, or something of that sort?"

The thought came to me like a flash, and I turned around and says:

"How do I know you're the president? I ain't ever seen you before, and you may be a-trying to crack this bank, for all I know?"

"That's a very proper inquiry, my man," said he, "and shows a most remarkable degree of discretion. I confess that I should not have thought of the position in which I was placing you. However, I can easily convince you that it's all right. Do you know what the president's name is?"

"No, I don't," says I, sorter surly.

"Well, you'll find it on that bill," said he, taking a bill out of his pocket, "and you see the same name on these letters," and he took some letters from his coat.

I suppose I ought to have gone right on then, but I was beginning to feel interested in making him prove who he was, so I says:

"You might have got them letters to put up a job on me."

"You're a very honest man," says he; "one among a thousand. Don't think I'm at all offended at your persistence. No, my good fellow, I like it, I like it," and he laid his hand on my shoulder. "Now here," says he, taking a bundle out of his pocket, "is a package of ten thousand dollars in bonds. A burglar wouldn't be apt to carry those around with him, would he? I bought them in the city yesterday, and I stopped here to-night on my way home to place them in the vault, and, I may add, that your simple and manly honesty has so touched me, that I would willingly leave them in your hands for safe-keeping. You needn't blush at my praise."

I suppose I did turn sorter red when I see them bonds.

"Are you satisfied now?" says he.

I told him I was, thoroughly, and so I was. So I picked up my drill again, and gave him my lantern to hold, so that I could see the door. I heard Jim, as I call him, outside once or twice, and I like to have burst out laughing, thinking how he must be wondering what was going on inside. I worked away and kept explaining to him what I was a trying to do. He was very much interested in mechanics, he said, and he knowed as I was a man as was up in my business by the way I went to work. He asked me about what wages I got, and how I liked my business, and said he took quite a fancy to me. I turned around once in a while and looked at him a setting up there as solemn as a biled owl, with my dark lantern in his blessed hand, and I'm blamed if I didn't think I should have to holler right out.

I got through the lock pretty soon, and put in my wire and opened it. Then he took hold of the door and opened the vault.

"I'll put my bonds in," said he, "and go home. You can lock up and wait till Mr. Jennings comes. I don't suppose you will try to fix the lock to-night."

I told him I shouldn't do anything more with it now, as we could get in before morning.

"Well, I'll bid you good-night, my man," said he, and I swung the door to again.

Just then I heard Jim, in name, whistle, and I guessed the watchman was a-coming up the street.

"Ah," says I, "you might speak to the watchman, if you see him, and tell him to keep an extra look-out to-night."

"I will," says he, and we both went to the front door.

"There comes the watchman up the street," says he. "Watchman, this man has been fixing the bank-lock; and I want you to keep a sharp lookout to-night. He will stay here until Mr. Jennings returns."

"Good-night, again," says he, and we shook hands, and he went up the street.

I saw Jim, so-called, in the shadow on the other side of the street, as I stood on the steps with the watchman.

"Well," says I to the watchman, "I'll go and pick up my tools and get ready to go."

I went back into the bank, and it didn't take long to throw the door open and stuff them bonds into the bag. There was some boxes lying around, and a safe as I should rather have liked to have tackled, but it seemed like tempting Providence after the luck we'd had. I looked at my watch and see it was just a quarter past twelve. There was an express went through at half-past twelve. I tucked my tools in the bag on top of the bonds, and walked out to the front door. The watchman was on the steps.

"I don't believe I'll wait for Mr. Jennings," says I. "I suppose it will be all right if I give you his key."

"That's all right," says the watchman.

"I wouldn't go away far from the bank," says I.

"No, I won't," says he; "I'll stay right about here all night."

"Good-night," says I, and I shook hands with him, and me and Jim—which wasn't his right name, you understand, took the 12:30 express, and the best part of that job was we never heard nothing of it. It never got into the papers."

Lincoln's Remains.

A Springfield (Ohio) letter says: The attempt to steal the remains of Mr. Lincoln about three years since is remembered by almost every one. Ever since then the public, in fact every body save a half dozen persons intimately connected with the Lincoln Monument association, supposed Mr. Lincoln's remains were inclosed in the marble sarcophagus which stands in the vestibule leading to the crypts, where other members of the family are entombed. This is not so, as your correspondent learned to-day for the first time. All that remains of Mr. Lincoln have been buried in the ground, under some portion of the immense granite pile forming his monument, ever since the attempted robbery, and are now in a complete state of petrifaction. This startling statement is from one who knows, and will be news to all but a very few persons, as it was understood at the time that the embalmers' work at Washington, immediately after the death of Mr. Lincoln, was not a success, but a bungle. Soon after the remains were entombed at this city in 1865-6, it was said they were in a bad state of decomposition, and that the embalming was not working. This seems to have been an error, as there is no doubt but that the statement that his remains have turned to stone is true.

A Tree of Iron.

A Columbia (S. C.) letter to the Syracuse Standard says: The iron palmetto is the greatest work of art in the State-house yard. This is a casting wholly of iron, commemorating the death of many of Carolina's slain, whose names are found in raised letters on two brass tablets at the base. The success of the casting consists in its perfect imitation of the living palmetto—the favorite tree of South Carolina. We had heard of this statue in other places, but had never been able to believe the stories of the flexible leaves bending in the breeze, supposing this phenomenon an optical delusion, but such is really the case. The long, thin leaves of iron, life-like even to the hair-like fibers of the twigs and branches, wave tremulously in every zephyr, and the whole tree, painted artistically, has so close a resemblance to the real tree as to deceive the acutest observer at the distance of five rods.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS.

Beautiful Answers.

A Persian pupil of Sicard gave the following extraordinary answers:

"What is gratitude?"

"Gratitude is the memory of the heart."

"What is hope?"

"Hope is the blossom of happiness."

"What is the difference between hope and desire?"

"Desire is a tree in leaf; hope is a tree in flower; and enjoyment is a tree in fruit."

"What is eternity?"

"A day without yesterday or to-morrow; a line that has no end."

"What is time?"

"A line that has two ends; a path which begins in the cradle and ends in the tomb."

"What is God?"

"The necessary being, the sun of eternity, the merchant of nature, the eye of justice, the watchmaker of the universe, the soul of the world."

"Does God reason?"

"Man reasons because he doubts; he deliberates, he decides. God is omniscient; He never doubts, He therefore never reasons."

Religious News and Notes.

The negotiations for the union of the Associate Reformed and United Presbyterian churches have failed.

The Unitarians of Great Britain have just held a national conference at Liverpool, which is spoken of as "a grand success."

There has been a revival in Jaffna college, Ceylon, and fifty of the seventy-three students have renounced paganism for Christianity.

The receipts of the American Home Missionary society for the past year were $340,668, an increase of $30,641 over any previous year in the history of the society.

The Presbyterian church in New South Wales is in need of fifty more ministers for the supply of the churches there, and money has been forwarded to Mr. Morton, the agent in London, with which to send out any who may wish to labor at the antipodes.

The latest statistics of the Southern Methodist church state that there are 4,011 traveling and 5,865 local preachers, 844,367 white, 993 colored, and 5,431 Indian members, the total of ministers and members being 860,667, an increase of 12,984 the past year.

Bishop Fallows, of the Reformed Episcopal church, says that the Christian army in Chicago, of which he is the head, is now reaching at least two thousand different persons a week, and that during the few months since its organization not less than two hundred and fifty persons have been hopefully converted.

The ninety-eighth annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania was held recently. Bishop Stevens, in his address, stated that during the year he had confirmed 1,949 persons, preached 129 sermons, delivered 121 addresses, received twenty-five candidates for holy orders, ordained seven deacons and four priests, and consecrated six churches. The number of clergy in the diocese is 203. The bishop represented the diocese as being in a flourishing condition.

A Mexican Mining Legend.

One of the most commonly believed Mexican tales is that one of the "Step Devil." The men tell you in some of the oldest mines there is a dwarf. A peculiarity about him is that he has immense long arms—arms so long that he can take off his sandals without stooping. This dwarf, when there is any danger in the mine, such as a cave, goes up the ladders, lifting himself by his arms, with his legs hanging free. As he passes each rung he stamps or kicks it out of the side pieces, so that the men, when they attempt to fly, find all means of climbing out of the mine are destroyed. In the very old mines, which were worked by the Indians, there were no ladders, but in their place trunks of trees in which notches had been cut, and the Indians climbed by inserting the big toe in the notches. When the Indians tell you of the "Step Devil" they say he has on each big toe an enormous nail, and that as he climbs the tree trunk he uses this to gouge the notches out by splitting off the part on which the toe rests. The story is evidently an Indian one, although altered by the Mexicans to suit the change in the means of going up and down the shafts.

The Biggest Sheep.

An Austin Sunday-school teacher wanted to make his pupils comprehend the parable of the good shepherd, so he said:

"Now, dear children, suppose you were all little sheep, and I had charge of you and led you about, what would I be?"

"A big sheep," was the unanimous response.—Texas Siftings.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR.

Cheese.—The curd from which cheese is made is highly nutritious and easy of digestion, but the curing process—as in in all cases—mark the difference between dried apples and the green—impairs the digestibility. Old cheese, oftener than otherwise, is unfit for the weak stomach, if not for all. That which has become tainted—rotten or putrescent—or has become infested with vermin, or is moldy, is no more fit for the stomach than putrid meat, or any food which has undergone the process of decomposition. Such mold is an absolute poison and should never be eaten.

Corns.—The simplest and most natural cure of these troublesome things is prevention. This consists in wearing a well-fitting boot. They are caused by the chafing of the surface, the thickening of the cuticle, as one means of protecting the sensitive nerves beneath. If the boot is tight it is manifest that the evil is increased by this thickening of the skin, since the tightness is thus increased. It is proper to say that a bad fit, resulting in this chafing, produces the same result, that of thickening the cuticle. The remedy, therefore, consists in wearing well-fitting boots, avoiding the cause. But, if this is not done, the corn, being albuminous, may be dissolved by the application of almost any alkali, as soda, ammonia or potash. Muriatic acid will do the same, though it may cause more soreness. Of course several applications may be required. The same applications will also cure warts.

Poisoning.—If the poison swallowed is known to be a caustic or corrosive substance give sweet oil, melted butter or lard. If the nature of the poison is not known, try to cause vomiting by giving a teaspoonful each of salt and mustard in a glass of warm water, and afterward give the whites of eggs and strong coffee. Iodide of starch is also a useful remedy for many cases of poisoning.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Is Crime Hereditary?

The question of whether crime was hereditary came up in a New York police court, and Justice Patterson recalled two instances as follows:

"I knew a gentleman who was well-to-do in business. He was a church member, and stood high in the community. He had a most excellent wife, and one son and a daughter. After the birth of the daughter the father took to drink, left the church and became an inveterate drunkard. He had six children after this—three sons and three daughters. All six turned out bad. The three sons were sent to State prison, and two of the daughters' husbands were also sent to State prison, and they were bad themselves. The first son and daughter were models of rectitude, and the son did all he could for his unfortunate brothers.

"The other day I had 'Red Fogarty' and his wife before me at an examination in Jefferson Market court, about a silk dress which had been stolen from a house and sold by Mrs. Fogarty to the woman who was arrested in the street with the dress on. Well, Mrs. Fogarty carried a bouncing boy with her, a child of about two years—a noisy fellow. He did not cry, but roared, as if angry, and chattered. I was passing through the examination-room; Mrs. Fogarty was standing with the boy in her arms. As I passed my diamond stud glistened a little, and the little fellow made a grab at my shirt-front. I caught his hand and put it away, when he grew perfectly ill-natured and mad because I did so. The badness was born in him."

Honesty the Best Policy.

"Mister," began a small boy, as he entered a Woodward avenue grocery yesterday, "ma bought some mackerel here last night."

"Yes."

"And in making change you gave her—"

"No, I didn't! I haven't had a quarter with a hole in it for a month!"

"But ma says you gave her a—"

"Don't believe it—don't believe it! I remember now I gave her a half-dollar, a quarter and a nickel."

"Ma says you gave her a gold piece for a penny, and here it is."

"Good gracious alive! but so I did—so I did! I remember now that I gave her a dollar-bill and a lot of small change. Bub, what's your name, and do you think you can eat three sticks of lemon candy? Ah! it does me good to find honesty and reward it!"—Free Press.

The Worst Yet.

Austin can boast of the cheekiest bore in Texas. He came into Texas Siftings office and was nosing about among the exchanges.

"Do I disturb you?" he asked.

"Yes, I am very busy; too busy to pay any attention to you."

"Well, then, perhaps you had better take a little walk while I look over the papers and write a few letters at your desk."—Texas Siftings.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Poverty wants some, luxury many, and avarice all things.

Work does not wear either men or women so much as worry.

When a man is wrong and won't admit it he always gets angry.

Prosperity is not just scale; adversity is the only balance to try friends.

The reproaches of enemies should quicken us to duty, and not keep us from it.

One of the best rules in conversation is never to say anything which any of the company can reasonably wish had been left unsaid.

Beautiful lives have grown up from the darkest places, as pure white lilies full of fragrance have blossomed on slimy, stagnant waters.

Think twice before you speak once, and tell not all you think; nor taste all you desire; nor say all that you know; nor give credence to all you hear.

If all were as willing to be pleasant and anxious to please in their own homes as they are in the company of their neighbors they would have happy homes.

It is amusing to detect character in the vocabulary of each person. The adjectives habitually used, like the inscriptions on a thermometer, indicate the temperament.

Earnestness is the path to immortality, thoughtlessness the path to death. Those who are in earnest do not die, those who are thoughtless are as if dead already.

If a man's word is not as good as his bond the best thing is to get on without either. If this can't be done look well to the bond and treat the word as though it had never been spoken.

Work is honorable, and no one should be ashamed to do any labor that is honest. Boys who try to get through the world without working, because they think it degrading to work, will not make the right kind of men.

Arsenic for the Complexion.

"Are you ever called upon by women to give them something to improve their complexion?" asked a New York reporter of a city physician.

"Quite often, as a matter of course. Women are always looking for something to intensify their beauty. They are not to blame for it; the first inquiry most men make about a woman is whether or not she is pretty."

"Do you prescribe arsenic for that purpose?"

"Not as a beautifier. In the treatment of certain true skin diseases, however, Fowler's solution is often used, and rightly managed is a valuable remedy. But arsenic is oftener prescribed for malaria, neuralgia and dyspepsia.

"Yes, arsenic does, though not always, produce the effect ascribed to it. Its beautifying powers, however, if such they be, are much exaggerated. It is possible, but not probable, that a physician would give arsenic to a woman who wished for it, as something with which to heighten her charms at the expense of her health. No respectable practitioner would do it. There are any number of old women and quacks to attend to that sort of thing, and the number of those who use arsenic in this way is considerable. I have prescribed sulphur in such cases half a dozen times, but never afterward heard of my fair patients. Stop! one of them did return. She said that my medicine was not strong enough. 'Arsenic was good,' she had been told, and she not only asked me for it, but was indignant when I declined to write a prescription.

"The reasons for not giving arsenic in such cases should be obvious enough. The patient almost always adopts the principle of the more arsenic the more beauty. It is not, by the way, a habit confined to women. I know of two cases in which arsenic was used by young men for the same purpose. I have had several cases of women who had seriously injured themselves with arsenic, all of them within seven or eight years. Twenty years ago they were rare. The symptoms in most of these cases are very severe. The trouble begins with nausea and abdominal pains. Then the eyes redden, and the upper lids become thickened, having taken on a dropsical character which soon extends over the whole body. Frequently the arsenic produces severe skin eruptions. The nervous system in time becomes seriously involved, and wasting of the flesh, falling out of the hair, and sometimes paralysis follow. Young women should be careful how they meddle with Fowler's solution."

A druggist said that calls for arsenic were not infrequent, and came quite as often from middle aged as from young women. "I never sell it to them," he added, "without a prescription. I know, however, that it is sold for a beautifier, and I have reason to believe that it is bought of the wholesale druggists, put up in bottles, and disposed of by peddlers of nostrums, who, no doubt, get high prices for it."

FOR THE FARM AND HOME.

A Hint to Farmers.

One of the most prevalent errors among average farmers is the neglect of making and preserving manure and also its improper application to the ground. Collect all the refuse material you can, use your chip dirt from the wood pile in absorbing liquids. Apply it to the flat lands at any time during winter. It can then be thrown on broadcast and plowed in as soon as the ground opens. The necessity of returning as much vegetable nutriment to the ground as has been taken off by the crop cannot be too strongly impressed upon the attention of our farmers.

Pigs and Grass.

That there has been less disease among swine in this country during the past two years than for several previous is well known. This improved condition was the result of causes, not the least of which is the beneficial effect of more liberty at good pasture, now much more prominent in the management of swine than formerly. While it is true that in the domestication of the hog his nature and habits have been modified, the fact remains that in his normal or natural condition he is a grass-eating animal, and that during the greater portion of his growth grass food is necessary to his health. Kept on grass during the summer hogs are in prime condition for fattening by the 1st of September, and with good teeth, good digestion and good health they will fatten rapidly on corn, and by turning the grain into pork very rapidly bring the farmer a better profit for the food consumed than if fed during the summer on corn. A moderate ration of corn or ground food occasionally may be beneficial, but except it be desired to fatten for the summer market the best results are in the direction we have indicated.—Nebraska Farmer.

A Farmer's View of Fertilizers.

That the results from commercial fertilizers are often unsatisfactory is well known in every district where they have been much used, and as compared with the plan of plowing in green crops, especially clover, or with the use of barnyard manure, the commercial fertilizers might all be classed as unreliable; for they occasionally fail to show any benefit, while the effect of the others is always apparent. But owing to the fact that in some seasons, on some soils, with some crops, by some ways of application, some of the results are very satisfactory while others are not, the easiest and most common way of accounting for the difference will be to charge it to the different brands or kinds of fertilizers used. Instead of that I believe it is oftener chargeable to their not being used judiciously. The various kinds offered for sale are probably about as near what they are represented to be as to quality and reliability as the average of commodities in our markets. I have used phosphate and other fertilizers when I thought their application quite profitable, but then I would not recommend their use except as a last resort, after improving every opportunity of growing and plowing under clover and other green crops, besides applying all the manure that could reasonably be obtained for the land. It has been asked if the application of salt would be good on worn-out sandy soil. I believe that the use of a few bushels to the acre on either poor or rich lands often shows good results, from the chemical agency in the soil, but doubt its adding much by way of its fertilizing qualities.—Henry Ives, Genesee County, N. Y.

Why so Little Butter?

After cream has been skimmed from milk it should be allowed to stand before being churned until it has gone through what is called the ripening process. The time required for the ripening of cream will depend upon the temperature of the room in which it stands.

The usual temperature of milk rooms in the summer time will cause it to ripen in twelve hours. But very many milk rooms are so defective that cream will not ripen in them during cold weather, in a week. When cream is ripe it should be churned immediately, as it will begin to decompose. After cream is ripe, the rate of decomposition will increase in proportion to the temperature of the room and the length of time it stands, before being churned. Many butter makers are ignorant of the fact that by a few hours' delay in churning the lactic acid in the cream may destroy half of the globules of butter which it contains. During the winter seasons our creamery men gather cream from their patrons only once or twice per week. When gathered, much of it has been ripe for a considerable time—has lost many of the butter globules by decomposition, and then they complain that farmers have cheated them.—R. P. Spear.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Fat is of no value as manure.

Excess of water in the soil prevents root development.

All liquid impurities are liable to flow downward into wells.

The catalpa will grow from cuttings but comes better from seed.

For pickling the white spine is considered one of the best cucumbers.

Hungarian grass or millet, should not be seeded until the soil is quite warm.

Negligence in the preparation of seed furnishes the key to many low averages in yield.

It is asserted that nine-tenths of the foot and ankle ailments of horses are traceable to standing on dry plank floors.

The nearer a fattening animal approaches maturity the greater is the proportion of fat in the gross increase obtained.

Sheep fed on dry feed are frequently troubled with sore lips. An application of sulphur and lard once or twice will generally effect a cure.

The Poultry World warns poultry fanciers against allowing any lime in the dust provided for fowls, as it is sure to bleach the legs of the fowls.

The best time to prune fruit trees is in June, when the sap is active and the leaves will protect the sores made by the saw from the heat of the sun.

Cotswold sheep have large, handsome frames, well covered with flesh, and a great propensity to fatten. Their mutton is apt to be rather coarse grained.

It has been discovered that common pine posts, if saturated with coal oil and then boiled in coal tar, will remain in the ground ten years perfectly sound.

Peas and sweet potatoes are the cheapest hog feed. Boiled sweet potatoes and pea meal would fatten hogs more rapidly, and would be much cheaper than corn.

Deeply rooted crops, as wheat, red clover and mangel, are those best fitted to resist drought, while shallow rooted crops, as grass and turnips, are those that suffer most from it.

A wool and wheat grower says: "It is my belief that the real reason why our wheat crops only yield half as much as the English crops is, that in England farmers utilize sheep as grain growers, while we only consider them wool and mutton makers."

A famous horse breeder of France has reared his stock for twenty years on a diet of parsnips, instead of carrots and oats, with the result of "great vivacity of spirit and sleekness of coat"—conclusive evidence of healthful condition. The yield is about twelve tons per acre.

A potato raiser advances the following theory: "A potato that has greened in the sun is always a good seed potato. We keep our seed potatoes too close and dark before planting. This tends to develop the eyes too rapidly, and this premature growth exhausts the vitality of the potato."

Whenever the farmer makes any particular crop a specialty he should start with the highest type of seed that he can procure, and it should be his constant effort to improve upon it every year, by growing his own seed with the greatest care. He should have his ideal of perfection, and carefully select every year such specimens to breed from as come the nearest to his ideal. In this way an intelligent farmer will make a wonderful as well as a rapid progress, and will soon be able to put on the market a better quality than those who depend on purchasing seed in the open market, and will make a large profit, while his neighbors will get hardly enough to pay expenses.

Recipes.

Soup Stock.—In making soup from raw meats break the bones apart, place them in a pot, cover them with cold water and boil slowly for five or six hours; add salt to quicken the rising of the scum, which should be thoroughly removed. Cut up three carrots, three turnips, two heads of celery and two onions; add to the stock, together with six or eight cloves, a bouquet of herbs and a teaspoonful of whole peppers; strain into a deep sauce pan, and clarify with the white of an egg. It will then be ready for an indefinite variety of soups.

Rice Pie.—Boil in a quart of water until very soft a cupful of rice. When done take from the fire and add one quart of cold milk, five well beaten eggs, one-half teaspoonful of salt, sugar and nutmeg to taste; bake in deep pie plates lined at the sides and bottom with a coat of pastry.

Pickled Tongue.—A good-sized tongue requires to boil at least three hours. It is a good plan to soak it over night in cold water. To cook it put it on in cold water and let it come slowly to the boil. Some cooks change the water when it is half done; if this course is taken be sure that the fresh water is boiling before the tongue is placed in it.

Asparagus à la Jardinière.—This is very good for asparagus which is too green to boil. Cut points off and boil to a crisp—not too much; steam them to get extra moisture; put them in a stewpan, with a tablespoonful of butter; sprinkle a little flour over them and half a teaspoonful of powdered sugar; add a tablespoonful of the water the asparagus was boiled in, in which has been beaten up the yolk of two eggs; shake the stewpan frequently, but do not use a spoon or fork; serve on toast.

Household Hints.

Waste nothing in cooking, however little it may be.

When the faces of flat irons become rough rub them well with a little fine salt.

Coffee, tea and spices ought to be kept closely sealed, else their aroma escapes.

In baking get the oven sufficiently heated and have the stove contain enough fuel to conclude the operation. Added fuel reduces the temperature and checks the process at precisely the time when it should not be checked.

Vinegar will remove the disagreeable odor of kerosene from tin ware.

In frying cakes when you take them out of the fat lay them on a clean piece of coarse brown paper. The paper will absorb much of the lard.

Arizona Cowboys.

The Arizona rustlers are simply cowboys on an unending spree. They are wild men. No Apache that ever lived had less regard for life than they. They pretend to pay some attention to cattle, but as that industry in Arizona is not yet a large one there is not much in that line for them to do. Their occupation is pillage and murder. They travel in small parties, and rob everybody they meet. They will kill a man whenever they think best. Besides their other accomplishments they are expert horse thieves. In fact nothing that is portable and can be made to serve their purpose is safe when they are around. The reign of terror which they have inaugurated is equal to any ever caused in those sections by the Indians. Their crimes are so numerous, and the terrorism which they exercise over the settlers is so complete that not one in fifty of their depredations is ever known outside of the neighborhood in which it is perpetrated. To speak of them disrespectfully, or to call their crimes by their right names in a newspaper, means death to the offender. This accounts for the exceeding tenderness shown them by most of the frontier editors. Murder is a hard word, and the cowboys of Arizona do not like it any better than some man killers nearer the center of civilization. It is a word seldom resorted to, therefore, in the Territorial press. A deliberate homicide is usually dismissed with two or three lines reading something like this:

"Big-foot Ben got the drop on Jim Brown in Casey's ranch last night. Several other shots were fired, but nobody else was hurt."

The rustler always has a step-on-my-coat-if-you-dare air about him. A request or an invitation from him cannot, in the etiquette of the Territory, be declined.

"Take a drink?" said one of them in a saloon not long since to an entire stranger.

"No, I don't want anything," was the reply.

"Take that, then, you ——." The self-cocking revolver had spoken simultaneously with its owner.

The other day a cowboy entered a little settlement and purchased a can of corned beef. Taking the meat and a keg out into the road, he sat down on the keg and opened the can. When everything was ready he called to a man, a stranger, standing in front of the store, to come and help him eat it. The man was not hungry. "You've got to eat," came the command, accompanied by a movement of the hand, which rested on a revolver. The stranger advanced slowly and partook of the meat, evidently in an unhappy frame of mind, but his host seemed to enjoy the repast and the society of his newly made acquaintance not a little.

A cowboy entered a hotel dining-room, sat down opposite a young man whom he addressed as a tenderfoot, and began to throw the dishes and their contents on the floor. The young man endeavored to remonstrate with him, but before he could finish his first sentence he was pierced by a bullet from the desperado's revolver. Events like the above are of daily occurrence in Arizona. Every miner or traveler one meets has a fund of such anecdotes to relate. The Territorial authorities have proved woefully inadequate to cope with the rustlers. They take towns, stampede stock, rob stages and waylay prospectors with impunity. A few towns and camps have cleaned them out, inflicting punishment so severe that they will not be troubled again perhaps. The movement against them has of late been more vigorous than at any time before in years, and it is reported that a number of them have worked their way northward into Utah and Colorado. The employment of the troops against these savages is expected to result in their extermination; but they are so numerous and desperate that this happy end cannot be gained without the loss of many valuable lives.—New York Sun.

The imagination of men is often the refuge of their prejudices.

A Youthful Herzegovinian Hero.

The troops in the disturbed province of Austria, writes a Vienna correspondent of the Daily News, were recently searching a deserted part of the country near Glavaticevo, when suddenly a shot was fired from behind a wall, and a man was seen running toward an empty hut, in which he disappeared. After a thorough search the soldiers found him in the cellar and the rifle in his hand was still hot to the touch. He confessed having fired at the troops, and was taken to the prison in Mostar. On the 24th of March, at 7 o'clock in the morning, he was tried by court martial. The troops of the Third Infantry regiment formed a square around the place assigned for the prisoner, and a Mohammedan priest was engaged to console him. All the proceedings were public, and a large crowd had assembled outside the line formed by the soldiers. Accompanied by an escort of sixteen men the accused appeared, and great was every one's surprise when he proved to be a mere boy of fifteen. But his countenance and bearing were a sight worth seeing. With head erect and arms crossed defiantly over his breast, he stood motionless, coolly answering all the questions put to him. In the center of the square the members of the martial court were assembled, and they examined him. He looked at them with undaunted eyes, and without showing the least signs of fear. He stated that his name was Sencic, that he was a Mohammedan, and fifteen years old. He had been a shepherd in the mountains, and had found the rifle that he held in his hands at the time he was arrested. According to his statements the logical consequence of possessing a rifle was to use it, and as his father was in the ranks of the insurgents he considered it his duty to fire at the soldiers when the opportunity came. It was a strange contrast to witness the composure of the boy and the terrible excitement of the old Mohammedan priest, with his long, snowy white beard. He smoked cigarette after cigarette as a means of mastering his feelings, and seemed ready to burst into tears if harm came to the boy. After a consultation, which lasted an hour and a half, the members of the martial court came forward to pronounce the sentence. By nine votes out of ten he was found not guilty, and acquitted, but the words that restored him to life did not move him in any way. His manner was as quiet and composed as it would certainly have been had he been sentenced to death. He was taken back to prison, where he will remain until the insurrection is fairly over.

"Yes," Athelwald replied, speaking in low, impressive tones, "yes, I do like dogs; I am fond of them. But I like a shy, coy, shrinking dog, who flies away to the shadowy recesses of the woodshed when he hears the footfall of the stranger, and can only be won to sociability by love and kindness and patient pleading. I do not love the bold, forward, unquestioning mass of canine insolence and obtrusiveness that comes sneaking out from behind a lilac bush when one is just half-way between the gate and the piazza, and nestles up to a stranger like an old acquaintance, and drags one all around the yard in a backward attitude, with no thought of one's dignity or comfort." And with a dry, conclusive sob he turned away, and as he walked toward the neckwear department the bookkeeper noticed that his lawn-colored trousers had been patched with a nine-cornered piece of olive green.

Railroaders' Relief.

That most comfortable Ticket Office 187 West street, New York, is presided over by Mr. C. V. V. Ward, who thus addressed one of our representatives recently: "Some months ago I had rheumatism in my right arm, and was unable to raise it. I was advised by a friend to use St. Jacobs Oil. I did so, and before the second bottle had been exhausted my arm was perfectly well."—Brooklyn Eagle.

It is customary in some localities to teach children to think of a text as they drop their pieces of money into the contribution box. A certain little girl at Sunday-school recently saw the box approaching and began to search in her memory for a text. She hesitated for a few moments, dropped the dime into the box, and exclaimed triumphantly: "A fool and his money are soon parted."

The success of St. Jacobs Oil throughout the civilized world is without a parallel.—Richmond (Va.) Southern Planter and Farmer.

A Tranquil Nervous System
Can never be possessed by those whose digestive and assimilative organs are in a state of chronic disorder. Weak stomachs make weak nerves. To restore vigor and quietude to the latter, the first must be invigorated and regulated. The ordinary sedatives may tranquilize the nerves for a while, but they can never, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, remove the causes of nervous debility. That superb invigorant and corrective of disordered conditions of the alimentary organs have also the effect of imparting tone to the nerves. The delicate tissues of which they are constituted, when weakened in consequence of impoverishment of the blood, resulting from imperfect digestion and assimilation, draw strength from the fund of vitality developed in the system by the Bitters, which imparts the required impetus to the nutritive functions of the stomach, enriches the circulation, and gives tone and regularity to the secretive and evacuative organs.

Throughout the whole web of national existence we trace the golden thread of human progress toward a higher and better estate.

To Consumptives.
Reader, can you believe that the creator afflicts one-third of mankind with a disease for which there is no remedy? Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured hundreds of cases of Consumption, and men are living to-day—healthy, robust men—whose physicians pronounced incurable, because one lung was almost gone. Send two stamps for Dr. Pierce's pamphlet on Consumption and Kindred Affections. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

We are hanging up pictures every day about the chamber walls of our hearts that we shall have to look at when we sit in the shadows.

Young or middle-aged men suffering from nervous debility, loss of memory, premature old age, as the result of bad habits, should send three stamps for Part VII. of Dime Series pamphlets. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no greater fool than he who thinks himself wise; no wiser than he who suspects he is a fool.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is the debilitated woman's best restorative tonic.

H. H. Warner & Co.: Sirs—I have used your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure in my family with marked benefits and can highly recommend it.
C. W. Carr.

Poetry is the blossom and the fragrance of all human knowledge, human thoughts, human passion, emotion, language.

From James M. Wilson, Esq., 2 Hayne street, Charleston, S. C.:
Dr. Holman: It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony for the benefit I have received from the use of the Holman Pad and Plasters. For over forty years I have endured the misery growing out of a torpid liver and dyspepsia, accompanied with violent headaches, and have tried various remedies and changes of climate without receiving permanent relief. I have worn one of Holman's Pads about one month with wonderful results, and can say that I feel better than I have done for years, and I believe will be permanently cured. From the benefit I have received, I am convinced of the virtue of the Pad and recommend it to suffering humanity.

On Thirty Days' Trial.
The Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Mich., will send their Electro-Voltaic Belts and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to any person afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing complete restoration of vigor and manhood. Address as above without delay.
P. S.—No risk is incurred, as 30 days' trial is allowed.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.
William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half-dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will take DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

CELEBRATED
BITTERS

Among the medicinal means of arresting disease, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters stands pre-eminent. It checks the further progress of all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, revives the vital stamina, prevents and remedies chills and fever, increases the activity of the kidneys, counteracts a tendency to rheumatism, and is a genuine stay and solace to aged, infirm and nervous persons. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

TORMENT, INDEED.

Life's vexations do not generally come in one like a storm descending the mountain or like a whirlwind; they come as the rain does in some sections of the world—gently, but every day. One of life's discomforts is presented herewith. According to popular impression, hot weather, mosquitoes and mad dogs all flourish at the same time and are chargeable to the malefic influence of the Dog Star. Speaking of dogs and the dog days reminds us of a boy's story of a dog and the sequel, and which we here give in a short extract from the boy's letter: "Say, Bob, you ought to have been there last night a-seein' the fun. The Winkins' dog Toddles was a-smilin' at the cat a-gazin' at the Court, when along comes old Sykes' [illegible] rat terrier and the 2 waltzed over the fence and the 2 fought. The terrier proved too much for Toddles, and afore they could haul him off the battle ground he had made a good square meal of his hide. Tom was in despair. A kind looking gentleman in a broad brim hat told him to get a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil and rub him with it, and it would cure him in no time. What does Tom do but steal into the chapel at Vesper time and slide into Father Jacobs' confessional box and beg of him a bottle of his oil with which to rub his dog. The Father felt of Tom's head; it was hot an' afore Tom could utter a prayer, two men were luggin' him home followed by a great crowd, who kept at a safe distance, thinking he had been bit by a mad dog. The more he kicked and screamed to be let free, the tighter they held on to him." In reference to another incident, the Chicago Western Catholic recently wrote: "Mr. Joel D. Harvey, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, of this city, has spent over two thousand dollars on medicine for his wife, who was suffering dreadfully from rheumatism, and without deriving any benefit whatever; yet two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil accomplished what the most skillful medical men failed in doing. We could give the names of hundreds who have been cured by this wonderful remedy did space permit us. The latest man who has been made happy through the use of this valuable liniment is Mr. James A. Conlan, librarian of the Union Catholic Library of this city. The following is Mr. Conlan's indorsement:

Union Catholic Library Association,
204 Dearborn Street,
Chicago, Sept. 16, 1880.

I wish to add my testimony to the merits of St. Jacobs Oil as a cure for rheumatism. One bottle has cured me of this troublesome disease, which gave me a great deal of bother for a long time; but, thanks to the remedy, I am cured. This statement is unsolicited by any one in its interest.
Very respectfully,
James A. Conlan, Librarian.

Laws of New Jersey.

CHAPTER CLXVII.

An Act to provide for the payment of indebtedness incurred in excess of appropriations made by any city board having control of the improvement and construction of streets and sewers.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where in any city of the first class of this state, the board having control of the improvement and construction of streets and sewers shall heretofore or may hereafter incur any necessary indebtedness to a greater amount than the amount of their appropriation as made by law, by reason of [illegible] public work, then and in every such case the party having control of the finances of said city shall have power to appropriate in any one year a sum not exceeding the sum of thirty-five thousand dollars, for the payment of any such indebtedness exceeding the amount of the appropriation, and the board having control of the finances of said city shall have power to borrow such sum, and shall place the same in the next tax levy.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXVIII.

An Act to regulate the sale of petroleum and its products.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That kerosene, petroleum, or any of the products thereof, may only be sold for use within this state under the following regulations and restrictions, viz: (a) kerosene, gasoline, naptha and benzine are to be sold under their true names respectively and such names must be plainly shown upon the barrel, can, or vessel in which the same are sold, or offered or exposed for sale, respectively, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That if any person shall sell, or offer or expose for sale, for use within this state, except in the manner permitted by this act, any petroleum or product thereof, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisonment at hard labor or otherwise, for a term not exceeding one year, or both, and any such in quantity less than one barrel shall be presumed to be for use within this state.

3. And be it enacted, That the board of health of this state shall, together with the council of analysts appointed by it, determine and declare what shall be the means of advertising whether or not petroleum or kerosene, to be sold for lighting or illuminating purposes, is of the character required by this act [illegible]

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful at any time during business hours for any member of the state board of health, or any analyst or inspector [illegible]

5. And be it enacted, That the act entitled "An act to regulate the sale and keeping of inflammable and explosive fluids," approved April twenty-first, anno domini, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and all other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXIX.

An Act authorizing the discharge of executors or trustees in certain cases.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when any executor or trustee who has entered on the duties of his office, or who shall hereafter enter on the duties of his office, shall desire to be discharged from the performance of any particular trust imposed upon him by the last will and testament under which he is appointed, it shall be lawful for him to apply for such discharge by petition to the prerogative court, when the letters testamentary shall have been issued by the ordinary or to the orphans' court when letters have been issued by the surrogate; and upon such application it shall be lawful for the court, by an order made for that purpose, to grant such discharge and to appoint some other suitable person or persons in the place and stead of the person or persons so discharged; [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That where there is more than one such executor or trustee appointed by any will, they may all or any one or more of them join in the same application to be discharged.

3. And be it enacted, That the trustee or trustees appointed in the place of the executor or executors, trustee or trustees, who shall be discharged, shall give bond with sufficient sureties to be approved by the court, for the faithful execution of the trust, in double the amount of the trust fund; [illegible]

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXX.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the better enforcement in Maurice River Cove and Delaware bay of the act entitled 'An act for the preservation of clams and oysters,'" approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and of the supplements thereto.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any election purporting to have been held under and by virtue of the provisions of a supplement to said act, approved March eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, shall be deemed in all respects legal and binding as though said election had been held in strict accordance with the requirements of said act.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act constituting district courts in certain cities in this state," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in case of the illness, absence or disability of the clerk of any district court it shall be lawful for the judge of such court to designate and appoint in writing some fit person to sign the name of the clerk to and to issue any writ or other instrument out of said court during the illness, absence or disability of the clerk, and any writ or other instrument so signed and issued shall be as valid in law as if signed and issued personally by such clerk.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXII.

A further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to incorporate and regulate telegraph companies," approved April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXIII.

An Act authorizing townships to establish the grade of public roads within their limits.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, [illegible]

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXIV.

An Act relating to the opening of [illegible] roads.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, [illegible] by them ordered to be laid out as a public road of such width as they may deem necessary; and all claims for damages, if any should accrue thereon, to be assessed by three disinterested freeholders, resident of the said township, to be appointed by the township committee, and all damages awarded to be paid for by the township in which said road lies.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the said township committee to order the laying out of said road as made, within a period not exceeding thirty days after such application shall be made.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXV.

An Act to amend an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the chosen freeholders in the respective counties of this state,' approved April sixteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six," which act was approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of the above act, approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, be amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the county collector to make out and cause such annual statement to be published in such newspapers in the county as are designated by the governor and comptroller to publish the laws, together with such other newspapers as in their judgment such board shall designate, within thirty days after the annual meeting of the board, reference being made as nearly as possible to an equal division of the papers representing the two political parties; [illegible] provided, this act shall not apply to counties where the annual statement is published in pamphlet form according to law.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXVI.

An Act defining the duties of clerks of county courts as to the officers' returns of writs.

Whereas, the practice in nearly all the counties of this state (there being no act defining the duties of clerks as to it) has been not to record an officer's returns to writs, but file them only; therefore, in order to define and make the practice uniform throughout the state,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall not be considered necessary for the clerks aforesaid to record or enter the officer's return (or inventory) to any writ of execution, attachment, or any other writ, but to file the same only.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXVII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of railroad corporations and regulate the same," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the fourteenth section of an act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of railroad corporations and regulate the same," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

14. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of any company incorporated under this act, or owning or operating any railroad, or owning any [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXVIII.

An Act respecting licenses in cities of the first class.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the board of aldermen or common council of all incorporated cities of this state having a population of over one hundred thousand, as by the last census of the United States, to pass, alter or repeal ordinances or by-laws, to compel the payment of a license fee for each and every car run through or across the streets of any such city of the first class for the purpose of carrying passengers from place to place in any such city of the first class, or from one city of the first class to an adjacent city of the first class or town, and to impose such license fee for the purpose of increasing the revenue of any such city of the first class, under the penalties now prescribed by the charter of any such city of the first class for violation of its ordinances; provided, that such license fee shall not exceed the sum of ten dollars for each car for each year.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall only apply to the car or cars of any company or corporation that shall cause its car or cars to be drawn by a horse or horses, mule or mules or other animal.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

JOINT RESOLUTION, NUMBER VII.

Joint Resolution in relation to the national conference of charities and corrections.

1. Be it resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the governor of the state is hereby authorized and requested to appoint one delegate each from among the officers, or board of inspectors, or trustees of the state prison, the state reform schools, and lunatic asylums, to attend and represent this state at the next meeting of the national conference of charities and corrections, which is to be held at Madison, Wisconsin, in August next, and that the actual traveling expenses of such delegates in attending said conference shall be paid from the treasury of the state upon the order of the governor.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXIX.

An act to authorize the construction of school houses in cities of this State.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the corporate authorities of the cities of this state, upon request by the board of education, or other body having the charge of the public schools in such city, to purchase lands and to erect school houses thereon, and to furnish the same, from time to time, as the increase of population in any such city may demand; provided, however, that the expense incurred in any one instance shall not exceed forty thousand dollars; [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That, to raise the funds for the purposes aforesaid, the corporate authorities of such city shall have power to raise money by temporary loans for a term not exceeding three years; [illegible]

3. And be it enacted, That, to secure such temporary loan, the corporate authorities may authorize the issue of temporary loan bonds or certificates [illegible]

4. And be it enacted, That such temporary bonds or scrip may be taken for the sinking fund [illegible]

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate fees," approved April fifteenth, eighteen hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act, and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXXI.

An Act to enable cities to provide additional school accommodations, where the same are necessary, and to borrow money for the purpose.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, [illegible] money to be borrowed for the purpose of purchasing land and the erection of suitable school buildings and provide such school buildings with suitable school appliances and conveniences, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That any mortgage to be given in pursuance of this act, shall not be payable in less than ten years from the time of giving the same except at the option of the city, [illegible]

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXXII.

An Act concerning cities in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any city of this state, where the general management and care of the finances of said city are now, or shall hereafter be, committed to a board, the members of which are not elected by the people of said city, the members of such board shall hereafter be appointed by the mayor of said city, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall not affect the term of present incumbents in any such board.

3. And be it enacted, That if a vacancy shall occur in any such board from other causes than the expiration of the term of the incumbent, the mayor of such city shall appoint a person to fill such vacancy for the unexpired term only.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, general, public, special and local, inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXXIII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning corporations" (Revision), approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That any stock issued for property purchased under section fifty-five of the act to which this is a supplement, [illegible]

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXXV.

A Supplement to the act entitled, "An act providing for the adoption of children," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section three of the act to which this is a supplement be amended so as to read as follows:

3. And be it enacted, That upon the presentation of such petition to the court, the same shall be ordered filed with the clerk of said court and the court shall appoint a day for the hearing of said petition and the examination under oath of the parties in interest, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That it shall not be necessary to record the testimony taken upon the hearing of said petition in any case when the same has been given orally before the court [illegible]

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXXVI.

An Act to authorize the compromising or settling by arbitration of any tax or assessment laid by any public road board in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for any public road board established in this state, [illegible]

2. And be it enacted, That in case of an application by any owner or owners, mortgagee or mortgagees [illegible]

3. And be it enacted, That in case it shall appear to such board [illegible] its proper case for arbitration, to appoint such arbitrators as aforesaid, who, when appointed, shall, before entering upon their duties, subscribe before the clerk of the county, or a judge of the court of common pleas, an oath for the faithful performance of their duties and the trust reposed in them as arbitrators in the matter in difference between the petitioner and such board, as is recited in the petitioner's petition, and shall within ten days after their appointment and subscribing of the oath, view the lands and real estate upon which the tax or taxes, assessment or assessments is laid or imposed, and after such view, shall notify all parties in interest, of the time and place when they will sit and hear all parties or their witnesses in relation to the matters referred to them; and shall, after hearing all parties and witnesses, and taking into consideration all taxes, assessments and impositions of every nature whatsoever, and of the value of the land and real estate in proportion to the taxes and assessments against the same, proceed to fix and adjust a specific sum or amount to be paid by the owner or owners, mortgagee or mortgagees, so petitioning, in full settlement and discharge of the tax or taxes, assessment or assessments levied or imposed by any such public road board, under any laws of the nature, or for the purposes in the first section hereof referred to, against or upon the land and real estate particularly mentioned and described in the petition under which said arbitrators were appointed; provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to cases where land and real estate has been sold for taxes or assessments, and bought therefor by a bona fide purchaser, other than such public road board or its representative.

4. And be it enacted, That said arbitrators shall proceed to the performance of their duties with all reasonable dispatch, and shall make up and present their final report in writing to the justice of the supreme court appointing them, within sixty days after the date of their appointment, [illegible]

5. And be it enacted, That all acts inconsistent with this act shall be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXXVII.

A Bill providing for the founding of a state institution for the instruction and maintenance of indigent deaf mutes, to be known as "The State Institution for the Deaf and Dumb."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the property lately used as a home for soldiers' children shall be taken and set apart to be used as an institution for the maintenance and instruction by the state of its indigent deaf and dumb.

2. And be it enacted, That said institution shall be under the control and management of a board of eleven trustees, consisting of the governor, the comptroller, the state superintendent of public instruction, and the following named citizens of this state: Michael L. Boyell, Alexander V. Manning, Henderson M. Schidler, Theodore W. Morris, John T. Rice, Thomas T. Kinney, Henry S. Crosby, Marcus Beach.

3. And be it enacted, That the said trustees other than the governor, comptroller and state superintendent of public instruction, shall, within thirty days after the approval of this act, divide themselves into four classes, to serve one, two, three and four years, respectively, [illegible]

4. And be it enacted, That the sum of fifteen thousand dollars be and is hereby appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the trustees in the needed alterations of the buildings and the furnishing of the same in a suitable manner for the reception of pupils.

5. And be it enacted, That when the buildings are completed and furnished and ready for occupancy, the board of trustees may proceed to admit such persons therein as hereinafter is provided.

6. And be it enacted, That indigent deaf and dumb persons of suitable age and capacity for instruction, who are legal residents of the state, shall be entitled to the privileges of the school without charge, [illegible]

7. And be it enacted, That the trustees of said institution shall receive no compensation for their services, except in the case of the treasurer who may be fairly compensated at the discretion of the board, but they shall be paid all necessary expenses incurred by them in the discharge of their duties, to be paid by the treasurer of said board of trustees on the order of the governor.

8. And be it enacted, That any person not under five years nor more than twenty-one years of age, may be entitled to the benefits of the act, and that the term of instruction shall be three years, but may be extended to five years by a vote of a majority of the whole board of trustees.

9. And be it enacted, That whenever the board of trustees shall be satisfied that the resources of any person applying for the benefits of this act, or those of his or their parents or guardians, are sufficient to defray a part of the expense of instructing and maintaining such person, but not sufficient to defray the whole expense, then the board of trustees may cause to be paid such proportion as to them may seem just and equitable, of the annual expense of educating such person.

10. And be it enacted, That all improvements, additions and repairs to the buildings to be used for the purposes of this act, together with the furnishing of the same, shall be by contract, [illegible]

11. And be it enacted, That during the first twelve months after the opening of the school, the trustees shall make a quarterly return or statement to the governor, of all expenses incurred for salaries, maintenance, tuition, and other items of current expenses, [illegible]

12. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 21, 1882.

This is the apple bearing year, and it is predicted that the crop will exceed even that of 1880, which was the largest for twenty years. We, however, take no stock in the prediction as it seems to us impossible, and at least it is unnecessary to produce a larger crop than that of 1880, when thousands of bushels of the fruit hereabouts rotted upon the ground.

TRUTH AND SAFETY.

Are we becoming a nation of unprincipled gamesters?

The question may appear strange, yet, we regret to say, cause exists for asking it.

The sound and honorable business system once pursued in this country by all trades, professions and corporations, when real commodities were alone bought and sold, bona-fide investments made, legitimate enterprises carried on, the law of supply and demand obeyed, wealth accumulated as the result of labor and industry, and contentment with honest and moderate gains the general rule, is now, to a deplorable extent, abandoned for the delirium of reckless speculation, the frenzied effort to amass sudden and immense riches out of chance and chicanery, instead of skill and integrity.

That is the naked truth, cloud it as you may.

Undoubtedly we live in an age of great activity and wonderful scientific achievements, and some people, imagining the natural sequence to be fast living and trading, may look upon moderation and honesty as relics of fogyism.

If they are, happy will it prove for people and country to reanimate and reverence them.

Gambling speculation breeds wanton extravagance, and stopping not there, it leads to crime and disaster.

Evidence of that is painfully apparent, and, we fear, far from being fully developed.

The Government of the Fathers cannot be improved by modern inventions, and neither can their good old fashioned, practical and prosperous method of transacting the business affairs of life.

If that be fogyism make the most of it?

It is truth and safety?

DEMOCRATS OF UNION!

We have before urged the rightful claim of this County to the next Democratic nomination for Congress, and as the time for selecting a candidate is fast approaching, we think it proper to again direct attention to the importance of concentrating party approval upon some Union County man.

Union never had a Democratic Congressional nominee.

Union is justly entitled to the honor.

Union has Democrats capable and worthy.

Cannot the Democracy of Union go before the Convention with unanimity of choice.

Let the effort be made.

Bring forward names for consideration.

Unite upon the best man.

From the report rendered to the Common Council by the expert appointed by that body to investigate the accounts of ex-Tax Collector Lewis E. Clark of this city, it seems there is an alleged discrepancy in the accounts to Mr. Clark's discredit, although he denies the allegation. The last Report of the Committee appointed by Council to investigate the late Collector's books, will be found in our Council Proceedings. The public demands that a thorough examination should be made in the case. Now that this long talked of affair is under way, let us have the bottom facts. The innocent cannot surely suffer.

As many people feared, President Arthur has framed the Tariff Commission to suit specially favored interests. They are given the sceptre and of course will selfishly wield it. The vast and important interests of Commerce, Agriculture and Labor, each of which should have been justly represented on the Commission, are treated as of little or no account. Mr. Beecher is reported as well saying—"the appointment of such Commissioners is like selecting a jury from twelve one-sided witnesses."

Conkling was once an imperious political boss in New York, and Cameron is striving to retain like supremacy in Pennsylvania. Their plan of action is absolutism, the crushing out of all personal opposition. Fortunately the spirit of manly independence is rapidly gaining strength within the Republican party, and events clearly prove that the most arrogant partisan crusher can be himself politically crushed.

Moses, once the Republican Governor of South Carolina, has been convicted of crime in New York and sent to prison. There is however hope for Moses, because, when he gets out of jail, his getting into Congress, drunk or sober, will only require a formal claim on his part for the seat of some lawfully elected Southern Democrat, provided Keifer is then Speaker and Robeson there for a purpose.

The Constitution confers upon Congress the right of judging of the election and qualification of its own members, but the authors of the Constitution never intended, nor expected, that such privilege would be converted into an agent for the perpetration of partisan injustice and parliamentary violence.

SCOTCH PLAINS SCRATCHINGS.

Members and friends of the M. E. Church filled it to overflowing Sunday evening, June 4th. The occasion was the celebration of Children's Day. On account of being able to secure the services of the Rev. Dr. Upham, of Drew Theological Seminary, it was held a week earlier than the regular children's day. Flowers were brought by the children and friends of the Sunday School early in the afternoon and were arranged in a tasty and becoming manner around the altar, and upon the pulpit. The children's service, proper, was held in the evening and consisted of a special children's service of responsive readings, interspersed with singing. Besides this there was singing by the church quartette and recitation by the children. Dr. Upham delivered an address to the children which was both pleasing and instructive to them. After a short address by the Superintendent, Mr. Cooper, the exercises closed and all went home feeling that the celebration of Children's Day had been both successful and pleasant.

The special school meeting held at the school house last Tuesday evening was quite fully attended, and the following amounts was voted to aid the school: $300 for a fourth teacher, $250 for repairs necessary to accommodate same, $150 for painting school building, and $100 for driving a new well. Surely if Scotch Plains does not have a good public school, the public is not to blame.

The ladies of "All Saints" Episcopal church, Scotch Plains, will have a sale of useful and fancy articles, refreshments and candies, on Wednesday, June 21st, at the house near Fanwood depot, known as the Old Martine House. The proceeds of the sale to be for the building fund. Tickets can be had at Reynolds' drug store and Mrs. Barnes, on Front street, Plainfield.

Mr. Charles F. Underhill will give an entertainment for the benefit of the Scotch Plains M. E. church, at Academy Hall, on June 23d, 1882, consisting of humorous and dramatic readings and personations. Do not fail to hear him if you want a thoroughly enjoyable evening. Tickets 25 cents; children under 12 years, 15 cts.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

Children's Day, of the M. E. church, was celebrated on last Sunday. The audience room of the church was splendidly trimmed with flowers and evergreens. The programme in the morning, at 10:30, consisted of organ voluntary, singing by the school and congregation, a sermon to the children by the pastor, Rev. Warren Hoagland, a chant "The Old Cross" by Zion's Mission. In the afternoon at 2:30: "The Gloria Patri" by the school, scripture reading by the Superintendent and school, singing, an address by Mr. James G. DeWitt, and a solo and chorus "The Dream" by Zion's Mission. The evening service at 7:30: A sermon by the pastor, subject "The Language of Flowers." Miss Ella L. Ferris presided at the organ, Mr. Chas Day cornetist. The Church and Sunday School will make an excursion to Ocean Grove on Tuesday, July 18th.

The Board of Health has notified the Overseers of the several road districts to keep the street gutters and drains open so that all water may be drained off readily, and not lay along side of streets in stagnant pools detrimental to public health.

Mrs. Marella Batchford, who was indicted by our last Grand Jury for assault and Battery on the young son of Mr. C. J. Comont and whose trial was set down for Tuesday the 13th inst, thinking discretion the better part, retracted her pleas of not guilty to both indictments and plead guilty to one and non vult to the other. She was remanded to jail until Saturday the 17th inst, when sentence will be pronounced.

John M. C. Marsh received the appointment, this week, of agent for the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company of London and Edinburgh.

The "Smoky Hollow" Uprisers commenced to play a return game with the Pale Faces, on Saturday afternoon the 10th inst, but owing to the rain the game was called by the umpire after two innings had been played. The score stood 11 to 4 in favor of the Uprisers. The game will be finished on Saturday the 17th inst.

Joseph Moffett, Overseer of Broad District No. 8, has made a decided improvement in the road bed and side walk on North avenue near Elmer street. He has filled that low swampy place with stone well pounded and broken up and covered the same with gravel. At this point on North avenue many a loaded truck have been mired in the Spring ground. He has also laid a good plank walk on the north side of the avenue.

About thirty of our residents were subpœnaed on Tuesday to attend the Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth, as witnesses in the horse case of Moffett vs Gale, which is a case carried up on an appeal from a judgment rendered last Fall by Justice Godfrey of our Town.

The Ladies Guild of the Grace Episcopal church held a strawberry and Ice Cream Festival on Tuesday evening the 13th inst in Lyceum Hall. There was a good attendance of our residents, plenty of refreshments, and the affair was a grand success, the receipts exceeding the expectations of the Guild.

William J. Bogart and wife, residing on Fourth avenue, celebrated the tenth anniversary of their wedding on Saturday evening the 10th inst. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives both from New York city and our town.

David Radly, aged 70 years, brother of Squire Radley of our Township, committed suicide at Vineland, N. J., on Monday the 12th inst. His body was brought to Westfield on Wednesday and interred in the old burying ground.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

Between Sarah A. Cole, complainant, and Sheppard L. Stewart, et als., defendants. On bill to foreclose. Notice to absent defendants.

To Elizabeth W. Blecker and Charles Blecker her husband and Augustus Coddington.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Sarah A. Cole is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complainant's bill on or before the twenty-fourth day of July, A. D., 1882, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Sheppard L. Stewart to James T. Wilson, and by him assigned to the said complainant, dated the eighteenth day of October, A. D., 1872, on lands situated in the city of Plainfield, county of Union and State of New Jersey, and that you Elizabeth W. Blecker, are made a defendant because it is therein alleged that you are the owner of the equity of redemption in said mortgaged premises; and you, Charles Blecker, are made a defendant because you are the husband of said Elizabeth W. Blecker, and as such, have or may claim to have some interest in the said mortgaged premises; and you, Augustus Coddington, are made a defendant because you with others, filed a lien claim upon said land and premises, which, if a lien at all, the complainant insists is subsequent to the date of the execution and delivery of her said mortgage and a lien subsequent to the lien of her said mortgage, dated May 22, 1882.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Ephraim E. Drake, Complainant, and Mrs. James W. Coles, et als., Defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on WEDNESDAY, THE NINETEENTH DAY OF JULY, A. D., 1882,

At two o'clock p. m. of said day, all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey.

Beginning at a point in Front street, in the line of John W. Laing's land, and corner of land now belonging to Caroline Rose; thence running along her line south forty-five degrees west one hundred and forty-six feet to a stake and corner of said Rose in William C. Ayres' line; thence running along his line a northeasterly course twenty-one feet six inches more or less to a corner of Peck's lot in Ayres' line; thence running north forty-five degrees west one hundred and forty-four feet more or less to a corner of Peck's lot in the middle of Front street; thence south fifty-two and a half degrees west twenty-one feet six inches more or less to the place of beginning. Excepting for the front commons being passed by the edge of the sidewalk five feet in width across the southeast end of said lot and to be left open to form one-half of a passageway from Mechanic street, to be left open for the use of the owners of adjoining properties, also granting the use of five feet on lands of William C. Ayres for the purposes of forming one-half said passageway. Being the same premises purchased at Sheriff's sale of the property of Lithell, at the suit of Ephraim E. Drake.

PROF. James Lyons' School for Boys closes to-day, and will reopen the first Monday in September.

A NUMBER of public auctions are advertised in this issue that seem to offer rare bargains of all sorts.

TO-NIGHT (Thursday) two weddings and two church-festivals are the dissipations that Plainfield offers.

THOSE desiring pleasant rooms, either with or without table board, should apply at this office for particulars.

THE pupils of Miss Burrows' North Plainfield Seminary, held the closing exercises of the past school term, last evening.

AN adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the U. & M. C. M. A. A., will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the grounds of the Association.

THE Potter Press Works, for the first time in many months, shut down on Friday last to allow the making of some necessary repairs to the boiler.

THE Plainfield Turn Vereins made application on Wednesday for admission into the State Association. They contemplate giving an excursion at an early date.

IT is said, on the authority of a Plainfield physician, that the unmended piece of roadway on Park avenue near Fifth street, caused the death of a lady recently.

COPIES of the complete score, words and music of Messrs Clark W. Evans' and J. J. Fox's comic opera, "Incog." may be found on sale at Howatt's and elsewhere.

THE tonsorial artist on Front street, Mr. Eugene Laine, has tastefully striped the telephone pole in front of his establishment according to the usage of his profession.

YOU who grumble, think of this: June 1881, had but three wholly clear days and only upon five occasions during the month did the thermometer register as high as 80 degrees.

THE P. H. S. Commencement will probably be held, this year, in the Crescent avenue church, and tickets of admission issued as usual.

THE old truck so long in use by the Zephyr H. & L. Co., was shipped from Plainfield on Saturday by the contractor to whom it was assigned in part payment for the new apparatus.

CONTRARY to reports of removal, Mrs. C. M. Fine is still established in the old Silliman residence at No. 36 West Front street, where she continues her increasing millinery business.

MESSRS. Green & Co., of Front street, are offering a very desirable article for porches and piazzas in the shape of a hammock-chair. They are comfortable and just the thing for summer use.

THE value of Hudson's phosphates as advertised elsewhere, was most satisfactorily proven to us recently by specimens of the magnificent strawberries that are grown by the help of these fertilizers.

AGAIN is Mr. Geo. W. Moore the Deputy Tax Collector, and as he is this time supported by the Council in the discharge of his duties, delinquents are to be pursued with vigor and effect.

MR. D. Hand is offering a sample barrel of oak kindling wood with every ton of coal purchased of him and is making a specialty of coal by the car load. He may be addressed at Box 1545, Plainfield post office.

THE gospel services held last Summer on the grounds of Mr. Paul J. Loizeaux, at the foot of Water street, will be resumed, D. V., next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. All are cordially invited to be present.

MR. Peter Osborn, recently, drove Nannie Johnson over his half-mile track a mile in 2:29½—the fastest time ever made over that course. The owner, Dr. H. C. Kugler, we hear, has sold the mare to a party in New York for $2,500.

ON Saturday, at Elizabeth, Mary Brown and Margaret Moore, alias Miller, were sentenced to three years in State Prison and costs, for larceny from the person of Peter Clawson. Full particulars of which occurrence were published in our issue of April 28th.

AS we go to press this (Thursday) evening, the members of St. Mary's church are holding a Festival and Sociable for the entertainment of themselves and friends, and to serve as a means to the formation of a personal and better acquaintance with the new pastor.

THE School Trustees of North Plainfield Township have purchased the Thom's lot on Somerset street where the new school building is to be erected. Plans and specifications will be received and examined in a few days, and a speedy commencement of the new edifice is intended.

THE pupils of Mrs. W. H. Griffen, the talented artist and teacher, will exhibit at her studio to-day, from 10 o'clock a. m., to 7 p. m., the productions of their taste and skill with the brush. The occasion will be a most interesting one, for which invitations have been issued by the class to its friends.

UNTIL the Special Committee on the examination of the books of the late Collector, make public the figures leading to the result it maintains and declares the foundation for its presumption of guilt, there is bound to be a difference of opinion in the community as to the deficiency asserted.

Mr. Luke G Lockwood, Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut, visited Anchor Lodge No. 149 of this city on Tuesday evening, and delivered an interesting and instructive discourse on the origin of Free Masonry. While in Plainfield, Mr. Lockwood was the guest of his relative, Prof. Jas. Lyon.

THE stone foundation and frame building on the Thoms' property, on Somerset street, is to be sold by Mr. Isaac Brokaw at public auction on Saturday afternoon between the hours of five and six o'clock. The lot having been purchased for the new School building, the sale above is ordered to remove the building now on the property.

THERE will be held in the New Market Baptist church on Saturday afternoon and evening of this week, a strawberry and ice-cream festival under the auspices of the Young People's Working Union. Admission will be free and all are cordially invited. If the day selected should be stormy, the festival will be postponed until Monday.

THE pupils of Mrs. Austins' Craig Place-school, who have arranged for a Fair in the school-rooms to-morrow for the benefit of the Children's Home, deserve great success as a reward of their generous labors. A quantity of handsome articles have been donated, which will be offered for sale, with ice cream and other refreshments.

THE Ice Cream and Strawberry Festival that commenced in the parlors of the M. E. church last evening, under the management of the young people of the congregation, will be continued this afternoon and evening. The affair is well arranged in every particular, and an hour's enjoyment of pleasing music and refreshments can readily be secured by attendance thereat.

THE many friends of Mr. H. W. Abbott, in this section will be gratified, undoubtedly, to learn that he has leased the popular City Hotel property in New Brunswick, and having re-fitted and refurnished the building in a handsome and comfortable manner, will be pleased to greet his friends and show them all the courtesies his business demands. "Harry" is an old hotel manager, and will no doubt make a success of this new venture of his.

THE members of the Warren Hose Co. No. 2., determined to make their picnic of Thursday next an orderly, merry and successful affair, besides being on the largest scale ever experienced in this vicinity. The dancing platform is to be immense, the quadrille band first-class, and the illumination of the Grove during the night is to outshine any previous attempt in such direction. No doubt a large gathering will attend these first out-door festivities of the season.

FOUR weeks from to-day, the Plainfield Saengerbund will start with their wives and friends on a most enjoyable sail up the East river to Hudson Grove and Echo Bay. The rapid railroad ride, the exhilarating journey by water past so many points of interest and the hours of varied pleasure spent amid the attractions and amusements of the picnic grounds, will combine in a day of complete enjoyment that you will regret missing should you stay at home.

Excursion to Fairmount Park.

The Sunday Schools of the various churches in Bound Brook have arranged for an excursion to Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, on Wednesday, 28th inst. This, we believe, is the first in that direction, at least from this locality; and with the natural and artificial attractions of the Park, many will undoubtedly avail themselves of the opportunity. Tickets have been placed at $1.25 for adults; $1 for children. Full particulars will appear in our advertising columns next issue.

Y. M. C. A.

At the last meeting of the Directors of the Y. M. C. A., the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Directors and members of this Association are due and are hereby tendered to the gentlemen, who, amid pressing claims upon their time and strength, have kindly given the Association the benefit of their skill and experience, in a series of "Health and Descriptive Talks" during the season just closing.

Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to procure the publication of these resolutions in the public newspapers of this city.

Off for Europe.

On Tuesday afternoon the steam-ship Arizona sailed from New York for Liverpool, bearing among its many passengers the Rev. A. H. Lewis, Mr. Chas. Potter Jr., and Geo. H. Babcock, Esq., of this city and the Rev. Dr. J. Allen of Alfred, N. Y. These gentlemen seek by a few weeks recreation amid the beauties and wonders of the Old World needed rest after months of labor in business pursuits and ministerial duties. Their departure was saddened, although at the same time gladdened, by the presence of relatives and friends, who with eyes suspiciously dim, yet with arms laden with magnificent floral offerings, wished the voyagers a happy journey and safe return.

One Year Ago.

Mr. Harry Lowry, son of the pastor of the Park avenue Baptist church, was ordained to the ministry, the ceremonies being performed in his father's church - - - - - Miss Margaret R. Newhall of the Crescent avenue church choir and Mr. Walter L. Vail, were married at New Market - - - - - The Rev. Thos. H. Stockton of the M. E. church, sailed for Europe - - - - - A little daughter was born to the Rev. and Mrs. A. V. V. Raymond of the Trinity Reformed church - - - - - The Congregationalists held a very successful out-door festival, in spite of the contrariness of the elements and tent - - - - - The body of a tramp clock-mender was found on the mountain back of Evona - - - - - Out of the first seventeen days in June, but two were fair or pleasant.

Firemen's Relief Association.

The Annual meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association took place at the parlors of Zephyr H. & L. Co., on Monday evening of last week, and the following officers were chosen for the coming year: President—Joseph A. Hubbard; Vice President—Wm. H. Voorhees; Secretary—Nathaniel M. Sebring; Treasurer—Alx. D. Mallinson. Relief Committee—Messrs A. D. Jennings, Frank Whitely and A. L. Force. Finance Committee—N. M. Sebring, Wm. H. Voorhees and W. Krauss. The Treasurer reported as balance on had at beginning of year, $1,298 26; receipts, $786 02; disbursements $1,104 35—leaving a balance in the treasury of $908 93, besides which the Association owns bonds and mortgages amounting to $2,000. A committee was appointed to decide on the time and place for holding an excursion under the management of the Association, and report regarding the expense at a future meeting.

Laing's Hotel.

This well-known popular family hotel has recently been greatly improved. It has been repainted, refitted and refurnished throughout in a tasteful and elegant manner, and now offers greater inducements to guests and Summer boarders than ever before. It has broad halls, spacious apartments and high ceilings, and being provided with all the conveniences, is, without exception, the most pleasant and home-like house in this vicinity. The dining hall, where everything is abundantly provided, is large and airy, and lighted by windows on two sides, is made attractive and inviting by handsomely arranged tables and decorations. Nothing is left undone to make the stay of the guests pleasant and agreeable by the courteous proprietor, Mr. Joseph B. Miller, a gentleman of business tact and experience in catering to the public requirements, and knowing exactly how to meet, in every respect, the tastes of people of refinement and discernment, conducts the house in the same liberal manner that has always made it popular as a family hotel and Summer resort.

We Wonder!

When Plainfield is to have a Public Hall.

Where the P. H. S. Commencement will be held.

Why Plainfield ladies wear such unbecoming hats.

Who the Bound Brook Chronicle means by the "pen man."

When that dangerous fire-alarm belltower is to be rebuilt.

What Plainfield will do to celebrate the GLORIOUS FOURTH.

Why the Janitor of the Council room is not allowed to carry the key.

When the Janitor intends to wash the drinking glasses on the reporter's table.

Whether the price of gas would have been reduced if prospective competition had not arisen.

Who will be President of the United States when the "Brown Girls" get out of State Prison.

What the Plainfield Chess Club has to say in reply to the charge made in a communication printed elsewhere.

Who will believe ex-Collector Clark deficient in his accounts, without better proof than an expert's presumption.

Whether the Council will accede to the public demand and publish the statement on which is founded the assertion that the late Collector of Taxes, is deficient in his accounts.

Who would be so foolish as to pick up the wrong package in market, and after leaving it on the ice all night open it the next morning and prepare to broil for breakfast——a cast iron stove leg.

The Seminary Exercises.

On Friday morning of last week, at Miss Kenyon's Seminary for Young Ladies, on Seventh street, the exercises customary at the close of the term were begun by the younger pupils who rendered for the entertainment of the large attendance present, a programme of varied attainments.

On Monday at the same place the Annual Commencement occurred, and the Misses Ada Marsh, May Tomlinson, Belle McKeage and Laura Sandford, composing the graduating class, completed their course of study at the institute. Miss Marsh's portion of the exercises included an instrumental performance that was but an additional proof of her talent as a musician, and the delivery of a valedictory that evidenced remarkable literary ability and thorough culture. Miss Tomlinson's essay was the result of a careful training of the mind and effective study; while Miss Sandford showed in her composition a thorough appreciation of the progress of the present generation and the attainable issues of the future. Miss McKeage favored the audience with a recitation that reflected great credit upon her elocutionary powers and those of her tutor.

Besides these successes of the graduates, Miss Beulah Ketcham, the valedictorian of the P. H. S. Senior class of last year, read an originally essay of interest, as did also Miss Eva Porter of the Junior Class of the Seminary. The Misses Van Name, Dederick and Porter executed most acceptably some difficult piano selections, and Miss Tiffany recited a very pleasing poem.

The exercises closed with the presentation of diplomas to the graduates by the Rev. A. H. Lewis, followed by one of that gentleman's addresses so unequalled in rhetorical effect and fluency. The floral offerings to the fair pupils were unusually handsome, and the tasteful dressing of the rooms surpassed many like attempts. The attendance gathered included the highest class of Plainfield's society, and its loudly expressed applause was at times deservedly flattering.

During Tuesday evening, the rooms were filled with a most select and refined gathering, in all the splendor and studied elegance of evening dress. As is, of course, the correct thing, this audience with every appearance of sincere enjoyment, sat through an intensely classical, decidedly tedious, and partially perfect programme of vocal and instrumental music. The singers displayed laudable aspiration in their selections, and with commendable effort rendered them to the best of their ability. The piano performances were, as a whole, more acceptable, and in the cases of Miss Marsh and Miss Van Name exceedingly commendable. The former displayed a natural talent that was enviable, and a beauty of touch seldom attained so early in life.

Following the close of the programme was an evening of dance, the pleasures of which were indulged in by a large number.

Notice.

Warren Eng. Co. No. 2, of which Mr. C. A. Foote was a member, is hereby notified to attend the funeral of its deceased brother.

An Extraordinary Sale.

The most desirably situated building lots ever offered at auction in this city, are those advertised by A. J. Bleecker & Son, to be sold on the premises at Eighth near Division streets, to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock. These lots are in the immediate vicinity of some of the handsomest residences in Plainfield, and in a neighborhood that is particularly attractive for the purpose of private building. The highest class of improvements surround this valuable property, and even as a speculation no greater bargain has been publicly offered.

Personalia.

Miss "Louie" Nodyne, niece of Justice Nodyne, of this city, entered into a matrimonial engagement with Mr. Peter H. Bennett on Thursday last. The happy couple started on a bridal tour after the ceremony, which was performed at the residence of the bride's aunt, on 5th street.

Peter Wooden, Esq., of North Plainfield, has just graded and opened a very handsome thoroughfare running from Emily street to Park place and being between Somerset and Duer streets.

Mr. R. MacDonald, on Saturday last, purchased of Mr. Abraham Runyon the former Langley property on Front street. The price paid was $5,000.

Owing to the serious illness of Collins, eldest son of the pastor of the Crescent avenue church, Mrs. Bliss was compelled to postpone the entertainment of the teachers of the Sunday school, she had intended on Tuesday evening last.

Mr. John Taylor Johnston and family are again occupying their summer residence on Front street.

The many friends of Mr. John Ulrich will congratulate him in having received his Diploma from the Supreme Court as Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery. Mr. Ulrich is the only lawyer, within the circle of many miles, who is thoroughly familiar and conversant with the German language, and the Germans will certainly feel gratified to know that they can avail themselves of the opportunity in stating their wants and troubles to one who is acquainted with their mother tongue. Mr. Ulrich has been a resident of Plainfield for several years and has the reputation of being a very thorough and able speaker. Should he apply his eloquence in demonstrating the doctrines of law as well as he does in other matters, which interest him, his friends can assure him a brilliant and successful career.

Mr. Freeman Shotwell and party have postponed their contemplated trip for a few weeks in consequence of the illness of the son of Mrs. Joseph Vail.

As we go to press we learn of the death of Mr. C. Albert Foote, of this city. The deceased was attacked with the measles about three weeks ago, which disease terminated in bowel consumption. Despite the best of medical skill and faithful nursing, the sufferer gradually became weaker and typhoid fever setting in on Wednesday resulted fatally and relieved him of suffering. Deceased was 33 years and 5 months of age and leaves a young wife to mourn his loss. He was a member of Plainfield Lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F., the Knights of Pythias and Warren Eng. Co. No. 2 and was highly esteemed in the community in which he has resided for a number of years.

The funeral will take place from the First Presbyterian Church on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will be in charge of his brother Odd Fellows.

They Say

That the Plainfield Chess Club is invincible.

That the Firemen's Parade next Fall is to be particularly fine.

That the Union Club is organized on a substantial foundation.

That the city is—some time—to be supplied with "water gas."

That Plainfield needs a public hall and is to have one—probably.

That the Seminary audience of Tuesday evening, was a "swell" gathering.

That editor Runkle of the Flemington Democrat is an admirer of school-marms.

That the M. E. Church Festival that closes this evening, is unusually successful.

That a water supply monopoly will not be granted by the present Council, at least.

That the P. H. S. Commencement of this year, will be fully as brilliant as former ones.

That delinquent tax-payers must settle up, or beware of Special Deputy Collector Policeman George W. Moore.

That the Council should substantiate its charge against ex-Collector Clark by a publication of a full statement in relation.

That North Plainfield is to have one of the most convenient, comfortable and commodious public school buildings in the State.

That the only drawback to the pleasures of the Rev. A. H. Lewis' European trip, will be the brevity of his berth aboard ship.

The Black Bass season opened in New Jersey June 1st. The weather and muddy condition of the streams which this gamey fish inhabits, however, prevented the disciples of old Isaak Walton from capturing many of those delectable fish on the opening day. Since then, we have heard of many good catches throughout the State in favorite localities by those who "know how" and are not afraid of water. One party of two from this city, who are "vets" in the business, failed to get even a bite on June 1st, but a week later succeeded in alluring from their native element, fourteen fine black bass, ranging in weight from 1½ to 3 lbs, besides numerous other members of the finny tribe. Great sport is anticipated by anglers from all parts of the State during the present season for bass. Another plea that Fish Protective Societies are good institutions.

Shad fishing with nets closed on the 10th of June. Parties now violating the law must not grumble if they are caught in the act and "hauled up."

Council Proceedings.

Adjourned meeting—More Vehicles Licensed—Another Remonstrance against the Telephone Poles—Geo. W. Moore to Collect the Delinquent Taxes—The Examining Committee still insists that the Accounts of ex-Collector Clark are Deficient—The Question of Water Works—Money to be Borrowed in anticipation of the Collection of Taxes—All Audited Bills Ordered Paid.

MONDAY EVENING, June 12th, 1882.

The Council met in adjourned meeting.

Present—Pres. Rushmore and Messrs. Depew, Gardiner, Ginna, Lindsley, Livingston, Newhall, R. Simpson and Thompson—9.

Absent—Messrs. Kaufman and J. Simpson—2.

Minutes of regular meeting of June 5th, read and approved.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

By Mr. R. Simpson, for a crosswalk at the corner of Central avenue and Third street. Ref'd.

By Mr. Gardiner, applications of A. Utsinger and D. J. Marshall for Hack licenses, John Vail for cart license and Edw. Ashton for pedler's license. Ref'd.

By Mr. Depew, a remonstrance against the erection of telephone poles on Madison avenue east of Eighth street.

Ref'd to Com. on Streets with instructions to see that no poles were erected except where the written consent of the property owner had been obtained.

By Mr. Ginna, a communication from the Messrs. Pierson, in relation to their proposed introduction of Water Gas into the city of Plainfield.

Ref'd to Com. on Laws and Ordinances.

By Mr. R. Simpson, the application of Daniel Hibbits for a hack license. Ref'd.

By same, claims of J. S. Cutter, $77.11.

By Mr Thompson, claim of James Maynard, $5.

By Mr. Newhall, claim of D. J. Boice, $61.65.

All of above claims referred to the proper committees.

By President Rushmore, a communication from the Mayor, nominating Geo. W. Moore as special policeman.

On motion of Mr. Ginna, nomination confirmed. All aye.

Also a communication from the Mayor appointing Geo. W. Moore, as the officer to receive and execute all warrants for the collection of taxes.

Moved by Mr. Ginna, seconded by Mr. Lindsley, that the appointment be confirmed and Geo. W. Moore be designated as the officer for such purpose.

Carried; all aye.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES,

By Mr. Ginna, the following:

The Special Committee to whom was referred the statement of the late Collector L. E. Clark, presented to the Council, June 5th, 1882, beg to report that they have examined same and all vouchers presented by Mr. Clark and are unable to substantiate his claim. Nor do they find anything additional to essentially affect their original report of examination of these accounts made June 5th, 1882.

Plainfield, June 12th, 1882.

E. A. GINNA,
HENRY M. NEWHALL, } Special Com.
HENRY LINDSLEY.

By Mr. Thompson:

Resolved, That the report of the Special Committee be received, and this with their original report and all statements and papers bearing upon this examination of the late Collector L. E. Clark's accounts and the Township accounts be referred to them; and they are hereby empowered and directed to consult the Corporation Counsel, and in conjunction with him take such legal action looking to the recovery of the money therein shown to be due the city, as in their judgment may be to the best interests of the city.

Adopted; all present voting aye.

By Mr. Newhall, from Special Com. on Water question, requesting authority to employ such practical assistance as may be required to determine the sanitary effect on the city, of introducing a water supply without sewerage.

Messrs. Depew, Lindsley and Thompson thought that as the Council had no power to grant the privilege in the form of a monopoly as petitioned, there was no necessity of incurring the expense of such an investigation.

Mr. Newhall considered it would be a matter of general interest to understand what would be the effect, apart from any application for the privilege of introducing the system.

After including a clause, limiting the expense incurred to $100, the request of the Com. was granted. All voting aye.

Mr. Newhall from Alms Com., reported its disapproval of the claim of A. V. Searing, as certain items contained in it as furnished the city's poor, were not allowed by the ordinance.

Clerk instructed to return the bill to the claimant.

By the same, other bills against the Poor Fund. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

By Mr. Livingston, from License Com., its approval of the several applications for hack, cart and pedlers' licenses. Applications taken up separately and granted.

By Mr. Ginna, from Printing Com., as correct the claims of M. Estil, $22.37; E. O. Chamberlin, 50.10 and W. L. Force & Bro, 77. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Mr. Ginna, a resolution requiring Geo. W. Moore, the officer designated to receive and execute all warrants for the collection of taxes, to enter into a bond with security in the sum of $1,000, to be approved by the Com. on Laws and Ordinances.

Adopted; all aye.

By the same:

Resolved, That in view of the necessity of pressing with vigor the collection of all delinquent taxes, this Council will support the special Collector, Geo. W. Moore, in the discharge of his duties, and will indemnify him and his bondsmen against all liability that may be incurred in the bona fide discharge of the duties of the said office and that he be directed to advise with the Laws and Ordinances Committee and with the Corporation Counsel from time to time touching the discharge of his duties.

Seconded by Mr. Thompson, and adopted; all aye.

By Mr. Ginna, a series of resolutions directing the City Judge to issue his warrants to Geo. W. Moore, for the collection of sundry delinquencies of taxes.

Voted on separately and carried, with instruction to the Clerk to furnish a copy of the same to City Judge.

By the same, that the resolution adopted at the last meeting, directing the City Treasurer to draw a warrant for $25 to the order of the City Judge, be rescinded.

Carried, all aye.

By the same, a resolution empowering City Judge Runyon to pay out of the fines received by him such sums as may be required for the current expenses of his court.

Objected to by Mr. Lindsley and adopted by the following vote:

Affirmative—President Rushmore and Messrs. Ginna, Livingston, Newhall, R. Simpson and Thompson—6.

Negative—Messrs. Depew, Gardner and Lindsley—3.

By Mr. Depew, a resolution empowering the Mayor and City Treasurer to borrow $8,000 from the First National Bank, in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

Adopted; all aye.

By the same, a resolution providing that warrants be drawn for the payment of all bills against the General Fund, audited and tabled, amounting to $8,047.66.

Adopted; all aye.

Also, to the same effect regarding claims against the Poor Fund, amounting to $619.45.

Adopted; all aye.

Also a resolution, that $136.31 be transferred from the State and County account to the Poor Fund, to make up amount necessary for the payment of above claims.

Adopted; all aye.

Also a resolution, that the bill of J. A. Hubbard $591, for assessing State and County taxes, be taken from the table and the City Treasurer be directed to pay the same out of the State and County account.

Adopted; all aye.

The Council then adjourned.

COMMUNICATED.

MESSRS EDITORS:—

ELIZABETH, June 12th, 1882.

In your report of the recent match between the Elizabeth and Plainfield Chess Clubs, it is stated that the former strengthened its forces in an illegitimate manner by the importation of three New York players. In behalf of the Elizabeth Club, I desire to say that such action has never been approved by its members, and that they have merely been forced to follow the bad example set by the Plainfield Club on the occasion of the first match, a year ago. At that time we entered only our regular playing members, and on that occasion owed our defeat, as I fully believe, to the fact that Plainfield's strongest representative was imported for the sole purpose of playing in that match. Had we been aware of it at the time, we should doubtless have protested against the admission of an outside player as a matter of precedent. We would all prefer that both sides be represented by their recognized members, but we are satisfied that we have been fairly beaten, and I regret that any incident should have occurred to mar the individual friendships which have sprung up between the members of both clubs. While there is no excuse for interference with games in progress, I will say that the practice of adjourning an unfinished game was inaugurated at our first meeting and might have been adopted on the last occasion, had it been necessary. Very Respectfully,

R. W. FORD,
Pres. Elizabeth Chess Club.

TO-DAY and to-morrow are the longest days of the year.

The Very Ones.

The Mayor has nominated the gentlemen named below as a committee to act with himself in such direction as may best seem to insure the erection of a public hall and library building in this city: Jacob Kirkner, Mason W. Tyler, Rev. E. P. Ketcham, Wm. E. Lowe, Geo. H. Babcock, Alexander Gilbert, Henry E. Carroll and A. L. Force.

Ex-Collector Clark's Bondsmen.

As proceedings will probably be speedily instituted to recover the amount of deficiency said to exist in the accounts of the late City Collector, it is of general interest to know who have been that officer's bondsmen during past years. Mr. Mulford Cole was such a one during the years 1878, '79, '80 and '81; Mr. Jno. Wilson during 1878 and '79; Mr. John H. French during 1880, and Mr. Elias R. Pope during 1880 and '81.

To worry about any Liver or Kidney trouble, especially Bright's Disease or Diabetes, as Hop Bitters never fails of a cure where a cure is possible. We know this.

Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Diabetes and other diseases of the Kidneys and Liver, which you are being so frightened about, Hop Bitters is the only thing that will surely and permanently prevent and cure. All other pretended cures only relieve for a time and then make you many times worse.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. This is not talk but truth. One pill a dose. To be had of all druggists. See advertisement.

WE USUALLY LEAVE IT TO DOCTORS to recommend medicines, but Parker's Ginger Tonic has been so useful in our family in relieving sickness and suffering, that we cannot say too much in its praise.—[Salem Argus.]

MANY WONDER How Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it simply an essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ. See other column.

HOW TO SECURE HEALTH.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, skin, etc. It corrects indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man and Beast. For use externally and internally.

DR. ROGER'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP instantly destroys worms and removes the Secretions which cause them.

$1500 per year can be easily made at home working for E. G. Rideout & Co., 10 Barclay St., New York. Send for their catalogue and full particulars. a11y1

ROSE COLD AND HAY FEVER.

Messrs. White & Burdick, Druggists, Ithaca, N. Y.—I can recommend Ely's Cream Balm to relieve all persons suffering from Rose Cold and Hay Fever. I have been a great sufferer from these complaints; by using the Balm have had great relief. I have recommended it to many of my friends for Catarrh, and in all cases where they have used the Balm freely have been cured. —T. KENNEY, Dry Goods Merchant, Ithaca, N. Y. Messrs. Wm. Rust & Sons, Druggists, New Brunswick, N. J. Since boyhood I have been troubled with Catarrh and Hay Fever, and have been unable to obtain permanent relief until I used Ely's Cream Balm, which has cured me. After a few days use I could sleep all night.—E. L. Chaowner, New Brunswick, N. J. Price 50 cents. Apply into nostrils with little finger.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water, and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which Sulphur, Sugar of Lead, and Nitrate of Silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggist for it. Each bottle is warranted. SMITH, KLINE & CO., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and C. N. CRITTENTON, New York. ja16-ly

The Premium Horse!

SPARTAN, JR.
SPARTAN, JR., is a bright bay, 16 hands, foaled May 1, 1877, of superb style and trotting action, correctly gaited, with the finish and appearance of the highest type of the gentleman's roadster. He has won for himself a reputation which has no peer in the State. He has taken a first premium in State and County; when four years old, in 1881, he took First State Special at Waverly Park of $100, over 16 competitors, of all ages, for best stallion standing in the State. Gentlemen wishing to raise stock, either for speed, road or coach will find the three combined in this promising young horse, also the best crosses that America or England can produce. Lovers of fine stock are invited to call and see this beautiful young horse.
PEDIGREE:
SPARTAN, JR., was sired by Spartan (record 2:24), grandsire Ethan Allen (record 2:15), never beaten in double harness.
Spartan, Jr.'s 1st dam was the noted mare Hattie, sired by Nelson, she took First State Special Prize at New Jersey State Agricultural Society in 1878 and 1879 of $100 each, best family of colts in the State. 2d dam by Fiddler, (record 2:30) [illegible], never beaten, he by Monmouth Eclipse, son of American Eclipse. 3d dam by Bolivar, son of Winchester.
Spartan's dam was a thoroughbred running mare by Lexington; Ethan Allen's 1st dam by Vermont Hambletonian; 2d dam Parish Hambletonian; 3d dam by Long's Tornado, he by American Eclipse.
Terms $30 to insure. Money to be paid when mare proves with foal. Will make the season of 1882 at the Stock Farm of R. & L. V. D. Shepherd, Bound Brook, N. J.

CHAPTER CLXXXVIII.

An Act for the support of the State Reform School for Boys.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That to enable the trustees of the State Reform School for Boys to defray the necessary expenses for the maintenance of said school, and for the erection of an additional family house, the sum of six thousand dollars is hereby appropriated, which the treasurer of the state is hereby directed to pay to the order of the trustees upon the warrant of the comptroller.

2 And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

CHAPTER CLXXXIX.

An Act to provide for the appointment of commissioners to determine upon plans for the storage of any of the waters of this state for the purpose of furnishing to cities and towns a joint water supply.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be appointed by the governor four commissioners, for the purposes hereinafter named, who shall serve without pay, and whose expenses shall be paid as hereinafter set forth.

2. And be it enacted, That said four commissioners shall, after appointment, immediately organize as a commission, select officers, and shall choose a fifth commissioner, who shall be a hydraulic engineer and who shall serve with said commissioners and be one of them, and he shall be entitled to pay, for each day of actual service, in such compensation as shall be agreed upon between said four commissioners and himself at the time of his selection by them.

3. And be it enacted, That said commissioners when applied to as hereinafter set forth, shall consider and determine upon such plans as they may deem most practicable for the storage of any of the waters of this state for the purpose of furnishing any of the cities and towns of this state with a good and sufficient water supply.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the board of aldermen or other governing body of any cities or towns in this state, to apply to said commissioners to consider and determine upon the best practicable plan for supplying said cities and towns with a joint water supply, and the expenses of said commission in determining upon the same shall be borne and paid jointly by the said cities and towns so applying, in proportion to the number of inhabitants of each of said cities and towns as shown by the last United States census; said commissioners shall from time to time, or when applied to therefor by any board of aldermen or other governing body of any of said cities and towns, make a statement in writing of their expenses in and about their said work, and shall proportion the same to the several cities and towns in the manner as aforesaid; said statement shall be certified to by the president and secretary of said commission, and upon presentation of the same to the said board of aldermen or other governing body, it shall be lawful for and be the duty of said board of aldermen, or other governing body, to pay the same out of any moneys or funds from the contingent expenses of any such cities or towns are generally paid.

5. And be it enacted, That said commissioners shall be empowered to engage engineers and such other assistants as they may deem necessary for the prosecution of their work, and make surveys, plans and estimates of the best practicable source, means, manner and the expenses attendant thereon, for furnishing any such cities and towns with a joint water supply, and they shall submit the same to each of the boards of aldermen, or other governing body of such cities and towns so applying to them, and said board of aldermen or other governing body shall submit said surveys, plans and estimates to the municipal board in said city or town, controlling the supply and distribution of water, and if said board of aldermen or other governing body, and said board controlling the supply and distribution of water concur in the acceptance of any of said surveys, plans and estimates, submitted by the said commissioners, the said board of aldermen or other governing body, shall cause said acceptance to be signified to said commissioners in writing, who shall upon receiving the acceptance of a majority of the boards of aldermen or other governing bodies of such cities and towns cause a bill to be drawn embodying their recommendations, and shall present the same for passage to the legislature of this state at its next session; and said commissioners shall give due notice by publication, as required by law, of their intention to apply to the legislature for the passage of such bill.

2 And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

CHAPTER CXC.

An Act for the relief of the heirs of Benjamin F. Young, deceased.

Whereas, Benjamin F Young, second lieutenant of Company F, sixth regiment, national guards of the state of New Jersey, while in actual service of the state at what was known as the railroad riots, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, contracted a disease of which he died; and whereas, said Benjamin F. Young has left a widow and two minor children in indigent circumstances;

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there be paid to the heirs of said Benjamin F. Young, as aforesaid, in quarterly payments from the treasury of the state, the same pension they would have been entitled to receive under the law of this state if he had been killed in actual service; that the adjutant general shall certify the service, the death and the pension to the comptroller of the treasury, and the comptroller shall audit the same, and the treasurer shall pay the same, and the pension shall commence from the date on which said Benjamin F. Young died, and as soon as a guardian shall be appointed by the courts of this state for said minor children.

2. And be it enacted that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1882.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS.

[OFFICIAL.]

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 25, 1882.

Pursuant to adjournment the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, met on Thursday, May 25, 1882, at 2 p. m.

Present—Director Martine and Freeholders Briant, Clark, Doty, Eller, Haliday, Hubbard, Husbands, Lehmann, Mapes, Newbury, Oliver, Smith, Stover, Thompson, White—16.

Absent—Freeholder Runkle.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and on motion adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Director, having called Freeholder Hubbard to the chair, proceeded to read the following communication:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN—

As your Board is about starting out upon a new year it may be desirable that you should know, and through you the people of the county be informed, as to amount, condition, &c., of unpaid taxes at this time.

The amount due the county at present is $40,099.25 from one city and one township.

One year ago it was $53,126.24, due from two cities and two townships.

There is now due from the city of Rahway $36,099.36, not including interest, and $4,000 from Summit, not including interest.

The matter of Summit is of long standing, and suit was commenced for its collection. At their earnest solicitation the suit was stayed until the township could either issue bonds or pay the amount of the last tax levy. They have failed to do either, but have sold property enough to cover the amount. With the proceeds of this sale they propose to liquidate the debt, but litigation has from time to time interfered. I have recently written to them in regard to the matter, but failed to get any response. It is now for the Board to say if suit shall be again started.

In the case of Rahway, [illegible] suits are under way, and in charge of Judge Gilhooly, late County Attorney.

It appears to me that the city of Rahway is very remiss in her duties and obligations to the other cities and townships of the county, as the following will show:

Amount of county tax, Rahway's quota for 1879, 1880 and 1881		$38,706 52
Amount of money paid the county on those years	$22,000 00
Amount of money paid the state by the county on account of Rahway	19,390 74
Amount applicable to the county tax on those 3 years		2,608 96
Amount still due on 1879, 1880 & 1881,		$36,099 36

Only $869.75 per year for three years toward the payment of $38,706.52, less than 7 per cent on the three tax levies.

In those three years there has been paid by the county to the citizens of Rahway, on four accounts only, the following sums:

Amounts paid Freeholders		$1,330 38
Amounts paid for bridges	$5,894 52
Amounts less paid to parties outside the city	2,000 00
		$3,894 52
Amounts paid Justices and Constables		116 58
		$5,341 48
And to support the pauper or indigent insane at Morris Plains		4,142 56
In all on 4 accounts.		$9,484 04

It does seem in all fairness they should have contributed at least this amount towards defraying these local expenditures, instead of which they are fighting the mandamus suits (at considerable cost) and paying the county an average of 2½ per cent on her tax levy. Can it be possible they collect no more than that?

This trouble arises in a great measure and generally from officials departing from the plain letter and spirit of the tax law. As long as city and township collectors or treasurers, either of their own volition or by instruction of their local authorities, use the first money collected for local purposes, which is contrary to law, and directly in the face of many opinions that the "state and county have a priority claim on all taxes collected," or receive city or township warrants for taxes, we must expect these uncollected balances to continue a detriment to the state and county, and as in this instance a serious question and hardship to the citizens of the city or township where those in authority allow it to occur.

Most respectfully,
C. W. L. MARTINE,
Director.

Freeholder Doty moved the communication be received and spread upon the minutes.

Which was carried.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

From Committee on Collector's Bond:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN—

Your committee to take collector's bond beg leave to report that they have examined the bond herewith submitted, and the sureties offered, and find the bond to be a copy of the bonds for the last two years, correct and satisfactory to your committee. All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. J. HALIDAY,
THOS. WHITE,
WM. M. OLIVER,
Committee.

Elizabeth, May 25, 1882.

Freeholder Hubbard moved the report be received and placed on file, and that the bond be deposited with the county clerk.

Which was carried.

From Committee on Public Buildings:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN—

Your Committee on Buildings beg leave to inform the Board that they have looked into the matter recommended for action in the last annual report of this committee, namely, the laying of a new floor in the jail and the enlargement of the surrogate's office, the building of a fire-proof, etc. As to the laying of floor in the jail it is an immediate necessity, and as the material was procured last month we have taken action to have the work done at once. As to the Surrogate's office, if it is deemed advisable the Board should take immediate action before the yearly appropriation is made. It is estimated that the cost of a fire-proof 4½x9 or 10 feet, built up from the cellar and arched between floor and beams at the top, with hollow walls, will cost about $1,000. We would add that this fire-proof seems to be an absolute necessity for the safety of the large accumulation of papers in the office, and with the addition of a private office the accommodations will be all that are required for many years to come.

We therefore recommend for your action the resolution herewith submitted.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. H. BRIANT,
GEORGE W. DOTY,
WILLIAM J. THOMPSON,
Committee.

Elizabeth, May 25, 1882.

On motion received and ordered on file.

From Committee on Bonds:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN:—

Your Committee on Bonds would respectfully report that we did find bonds maturing in the present year to the amount of $132,400 and one $500 bond past due not yet presented, making in all $132,900 to be provided for.

Two thousand dollars of one issue falls due in July, $4,000 of another issue in October, and $1,400 of still another issue in January next. We advise that provision be made for their payment.

The next is an issue of $25,000, falling due January 1st. We recommend the payment of $2,000, renewing $23,000, $5,000 to fall due January 1st, 1892, and $18,000 to fall due January 1st, 1893.

The next is an issue of $100,000 (the last of the original issues) falling due April 1st, 1882. As the law requires the retirement of at least 10 per cent. we recommend that $90,000 of this issue be renewed and made to fall due as follows:

$14,000	to fall due April 1st,	1894
$14,000	" " " "	1895
$12,000	" " " "	1896
$16,000	" " " "	1897
$16,000	" " " "	1898
$16,000	" " " "	1899
$2,000	" " " "	1900

thus making, with those already payable in those years, $20,000 in each year.

This will require an appropriation this year of $20,900.

After these bonds are placed the total amount outstanding will be $287,000, the amounts falling due each year from 1883 to 1899 will be from $21,000 to $23,000, excepting the year 1899, in which year $29,000 will come due, and $2,000 in 1900.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE W. DOTY,
J. F. HUBBARD,
WM. M. OLIVER,
Committee.

On motion received and ordered on file.

From Committee on Appropriations.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN:

Your committee appointed to examine and report the amounts to be raised and appropriated for county expenses for the present year, would respectfully report that, after careful consideration of the subject, comparing appropriations with expenditures of former years, have fixed upon the following amounts to each account:

The tax levy must necessarily be larger than last year, from the fact that we have $132,400 bonds falling due in six different issues, and the law requires the payment of at least 10 per cent of each issue, and the Bond Committee have advised the payment of $20,900. Our Court account is gradually increasing in amount, and at the recent session of the Legislature a law was enacted compelling counties sending prisoners to State Prison to pay the cost of transportation, as well as the bill of costs in each case. This will add materially to that account. Our patients at the asylum at Morris Plains are also increasing. Over these accounts, as well as many others, we have no control. Most of them are fixed by law, yet we are compelled to make appropriations to each account sufficient to meet all requirements. Most of the accounts are very uncertain as to the amounts that may be required for twelve months hence. $27,000 or $28,000 has thus far been ample for Courts, but with paying costs and transportation to State Prison, and a protracted and important trial might run it up much beyond these figures. $5,000 has never been exceeded for Jail, for Lunacy $18,000 has been sufficient, but each year adds materially to the number to be supported; for Coroners, $500 may be ample, yet $1200 might be required. Many other expenditures are equally uncertain.

For the last four or five years we have been compelled to live very close up to our appropriations, seldom having over $2000 left over all told, in view of the law which makes it a "malfeasance in office" punishable by a heavy fine and imprisonment for "disbursing moneys or incurring obligations in excess of appropriations." It is for the Board to say if it is not wise to slightly increase appropriations, as the population and business of the county increases.

The evil of former years is still apparent in the large amount of taxes unpaid. The levies such as this in times past was often made upon the theory that the amount ordered should be sufficiently large, so that the proportion collected, should be ample to meet the demands of the county, and also meet the requirements of the State. Your committee abandon that theory, and would recommend that we appropriate to the current expenses of the county, $47,100 of the assets now due the county, and the balance, $125,000, be raised by taxation, and the amount be apportioned as follows:

I. Current expenses, to wit:
1st. For Courts	$32,000
2d. For County Jail	5,000
3d. For Lunatics	20,000
4th. For Compensation and lawful expenses of Chosen Freeholders, and Committees and salaries of their officers	7,000
5th. For fees of Coroners	700
6th. For elections	1,800
7th. For Stationery	1,300
8th. For advertising, publishing and printing	2,300
9th. For incidental expenses and schools	4,300
II. Debt and interest, to wit:
1st. Payment of principal of bonded debt	20,900
2d. Payment of interest on bonded debt	27,000
3d. Payment of temporary loans	31,000
4th. Payment of Bank interest on temporary loans	3,000
III. Public works:
1st. Permanent improvement of public buildings and grounds	5,000
2d. Erection and repair of culverts and bridges	11,000
	$172,100
Less a portion of taxes due from Cities and Townships	47,100
Total amount to be raised by taxation	$125,000

We herewith submit the proper resolution to be passed upon.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

From Committee on Line Bridge, Union and Somerset:

To the Union County Board of Freeholders County of Union:

GENTLEMEN—

Your committee, appointed at the last meeting of the Board to report "as to the necessity and probable cost of a bridge over Green Brook, between the counties of Union and Somerset, on line of Fanwood and Plainfield," would respectfully report: That at a meeting of the joint committees at the bridge in question, and after a careful examination, the conclusions arrived at were: First, That the present bridge is unsafe. Second, That it is too much decayed to warrant any expenditure in repairs. We would therefore recommend that the present superstructure be taken down and a new A truss iron stringers, white oak or Georgia pine bridge be built at a cost not to exceed $650, and that the abutments and wing walls be properly repaired, coping the wing walls with stone. All of which is respectfully submitted.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Appropriation Committee:

Resolved, By the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, that the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand ($125,000) dollars be raised by tax for the use of said county, for the year 1882, to be appropriated together with forty-seven thousand one hundred ($47,100) dollars of the uncollected taxes and assets of the county for the following purposes:

I. Current expenses, to wit:
1st. For Courts	$32,000
2d. For County Jail	5,000
3d. For Lunatics	20,000
4th. For compensation and lawful expenses of Chosen Freeholders, and committees and salaries of their officers	7,000
5th. For fees of Coroners	700
6th. For Elections	1,800
7th. For Stationery	1,300
8th. For advertising, publishing and printing	2,300
9th. For incidental expenses and schools	4,300
II. Debt and interest, to wit:
1st. Payment of principal of bonded debt	20,900
2d. Payment of interest on bonded debt	27,000
3d. Payment of temporary loans	31,000
4th. Payment of bank interest on temporary loans	3,000
III. Public Works.
1st. Permanent improvement of public buildings and grounds	5,000
2d. Erection and repair of culverts and bridges	11,000
	$172,100
Less a portion of taxes due from Cities and Townships	47,100
Total amount to be raised by taxation	$125,000

To be assessed and collected in the manner and at the times prescribed by the laws for the assessment and collection of taxes for the use of the State, and the laws for the assessment and collection of taxes in the cities of Elizabeth, Plainfield and Rahway, in said county, respectively; and that the Board hereby direct the Assessors of the respective townships and wards in said county to assess the said sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand ($125,000) dollars on the inhabitants and their estates, agreeable to the law for the time being for the raising of money by taxation for the use of the State of New Jersey; and that the said Assessors meet at the Court House in the city of Elizabeth, on the third Monday in July next at 10 o'clock a. m., to adjust and ascertain the proportion of said sum to be levied in each township and ward in said county; and that the Clerk of the Board send a copy of this resolution to each of said Assessors.

Freeholder Hubbard moved that the resolution be adopted as a whole.

Which was carried by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Briant:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to meet with a committee of Freeholders from Morris County, to report as to the necessity and probable cost of a bridge at Pages' Mills, Summit township.

On motion adopted.

By Freeholder Hubbard:

Resolved, That the Director and County Collector be authorized, in their official capacity, to make temporary loans to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars for the use of the county, in anticipation of taxes.

On motion adopted by a unanimous vote.

By the Building Committee:

Resolved, That the Building Committee is hereby authorized to add to the Surrogate's office, as a second or private office, and construct a fire proof, all in the room in the rear of the present office, at a cost not to exceed $1,000.

On motion adopted by a unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Thompson:

Resolved, That the County Collector be authorized to pay Messrs. Post & McCord, on account of bridge over Robinson's Branch, Clark township, $900 on a properly authenticated warrant.

On motion adopted, all affirmative except Freeholder Newbury.

By Freeholder Newbury:

Resolved, That all bills against the county for inquests, burials and morgue fees be approved by the County Physician, before any bill of such character is paid.

On motion adopted.

By Freeholder Clark:

Resolved, That a committee of five from this Board be appointed to investigate and report to this Board, in relation to a question of damages claimed by Jonathan Moore of Rahway, for injuries received from falling off the abutment wall of the bridge on Inman avenue, over south branch of Rahway River, at Rahway, on or about Feb. 18, 1882.

On motion adopted.

The Director appointed as committee to meet with Morris county Freeholders on bridge at Page's Mills, Summit township, Freeholders Briant, Smith, Lehmann, White and Stover.

Committee to investigate as to the question of damages claimed by Jonathan Moore of Rahway, Freeholders Clark, Haliday, White, Mapes, Doty.

On motion of Freeholder Doty the Board adjourned.

POETRY.

Tweedle-de and Tweedle-dum.

Strolling with a friend one evening
Through our city, and conversing
About the city and institutions of the present day,
On coming to a street corner,
Being that of Third and Centre,
Our attention was arrested by an object of display.

There between two stately dwellings,
Like a belfry where the bell rings,
Stands a nondescript, a kind of architectural display.
None will question, all believe that
A fertile brain did conceive it,
But it's purpose and it's object is the question of the day.

'Tis reported and I'll mention
That there's a bone of contention
'Twixt the owners of the houses, on either side this structure;
The one, a lean, long-limbed Yankee,
T'other rather stout and cranky
And the warfare is now raging, with no sign of healing rupture.

Now the sparrows twit and twitter,
Perched upon this lightning splitter,
Looking for some secluded nook for the nesting of their young;
Patiently now are they waiting,
Whilst the builder is completing
This far famed structure, being the wonders of the world among.

Says the latter, I've decided
That we'd better be divided,
So I'll cut off your prying vision, I'll build a fence so high,
That your eye cannot distinguish
Jew or Gentile, Dutch or English
Or any other person, passing, let them be however high.

Then on scene of action Quick
—Ly, comes a third one, and a brick,
Who proceeds at once to draw our cranky friend within the law.
By summons served, he stands before
His Honor, on the council floor
T'answer, drawing crowd, by ringing bell and beating pan with paw.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

THE DESIRE OF HER HEART.

"I tell you, Jack, the farm is not your vocation. I become more and more convinced of the fact every day, and less contented with the life we are leading."

Breakfast was over, and we stood on the farmhouse portico, arm in arm. On the sill of the door sat baby, screaming with delight as she fed a pair of pet pigeons from her dimpled hands.

Our breakfast had been a delicious one—coffee clear as amber, bread like snow, and steak done to a turn.

All about us was a green tangle of sweetbrier and honeysuckle; the sun was just rising above the distant hills, and the morning air was sweet and fresh, and filled with exquisite woodland odors, and musical with the songs of birds. We could catch a glimpse of the barn and poultry-yards from where we stood, and hear the plaintive lowering of the kine, and the dream-like tinkle of their bells.

I felt a vague sort of conviction that Jack had but little sympathy with my spirit of discontent, yet I was determined to carry my point if possible.

"You are dissatisfied with your lot—I see that plainly, Neil," said Jack a trifle sadly.

"Oh, nonsense," I put in. "Not with my lot, nor with you, only with the farm, Jack. I'm tired to death with this prosy humdrum life, and I hate to see you delving and toiling like a slave from one year's end to another. You were born for something better, Jack, something grander and nobler. Fancy a man of your abilities sowing grain, and digging potatoes, and raising stock to his life's end!"

"But, my dear," suggested Jack, "one must live and have bread and butter."

"To be sure, Jack; but why not earn it in a more genteel fashion?"

"Honest labor is always genteel, Nell."

"Oh, pshaw! you misunderstand me, Jack. I mean that you have capacities for something better. You only cling to the old farm to please your father, when you could do a hundred fold better elsewhere. And besides, where is our society in this place, Jack? What chance is there for our children as they grow up?"

Jack laughed as he glanced down at baby, who was struggling furiously to get a pigeon's head in her mouth.

"Ah, Nell, that is looking so far ahead," he said; "and, my dear, you seem to forget that I have lived here all my life."

"No, no, I don't forget. And pray what have you done Jack?"

"Led an upright life and married you."

"But you did not pick me up amid the clover blossoms, Jack; don't forget that. You found me in town, and, Jack dear, I'm anxious to get back to my native element. I'm tired of all this. You can get on ever so nicely in town, Jack; and there we can get into society."

"I'm not over fond of society, Nell."

"Oh, but you should be for my sake, Jack. I'm fond of it. I hate to live like a hermit. Why, Jack, if we desired to give a little party to-morrow, we could not for lack of guests."

"Dear me, Nell, why I could muster scores."

"Of a certain sort, yes; but I don't want them Jack. I'm a little peculiar in my notions. I want no society but the best; the—the—sort of society one gets into in town."

"Fashionable society, Nell."

"Well, then, why not? You have means Jack, and I flatter myself that we are fitted to move in any circle. Why should we bury ourselves in this wilderness?"

"Our means are not inexhaustible, Nell."

"I'm aware of that, Jack, but we've enough to start, and Vanborough offers you a good place in the bank."

"At a limited salary, Nell."

"Oh, yes, but you can work your way up, Jack; right up to the topmost round of the ladder. Do let's go, Jack! I've lived here to please you ever since our marriage; I think you can afford to please me a little now."

Jack sighed as he looked out upon his ripening grain fields, but he drew me close to his heart and kissed me.

"That's true," he said, "you can't be expected to care for the farm as I do, Nell. I promised to make you happy when you consented to be my wife, and I'll try to keep my word. You shall have it all your own way, Nell."

The continuous dropping of water wears away the solid stone. I had conquered my husband at last, and the desire of my heart was about to be accomplished.

When Jack once made up his mind to do anything he did it with all his might. The matter was soon settled. Cherry Hill, as we called the farm, was sold at great sacrifice, and one sunny morning we turned our backs upon the breezy downs and golden grain fields and journeyed cityward.

"I'm afraid you've made a great mistake," said Jack's father, as he bade us good-by; "you'd better have stuck to the farm. You remember the old saying about rolling stones."

"I don't believe in old sayings, sir," I answered, loftily, "and I think I can appreciate my husband's abilities better than any one else can."

"All right; I hope you won't find yourself mistaken, my dear. Good-by to both of you. Whatever you do care well for the little one. I'm afraid she won't like the change. If you happen to tire of town and fashion, don't forget that a welcome always awaits you at home."

Jack's heart was to full for utterance.

"Thank you, sir," I said, "but we shall not get tired."

Our new home in town was a stylish residence in a fashionable street. We established ourselves in the principal hotel, and then set about the task of furnishing the house.

"My dear child," said Mrs. Vanborough, the banker's wife, dropping in for an early call, "don't think of such a thing as ingrain carpet. Get Brussels, by all means, good English Brussels. You'll find it much cheaper in the end and besides it is so much more stylish."

We harkened to our friend's advice, and laid our rooms with Brussels, and the cost ran up into hundreds.

Then furniture was got to match, Mrs. Vanborough and several other friends aiding us in our selection, and all sorts of pretty costly bric-a-brac, and real lace curtains, and a new piano. My old instrument was too plain and clumsy for the new establishment.

There is a curious sort of excitement in spending money, which seems to drive the most sober and economizing people desperate when they once get at it. Jack had always been the most careful of men, counting the cost of everything as he went and saving every stray penny.

Once in the vortex of town life, his prudence was speedily changed into a sort of recklessness. After the first few days, and by the time our new home was ready to receive us, he actually seemed to take delight in seeing his money go.

"We've got snug quarters here, Nell, by George!" he said, looking through the extravagantly furnished room with admiring pride. "No one in the town can outshine us, not even Vanborough himself. It has lightened our purse a good deal, I'll admit, but what does that signify? What good comes of money unless one enjoys it?"

"We must try and save up a little now, Jack, since we are fixed so nicely," I said, feeling somewhat terrified at his growing recklessness.

"Pshaw, child! Whoever heard of a banker's clerk saving anything? If we make both ends meet it will be more than I looked for."

"My dear," said Mrs. Vanborough, when we were pleasantly settled in our handsome house and had hired a couple of servants, "I suppose you will want to give some sort of party now? It is customary you know. Suppose you let it be an informal reception, with card and coffee for the old people, and ices and fruits and dancing for the young ones? That would do nicely. You can throw your parlors into one and the new carpets will not get much injured. I'll help you order your refreshments, and Cecilia will write out your invitations for you. She's an excellent judge as to whom it is expedient to invite."

I mentioned the matter to Jack when he came home, and he entered into the spirit of the affair with great excitement.

"To be sure, little wife; have a party by all means. When one's in Rome one must do as Romans do, you know. Don't spare expense either, my dear; we must make as good a show as other people. And I shall take it upon myself to order your costume. I want you to look as grand as a little empress."

"But, Jack," I suggested, timidly, "we are spending a great deal of money."

"Oh well, never mind. It will all go somehow, one way or the other, and we might as well enjoy it. You've always wanted to get into good society, Nell; and you're fairly in now, and it won't do to let the people see that you are cramped for money. Let's make the most of it while we've got it."

My heart ached a little; and in the midst of all the flare and flutter of preparation, I was conscious of a vague feeling of regret whenever I recalled the quiet months of my early wifehood, spent at Cherry Hill. Jack had seemed such a different person in those days—so strong and steady and self-reliant; and now he seemed to take as much pleasure in life's frivolities as I did. With the foolish inconsistency of my sex, I sat down and cried over the consummation of the very hopes which I had cherished so long.

But, despite my tears, our reception went on, and it turned out to be a great success. The best people in town honored us with their presence, and everything, thanks to Mrs. Vanborough's foresight, was carried out in the most lavish and elegant manner.

"By George," said Jack, "this sort of thing is jollier than the old farm. I see now, little wife, that you were right, always right."

I would ten times rather he should have upbraided and blamed me for what I had done.

The winter that followed was exceedingly gay. We were invited everywhere, and our house was constantly filled with guests. Balls, soirees, kettledrums and the opera seemed to engross every hour. Jack and I seldom had a quiet moment together, yet he seemed to enjoy it all with his whole heart.

When spring came our last surplus dollar had been expended, and we were solely dependent on Jack's monthly salary.

The warm weather came on and baby soon fell ill. I hoped day by day that Jack would say something about going back to his father's for the summer, but he did not even hint at such a thing.

The days grew longer and warmer. The sun shone down with a pitiless splendor, and the paved streets seemed like heated brass.

Our fashionable friends fluttered off like summer swallows and we were left almost alone.

"Couldn't you manage to make a little trip to the sea-shore, my dear?" Mrs. Vanborough had suggested, and Jack had caught at the idea with eagerness.

"We might, Nell; I think we can. I'll try and borrow a few hundred somewhere."

"Oh, Jack, no, no!" I sobbed out in my remorse and despair. "I won't go to the sea-shore. You see how ill baby is. Oh, Jack, ask your father to let us return home."

"Oh, you wouldn't be satisfied, Nell, if we went back. It is dreadfully stupid down there these summer days, with the haymaking and the reaping and all that sort of thing. We should never be able to endure it now."

I said no more. The long, bright, burning days wore on, and our bills ran up higher and higher, and baby's little breath seemed to grow weaker and weaker, and poor Jack himself began to look dreadfully ill and worn. And one afternoon he was sent home in a carriage, quite unconscious, stricken down by a sudden fever.

I put my pride aside then, and wrote a letter to Jack's father.

"Jack and baby are both ill," I said, "and we are sick and tired of this life. Pray forgive us and let us come home."

The very next day the dear old gentleman arrived, but the sheriff was before him, Jack having confessed judgment in a lawsuit. The rumor that we intended to leave town got out, and our creditors rushed in, anxious to secure the lion's share of our effects. The Brussels carpets, the handsome furniture and costly bric-a-brac, all went under the hammer at a disastrously low figure.

"Never mind," said my father-in-law, not a shadow of reproach on his kind old face; "let them squabble over it if they will. We must get our sick ones home."

So we got Jack into the carriage, and with his poor hot head upon my knee and baby in my arms, I turned my back upon the scene of my short-lived triumph.

"We are going back to Cherry Hill," said the old gentleman, as in the dusk of the golden day we drove through the dewy stillness of the sheltered land. "The old home has been waiting for you all these months. I was pretty sure you'd want to come back."

I could not utter one word in answer. A great full moon was rising above the distant hills as we reached the house. Not the smallest thing was changed. The great red roses bloomed on the terrace, the bees droned in their hives, and the cattle-bells tinkled in the barnyard. The doors stood wide open. We carried Jack in and laid him down in the broad breezy room that had been our bridal chamber.

He opened his eyes and drew a deep, quivering breath as the freshening breeze touched his throbbing head.

"Nell, where are you?" he said. "Surely this must be home?"

"I am here, Jack," I answered through my tears; "and this is home, dear—Old Cherry Hill."

"Thank God!" he murmured, and fell back upon the pillows, and I saw great tears trickling slowly from beneath his closed eyelids.

Beyond the open window, in the silver *glory of the rising moon, the old grand*father sat, with baby at his feet, half hidden in the rank cool grass, and even at that late hour the pigeons came fluttering around her as of old, and she screamed with rapture as she clutched at them with her thin little hands.

I rose softly, and fell on my knees beside Jack's low pillow.

"Oh, Jack," I sobbed. "I have been so wicked. Forgive me, Jack, forgive me! I am so glad to be at home again."

His worn face grew radiant and his dear arms held me close.

And then and there, clasped to my husband's heart, in the safe sweet shelter of the home he loved, I understood all the past.

"You didn't mean it, Jack," I whispered. "You only pretended to enjoy it all to please me."

He smiled at me with his grave fond eyes.

"And, oh Jack, our money is all gone, and"—

He silenced me with a kiss.

"No matter, little woman; the lesson we have learned has been cheaply bought. We shall not care to leave the safe old nest in search of fashion and society again."

I could not answer. I heard my baby cooing to the pigeons in the grass, and sat there, clasped in Jack's forgiving arms, the happiest woman the round world held.

STEPHEN ALLEN'S POCKET-BOOK.*

Keep good company or none. Never be idle. If your hands can't be usefully employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind. Always speak the truth. Make few promises. Live up to your engagements. Keep your own secrets if you have any.

When you speak to a person look him in the face.

Good company and good conversation are the sinews of virtue.

Good character is above all things else. Your character cannot be essentially injured except by your own acts.

If any one speaks evil of you, let your life be so that no one will believe him.

Drink no kind of intoxicating liquors.

Ever live (misfortune excepted) within your income.

When you retire to bed think over what you have been doing during the day.

Make no haste to be rich, if you would prosper. Small and steady gains give competency with a tranquil mind.

Never play at any game of chance. Avoid temptation, through fear you may withstand it.

Earn money before you spend it. Never run into debt unless you see a way to get out again. Never borrow if you can possibly avoid it.

Do not put off until to-morrow that which should be done to-day.

Do not marry until you are able to support a wife.

Never speak evil of any one.

Keep yourself innocent, if you would be happy.

BEST HE COULD DO.

The Detroit Free Press tells this story of the far west:

It was a Michigan man riding through the west on horseback, and one afternoon as he came along to a settler's cabin on the mountain road he asked of a man leaning over the gate:

"Can you tell me how far it is to the town ahead?"

"I reckon I kin, stranger. You'll have to peg along fur about nine miles yit."

"But it is nearly dark. Is there no tavern on the road?"

"Never heard of any, and I've backed my corn-meal over this road risin' of twenty years."

"But perhaps I could put up somewhere?"

"P'raps ye could. There's Steve Taylor's down about four miles, but he'd beat ye blind on old sledge. There's Mose Smith, a mile nigher, but Mose would feel offended if ye didn't trade him that hoss for a stub-tailed mule. Might put up at Green's, but there's lots of rattlesnakes around his place. Kurnel Johnson is down about six miles, but the Kurnel would turn ye all out doors at midnight if he found that ye didn't vote his way."

"But what am I to do?"

"Waal, I'm a squar' man, stranger, and the best I kin do is to ax ye to stop here with me, an' to tell ye before hand that if ye ar' wakened in the night by shingles bein' ripped off and logs pulled down it won't be an avalanche nor a cyclone, but only me'n the old woman a tryin' for the two hundredth time since the war to see who handles the money when I sell two coon skins for a dollar!"

"I—I guess I'll go on," faltered the rider.

"Ke-rect, stranger! The last man who stopped here said he wished he'd have run the chances with the snakes down at Green's, an' I gin' him my hand when he rode off. I'm squar' up and down, as I told ye, and Green's is the third cabin on this side arter ye cross the creek."

ONLY A DEPUTY P. M.

Three or four miles beyond the battlefield of Chancellorsville I came to a house which was a tavern, grocery, saloon and post office combined. An old gray-headed man sat on the veranda asleep, and a colored boy about fifteen years of age stood at the door. While the horse was drinking at the trough I went in to inspect things. The saloon business consisted in selling straight old forty rod at five cents a drink, and the groceries were made up of half a barrel of sugar, half a chest of tea, a bag of meal and about $5 worth of notions. The post office was a corner of the room, and the mail was placed on a shelf. After looking around the place I said to the boy:

"Who is Postmaster here?"

"Well, it's kinder divided up, sah. Sometimes de old man am Postmaster, sometimes me, and sometimes de old woman gins out the letters. Do you 'spect a letter, sah?"

"Yes."

"In a blue envelope?"

"No."

"In a white one?"

"No."

"Will dar be any name on the envelope?"

"Of course. I am expecting a letter addressed to the Hon. Nicodemus Longjohn, Esq. I guess it's here."

He took down three or four letters, handled them over, scratched his head, and finally asked:

"Am you suah dat letter am heah?"

"Oh, yes."

He looked them over again, held them up to the light, but gave it up with a shake of the head, explaining:

"I dun tole you dat I sometimes acted as Postmaster, but I forgot to add dat my sheer ob de honors am feedin' de mail carrier's hoss, while de ole man gins out all de letters an' trades ten stamps for a prime coon skin! I'll have to woke him up."—Detroit Free Press.

FARMS FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Fifty years ago the farmers depended almost wholly on the products of their farm for the supply of their tables, and, largely for their clothing. A writer in the Boston Journal thus sketches the raising of the raw material for garments and the process of manufacturing them at the farm-house:

Every farmer kept a flock of sheep, and wool constituted a large proportion of the clothing of the family. It was carded, spun and woven at home, and made into garments for both sexes. The best clothes for the men and boys were made of what is called "fulled cloth."

This was made at home, of the finest material, and taken to the mills known as "fulling mill," where it was put through a process of thickening, dyeing and finishing. The women used to wear gowns of cloth which was called "pressed woolen."

This was simply home-made flannel, taken to the mills above named, and pressed, so as to prevent a glossy surface.

Every farmer had a small patch of flax. This was pulled and spread out in rows on the ground, "rotted," and then "broken" and "swingled," and was thus prepared for the combing, carding and the "little wheel" as the machine was called on which flax was spun, to distinguish it from the larger machine for spinning wool.

It was woven into cloth for table covers, toweling, sheeting and shirting. The "tow," which was the coarse portion combed out on the "hetchel," was spun into a coarse yarn, of which a cloth was made for Summer suits for the men and boys.

The tow shirt, so commonly worn, was, when new, an instrument of torture to the wearer, as it was full of prickling spines left from the woody part of the stalk.

The tailor of the old days, with his goose, traveling from house to house, to make up the clothes for the men and boys—or to cut and fit them for the gossiping "tailoress" to complete—is not known to the present generation.

THEY AGREED.

"What do you think of a strong government?" inquired a New Haven man of his neighbor as they both leaned against the fence smoking their evening cigars.

"I think," said the neighbor, looking cautiously around, "that women are best calculated to administer such a government." And a sharp, shrill voice from behind the blinds called out:

"Samuel James Jenkins, what are you thinking of, talking the whole night away? It's time honest folks were abed."

"I agree with you," was the remark of the original speaker and they both slid into their respective gates with becoming meekness.—New Haven Register.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

MACKEYISM.

Some Republican editors, evidently uneasy because of the unprincipled action of their party leaders in Congress, by which Mr. Dibble, of South Carolina, Democrat, was expelled, and Mr. Mackey, Republican, admitted, are vainly endeavoring to explain away such partisan criminality.

Fortunately truth will stand forth, even though bogus claimants swear before a score of Keifer's and on bibles stacked as high as Bunker Hill monument.

The facts are these:—

Mackey was never elected to occupy Dibble's seat.

Dibble was elected in pursuance of law to fill a vacancy caused by the death of O'Connor.

It was positively alleged that notes of the preliminary examination in the contested case against O'Connor had been fraudulently tampered with.

That the Committee on Elections refused to investigate as they were in duty bound.

Then, for the purpose of forcing a decision in the House and doing violence to the rights of the minority, Rules were hastily changed in violation of precedent, and motions of appeal discarded by an arbitrary Speaker.

So stands the outrage and it is inexcusable.

There is not a Democrat in Congress or out of it that would utter a word of complaint against the unseating of any member when full, fair and legal proceedings warranted it, but to mutely witness the deed accomplished through the sheer might of partisan tyranny is what Democrats won't do, and they are right.

Mr. Evins, of South Carolina, in a speech delivered May 31st, thus spoke—

"We on this side have made a conscientious and determined fight for justice and for the right as we understand it, and as I believe the country will understand it. To unseat my colleague and seat Mackey upon this fraudulent record you have felt justified in abrogating certain rules of this House which are held sacred in every deliberative assembly in the world where the rights of the minority are respected.

You have prepared the way for Mr. Dibble's speedy exit. He has borne himself here, as elsewhere, like a true gentleman, and will go out without a shadow upon his good name. The door will soon open to Mr. Mackey. Take him to your bosoms and let the country judge between us.

You cannot prove frauds by forgeries. If there were frauds at the ballot-box let the proof which establishes them be brought here in a direct and proper manner, and under the safeguards prescribed by law, and I will be as ready to denounce them as any gentleman on this floor."

To which we respond—Amen!

THE COMMISSION.

There was force in the argument used by Congressional opponents of a Tariff Commission—that it delegated to outsiders a legitimate duty of Congress, for the discharge of which members were chosen and paid, and yet, the professed purpose of creating such a Commission, in order to practically and intelligently solve the complicated question of impost duties, by referring it to the impartial judgment of nine citizens, themselves independent of political wire-pulling, representing every shade of opinion, conversant with all details, and well known to the country as gentlemen of ability and integrity, certainly commended the project to favorable consideration. Had the President, in selecting Commissioners, consulted the interests of all the people instead of interested parties, valuable data might have been secured for future law making action.

As it is, we fear this Commission, like a notorious one raised by Congress after the Presidential election of 1876, will prove an artful dodge.

We hope for good results, but expect little or nothing.

The thought arises—is it not time to elect Representatives who are capable of meeting and honestly adjusting every public question that comes before Congress, and bold enough to fulfil duty regardless of fear or favor?

The masses of both parties would appreciate such statesmen.

The country wants live Congressmen, not sham Commissioners—trustworthy sentinels on guard, in lieu of corrupt lobbyists and political tricksters.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL PASSED.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The River and Harbor bill was passed in the House today—yeas, 119; nays, 47. Mr. Springer's motion to strike out the clause appropriating $300,000 for the construction of reservoirs at the headwaters of the Mississippi was lost—44 to 105. The clause was, however, amended, on motion of Mr. Sparks, so as to provide that the $300,000 shall be used solely for the improvement of the Mississippi River and its tributaries, and no part with a view to the improvement of private property. An amendment to increase the appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi from $800,000 to $1,000,000, and another to reduce it to $700,000, were rejected. An amendment appropriating $25,000 for the improvement of the Monongahela River, in West Virginia, was adopted, as was also an amendment directing the Secretary of War to carry on the works contemplated in the bill by contract when not detrimental to the interests of the Government.

NEW JERSEY RAILROAD TAXATION.

The special committee appointed at the last session of the New Jersey Legislature to consider the subject of railroad taxation in the different parts of the State met Monday, in Assemblyman McAdoo's office, in Jersey City. A. M. Reynolds, the new Commissioner of Railroad Taxation, was called, but said that he could not give the committee much information, as he had only held the office for a few months. He had, he said, sent letters to the various Assessors requesting them to return their valuation of railroad property. The returns, he said, he did not think were altogether reliable. He was of the opinion that the Assessors were subject to local influences, some in favor of and others against the railroads.

It is comical to witness the attempts made by the small fry Republican press of the State, to announce the name of the next Democratic Congressman from the Third Congressional District. They have suggested several names of friends whom they think would be likely to carry off the honors. The fact that such compliments come from a Republican source must be edifying to those interested. However, let the Republican press keep right on suggesting names. The proper man will be nominated at the Democratic Convention, when it is called.

The Freeholders wisely increased the compensation for publishing the proceedings this year—and there is one more improvement that should be made, in that connection, and that is an arrangement by which the weekly newspapers can get hold of the copy in time to publish it in the issue succeeding the meetings. We depend on getting the copy from an Elizabeth paper, and on the occasion of both meetings since we have been publishing the proceedings this year, we have not received the copy until too late for the weeks succeeding the meetings. The meetings being held on Thursday, and our paper being printed on the same day—the proceedings do not appear until the third Thursday from the meeting.—Rahway Democrat.

We fully concur with our contemporary in the above. We have, ourselves, in the past, made the same complaint about obtaining copy of the proceedings. We suggest that a remedy be provided in some way, so that our readers may be able to secure news before it becomes too stale.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has decided that as the court martial in the case of Gen. J. Madison Drake had found him guilty of the specifications, but not of the charge, he was therefore virtually acquitted.

A cyclone in Iowa destroyed half of the town of Grinnell, causing the loss of many lives and much property. Other losses of life and property are reported from the path of the storm.

Our County Fair.

We are glad to report that an increased interest is being manifested by the stockholders of the "Union and Middlesex Counties' Mutual Agricultural Association" in the conduct of its affairs. Such an evidence was adduced at the meeting of the stockholders on the Association grounds last Friday, when amendments were made to the By-laws and a free intercourse of sentiment indulged in by the large number present. The meeting was called to order by President John I. Holly, Mr. N. Robins, the Secretary, reading the minutes of last meeting. Reports from different members showed that 107 shares of new stock had been disposed of since the last meeting, with 293 shares yet needed.

The full statement of Treasurer Pearson, as offered by Mr. Holly, is included in the following:

Statement of condition of the Union and Middlesex Counties' Mutual Agricultural Association, with receipts and expenditures from August 1, 1879, to June 1, 1882:

RECEIPTS.

Sale of stock	$16,400 00
Fairs and trots	12,536 48
Loan on mortgage	5,000 00
Money loaned by Directors	2,250 00
Total	$31,086 48

DISBURSEMENTS.

Cost of buildings and improvements	$10,928 51
Fairs and trots	13,721 64
Expenses	2,987 58
Nichols' mortgage	3,000 00
Total	$31,612 73

Prior to the reorganization in August, 1879, 990 shares of stock had been issued. Of this one-third was relinquished to the Association, leaving 660 shares, which, with the mortgage of $3,000, represented the value of the property at that time. Hence there were issued June 1, 1882, 1,440 shares.

August 1, 1879, there was a mortgage of $3,000 on the property held by Mrs. Nichols. In July, 1880, a loan of $5,000 was effected from C. K. White, secured by a mortgage, and the Nichols' mortgage paid off		(Still due.)
	(1)	$118 00
	(2)	784 57
	(3)	545 99

Total	$4,900 77

The above includes $303.08 spent in plowing, fertilizing and seeding grounds; also $238.95, expenses of procuring loan from Waite on mortgage. Of this amount $542.60 is not yet paid.

(Signed)
E. C. PEARSON, Treasurer.

The Board of Directors held a meeting immediately after adjournment of the above and adopted the following resolution and amendment to the By-laws:

Resolved, That the first clause of Sec. 1 of the by-laws of the Union and Middlesex Counties' Mutual Agricultural Association be amended so as to read as follows: "There shall be seventeen (17) Directors."

"Each stockholder shall be entitled in addition to his regular member's ticket, to one admission ticket to the annual fair for each share of stock owned by him up to ten shares, but no stockholder shall receive more than ten such tickets."

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

Woodcock are reported plentiful throughout the State.

A black bass, weighing seven pounds, was caught in the Delaware River, near Carpentersville, last week.

The New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society, whose headquarters are at Plainfield, is a fixture of the State.

An eel measuring four feet in length was caught in the Raritan, recently, on a hook. He was as strong as a horse.

The Club Rooms of "The New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society" at No. 18 Park avenue, will soon be ready for occupancy.

Ex-City Judge Suydam tried his skill among the black bass of the Millstone River on Monday last, and succeeded in capturing five beauties, weighing ten and a half pounds.

Councilman R. Livingston and ex-Councilman F. Knowland, returned on Monday last from a four days' fishing trip to Greenwood Lake, bringing home with them some seventy-five fine black bass and pickerel.

Wm. F. Kidder, of Orange, has sold his fast mare Helene, and it is reported that the price received is $9,500, while some allege that the consideration was much less. A New York merchant is the purchaser, and intends to use her on the road.

We are indebted to Mr. William Pool, Corresponding Secretary, for a copy of By-laws of the "24th Annual Convention of the New York State Convention for the Protection of Fish and Game" at Niagara Falls, N. Y. June 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17th.

The Morris County papers report that there are indications of a large number of quail being hatched out there this Spring, one farmer having counted thirty-one young birds in one brood recently. Another mark in favor of game protective societies.

Mr. Robert Bonner has bought of Mr. R. Steele, of Philadelphia, a gray filly, two years old, a full sister to Maud S. The price asked was $10,000, and it is said she is cheap at that figure. If she ever beats her sister's time (2:10¾) she will prove a valuable investment.

It would be well for Sportsmen to remember that it is unlawful to shoot woodcock except between the first day of July and the first day of August and between the last day of September and the sixteenth day of December, under a penalty of $15 for each bird.

Those "foreigners" who visit the shores of Jersey during June, with dog and gun, should understand that they are liable to arrest and a heavy fine or imprisonment imposed upon them. To shoot or fish for game birds or fish in this State, a non-resident must first become a member of a Game and Fish Protective Society. June woodcock shooting is also not allowed in Jersey.

Messrs. E. P. Thorn and W. L. Force visited the Raritan River on Friday last, and allured from their native element fifteen fine black bass, which weighed 19½ pounds. The largest bass weighed 2¼ pounds. Other fish amounting to 51 in number were also caught, and it wasn't a good day for fishing either. Artificial fly is an attraction to the B. B's. of Raritan.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

On Saturday afternoon the return game of base ball was played between the "Upriser" and "Pale Faces." It proved a victory for the "Pale Faces." Score 11 to 4. Prof. John Nelson, umpire.

Rev. Warren Hoagland, pastor of the M. E. Church, delivered a very able discourse on Sunday evening last, subject "The Language of the Stars." A large congregation was in attendance.

The teachers and scholars of Mrs. E. H. Ladd's Seminary have been making preparations the last week, in Lyceum Hall, for the annual commencement exercises which will occur on Thursday evening, June 22d.

The parade of the Westfield Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1, which was to take place on Wednesday the 22d inst., was postponed until Monday 26th inst., at 6 p. m., on account of the funeral services of Mrs. E. C. Neill taking place on Wednesday, at the hour announced for the parade.

On Saturday last Mrs. John Feifler fell out of the door of her dwelling house at West End, and striking her head upon a sharp stone, injured herself severely but not seriously. Dr. Fred A. Kinch, Jr., was called in and dressed the wound, which proved to be a very severe cut, from which the blood flowed freely until stopped by the Doctor.

Judge McCormick rendered his decision on Wednesday the 21st inst in the appeal case of Moffett vs Gale. He reversed the judgment rendered below, before Justice of the Peace Godfrey, which was for the plaintiff in the sum of sixty-two dollars and gave judgment in favor of Moffett for the sum of thirty-five dollars.

The death of Mrs. Eliza C. Neill, wife of the Rev. Henry J. Neill, pastor of the Congregational church, occurred on Monday morning June 19th inst from Malarial Fever. The funeral services were held on Wednesday at 5 p. m., at her late residence on Prospect avenue. The Rev. Dr. Van Dyke of Brooklyn, officiated. The body was taken on the 7:13 o'clock train, on its way to Schaghticoke, State of New York, where it is to be interred in the family burying ground.

On Sunday last the Sunday School of the Westfield Presbyterian church celebrated its 63d Anniversary. An interesting order of service had been prepared with great care by the Superintendent of the school, and it was his interest to make the occasion one to be long and pleasantly remembered. The grand old church was beautifully decorated with flowers; the pulpit was removed and on the platform was truly a scene of tropical beauty. There was displayed potted flowers of all descriptions, arranged in artistic style, interspersed with elegant ferns; suspended over a bed of calla lilies was a dove in full wing, apparently seeking the sweets contained in their cups; along each side of the church, beneath the galleries, were hanging-baskets filled with choice flowers; in the vestibule was arranged a stand upon which was a magnificent bed of rare flowers. Taking all in all the church never presented a better appearance. Prof. W. N. Barringer, Supt. of Public Schools of Newark, N. J., made a stirring address upon the "Influence of the bible upon the treatment of Children." Mr. Gardner, of Cranford, gave an account of the early history of Sunday Schools. Both gentlemen were listened to with marked attention by the large audience. The songs rendered by the children, who numbered some three hundred, were a marked feature of the occasion and their responses were well and heartily given.

Great credit is due to the "committee on flowers" for the beautiful arrangement of all things in the church and to Sup't W. Henry Elston, for his untiring and zealous attention to the rendering of the service.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

ON for an Opera House.

FOURTH of July one week from Tuesday.

THERE seems to be no end to the commencements.

THE Council has paid the many claims before it, after some unnecessary delay.

WITH light winds, the neighborhood of Park and North avenues is dusty, very dusty.

THE difference in temperature, from hot to cool, was very decided on the days of June 19 and 20.

SHAME on our public-spirited citizens! Plainfield has no public Hall of serviceable proportions.

ONE year ago to-day, Silas C. Herring, Esq., a man widely known in mercantile circles, died at his residence in this city.

THE ragged edge of that Western cyclone seems to have passed over us, judging by Monday's variable wind and weather.

THERE will be held at Coriell's Grove, Dunellen, a grand picnic for the benefit of St. John the Baptist Church, on Tuesday, July 4th.

A CERTAIN firm on Somerset street "wonders" why he does not order up a keg at once, and save sending out with a pitcher sixteen times in one evening.

THE Roman Catholic Society of North Plainfield has rented the Public School building during the present vacation, and will hold church and other services therein.

WHAT will prove a great public accommodation in muddy weather, is the flag cross-walk that R. Mac Donald & Son have laid over Front street from their store to the opposite curb.

THE Board of Managers of the P. F. D. meets in the parlors of No. 2 Engine Co., on Wednesday evening next, to make such arrangements for more special protection as are customary upon July 4th.

A. VANDENBEEK, T. C. Aldrich and Howard Runyon were appointed delegates from the 1st Baptist church, to attend the Convention of the Baptist Sunday School Association, held at Red Bank, June 20th and 21st.

MR. WM. HAND, the contractor for constructing a fire well at Franklin Place, has met with a misfortune in having a "cave in" just after striking water. He has commenced again to dig near the first site. Better success next time, Billy.

THE graduates of 1880 and 1881 will tender the P. H. S., class of '82 the wonted reception at the close of the Commencement exercises of Next Thursday evening. The affair will be given in Assembly Hall, and be but a repetition of past occasions.

IT will be noticed in our advertising columns, that proposals will be received on Wednesday next for the sale of bonds of the North Plainfield School District to the amount of $25,000 in denominations of $500 each, with interest at 5 per cent. per annum.

IT really seems that North Plainfield is to have the honor and Charles W. McCutchen Esq., the credit of raising the largest strawberries in this vicinity. The specimens we saw on Wednesday convinced us of their ability to parry off the short-cake unless securely anchored.

THE foundation and frame building on the Thorn lot, Somerset street, where the new North Plainfield Public School is to be erected, was sold on Saturday last to Mr. Thomas Rutlage for $396, and will be removed to the corner of Race and Warren streets.

THE bottom fell out of a coal car while passing through Fanwood at about 1:30 p. m., of Monday, and blocked the east-bound track as effectually as though the whole train had been wrecked. After about a half-hour's delay the way was cleared and travel resumed.

THE "Young People" of the M. E. church deserve particular credit for the very enviable success that was acheived by the Festival of last Thursday and Friday. Pleasing music and enjoyable refreshments served by attractive attendants, resulted most agreeably.

AS we go to press the members of Warren Hose Co. are—with the assistance of their friends—enjoying a merry picnic in Wooden's Grove. By the way, for some invisible reason, most entertainments occur on Thursday evenings, and we who publish at such time are unable to attend.

THE editor of a Boston paper, with the seeming assurance of an early experience, asserts that "married men, this season will have to smoke five-cent cigars and flirt with their own wives." All of which goes to show that hard times are beginning to be felt even in the editorial sanctum.

ALL will remember that the Saengerbund Excursion leaves Plainfield at 7:30 a. m., of Friday, July 14th, bound for Hudson Grove, Echo Bay, Long Island Sound. A pleasant trip and a day's enjoyment is assured. Tickets for which can be procured of the members of the Association.

REAL ESTATE is certainly on the boom over the brook, and Assessor Brokaw has been doing an extensive business in that line. He has sold during the past Spring twelve fine building lots in North Plainfield, and on Saturday last a handsome site on Willow avenue, 72x159, to Mr. J. M. Bettman.

AN exceedingly pleasant occasion was the festival and social gathering held in St. Mary's Hall, during Thursday evening of last week. The parishioners met their new pastor, the Rev. Hubert De Burgh, and formed a personal acquaintance calculated to cement more thoroughly their church relationship.

FIGURES never lie, but types (sometimes) do. The latter, in our last issue, placed the date of the Fair to be held by the pupils of Mrs. Austin's Craig Place School, for the benefit of the Children's Home, a week too soon. It will take place to-morrow, the 24th inst., and should be well patronized.

THE Union Club having appointed a committee of its members to act with the citizen's committee in securing to Plainfield a Public Hall, and having chosen men of such ability and judgment as those name elsewhere, the meeting in relation to the project next week will undoubtedly result in some desired plan of action.

THE Y. M. C. A. Annual Course of Entertainments has to be given in those churches that may be secured, and all concerts, school commencements and other public diversions in a like place. If we had an Opera House commodious, comfortable and convenient, such amusements would be many and unconstrainedly enjoyable.

A PUBLIC Building erected at a cost of about $30,000, with a free library, reading room, council chamber, a small hall for the holding of public meetings with a larger auditorium where concerts and lectures may be given and traveling theatrical companies accommodated, and so many more or less desires of the kind realized, is what Plainfield has long needed. Let it be built.

NOW that the Plainfield Chess Club has earned the title of champion of New Jersey, it can rest with its laurels and need not feel called upon to challenge every organization that is credited by rumor with a desire for a match. If the chess-men of Easton really wish to play against the members of Plainfield's Club, let them so communicate by letter and they may rest assured of being accommodated.

THE Bound Brook Sunday School will make an excursion to Philadelphia's famous Fairmount Park on Wednesday next, leaving Bound Brook at 8 a. m., and return leaving the Park at 5 p. m. An opportunity unusual will thereby be afforded for all to spend a whole day at one of the most beautiful pleasure spots in the World, as tickets may be obtained by any who desire them. Further particulars will be found in our advertising columns.

A MEETING of the Executive Committee of the State Fire Association was held at Trenton Wednesday evening for the purpose of considering matters relating to Firemen's Benevolent funds throughout the State. They also had a conference with Secretary of State Kelsey relative to the distribution of surplus funds in his hands among the several firemen's relief associations. It was agreed that all statements of relief associations are to be filed by July 1st, or be barred from a dividend. The Plainfield Association has complied with this rule, having forwarded their statement some time since.

IT was our good fortune recently to be entertained by Mr. Jno. F. Turner, of the Sewaren House at Boynton Beach, upon the occasion of a few hours spent at his attractive resort. The house has just been enlarged to twice its former size, and can now accommodate the large parties that visit it during the present season, for the enjoyment of its fishing, boating and bathing facilities. We can recommend no more available and extensive pleasure than a drive from Plainfield to the Sewaren House and a day's experience of the varied enjoyments attainable thereat.

CHERRIES are ripe.

COMMENCEMENT next Thursday.

THE Sunday School of the First Baptist church, will have an excursion to Ocean Grove, on Wednesday, July 19th.

WE have finished the publication of the laws of the last legislature and our readers may now expect more general and local reading.

CLARK, the Park avenue Jeweler and Optician, has put an illuminated clock in one of his show windows, which gives the correct time night and day.

ON Wednesday morning a hound dog, said to belong to George Eaton, bit Bertie Littell of North avenue, very severely in the arm. No cause is assigned for the act.

THE committee in whose hands are the arrangements for the erection of a Public Hall, are notified to meet at the residence of Mayor Randolph on Friday evening, the 30th inst.

THE commencement exercises of the graduating class of the P. H. S., will be held in the Park Avenue Baptist Church, but whether the admission will be by ticket is not yet decided.

REMEMBRANCES of pleasant days at the seashore, will be recalled by the statement that Messrs. Laing and Nelson will conduct another excursion to Ocean Grove and Long Branch, on Thursday, Aug. 3d.

THERE will be preaching of the gospel in the open air, on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the grounds of Mr. Paul J. Loizeaux, on Chatham at the foot of Water street. All are cordially invited to attend.

INTENDING to go out of business, Mr. Samuel Dreier at the corner of Front street and Madison avenue, advertises his entire stock of clothing and gents-furnishing goods at prices below cost, as the goods must be sold.

THE Annual Picnic of St. Mary's T. A. Society will be held in Stelle's Grove on Thursday afternoon and evening, July 13th. Refreshments, music by Cahill, and a large dancing platform will be a few of the pleasures.

THE building sites advertised last week by Bleecker & Mumford, on Eighth street, were withdrawn by reason of some misunderstanding regarding their sale. They will now be cut up in 50-foot lots and sold without restriction as to their use.

WE understand that after considerable wavering of decision, the powers in charge of the Crescent avenue church refuse to allow its use for the Commencement exercises of the High School graduating class. The Board of Education have since secured the Park avenue church, a much more suitable place.

REPORTS reached us on Tuesday, that there were 1400 cases of measles in Plainfield—but we didn't hear it through the papers of that city.—Bound Brook Chronicle. Because the papers of this city do not employ liars in their office, is the reason the Chronicle got its information (?) elsewhere.

A CORRESPONDENT who inquires why a certain resident "gallops about town in the morning with a bag full of newspapers hung over his back, when the boy who walks to the train for his horse could just as well carry it," may find a solution of the problem apparent in the probable fact that the horse is better able to walk than the boy is to carry it.

THE only preventive against all kinds of bugs, worms and insects on flowers, and other enemies of vegetation, is the justly celebrated Nicotiana Tabacum, manufactured in North Carolina, and for which W. Alex. Bass, Esq., of this city, is the agent. It is the dust of tobacco which being freely sprinkled on the plants when they are moist, developes the deadly nicotine poison which is sure death.

DURING Wednesday morning early, information was telephoned to the Central Office that a barn on Raymond avenue near Scotch Plains was on fire. The alarm was promptly sent by the same means to the different houses of the Fire Department, but no one was on duty and a run was thus saved. The flames were, however, promptly extinguished by neighbors, and but a slight loss was the result.

Perniciousness.

On Sunday night thieves entered the drug store of Mr. Peter W. Brakeley, on North, near Washington avenue, Dunellen, and stole therefrom some cigars, tobacco and other articles. The same night 75 chickens disappeared from the roost of another resident, and two windows of the Catholic church were smashed by parties and missiles unknown.

Lowry-Jeffers.

At half-past five o'clock of Thursday afternoon of last week, the Park Avenue Baptist Church was filled with invited guests brought together to witness the marriage ceremony of Mr. Wheaton Lowry and Miss Annie Jeffers of this city. The bride was tastefully attired in traveling costume, and with the groom was escorted to the altar by four ushers. The service was performed by the Rev. Robert Lowry, father of the groom, assisted by the latter's brother, Rev. H. M. Lowry. During the ceremony the soft harmony of the organ filled the church, while outside was heard the grand accompaniment of the orchestra of the elements. After receiving the overwhelming congratulations of friends, that followed the service, the couple left Plainfield on an extended trip.

Wilson Soden vs Simeon Harris and Wife.

This action, brought to recover damages for a forcible entry into the premises of the plaintiff and the removal of his furniture therefrom, was tried in February last before Justice Wadsworth and a jury, and a verdict was rendered for the plaintiff in the sum of $100. The defendants dissatisfied with the verdict, and claiming that they were only liable for compensatory damages, appealed to the Court of Common Pleas. The trial of the appeal took place at Elizabeth on the 21st inst., Craig A. Marsh, Esq., representing the plaintiff and Nelson Runyon, Esq., the defendants. The rulings of the Justice below were fully sustained, and the jury, by their verdict, awarded the plaintiff $300 damages.

They Say

That we are to have a change of time-table on the C. R. R., Tuesday next.

That it is not a strange factory-whistle that wakens the residents near Second and New streets at 5:30 every morning, but a well-known bicyclist playing the cornet in broken-China.

That Major A. D. Godown celebrated his 150th birth-day on Monday last, and that he expects to live as long again.

That "one year ago" news was scarcer than it is now.

That the Groom's brother, at the wedding of an ex-Plainfielder recently, found that his inexpressibles were tighter than his skin, as he could sit down in the latter but—

That the Committee selected to forward the erection of a Public Hall in this city, can't get to work too quick.

That both Water Supply and Water Gas in Plainfield are hardly possibilities—much less probabilities.

That we are to have a Fireman's Parade this Fall.

That the Union Club is flourishing and eight new members were admitted last Saturday evening, making a total of sixty.

That potato bugs are ripe and to be found on the tomato plants.

That the Easton Chess Club wants to play "us" Plainfielders.

That tickets may be issued for the P. H. S. Commencement, as usual.

That there is to be a picnic in Wooden's Grove on July 4th.

That you fire tax is due and should be paid at once.

That it would be no use to arrest the corner loafers, as the City Judge would not fine them enough to have any effect.

That one of the most admiral productions at the late reception of Mrs. Griffen's art class, was a tambourine painted by a young lady of Central ave. and Eighth street.

We are With You.

The Dover Era, of last week, writes at some length against the demands of advertising agents for "special positions." It considers quite ably the injustice of such demands and quotes from THE CONSTITUTIONALIST'S late article on the same evil. In closing it says:

"But the worst feature of this advertising agency business is that in the main all newspapers are placed upon about the same basis. The insignificant patent outside and the small "dollar a year" apology for a newspaper have the same estimation in their eyes, as have the large, reputable, well established journals of large circulations. Thus the interests of well conducted newspapers are sacrificed to furnish patronage for those less deserving. We would be in favor of forming a combination of the better class of journals in New Jersey who would refuse the acceptance of advertising from agents and deal only with advertisers direct. With the latter we believe this would prove a popular movement, for it would secure them newspapers of good standing with large circulations—just what they are seeking—and would also save them from being victimized by having their advertisements inserted in papers of no consequence in order that the advertising agent may receive a commission for so placing them. Who will join us in this movement?"

Personalia.

R. H. Leatham Esq., and family of Broadway, will summer at Montreal, Canada.

Mr. F. Willetts Rodyne is home from Cornell University upon the beginning of the "long vacation."

Mr. Collins Bliss has so improved in the last few days, as to impel additional hopes of his ultimate recovery.

Miss Brainard of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Miss Sandford of Waukesha, Wis., are visiting friends in North Plainfield.

Miss Bessie Shepperson is said to have been selected for the honor of valedictorian of the graduating class of the P. H. S., of this year.

Messrs George A. Hallock and William F. Dowes Jr., recently returned from a trip to Seabright with glowing reports of glorious fishing in general and their own unprecedented catch in particular.

Mr. and Mrs. Piaschinska, the parents of Mrs. Charles Smith of this city, arrived from Germany on Sunday last and are visiting their daughter at her residence, No. 4 West Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bennett (nee Nodyne) returned to-day from a wedding trip that has included a pleasing reception at the residence of Peter Boice Esq., of Piscataway, the grandfather of the groom.

Mrs. A. H. Lewis and family will spend the summer West, returning in the latter part of August to meet the "City of Rome" upon its arrival from Europe with the Rev. Mr. Lewis and Messrs. Chas Potter Jr., and Geo. H. Babcock.

Mr. George Wotherspoon Jr., a former resident of this city, and at present the musical and dramatic critic of New York's great society paper The Town, is accused by the Dramatic World with being "given to the promiscuous distribution of verbal confectionery."

Richard H. Cornwall of this city, recently indicted for embezzling the funds of the Fourth National Bank, in which he was employed as a clerk, gave bail in the sum of $10,000 Tuesday, before United States Commissioner Shields, to appear for trial at the next term of the United States Circuit Court, Criminal Branch.

Captain and Mrs. James Parker, formerly of this city, gave on Thursday evening of last week at Perth Amboy, a reception to their son James Jr., and his bride upon their return from a short wedding trip. The occasion was especially commemorative by reason of its being the 25th anniversary of the marriage of the Captain and his wife, and also the 50th birthday of the former.

Mr. and Mrs. William Estil celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their house on Fifth street, Friday evening last, at which were present a number of their friends and their three children Mrs. W. H. Williams, Mrs. Samuel Wallace and Mr. Mulford Estil, all residents of this city. The mother of Councilman Gardner, who had been a guest at the wedding ceremony, was also present upon the occasion of the anniversary.

A Commendable Home Mission.

June the 4th the Willow Grove Sunday School at "Lambert's Mills" held its 56th anniversary in the grove opposite the school house, the building being to small to accommodate the people. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Greaves of Westfield, Rev. Mr. Pomroy of Rahway, and Mr. A. D. F. Randolph, the well-known publisher of New York city. A very satisfactory report was read for the past year by Mr. Fred. Kinch, the Treasurer and Secretary. The school has a total of 60 scholars, 12 new ones in the past year, has a good library and $30 in the treasury, and has collected over $60 in the past year. It also sends money to a missionary in Utah. Mr. King of Westfield is the Sup't. This is a neighborhood Sunday School, two miles from Westfield, the nearest town, and is the oldest Union Sunday School in the State.

Art Reception.

Upon the closing for the season of the art class that has been working for the past few months under the able tuition of Mrs. W. H. Griffen, a reception was given at the studio on Friday of last week, lasting during the entire day, and attended by a large number of the invited. Being among those favored with a delicately tinted and gilt edged card announcing that Mrs. Griffen's pupils intended to allow a private exhibition of their achievements with the brush, we studied up the vernacular of the disciples of the palette and prepared ourselves to "gush" in the most effecting manner. Upon attending the exhibition, however, we found that the acquirement of such superficial art-education, was entirely unnecessary. We, after but a mere glance at the array of work shown, appreciated our complete inability to do justice in words to the specimens of Mrs. Griffen's talent that were mingled with her scholar's efforts, and our thorough disability to do injustice to many of the productions of the class. Much that might be admired was observable in the way of amateur accomplishment, and for so brief a season of tuition the display as a whole reflected great credit upon the modes and methods of teaching adopted. We should be unreasonable and unjust to expect even the slightest approach to perfection from those as yet in the first stages of the art and barely justified in laying aside the pencil for the brush. If some deplorable drawing was apparent, we should generously consider the commendable ambition that impels a natural desire to reach the end regardless of unfinished beginnings.

Studies from nature being impossible to any extent during the Winter, the paintings exhibited were mostly copies that suffered, in consequence, by comparison with the original. Attempts to reproduce the striking beauty of Mrs. Griffen's creations, while more or less praiseworthy if original, were—because attempts at reproduction—but failures. Still, now that these embryo artists will be scattered, during the pleasant Summer, amid field flowers and wood blossoms, they may pursue their studies so helpfully that at future exhibitions we may hope for something nearer the realization aimed at.

At Miss Burrow's Seminary.

In response to invitations requesting the pleasure of their company, a large number of our residents assembled in the chapel of the Church of the Holy Cross, on Thursday evening of last week, in attendance upon the annual closing exercises of the pupils of Miss Burrow's Seminary. The interior of the building was very prettily adorned with bucolic decorations and patriotic drapery, and the sparkling gas jets brilliantly illuminated the elegant costumes of the fair sex present. Outside, the elements poured forth a dripping and splashing accompaniment to the exercises within, and rendered more oppressive the overpowering atmosphere that was wafted back and forth by that greatest of false pretenders, a fan.

The programme was entirely musical in intent and partly so in fact. The School, as a whole, gave a number of choruses with much preciseness, and individual pupils, during the first part, performed on the piano several pieces that might have been thought exercises had not the name of an acknowledged author evidenced their right to be considered "great compositions." Of Miss Emma Roome's rendition of a selection from Faust, however, a great deal that is flattering might be justly said. The young lady exhibited considerable talent possessed and showed promise of future attainments under the able tuition of Mr. Carl Feininger. The latter's efficiency as a teacher was also displayed in another line by the violin performance of Master Eli Long (Jr.), who played surprisingly well the violinist's favorite—"Carnival de Venice."

Such a recompense as is seldom offered a Plainfield audience, in return for the boredom that is so often suffered with courtesy upon many occasions, was experienced during the programme with feelings of relief and sensations of enjoyment, by reason of the ability demonstrated in their respective lines of talent by Mr. and Mrs. Broudre. The former was altogether a master of the power of intensely pathetic expression that is so special a possession of the Zither. His solos on that instrument were most judiciously selected and performed in a manner particularly agreeable. In the person of Mrs. Broudre was recognized a former resident of this city and one of Plainfield's greatest favorites among pianists—Miss Laura Fiske, that was. The opening notes of this lady's first selection—the delightful ballad of "Old Black Joe," played with charming variations—convinced her hearers that the admired gifts of past years were retained, to which had been added increased skill and power.

THE newest fashion in Paris, that of wearing black underclothing, has become the furore amongst the women of the highest aristocracy. The under garments, like those of the Eastern odalisques, are composed usually of silk, generally of what is called foulard des Indes. From head to foot the Parisian lady appears, when divested of the outer robe, as just emerging from an ink bath—the stockings of black silk, the slippers of black velvet, the corsets of black satin, adorned with black lace, and the petticoats of black surah, filled round the bottom with a stiff mousse of black illusion or net.

Men of the Right Sort.

At a special meeting of last Saturday evening, the Union Club appointed from its members the following to co-operate with the Committee chosen by the Mayor to take steps towards the erection of a Public Hall in this city: Messrs A. C. Baldwin, W. B. Wadsworth, Craig A. Marsh, W. R. Potts and H. P. Talmadge. The gentlemen appointed on both Committees will meet on Friday evening of next week at the residence of Mayor Randolph, to consult as to plans, consider methods and form some definite mode of raising the money necessary.

A Growing Academy.

The 10th year of Prof. Lyon's Academy for Boys, closed on Friday of last week, upon which occasion the following received medals of merit for excellency in one or more studies during the past term:

J. Sandford,	W. Marsh,
D. Adams,	F. Strauss,
W. Sandford,	E. French,
G. Dreier,	E. Field,
F. Sandford,	A. Lindsay,
L. Betancourt,	W. Fenton,
Hugo Mayer,	Gerald Lowe,
Willie Tyler.	Eddie Pierce.

After the distribution of medals, the school was addressed by Wm. B. Maxson Esq., who spoke a few words of interest to the boys. The school needs no better proof of its efficiency than the fact that it has been full for the past year, and the prospects for the coming term are still more encouraging.

The Toy Pistol Act.

The following is the text of the new State law "to prevent vending, using or exploding of guns, pistols, toy pistols, or other fire arms, to or by persons under the age of fifteen years in this State:"

That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to sell, barter, or exchange, or to offer or exhibit for sale, barter or exchange, any gun, pistol, toy pistol or other fire arms, in this State, to any person under the age of fifteen years.

That it shall not be lawful for any person to sell, hire or loan to any person under the age of fifteen years, any gun, pistol, toy pistol or other fire arms, or for any person under the age of fifteen years to purchase, barter, or exchange, or carry, fire or use any gun, pistol, toy pistol or other fire arms in this State.

That any person offending against the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on being thereof convicted shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisonment at hard labor for any term not exceeding three months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

The North Plainfield Public School's Closing Exercises.

The Warren Mission Chapel in North Plainfield was comfortably filled on Wednesday afternoon last, by an attendance of the best families of the Township. The occasion was the annual closing exercises of the Public School, and a most interesting programme—as will be observed—was carried out under the management of Principal Harris. The marches and accompaniments were played by Miss Carrie Randolph, and the calisthenics were directed by Miss Mayer. The following is the programme, which in all its parts reflected great credit upon scholars and teachers:

PROGRAMME.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a regular meeting of Plainfield Lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F., held this 19th day of June, 1882, the following committee was appointed to draw up suitable resolutions on the death of our beloved Brother, C. A. Foote.

WHEREAS, It has seemed best by an All-Wise Providence to remove by death our beloved Brother, C. A. Foote, we, the surviving Brothers of this Lodge, bow in humble submission to him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That in the death of our beloved friend and Brother, Plainfield Lodge No. 44, has met with an irreparable loss; another link in the fraternal chain is broken.

Resolved, That while we deeply feel this great affliction which it has pleased Divine Providence to lay upon us, we would extend to his beloved wife and family our cordial sympathy and heartfelt sorrow for the great loss which they have sustained, in the hope that from this world of labor and care, he has been transported to enjoy happiness and bliss in that celestial Lodge above. Be ye also ready.

Resolved, That our Brother has endeared himself to every Brother of this Lodge.

Resolved, That the Lodge room be draped in mourning the usual time.

Resolved, That a copy of the above resolutions of our deceased brother be entered on the minutes of the Lodge.

Resolved, That a copy of the above resolutions be sent to his afflicted wife, and also published in the Plainfield papers.

Plainfield, N. J., June 21st, 1882.

Walter L. Hetfield,

Serious Accident by Lightning.

In the shower of Monday afternoon last, the residence of Mr. Isaac Brokaw, of Piscataway, was struck by lightning, causing considerable damage to property and seriously injuring one of the members of the family. From the New Brunswick Times we glean the following facts relating thereto:

"The house is two and one-half stories high, with a kitchen apartment one and a half story high. The family was expecting company in the afternoon, part of which had arrived. Two of the daughters, Miss Anna and Miss Emma, with Miss Jennie Blackford, were in the parlor, in the east end of the house, while another daughter, Miss Laura, and Mrs. Brokaw (mother of Isaac Brokaw) were upstairs. Mrs. Brokaw was in bed and Miss Laura was attending to household duties.

The shock split the house lengthwise, parting the rafters at the peak about one foot, the full length of the house. It then tore the ceiling entirely off the second story, portions of which fell on Miss Laura, stunning her and filling her eyes with plaster. She was blinded for a short time. Mrs. Brokaw was somewhat bruised by the falling plaster.

But it was in the parlor that the most damage was done. Anna had just left her chair, and was standing at an open window, looking to see if Mr. Brokaw (who had gone to Newark in the morning) was yet coming. The lightning felled her unconscious in the corner of the room, setting her clothes on fire and burning her very seriously, beginning at the eyes and passing down the right side of her body; tearing the soles and heels off her shoes, and tearing a piece out of the carpet where she was standing.

Emma, who was sitting a few feet from the wall of the east end of the room, was thrown unconscious in the middle of the room, while the chair on which she sat was entirely demolished; and a portion of the east end of the room, about eight feet wide, was bursted entirely out, so that one could pass out without hindrance.

Miss Jennie Blackford, who was in the middle of the room, was considerably shocked and deafened, otherwise not seriously hurt.

The other members of the family were in the kitchen part of the house, and escaped unhurt. They immediately sent word to the neighbors, who came flocking to the scene, and rendered all the assistance in their power.

Dr. Wm. J. Nelson, of New Market, was immediately summoned, and thinks that with careful treatment Miss Anna, who is the person most seriously injured, will soon be around again.

The house was started to the very foundation, and will cost about $1,000 to be put in repair.

A considerable quantity of milk was in the cellar, all of which was soured and spoiled for use.

Had the house taken fire it is hardly probable that those injured would have escaped a fearful death. Anna sustained no injuries further than the burn, and is doing as well as could be expected.

MR. E. F. Thorn of the Mansion House, was agreeably surprised on Thursday by the receipt of a young black bear that arrived per express addressed to himself. The valuable gift was a present to Mr. Thorn from his friend Mr. Richard Schuyler of New York city. The animal is about four months old and was captured in the forests of Michigan.

An Unaccountable Fire.

At about five minutes past eleven o'clock of Saturday night last, the ringing of the alarm bell and the reflection of fire on the south-west sky, called out the entire department to give its attention to a rapidly spreading conflagration on Elm, between Front and Second streets. The fire was started (probably by an incendiary) in a barn on what was recently the Rouse Runyon estate, but purchased about a week ago by the heirs of the late Randolph Coles. From there it spread to an adjoining barn belonging to Chas. Hodges, and although the contents of both were destroyed the latter building was partly saved by the efforts of the firemen. Water was available in an unlimited quantity from what was formerly the Randolph Mill race, which the Committee on Wells of the Board of Managers had so arranged as to afford ample accommodation to all three steamers. The water is clear and easily reached, and the Committee spoken of deserves great credit for securing such a supply at a point where it was so much needed.

Hodge's barn was insured in the Merchants of Newark for $800, and the loss is estimated at about $500. The other barn had been insured by Daniel Allen, the agent of the Coles' heirs, a few days previous to the fire, with Wm. Woodruff in the Manufacturers of Newark for $500, which also covered the dwelling.

"Bread and Bread Eaters."

Monday evening, 12th inst, a goodly number of members and friends of the Y. P. U. of the M. E. church, met in the Lecture Room of that church to hear the pastor, Rev. Thos. H. Stockton, deliver an address on "Bread and Bread Eaters." The Rev. gentleman was perfectly "at home" while considering the subject before him. He spoke briefly of the almost universal use of and the various improvements in making the "staff of life," but, that after all, the best thing on bread is butter. (Some one at the same time suggested molasses.) The subject was well illustrated by disclosing to view a loaf of bread, a "roll," a "bun" and several crackers. The second part of the lecture, however, that of "bread eaters," or the teeth, was what appeared to claim the most attention from the speaker. (Mr. Stockton was at one time, previous to his entering the ministry, engaged in the manufacture of artificial teeth.) By the means of a pair of black-boards, Mr. Stockton exhibited diagrams in a magnified form, of the human jaws and teeth, the formation, growth and material of the first or temporary teeth of children, and of the way in which they give place to their successors or "permanent" teeth; and of the wisdom displayed by the Almighty in this respect. He then spoke of the care that is essential to the possession of good sound teeth; they must be kept clean. After giving his hearers some good sound advice on the subject of teeth preservation, he proceeded to speak of the importance and magnitude of teeth manufacture or "mechanical dentistry," and then went into all the details of their manufacture, illustrating the same by exhibiting to his hearers all the materials used; from the raw quartz, kaolin, alumina, platina, etc., passing from one stage of manufacture to another, until the beautiful set of teeth is turned out, finished. He then spoke of the various improvements that have been made from time to time in artificial teeth, and then paid a high compliment to our fellow townsman, Dr. Allen, as the inventor of a very important improvement in dental art, viz—that of making the teeth in a continuous or combined form so that no foreign matter can get any lodgment between them, they fit so close together. The Doctor, who was in the audience, was then called on and invited to make a few remarks. The Doctor spoke of his experience in the manufacture of artificial teeth, dating back to 1830, when human teeth were used, medical colleges supplying, so far as they were able, the demand for them; the teeth of old cows were utilized for this purpose, and those who needed teeth and could afford it, would buy a tooth from somebody who needed money worse than teeth, and would thereby consent to part with one. Slave owners were known to have drawn from the mouths of slaves, teeth for their own use and regard it as an absolute right for them to do so; such instances came under his own notice. He then spoke in a rather embarrassing manner of his own efforts in dental improvements, including one for which the Dental Association of New York voted him a gold medal, viz—an arrangement by which the contracted muscles of the faces of those who have lost their teeth can be restored to their proper position; and as an illustration, he proceeded to take his own mouth apart. By a tremendous effort he succeeded in drawing out what first appeared to be the whole upper set of teeth in conjunction with the entire roof (shingles and all) of his mouth; then he drew out apparently his lower teeth in connection with the lower jaw. In fact he took out so much that the facial collapse was truly startling, and he looked as though he, at one time in his life, had been hit in the mouth with a locomotive going at full speed; and his attempts at articulation were ludicrous in the extreme. He then put his face and mouth together again, and was himself once more. The audience enjoyed the entertainment hugely, and everybody went home feeling that they had learned something worth knowing.

Funeral Obsequies.

The funeral services of the late C. A. Foote took place last Monday afternoon. Arrangements had been made for attendance at the funeral by Plainfield Lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F., Perseverance Lodge No. 74, K. of P. and Warren Eng. Co. No. 3, all of which organizations the deceased had been a member. A heavy thunder storm which passed over the city about one o'clock, threatened to interfere, somewhat, with the order of exercises which had been arranged to be carried out by the organizations named. But although the rain succeeded in dampening the ground to an apprecia*tive extent, it did not dampen in the* least degree the respect that the brethren of the deceased held for him. At two o'clock the Odd Fellows filed out of their Lodge room and took up a position on the opposite side of the street, in front of the residence of the late brother. Perseverance Lodge K. of P., "fell in" at the rear of the Odd Fellows and "Warren 3" Engine Company brought up the rear of procession. In accordance with the expressed wish of the deceased just previous to his death, the Odd Fellows took entire charge of the services, and David R. Weaver was appointed as Grand Marshal. The procession, in the order named, proceeded to the First Presbyterian church where, from the gate to the church door, the societies "opened ranks" and the casket was borne through and then deposited in front of the pulpit in the church, while the seats which had been reserved for the societies were completely filled. Doctor Ketcham read the burial service and then preached a sermon from Phil. 1-21. "For me to live is Christ, but to die is gain." The preacher spoke of the religious aspect of the text and of the lofty height of moral excellence to which the apostle had attained in order to be able to express his feelings in the words of the text. He spoke of what it was to "live" in the days of the apostle and of what it is to "live" in the present age in our country; our city with its many advantages. He addressed himself particularly to the large number of young men present, spreading out before them the grand opportunities of life that are within the reach of every one, and said that any man, however wealthy or intellectual, unless he has a definite purpose in life, is a total failure. At the conclusion of the sermon which was listened to with the closest attention by the large number present, all were given an opportunity to view the remains, as well as the beautiful floral testimonials presented. The latter consisted of a star and pillow, the latter interlaid with blue violets with the figure "3" and "Warren's loss"—this was from Warren Eng. Co.; another was a heart of white flowers, interlaid with "I. O. O. F., Plainfield 44, F. L. T." in blue violets; another was a handsome tribute from Perseverance Lodge, K. of P., consisting of a bed of roses interlaid with a pink floral cross and title "K. of P. 74, F. C. B." The next tribute was a beautiful floral cross thirty inches high; this was presented by three of deceased's most intimate friends, Jules Boutes, Arthur de Lajoie and Henry King, it being their own handiwork. There was also a handsome crown from the Thespian Club, of which the deceased had been an honored member. At the close of viewing the above, the rain (which had already come in three or four preliminary showers) now fell in torrents and it was fully half an hour before a start was made for the Cemetery in North Plainfield. Arriving there in the same order in which they marched to the church, the Odd Fellows formed a hollow square around the grave, the K. of P. forming a line around them on the outside. Chaplain E. L. Boice of "44" then read the service of the dead, the brothers sang the funeral ode, the benediction was pronounced and the services so far as the Odd Fellows were concerned, were at an end. Upon the order of the Marshall the Knights then stepped forward and around the grave where their burial service was read; at the conclusion of which the assemblage was formally dismissed by Dr. Ketcham.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

USELESS FRIGHT.

To worry about any Liver or Kidney trouble, especially Bright's Disease or Diabetes, as Hop Bitters never fails of a cure where a cure is possible. We know this.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE of the Kidneys, Diabetes and other diseases of the Kidneys and Liver, which you are being so frightened about, Hop Bitters is the only thing that will surely and permanently prevent and cure. All other pretended cures only relieve for a time and then make you many times worse.

Malaria, Chills and Fever, and Bilious attacks positively cured with Emory's Standard Cure Pills—an infallible remedy; never fail to cure the most obstinate, long-standing cases where Quinine and all other remedies had failed. They are prepared expressly for malarious sections, in double boxes, two kinds of Pills, containing a strong cathartic and a chill breaker, sugar-coated; contain no Quinine or Mercury, causing no griping or purging; they are mild and efficient, certain in their action and harmless in all cases; they effectually cleanse the system, and give new life and tone to the body. As a household remedy they are unequaled. For Liver Complaint their equal is not known; one box will have a wonderful effect on the worst case. They are used and prescribed by physicians, and sold by Druggists everywhere, or sent by mail, 25 and 50 cent boxes. Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, best ever made, only 15 cents. Standard Cure Co., 114 Nassau Street, New York.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. This is not talk but truth. One pill a dose. To be had of all druggists. See advertisement.

WE USUALLY LEAVE IT TO DOCTORS to recommend medicines, but Parker's Ginger Tonic has been so useful in our family in relieving sickness and suffering, that we cannot say too much in its praise.—[Salem Argus.]

MANY WONDER How Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it simply essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ. See other column.

HOW TO SECURE HEALTH.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, skin, etc. It corrects indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man and Beast. For use externally and internally.

DR. ROGER'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP instantly destroys worms and removes the Secretions which cause them.

Best ever made, Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, pleasant to take, sugar-coated; no griping; only 15 cents a box, of Druggists or mail. Standard Cure Co., 114 Nassau Street, New York.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water, and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which Sulphur, Sugar of Lead, and Nitrate of Silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggist for it. Each bottle is warranted. SMITH, KLINE & CO., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and C. N. CRITTENTON, New York. ja18-1y

The Premium Horse!

SPARTAN, JR.

SPARTAN, JR., is a bright bay, 16 hands, foaled May 1, 1877, of superb style and trotting action, correctly gaited, with the finish and appearance of the highest type of the gentleman's roadster. He has won for himself a reputation which has no peer in the State. He has taken 5 first premiums in State and County; when four years old, in 1881, he took First State Special at Waverly Park of $100, over 10 competitors, of all ages, for best stallion standing in the State. Gentlemen wishing to raise stock, either for speed, road or coach will find the three combined in this promising young horse, also the best crosses that America or England can produce. Lovers of fine stock are invited to call and see this beautiful young horse.

PEDIGREE:

SPARTAN, JR., was sired by Spartan (record 2:[illegible]), grandsire Ethan Allen (record 2:15), never beaten in double harness.

Spartan, Jr.'s 1st dam was the noted mare Hattie, sired by Nelson, she took First State Special Prize at New Jersey State Agricultural Society in 1879 and 1880 of $100 each, best family of colts in the State. 2d dam by Fiddler, (record 20 miles in 60 min. 20 sec., never beaten), he by Monmouth Eclipse, son of American Eclipse. 3d dam by Balcorah, son of Whalebone.

Spartan's dam was a thoroughbred running mare by Lexington; Ethan Allen's 1st dam by Vermont Hambletonian; 2d dam Parish Hambletonian; 3d dam by Long's Tornado, he by American Eclipse.

Terms $30 to insure. Money to be paid when mare proves with foal. Will make the season of 1882 at the Stock Farm of R. & L. V. D. Shepherd, Bound Brook, N. J.

SURE CURE

PLAINFIELD, N. J., January 24th, 1882.
DEAR SIRS:—For the benefit of those suffering from that dread disease, Chills and Fever, I beg you will publish this testimonial:
"I was sick with this disease about four months and had tried everything I could get, and consulted with several physicians, but could not get permanent relief, when at last I heard of "Titsworth's Malaria Remedy," and its wonderful cures. After taking the first dose I felt better and continued to improve as I took the medicine. After using one bottle I was perfectly restored to health, and have not had a chill since."
Yours truly,

COMMITTEE REPORT.

From Special Committee on claim of Jonathan Moore, of Rahway:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN:

Your committee appointed to investigate and report in relation to injuries received by Jonathan Moore, of Rahway, in falling off the abutment of the bridge over South Branch of Rahway river on Inman avenue, Rahway, would respectfully report that after careful inquiry in relation to said matter and the manner said injuries were received, would recommend that the matter be left as it is, as in the opinion of the committee the county is not liable.

W. E. Clark,
C. W. L. Martine,
Thomas White,
A. J. Halliday,
Stephen S. Mapes,
George W. Doty.

On motion of Freeholder Runkle received and ordered on file.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Freeholder Doty:

WHEREAS, The Assessors are now about to make the assessment for the State and County tax; and

WHEREAS, The dispute as to the proper line between Essex and Union county has been fixed by an act of the Legislature; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the County Line Committee fix the monuments in accordance with the said act as soon as practicable, for the guidance of the Assessors on each side of said line.

On motion adopted by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Oliver:

Resolved, That the Collector is hereby authorized to pay bill due the Morris Plains Asylum, May 15, 1882, amounting to $4,104 98, when the same is properly audited.

On motion adopted by a unanimous vote.

The Director declared the Board adjourned to Thursday, July 6th, 1882, at 2 P. M.

JOHN L. CROWELL,
June 1st, 1882. Clerk.

A SURPRISE.

The story about Senator Sawyer asking his daughters to learn to cook, and when they prepared him a dinner of their own cooking he gave each a check for $25,000, is discounted by a man told of by a Western paper. He kissed his daughter fondly and told her if she would learn how to cook he would surprise her. She learned the art, and he surprised her by discharging the hired girl and compelling the daughter to do all the cooking for the family and a gang of threshers, and you all know how threshers will eat. The Western man might not make much of a Senator, but he would be a good boarding-house keeper.

LOSING A JOB.

A rather depressed looking kind of a man, who was formerly one of the leading citizens of Austin, went into the office of a young lawyer and said:

"I live very unhappily with my wife, and I come to you for relief."

The young lawyer thought he was going to get a big fee in a divorce suit, so he said gleefully:

"Yes, I think I can get you a divorce, which will mitigate your affliction."

"I don't care to put you to all that trouble. Just lend me a quarter to get something to make me forget my woes."

Attachment to Newspapers.

Some one who seems to know about the relation of a good newspaper to the family, writes as follows:

"The attachment of subscribers to a well-conducted newspaper is fully confirmed by publishers. 'Stop my paper!' words of dread to beginners in business, lose their terror after a paper has been established for a term of years. So long as a paper pursues a just, honorable and judicious course, meeting the wants of its customers in all respects, the ties of friendship between the subscribers and the paper are so hard to break by an outside third party as the link which binds old friends in business or social life. Occasional defects and errors in a newspaper are overlooked by those who have become attached to it, through its perusal for years. They sometimes become dissatisfied with it on account of something which has slipped into its columns, and may stop taking it; but the absence of the familiar sheet at their homes and offices for a few weeks becomes an insupportable privation, and they hasten to take it again, and possibly apologize for having it stopped. No friendship on earth is more constant than that contracted by the reader for a journal which makes an honest and earnest effort to merit its continued support. Hence a conscientiously conducted paper becomes a favorite in the family."

* * *

"Do you mean to call me a liar?" asked one rival railroad man of another railroad man, during a dispute on business they had on Austin avenue yesterday.

"No, Colonel, I don't mean to call you a liar. On the contrary, I say you are the only man in town who tells the truth all the time, but I'm offering a reward of twenty-five dollars and a chromo to any other man who will say he believes me when I say you never lie," was the response.

"Well, I'm glad you took it back," replied the other party, as they shook.

LEGAL NOTICES.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Charles McLaren, Sarah A. McLaren, James W. Raynor, Alice E. Raynor, Edgar F. Peck, John Tyler, executor of Leander Devoe, deceased, Alfred J. Cammeyer, George G. Nason and E. Elmore Callender.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Louis M. Noe and Sarah M. Noe, executors of Jonathan M. Noe, deceased, are complainants, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainants on or before the fourteenth day of July next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Mahlon M. Bonnel to Nathaniel Bonnel, dated April twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, and now held by the complainants on lands in the township of New Providence, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey; and you, Charles McLaren, are made a defendant because by the record it appears that you are owner of a portion of the mortgaged premises; and you, Sarah A. McLaren, are made defendant because as the wife of Charles McLaren you may claim some interest in the said premises; and you, James W. Raynor, are made defendant because by the record it appears that you are the owner of a part of the mortgaged premises; and you, Alice E. Raynor, are made defendant because as the wife of James W. Raynor you may claim some interest in the premises; and you, Edgar F. Peck, are made a defendant because it is alleged you claim to have or to have had some interest in the premises by purchase or otherwise; and you, John Tyler, executor of Leander Devoe, deceased, are made a defendant because you claim to hold a mortgage on part of the said premises; and you, Alfred J. Cammeyer and George G. Nason, are made defendants because you claim to hold a judgment against Mary J. Valentine; and you, E. Elmore Callender, are made a defendant because it is alleged you claim or have claimed some interest in said premises by purchase or otherwise.

Dated May 13th, 1882. Fees—$10.50.

Solicitor of Complainants,
Morristown, N. J.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

Between Sarah A. Cole, complainant, and Sheppard L. Stewart, et als., defendants. On bill to foreclose. Notice to absent defendants.

To Elizabeth W. Blecker and Charles Blecker her husband and Augustus Coddington.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Sarah A. Cole is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complainant's bill on or before the twenty-fourth day of July, A. D., 1882, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Sheppard L. Stewart to James Y. Wilson, and by him assigned to the said complainant, dated the eighteenth day of October, A. D., 1876, on lands situated in the city of Plainfield, county of Union and State of New Jersey, and that you Elizabeth W. Blecker, are made a defendant because it is therein alleged that you are the owner of the equity of redemption in said mortgaged premises; and you, Charles Blecker, are made a defendant because you are the husband of said Elizabeth W. Blecker, and as such, have or may claim to have some interest in the said mortgaged premises; and you, Augustus Coddington, are made a defendant because you with others, filed a lien claim upon said land and premises, which, if a lien at all, the complainant insists is subsequent to the date of the execution and delivery of her said mortgage and a lien subsequent to the lien of her said mortgage, dated May 22, 1882.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

JUST TOO FAR.

"But I tell you, Lou, I can't afford it!"

"Oh, you stingy thing! You are willing to have your wife go like a dowdy, just for the sake of a few paltry dollars!" And pretty Lou Falconer pouted her rosy lip, and turned pettishly away from her husband.

"We are a young firm, you know, Lou, and—"

"Oh, say nothing more about it, if you please. I shall never ask you for anything again." And with a little toss of her head she left the room.

Falconer sighed, and his brow contracted with pain, as he looked after her.

"Poor child! It is so hard to refuse her anything."

He was a pale young man, with a thoughtful cast of countenance and earnest gray eyes; habitually reserved and prudent, he was accounted a sharp business man, and at the time of his marriage, two years previous, the old men predicted that he would eventually become one of the largest capitalists in B. His wife, a wilful, pretty creature, seemed to be his one weak point. Nor was she slow to avail herself of this advantage; her influence over him was unbounded, and even in cases where it was against his better judgment he invariably yielded to her wishes. The present object of these last named was a garnet silk dress pattern, which she had that morning seen at C——'s fashionable store; and poor Falconer's ears were still ringing with the minute description of its incomparable loveliness.

"It seems so cruel to deny her what she has set her heart on," he said, laying down his pen, and arising, took one or two turns across the room. The result of his reflections was, that he put on his hat, went straight to C——'s, ordered the silk, and had it charged to his account.

Who would hesitate to credit Falconer & Frost? There was not a safer copartnership anywhere. The salesman blandly inquired, "Anything else, sir?" wrote the address and promised that the parcel should be sent home "in an hour's time." The purchaser walked slowly down to his business, not altogether satisfied with what he had done.

"Oh, Edward, you darling!" were the words that greeted him when he went home that evening, and throwing her arms around his neck, his wife literally overwhelmed him with kisses. "Oh, you dear love! how clever it was of you to feign the old Shylock, and then give me such a delightful surprise!"

"It was really a delightful surprise, Mignon," putting both hands upon her shoulders, and gazing fondly into the fair, joyous face. "I am simply rewarded for my trouble."

"Well, suppose you let me have some tea now."

"Certainly, as much as you want."

Throughout the meal Lou was gay and garrulous, and afterwards went to the piano and sang to her husband till bedtime.

"I can't make up this handsome dress myself," soliloquized Mrs. Falconer, as she examined her treasure next day; "I am sure that Edward would rather pay the dressmaker's bill than have me spoil it." So she forthwith took it to a fashionable modiste and was fitted.

When she reached home she found a letter from her mother in New York, saying that she would be with them by the following Tuesday, and immediately set about preparing a room for her reception.

"Dear me," she said, "I must have some new muslin curtains; I should be ashamed for mamma to see these, all darned as they are. Edward must be an angel again, and give me some."

"Sweetest, dearest, and best of men!" she said to him at dinner, "I am in a worse fix than was the princess Graciosa; wont you be Percinet and come to my assistance?"

"What is it you want now?" asked Falconer, beginning to get nervous.

"Oh, love, my muslin curtains are so ragged as to disgrace the house, and mamma is coming to visit me next week; she is always so particular about appearances, and I want to get some fresh ones to put up in her room."

"Is it absolutely necessary to have muslin curtains, Lou? Wouldn't dimity do just as well? I'm sure you must have a spare set."

"Oh, but mamma is accustomed to muslin curtains, and I know she won't feel at home with any other kind. There now, be a good darling, and let me get them."

"I hate to refuse you, Lou, but—"

"Oh! you've turned into a monster again, you Gorilla; I mayn't even welcome my mother, and make her comfortable in my home."

"You can welcome your mother and make her very comfortable, without the aid of muslin curtains," said Falconer, decidedly.

"Savage!" cried Lou, beginning to pout.

"This is unreasonable and childish!" exclaimed her husband, impatiently pushing back his chair. He had some perplexing business on his mind and was not in a mood for trifling. But Lou burst into tears.

"Hang it all!" cried Edward, and taking his hat he left the house. He had not gone ten steps, however, before his resolution failed him, and hurrying up to the nearest bank, he hastily drew a check and returned home with the money.—He found his wife in her own room, with their little Eddie on her lap, the traces of tears were fresh on her face, and she was singing to the baby in a low voice.

"Forgive me, my precious for having been so crabbed just now," pleaded Falconer, in a penitent tone, as he bent over and kissed her, at the same time placing the money in her hand. "Will this be sufficient for what you want?"

"More than sufficient!" she exclaimed delightedly, separating the roll of bank notes. "I'll take what's left over and get you a perfect duck of a dressing gown, and materials to work the loveliest pair of slippers you ever saw."

Falconer began to protest that he stood in need of neither dressing gown nor slipper, but a reproachful glance from Lou's blue eyes arrested his words. "Not when I'm going to make them with my own little fingers?" she said, and Edward was subdued instanter.

The following week Lou's mother, Mrs. Townsend, arrived, and was affectionately welcomed by her daughter and son-in-law. She was a thoroughly sensible, reasonable woman, with a deal of penetration, that seemed to divine things at a glance, and was an acquisition to any household.

"Don't you think, Lou," she said to her daughter, one day, when the latter had, in her usual coaxing, half-pouting style, been urging Edward to some fresh extravagance, "that you may push your importunities just too far? Mr. Falconer looks very much perplexed and worried to-day, I think."

"Oh, Edward is the dearest, most amiable of men."

"Yes, Lou, but the very reason that your husband is amiable and indulgent to a fault, you should be merciful, and not press him too far. Now I consider that baby's cloak which you coaxed him into getting for Eddie quite an unnecessary piece of extravagance. Now, take my advice, and be a little reasonable in your demands."

Mrs. Falconer knew better than to pout in her mother, she resolved not to ask her husband for anything in her presence again; but no sooner was Mrs. Townsend gone, than the old practice was renewed. Too much occupied with her own selfish little aims, she did not notice that her husband's manner was often strangely flurried; there was a recklessness in his very tenderness; refused her nothing that she asked for, and the little lady availed herself to the very utmost of his propitious disposition.

"Oh, Edward," she said to him one day, as they sat together over their dessert, "the Charity ball comes off next Wednesday, and I have been made one of the lady patronesses. I must have a pretty dress for the occasion."

"Order what you will," he said, laconically, as he rose and left the table.

The evening of the ball Lou was disappointed that her husband did not come home in time to see her dressed, but she could not keep her party waiting, and she was obliged to go off without seeing him.

Half an hour later Falconer came home. He inquired from the housemaid who had been roused from a nap by the violent jerking of the parlor bell, if her mistress had gone out; and sleepy as the girl was, she was startled (as she afterwards averred) "by the look of his face," as he dismissed her.

He went to his own room where little Eddie lay asleep, but turned abruptly from the picture. The heavy load of despair lay on his heart. Falconer & Frost had failed, and he was a defaulter to the amount of more thousands than he could hope to repay; his good fortune was gone; nothing but beggary and ruin lay before him, and the disgrace would be reflected on his wife and child. He passed to his dressing room, turned the key on the inside, and ten minutes later the neighbors were startled by the report of a pistol. They forced the door, and found that to the name of "bankrupt" and "swindler," which had been applied to him as soon as the failure had been made public, he had added that of "suicide."

They were fearful tidings that reached his wife's ear in the midst of the festivities, and hurried her home, and vainly might she, in frantic accents call on that lifeless form "only to speak to her once more" and she would be content to "live on dry crusts in a hovel for the rest of her days."

Then she called herself "his murderess," and wringing her hands incessantly, cried: "Just too far, too far!"

Vain, vain lament!

"HAVE A CIGAR?"

When the Atlantic express train over the Central road reached Niles the other day, a Detroit commercial traveler boarded the train, to find every seat taken. In the centre of one coach one seat was occupied by two satchels and another by an overcoat, while the owner of the articles was in the smoking car. The Detroiter gathered up all the baggage and placed it on the wood-box and occupied the seats with his own, and he had just got comfortably seated when the late occupant returned from his smoke. He saw what had transpired, and he was white with anger, when he began:

"Who moved my baggage?"

"I did," was the reply.

"Sir, I represent the wholesale crockery house of Blank & Blank, of New York, and I—"

"I know it—saw your name on your baggage," interrupted the other. "Have you seen the papers to-day?"

"No sir."

"I thought not. Well, your house has failed for $[illegible],000—can't pay 20 cents on the dollar—bad bust—no time for you to spell over two seats—[illegible] somewhere or stand by the stove, and when we get to Detroit I'll help you to get a pass home. Sorry for you and all that, but our house is rated A 1, has a reserve of $75,000 in mortgages, and the survival of the fittest is a principal older than the hills. Have a cigar?"

Some people can't come to an understanding with themselves, because—well, if the truth must be told—because they haven't any.

The boy defined salt as "the stuff that makes potatoes taste bad when you don't put it on." He was a twin brother of the boy who said that pies had saved a great many lives by not being swallowed.

A FLUCTUATING CHURCH MEMBER.

One day in the years agone a stranger arrived at [illegible], in this country, and inquired for a citizen commonly known as Uncle Ike. The old man was soon found in a grocery, and after the usual "how d'ye do," the stranger said:

"Do I address Uncle Ike Barlow?"

"You do," was the reply.

"Well, my name is Thorburn, of Ann Arbor."

"Jess so."

"They tell me that you are a great horse trader."

"Well, I dew make a trade now and then. What ye got?"

"I've got a horse I brought along on purpose to trade with you. Let us first understand each other. You are a member of the church?"

"Yes; I expect to be."

"Then of course I shall expect you to be honest with me. I've been looking at your old nag over there by the post. How old is he?"

"That 'ere hoss," slowly replied Uncle Ike, as he puckered his lips and squinted his left eye—"let's see—let's see! Well, now, I quite forgit whether he's nine or ten years old, but we'll say ten."

"Uncle Ike, isn't that horse all of 20 years old? Come now, as a member of the church, give me an honest answer."

"Look a here, mister," said the old man, after a strong gaze at the stranger, "I never trade horses but one way."

"How's that?"

"When I'm buying of a hoss I'm a purty good member of the church. When I'm selling a hoss I reckon on skipping about two prayer meetings. When I'm a trading hosses, then I calkerlate on backsliding for a hull month, or until I know the victim won't begin no law suit. Now stranger, that's me, and if you come to trade hosses don't reckon that Matthew, Mark, Luke or John ever writ a line advising church members to come right down and give away the ring bones on his own animile!"—Detroit Free Press.

EXPECTANCY.

A belated pedestrian going up Fort Street east at a late hour the other night, thought he observed a figure crouching in the latticed porch covering a front door. The matter had a suspicious look, and he halted and looked over the fence.

"Go on, now," called the voice of a female through the gloom.

"Do you live there?" inquired the man.

"Indeed I do."

"Can't you get in?"

"Indeed I can."

"Well, what are you waiting for?" he asked, after a pause.

"What for?" she demanded. "Would a respectable woman be crooked over here at this hour of the night with a club in her hand if she didn't expect her husband every blessed minute."—Free Press.

THE KIND HUNTER AND ST. PAUL.

The New York Methodist tells the following: In a country school house a congregation met to worship, and the last man who came in was a hunter clad in skins who could find no seat but an empty nail keg. The preacher grew eloquent on the saints in glory, and ranged one after another about the Throne. At length he came to St. Paul, and warming to his work cried out: "Where, then, my brethren, shall we place the glorious apostle to the Gentiles?" During the pause intended to give effect to his question, the skin-clad hunter rose from his nail keg and politely answered: "If you please, sir, if there is no other place for him he may have my seat!"

RESOLUTION DEFEATED.

At a late meeting of the Detroit Lime-Kiln Club, the Rev. Penstock offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, Dat de Lime-Kiln Club will use its influence on all possible occasions to suppress de brutal an' barbarous bizness of prize fightin'."

Medicated French called for the ayes and noes on the resolution, and without further remarks the roll was called and the resolution was voted down by a majority of thirty-six.

"While dis club may not favor prize fightin'," said the President, "it seems to hold dat if two brutes want to go out and pound each odder to pieces it am cheaper to git rid of 'em dat way dan to hang 'em. We will now disrupt de meetin' an' purceed homeward."

AN UMBRELLA STORY.

A gentleman who had no umbrella, and who had just come into town on a local train, perceived before him as he stepped into the street a person whom he took to be an acquaintance, and who had a fine umbrella hoisted over his head. Running up to him, therefore, he clapped him on the shoulder, saying, as he did so, by way of a joke: "I'll take that umbrella, if you please." The individual thus addressed looked around and disclosed a perfect stranger, but before the other could apologize he said, hurriedly: "Oh, it's yours, is it? Well, I didn't know that. Here, you can have it," and broke away, leaving the utensil in the hands of the first party to the conversation.

WHAT JUMBO EATS.

The daily allowance of food for 'Jumbo,' Barnum's big elephant, is as follows: 200 pounds of hay, two bushels of oats, one bushel of biscuit, twelve large loaves of bread, three quarts of onions, twenty buckets of water, and apples, figs, oranges, raisins, etc., in unlimited quantities. He is eleven feet six inches in height, and weighs six and a half tons. He drinks two or three bottles of whisky every day. He has developed a great liking for strong drink, swallows the contents of a whisky bottle at one gulp without winking, and then holds out his trunk and pleads for more. He is also very fond of lager.

TO REMOVE A RING.

To remove a finger ring, thread a needle with a strong thread, pass the head of the needle with care under the ring, and pull the thread through a few inches towards the hand; wrap the long end of the thread tightly around the finger regularly all down to the nail, to reduce its size. Then lay hold of the short end of the thread and unwind it. The thread pressing against the ring will gradually remove it from the finger. This simple method will remove a very tight ring without difficulty.

The man who can see sermons in running brooks, is most apt to go and look for them on Sundays, when trout are biting.

Boston girls are very proper. When a young man was assisting a south end lass to tie on her bonnet, which, by the way, had to be tied on at the back of the neck, she insisted that he should stand in front of her, so that she could keep her eye on him.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Let a man take time enough for the most trivial acts.

Memory is a source of comfort and stimulant to effort.

The mind without cultivation can never produce good fruit.

The man with iron fortitude is like a castle built upon a rock.

Upon the margin of celestial streams alone those simples grow which cure the heartache.

The charges we personally experience from time to time, we obstinately deny to our principles.

If a man talks of his misfortunes there is something in them that is not disagreeable to him.

To acquire a few tongues is the task of a few years; but to be eloquent in one is the labor of a life time.

The proper way to check slander is to despise it; attempt to overtake and refute it, and it will overturn you.

It is wonderful to note the number of men who see the value of a thing after it is beyond the reach.

Brains cannot be measured by the size of the head, nor eloquence by the extent of the mouth.

Each man has an aptitude born with him to do easily some feat impossible to any other.

Virtue dwells at the head of a river, to which we cannot get but by rowing against the stream.

True goodness is like the glowworm—it shines most when no eyes save those of heaven are upon it.

Envy is a vice which keeps no holiday, but is always on the wheel, and working its own disquiet.

Good manners is an art of making those people easy with whom they converse; whoever makes the fewest persons weary is the best bred man in the company.

If an imposition be put upon you abide your time, and when the favorable moment arrives, strike with all your power, but let reason guide the blow, for, as the iron, struck at the right moment, wields readily, so with your enemy—your blow must be timely and powerful to be effective.

Beware what you say of others, because you only reveal yourself thereby. A man doesn't think to look behind the door unless he has sometime stood there himself.

A FEW PROBLEMS.

What velocity must a locomotive have to pick up a deaf man walking on the track and fling him so high that six cars pass before he comes down?

A boy earned twenty cents per day for eighteen days, and bought his mother a musk-rat muff costing $3 10. How much did he have left to go to the circus with?

A farmer sold eleven bushels of potatoes and the product purchased two gallons of whiskey at ninety cents per gallon. How much per bushel did he get for his tubers, and where did he keep the jug?

A mother standing at the gate calls to her boy who is exactly sixty-eight feet distant. It takes two minutes and sixty-eight seconds for the sound to reach him. Find from this the velocity with which a woman's voice travels.

A woman earned forty cents per day by washing, and supported a husband who consumed four dollars' worth of provisions per week. How much was she in debt at the end of each month up to the time he was sent to the work house?

A father agreed to give his son four and one-half acres of land for every cord of wood he chopped. The son chopped three-sevenths of a cord and broke the ax and went off hunting rabbits. How much land was he entitled to?—Detroit Free Press.

Cheerfulness is an excellent wearing quality. It has been called the bright weather of the heart.

The hardest rock is made of the softest mud. Don't allow the sentiment of habit to harden into vice.

Good taste rejects excessive nicety; it treats little things as little things and is not hurt by them.

A patent has been taken out in Boston for cleaning fish, by giving them snuff, when they sneeze their scales off.

"How many carriages shall you want to haul the grief?" is the way the undertakers put it in Deadwood.

"That's what beats me," as the boy said when he saw his father take the skate strap down from its accustomed nail.

"I declare," said Julia, "you take the words right out of my mouth." No wonder; they are so sweet," said Henry. The day was set that evening.

"It's no use to feel of me wrist, dochter," said Pat, when the physician began taking his pulse; "the pain is not there, sure; it's in me hid entoirely."

Do all that lies in your power to add to the happiness of your friends to-day. Even though it be but little, neglect it not. Do not wait until next week, or next month.

A sweet little cherub who attends a Philadelphia Sunday School, and was much interested in the preparations for Christmas, remarked that she was so happy they were "going to practice the Christmas caramels."

A little boy said he didn't want the soft part of the biscuit. "Some little boys," observed his mother, "would be very thankful to get it." "Then why don't you give it to them?" answered the four-year-old hopeful.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, as he pressed her tenderly to him at parting, "shall I hold you in these arms again to-morrow and paint our future with the bright pigments of the imagination?" "No," she said calmly, "not to-morrow; to-morrow is wash-day."

A clergyman was passing through the Humboldt mountains with an old miner. Said the miner: "Do you really believe that God made the world in six days?" "Of course I do." "Well, don't you think," returned the miner, "that he might have put in one more day to advantage right around here?"

"When I came to town, said a rich broker, "I hadn't a penny of my own."

"And have you now, sir?" asked a quiet-faced man in the far corner of the room. The broker didn't answer the question. Perhaps he didn't hear it. Possibly it was a pain in the stomach that drew his brow down so suddenly.

POSTSCRIPT.

As we go to press we learn of an accident on the Long Branch R. R., caused by an express train running off the track between the Branchport and Oceanport drawbridges. Five persons are reported as being killed. The train was one of three that leave Long Branch for New York at 8 a. m. About one hundred were injured. Mr. Charles Foster of this city, the fireman of the locomotive, dragged Gen. U. S. Grant from the wreck of the smoking-car.

NATIONAL.

Before our paper again issues from the press, the one hundred and sixth anniversary of the Declaration of American Independence will have been reached and passed.

In this locality no formal celebration of that memorable event has been arranged for the present year, still, it can be thoughtfully and profitably honored by each patriotic citizen.

Although the booming of artillery, the stirring notes of music, and the voice of oratorical eloquence may not be heard, there lives a silent power mighty to influence us individually, and that is the earnest remembrance of national blessings, and the rendering of grateful thanks therefor to Almighty God, who guided Washington to victory and who has since preserved and enlarged its priceless fruits.

Let us all on the approaching national birth-day seriously ponder the fierce struggle that raged around the cradle of Independence, and call to mind the heroic actions of those gallant men who, trusting in Heaven, amid privations and disasters, resolutely warded off strong armed blows and finally won for us a country.

And then think what that country now is—

A magnificent domain, embracing almost every variety of climate, laved by two majestic oceans; surpassingly grand and beautiful in natural scenery, boundlessly rich in all that ministers to the wants of the human family, and peacefully prospering beneath the wing of a government the wisest and best that was ever framed for the welfare and protection of man.

And then resolve—

That come what may, our country's Constitution, Union and Liberties shall be perpetuated, unsullied and unchanged, until hundreds of millions of happy freemen, greeting the starry flag as the emblem of their citizenship, recount with patriotic pride and fervor the glorious deed of 1776 and its immortal authors—

"Who rose in Freedom's rare sunrise,
Like giants roused from wine;
And in whose hearts and in whose eyes
Dwelt and shone a faith sublime!
Their spirits flashed out like naked swords,
Unfaltering for noble aim;
Strength went like battle with their words
And carved a nation's name."

DOWN AND UP.

The revolt of Independent Republicans in Pennsylvania against the tyranny so long exerted over them by Cameronian leaders argues well for the future, and taken in connection with a like spirit of manly freedom manifested throughout the country, strengthens the hope that the rule of political bossism is fast nearing its end.

That it may be speedily and forever demolished should inspire the earnest wish and effort of every sincere friend of free representative government, let his partisan name be Republican or Democrat.

The intelligent and unrestricted will of the people, not the selfish and corrupt dictation of their would-be masters, is the sovereignty of the Constitution, and whatever interferes with the freedom and purity of that aims a blow at popular rights.

We want no political bosses of any description, neither great nor small, in primary meetings or nominating conventions, at State Capitols, in Congressional halls, or the Presidential chair.

The thing is anti-American and dangerous.

Political parties are beneficial when organized and honestly conducted for the good of the people and the honor of country.

The only true theory of Republican government is perfect liberty of choice on the part of the constituency and rigid fidelity of action on the part of the representative.

To depart from that is to extinguish the beacon light of safety.

Down with political bossism!
Up with popular sovereignty!

UNION COUNTY TO THE FRONT.

"The Plainfield CONSTITUTIONALIST of last week contained an article urging the Democracy of Union County to unite upon and present a candidate for Congress. The sentiment is a good one, and that paper might have gone further and suggested the name of a man well fitted to gain such a union; but, as it did not, we will supply the omission, and respectfully submit for the favorable consideration of the CONSTITUTIONALIST, the Democracy of Union County and the third Congressional district generally, the name of the honest, straightforward, capable Jeffersonian Democrat, Judge Nathan Harper, of Plainfield, upon whom we believe all can unite. Again we say

For Congress,
HON. NATHAN HARPER,
Subject to the decision of the Democrat Congressional Convention."

The above from the Rahway National Democrat, we heartily endorse. Judge Harper embodies all that is necessary to fill so high a position with honor alike to himself and constituents. He is an honest and capable man. In Union County where he is so well known, he would poll a large vote and secure a handsome majority. With Judge Harper as the nominee the Democratic and Conservative voters of the District would have a candidate they could harmonize on and elect. We should be proud to raise at our mast head the name NATHAN HARPER for Congress.

THE JERSEY CENTRAL ELECTION.

This election came off last Friday. There was little or no excitement and interest, the element of opposition being wanting. The following gentlemen were declared elected: Henry S. Little, John Kean, Edward Clark, Sidney Shepard, Samuel Sloan, Robert Garrett, Franklin B. Gowen, Theo. F. Randolph and Edward C. Knight. At least six of these gentlemen are known to be strongly in favor of the Baltimore and Ohio and Reading connections.

The city of Orange is to be supplied with water by damming a natural basin at Milburn and conveying the water in pipes by its own gravity to a reservoir near the city. A daily supply of 1,700,000 gallons can thus be obtained at a cost of $400,000, which includes land and all expenses of construction, &c. It is calculated that the system will give a head of 90 feet above the highest point in the city.

MURDER IN MORRIS COUNTY.

Tuesday night of last week at Port Oram, Morris county, a deliberate murder was committed, the motive for which was jealousy. Minnie Chirgwin, a young lady seventeen years of age, was murdered by her lover, James Treglown, while out walking with a young man named Henry James, about twenty-five minutes to nine o'clock, on the tow-path of the Morris Canal, about two hundred yards east of Port Oram blast furnace. The first two shots fired by Treglown were directed at his supposed rival, but failed to take effect. The third was aimed at the young lady, and took effect in the mouth, penetrating the upper lip and knocking out a front tooth. Dr. Hulsher, who was immediately summoned, probed for the ball, but failed to locate it. He is of opinion that it lodged in the throat. After the shooting the body of Minnie was found in the canal, and is supposed to have been thrown in by Treglown. It is not positively known as yet whether death was caused by the shot or drowning, as her escort, Henry James, is unable, through fright and excitement, to give a correct account of the affair. Deputy-Sheriff Dunn and Francis H. Earl arrested the murderer Friday night and lodged him in the jail at Newton at 1 o'clock the next morning. He was found at ten in the house of James Mc Peek, a farmer living near Roseville, Byram Township. He resisted stoutly and attempted to get hold of his seven-shooter. The deputy, however, placed a revolver to his head, when he yielded and was instantly handcuffed.

The Annual Labor strikes are occurring throughout the country. The latest phase in the movement is the strike of the freight-handlers on all the railroads centering at Jersey City, this State. Their demonstrations have been peaceable but determined, and the sympathies of a large percentage of the citizens are with them. So long as grinding monopolies and large corporations insist in cutting down the prices of labor, so long will these uprisings occur. The people are seriously inconvenienced and merchants, especially, who deal in perishable goods, are damaged financially by these strikes and there is a strong feeling expressed against the railroad companies for their parsimoniousness. Give the laborer his due and strikes will not occur.

The Elizabeth Herald truthfully remarks: "Proper Democratic leadership will secure Democratic victories everywhere when the next elections take place. Both factions of the split-up Republican party are fighting each other for the loaves and fishes. The Democratic party should make a fight on strictly Democratic principles against bossism and one-man power, and for economy in public expenditures, and in that case the elections will take care of themselves.

The following officers have been elected for the New Jersey State Baptist Sunday School Union for the ensuing year: President, the Rev. Dr. Robert Lowery, of Orange; Vice President, the Rev. A. H. Lung; Secretary, the Rev. Benjamin F. Liefsner, of Red Bank; Treasurer, John W. Mount.

Ex-Assemblyman Parrot is a candidate for Surrogate on the Republican side. It is generally conceded that Surrogate Gerber will be re-nominated by the Democrats and of course, re-elected. He has made a most satisfactory official during his term of office.

No other name is mentioned in connection with the County Clerkship nomination on the Democratic side, than that of Mr. Jas. S. Vosseller, the present incumbent.

The Committee on Lunacy of the Board of Chosen Freeholders visited the Insane Asylum at Morris Plains last Thursday. They all returned in safety.

Gov. Ludlow has issued a proclamation relative to the strike at Jersey City, promising to call out the military in case necessity should require it.

The thermometer at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon last reached 98 degrees. All the watering places around New York city were crowded.

Guiteau, the assassin of the President, hangs to-day, June 30th.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF WESTFIELD PUBLIC SCHOOL.

On Thursday evening, June 29, the closing exercises for 1882 took place in the School Hall.

The hall had been previously decorated in a very tasteful manner with flags and flowers. The hall was crowded to excess by the parents and friends of the pupils, and all seemed well pleased with the exercises. The following programme was rendered by the pupils:

SECOND GRADE—Susie M. Marsh, Harry B. Harden.

THIRD GRADE—Maggie A. Mapes, Frank H. Baker, Nellie Irving, Andrew Bennett, Maggie Kane, Charles Mulford, Hollis Grant, Emma J. Clark, Robert M. Crosby, Paul Lansing, Bertha Courter, Lizzie Rea, John Daily, David Curran, Walter H. Laveridge, Sadie Brown, John Brewster, John Barhans, Annie Gilby, Jennie A. Clark, Lizzie Pierson, Edith Hodson, Kitty Fairbairn, Patrick O'Connor, Ida M. Clark, Edward L. Sandford, Edith Sayers, Grace M. Hall, Charles H. Darsh, Robert Dennis, Aaron Clark, Emma Darsh, John O. Hall.

This school has labored under very great disadvantages during the year. Early in January the scarlet fever broke out among the children, increased so rapidly and attacked so many that it was thought best to close the school for a season. The school was closed on the 15th of February and remained closed until the 1st of April, but virtually it was closed from the first of January, because of the small number in attendance. Notwithstanding this great loss of time to the pupils, they have succeeded in acquitting themselves creditably as the number of testimonials awarded very plainly indicates. Great credit is due to the Superintendent, William Henry Elston, and his corps of efficient teachers, for their devotion to the interest of the Public School of our town.

The parade and reception of the Westfield Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1 with their new Holloway Chemical engine, occurred on Monday evening, June 26th inst. The procession formed on Broad street, in front of Lyceum Hall, at 7:30 p. m., and started in the following order; Foreman John E. Barcalow; Plainfield Cornet Band; members of Township Committee in carriages; the New Engine, drawn by Adam Miller's fine team of gray horses; members of "Excelsior" Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1, of Scotch Plains; Westfield Hook and Ladder Truck, drawn by its members; citizens in carriages. The route was up Broad street to Clark street, up Clark to Union place, through Union place to Prospect street, up Prospect to Dudley avenue, to Elm street, down Elm to Orchard street. At the corner of Elm and Orchard streets the procession halted in front of the residence of Robert R. Sinclair, Esq., where the band played some lively airs; it again started on its route through Orchard street to Mountain avenue, down Mountain avenue to Elmer street, through Elmer to Central avenue, down Central avenue to Park street, through Park St. to in front of the residence of Geo. W. Van Buskirk, where the procession was halted and treated to refreshments by that gentleman, and thence from Park street to Westfield avenue. At the residence of A. A. Drake, Esq., they marched around the circle at that point and Mr. Drake made a short speech in his happy style; from there the line of march was continued down Westfield avenue to North avenue, down North avenue to Central avenue, up Central avenue to Broad street, and from there to Lyceum Hall, where the procession was reviewed by the Town Committee from a raised platform in front of the Hall, which was gaily decorated with flags and bunting, the whole surroundings in front of the Hall being brilliantly illuminated with fire works, after which they adjourned to Lyceum Hall, where a fine collation had been prepared by the ladies, consisting of three large tables extending the whole length of the Hall loaded down with the delicacies of the season. After all had been seated Rev. Warren Hoagland asked a blessing. Foreman John E. Barcalow welcomed them all to the feast prepared. After the inner man had been fully satisfied speech making was indulged in, Major Quincy, manager for New York and New Jersey of the Holloway Chemical Engine Co. leading off, and was followed by Robert R. Sinclair, Esq., chairman of the Township Committee, Freeholder Mapes, Thos. J. Nichol, of "Excelsior" Hook and Ladder Co., A. A. Drake, Esq., Prof. Elston, Rev. E. H. Brenson and others. Many of the residences of our citizens along the route of the procession were gaily decorated and illuminated for the occasion, among them were the residences of John M. Crane, Dudley avenue, S. S. Mapes, Prospect street, R. R. Sinclair and John Hodges, Elm street, William Dallis, Orchard street, Geo W. Van Buskirk, Park street, A. A. Drake, Westfield avenue, Mr. Percy Philips, Central avenue, J. A. Simpson, Elmer street, Foreman Barcalow, North avenue, Dr. Cooper, Central avenue, Cap't Ransco and Wm. Gale on Broad street. The committee of ladies who had charge of the collation and supper, deserve great credit and praise for the able manner in which they discharged their duty. The officers of the Westfield Company are John E. Barcalow, Foreman; Mathias Clark, first assistant; Gus Koester, second assistant; George W. Tice, Treasurer; John Hodges, Secretary. The engine cost $2,000.

Mr. J. M. Salva, residing on Mountain avenue, returned home on Sunday last from Europe where he had been on a business trip. He looks well and hearty.

On Friday evening June 23d inst. Mr. A. W. Moffett went to Plainfield with his wife, in his horse and buggy. On his return his horse, "Grey Prince" one of a team of matched horses, was taken sick at Brittin's Hotel, Scotch Plains, and died inside of an hour from the time it was first taken.

James T. Pierson has sold his cottage house and lot on Cumberland street to William Hodge, who expects soon to occupy it.

The closing exercises of the Public School will take place on Thursday evening, June 29th inst. in Academy Hall. The exercises will consist of singing by the school, dialogues and recitations.

Mr. Joseph E. Connoly, who has been engaged with Mr. James T. Pierson in the dry goods and grocery business, has resigned from the same and accepted a more lucrative one in the Washington Life Insurance Company of New York. He is now enjoying a vacation until the first of the month when he expects to enter upon his new duties. He has been engaged in the life insurance business before.

The Surveyors of Highway were appointed by the Court of Common Pleas on Saturday the 24th inst., in the matter of the application of the laying of the new roads, the same being the extension of Orchard street and Kimball avenue.

One of our citizens had a large keg of lager in his door yard for the purpose of treating some of his friends on Monday evening last, but some person or persons to the owner unknown purloined the same. In consequence some musically inclined persons had to go dry.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

OH, for an Opera House. Oh!

REGULAR monthly meeting of the Common Council on Monday evening next.

THE Rev. A. E. Main of Rhode Island, will preach in the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Saturday, at 10:30 o'clock.

SWALM of No. 6 North avenue, is selling all the latest styles and qualities of wall papers at from 8 to 20 cents a roll.

DR. Mattison of North Plainfield, intends shortly to open the drug store on Somerset street formerly occupied by Mr. T. B. Armstrong.

ON Sunday last the First Baptist Sunday School voted to have its sessions in the morning instead of afternoon during the coming Summer.

A BOY of about eight years of age fell in a deep pool of water from a boat near Sebring's Mills at Dunellen, on Wednesday, and was drowned.

MESSRS. Edsall and Price, with a kind regard for the pleasures of their employees, will not open their store during any part of next Monday and Tuesday.

FOR the past week rumors have been circulating to the effect that the entire force of employees on the Central R. R. propose "striking" unless their demands are complied with.

THERE will be preaching of the gospel in the open air, at 4:30 Sunday afternoon, in the grounds of Mr. Paul J. Loizeaux on Chatham street at the foot of Water. All are cordially invited.

NEXT week will appear the advertisement of George W. Moore who offers a full line of patent and plain wheels and wheel materials from the celebrated manufactory of Hoopes Bro. & Darlington.

A VERY handsome "glass lamp" is to be erected on the corner of Park and North avenues, by Reynolds', the Pharmacist. Thermometer and weather-gauge attachments will be additional features of convenience.

AN entertainment will be given by the members of the Band of Hope in Warren Mission Chapel on Friday, June 30th, at 7:30 o'clock. Owing to the need of a larger room, it will be possible to invite the members and their parents only.

THE First Baptist Sunday School is the first to announce an excursion to that delightful bathing resort Ocean Grove, and on Wednesday, July 19th, will undoubtedly leave Plainfield for such destination with 15 car-loads of itself and friends.

THE children of Evona will hold a "Parlor Sale" for the benefit of the Muhlenberg Hospital, at the Union Sabbath School room, corner of Front street and Clinton avenue, Evona, on Monday evening, July 3d. Doors will open at 6 o'clock.

ST. Mary's T. A. B. Society intends to give a picnic in Stelle's Grove on Thursday, July 13th, during both afternoon and evening, and propose to make it the grandest affair of the kind ever experienced. Further particulars will be given later.

THE model of the Strasburg Clock, which was on exhibition here some time since, was burned in Mechanicville, Saratoga county, N. Y., the other day. It was valued at $3,000 and its owner, one Johnson of New York, had an insurance of $1,500 on it.

THIS evening the Committee in whose hands is placed the duty of deciding upon the steps leading most probably towards success, and inaugurating such plans as will result in the desired object—a Public Hall—will meet at the residence of the Mayor.

HARRY, the three year old son of Alex. Warnock, fell from a milk-wagon into which he had clambered, on Wednesday last and broke his right shoulder blade. Dr. Field set the fractured parts, and the little shaver seems to care little about the accident.

WM. Addis, the North avenue plumber, has shown himself to be a public benefactor and an advocate of temperance principles. In front of his office is a flowing stream of pure cold water, raised from a driven-well by a caloric engine, and of which all are at liberty to drink.

TELEPHONE communication between this city and New York, we are assured by Manager Ohl, will soon be a reality desired by our community. The delay has been occasioned in consequence of a suit in the Courts regarding right of way in erection of poles in the Elizabeth district.

THE Mansion House, of this city, E. P. Thorn, proprietor, has been closed to guests until September 1st, in consequence of needed repairs being made to the interior of the building, steam heat adapted, &c. The bar is still kept open, where the best of liquors are always to be obtained.

THE case of Schenck vs Pauli which was recently decided in favor of the defendant and appealed by the plaintiff, has been settled by the withdrawal of the appeal and the payment of the costs by Mr. Schenck. Mr. Walter L. Hetfield was the defendant's counsel and Corporation Counsel Marsh acted for the plaintiff.

A GRAND PICNIC under the auspices of St. Joseph's Church of North Plainfield will be held in Wooden's Grove on July 4th. Music will be furnished by Cahill's Band, refreshments of all kinds may be obtained on the grounds and the grove is to be brilliantly illuminated during the evening. An unusually good time is assured.

ON Tuesday afternoon and evening at Coriell's Grove, near Washington ave., Dunellen, there will be held a Picnic for the benefit of St. John the Evangelist's church of that place. A special band from New York city has been engaged and will furnish the music for the occasion, and a stage will run from the R. R. station to the grove.

FOLLOWING the Baptist excursion to Ocean Grove will be another on Aug. 3d, under the management of Messrs. Laing and Nelson. In the latter part of August or early in September the Crescent avenue Presbyterians will take their trip, but as there has arisen such a great difference of opinion as to the best place, their destination is yet unsettled.

THE Committee on Bridges of the Union County Board of Freeholders, Messrs Briant, Stover, Martine, Isemann and White, visited Summit on Wednesday last, to view the site of a proposed new line bridge between Union and Morris Counties in conjunction with a like Committee from the Morris County Board. The bridge is to be of 100 feet span over the Passaic river.

WARREN Hose Boys and their friends had an enjoyable open air festival in Wooden's Grove during Thursday of last week, whereat all passed many hours of pleasure. The grounds were brilliantly lighted throughout the evening, and the fine music furnished by Prof. Voss was a great source of gratification to the many dancers present. The proceeds, amounting to $60 net, were given to a sick member of the Engine Co.

THE Fair for the benefit of the Children's Home, given by the pupils of Mrs. Austin's Craig Place School on Saturday last, was a success in every particular. The class room was filled with pretty articles for sale and people to buy them, while under the shady trees out-doors seats were arranged where ice cream and cakes could be fully enjoyed. The proceeds were $60 01—a very creditable result of the labors of the little ones for the comforts of others.

ONE week from next Friday the merry Saengerbund, with its wives and friends, leaves Plainfield for a Water Excursion to Hudson Grove, Echo Bay and Long Island Sound. The trip is to be one of the most enjoyable ever started from this city and arrangements for the comfort and pleasure of all have been made by the Committee in charge—Messrs Solomon Fleig, Fred Casper, Hugo Weigmann, Charles Smith and Adolph Korman. Tickets may be procured from members of the society.

A Queer Business.

From the Easton Express of Friday we copy the following regarding a druggist formerly engaged in business on Somerset street, North Plainfield:

"J. M. White, of Plainfield, N. J., several weeks since opened a drug store on South Third street, near Washington. He boarded with his wife and child at Weaver's (American) Hotel. A few days since he sent his wife and child out of town, and yesterday he went out of town himself, leaving the key of his store in Gwinther's butcher shop, next door. Last evening a man registered at the American Hotel as A. H. Brown, of Maryland. He addressed Mr. Weaver as Mr. White, and when told of his mistake, said he had traded his farm in Maryland to J. M. White for a drug store in Easton, and had come here to take possession of it. This caused Mr. Weaver to feel uneasy, because J. M. White owed him $100 for board. He went to Justice Hildebrand and had a foreign attachment issued on the stock in the Store of J. M. White. It is the opinion of many that the transaction of White is a put-up job. White left a letter on his counter addressed to A. H. Brown, which was given to the police, who now allege that he is the owner of the stock in the store."

We Wonder!

If any Plainfield parties would have acted so indiscreet and boisterous on our public streets, during the night and morning hours, as did that party of men and women who visited a Temperance meeting in this city on Monday evening last, without being interviewed by our police force?

Plainfield Lodge No. 44, I. O. O. F.

At a regular meeting of this Lodge held on Monday evening, an election resulted in the choice of the following officers for the coming term:

N. G.—James Ryno.
V. G.—Fred M. Slater.
Treas.—T. J. Young.
Sec. Secretary—James E. Arnold.
Permanent " —F. V. Weaver.

One Year Ago.

We had a dog-pound - - - - - Plainfield defeated Bound Brook at base-ball by a score of 12 to 11 - - - - - Foreman Saltzman of Alert Hose Co., returned from Europe - - - - - Miss Lulu Roberts of this city was married to Prof Hasbrouck of Rutgers' College - - - - Peter G. Osborne's barn near New Market was struck by lightning and considerably damaged - - - - - The comet was the wonder of the day—or rather night - - - - - Lots of said storms.

Gas Explosion.

About six o'clock Tuesday evening last, the citizens of Scotch Plains were startled by a loud explosion, and the sight of an immense volume of smoke and flame ascending skyward in the vicinity of the Baptist Church. Investigation proved that an explosion had occurred in the small brick building used for the manufacture of gas for the church. The roof of the building was a very slanting one. The force of the explosion had split the roof apart at the top and both sections slid down to the ground intact on either side of the building. The door of the house was blown outward a distance of 75 feet. The damage will be about $60, the gas generating machine not being injured. It is supposed a leakage of gas caused the explosion, but how, is not known.

Another County Mandamus.

It's Elizabeth this time. The Treasurer of the City of Elizabeth having refused to pay the County interest on State and County money after the same had become due under the city charter, application for mandamus was made to compell the payment of $685 29. Interest from Oct. 22d, 1881 to Dec. 3d, 1881, at which time the taxes for the year was paid. The Court (Justices Scudder and Knapp) held "That the time for payment was fixed by the charter" and further "It is admitted that the City Treasurer had moneys in his hands at the time when the State and County tax was payable which he could have appropriated to the payment of these taxes. He is without legal excuse for his delay in payment and according to the recent decision of this court in State vs VanWickle 14 Vroom 125, he is chargeable with interest from Oct. 22d, 1881 to Dec. 3d, 1881, when payment of the principal amount claimed was paid."

Personalia.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. South have returned from their Western trip.

Mr. John Steiner, we regret to learn, is suffering from severe indisposition, brought about by a cold.

Gen. Eli Long and family have left Plainfield for their Summer residence at Bluff Point, Yates Co., New York.

Mayor L. V. F. Randolph was recently elected Treasurer of the Illinois Central R. R., for the eighth term in succession.

The mother of Mr. I. D. Ten Eyck of this city, died at her residence in Piscataway Township, during Wednesday night last, aged 89 years. The funeral will take place from the late residence of the deceased in New Brooklyn, at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and at 2:30 from the church.

The Rev. H. M. Lowry of Colorado Springs, will occupy his father's pulpit in the Park avenue Baptist church, next Sunday morning.

Rev. J. H. Vincent has a communication in this week's Central Times that is decidedly "to the point" and contains undeniable statements tersely expressed.

Miss Julia Bulkley, Principal of the High School, will spend the Summer at Chautauqua, where she is engaged with a branch of the work pursued under the direction of that organization.

Messrs. Chas. Hyde, Jr., and L. W. Serrell, Jr., of this city, were among those who graduated with honor from Dr. Pingry's School at Elizabeth, on Friday of last week.

Miss Josephine Holcombe of this city was married on Wednesday morning, at the residence of her parents on Central avenue, by the Rev. T. D. Holcombe, to Lieut. A. S. Taylor.

Mrs. Dr. Charles H. Stillman notified the Board of Education greatly to its satisfaction, of her intention to continue the giving of the prize in mathematics that was instituted by her late husband.

Mr. John H. Honeyman is at Asbury Park arranging for the opening at that place of the branch of their business that is managed thereat during the Summer season by Messrs. Honeyman & Co., of this city.

Principal Moore of the North Plainfield Public School is deserving of the credit that was last week inadvertently given to one who years since severed his connection with educational matters over the brook.

Our esteemed Democratic friend, Mr. C. S. A. Davis, who, although nearly 75 years of age, is still so hale and hearty as to plant corn in his garden during the hot weather, as he was observed engaged in that business Wednesday last.

Mr. Lambert Foster, a Junior of Yale College and a class mate of Mr. George Vincent of this city, is visiting relatives in North Plainfield prior to his departure for the White Mountains where he will spend the remainder of the Summer vacation.

Mr. Tell A. Boguelin one of Alert's most popular members (next to Foreman Saltzman) and a good staunch Democrat, was married on Tuesday to Miss Emma Dreyer, a lady of many accomplishments and for some time past a resident of Plainfield.

Judge Nathan Harper, Worthy Patriarch of the Howell Division Sons of Temperance, delivered an able speech of welcome, last Monday evening, upon the occasion of a visit to the Plainfield Association by a delegation from a New York brotherhood.

Mr. Charles E. Jacques, the architect of North Plainfield, has been honored recently by the acceptance of his plans for the erection of a magnificent structure at Easton, Pa. The Cemetery Company Directors of that city on Thursday last, entirely approved of the plans and specifications designed by Mr. Jacques for a monumental gateway at one of the Cemetery entrances, and its erection will be commenced at once.

Fire Matters.

The Board of Managers of the Plainfield Fire Department met in adjourned meeting on Wednesday evening at the house of No. 2 Engine Co. All present excepting Mr. Fleig. On motion of Mr. Morris a resolution was adopted that watchmen be stationed in the fire bell tower from 6 o'clock p. m. of July 3d to 6 o'clock a. m. of July 5th, and that an engineer be on duty at each of the steamer houses during the same hours. The compensation for the service to be 20 cents per hour to watchmen and 25 cents per hour to engineers. Treasurer Dunn read the following bids for bonds of the Department to be issued July 1st with interest at 6 per cent.: The Plainfield Fireman's Relief Association proposed to take one bond ($500) with the privilege of two, at par. Mr. E. R. Pope offered 102 for the entire amount ($5,000) and Mr. C. Zabriskie of Jersey City offered 103.27. On motion the latter proposal was accepted and the bonds sold to Mr. Zabriskie at a total premium of $163.50.

At 20 minutes past 12 o'clock to-day (Thursday) an alarm of fire was given caused by smoke and flames issuing from the roof of the building known as the "Candy Factory" along the railroad track on Church street. The Fire Companies promptly responded, but upon their arrival at the scene found little work for them, as through the exertions of neighbors, a hand pump with small hose attached, had been set at work, water being taken from the supply surrounding the gas tanks adjoining, and the flames nearly subdued. No. 1 Engine speedily had a stream on the burning rafters, although arriving second on the ground, No. 2 having the advantage of a "hitch" behind Foster Richert's express wagon. There was no need of No. 2's services, and but little water was poured on the building by order of Chief Vail. The building is used as a carpenter shop by Messrs Dunn, carpenters. The fire undoubtedly originated from a spark thrown on the roof by a passing locomotive. The loss is slight, but it was a narrow escape from a large fire.

It will be lawful to shoot woodcock on the 1st of July, but as that day falls on Sunday, our sportsmen will have to wait until Monday [illegible] the law of God and Man.

The Commencement Festival.

As this issue of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST will be printed and published before the completion of the Twelfth Annual Commencement exercises of the Plainfield High School, it is impossible for us in this article to do more than foretell the success that is assured the event in every particular. The graduating class of this year has been an unusually studious one under its new teacher, Mr. F. J. Milliken, and by the standard of excellence in all branches has proven the worth of that gentleman's tuition, coupled with Miss Bulkley's personal direction. By the brilliant essays to be given this (Thursday) evening—selected from a number equally praiseworthy, of which some were omitted merely to shorten the programme—it will be observed that the Class of '82 is possessed of more than is generally expected in the way of intellect and culture. The subjects chosen are fresh and ably treated, and especially is the valedictory a piece of work that will be handled by Miss Shepperson in a remarkable manner that cannot be excelled. This lady was so unfortunate as to be taken severely ill, recently, and consequently had but a short time in which to prepare her farewell address, but the same talent and ability that last year gained for Miss Shepperson the first prize in English Composition, has undoubtedly served her this year as successfully.

We are safe in asserting that the Park avenue church will be completely filled with an attendance of all ages more or less interested in this event so memorable to the graduates. The city officials and the parents of the pupils will be found in the front seats, just back of the sweet boy graduates and their young lady class-mates. The air will be almost stifling and disturbed only by a rustling of fans and programmes. Each of the young ladies who will deliver her composition from the platform, will be most magnificently attired for the occasion, will receive rapturous applause and will be overwhelmed with exquisite flowers as a token of someone's admiration. All this being certain because customary.

The class motto of this year is a very comprehensive one, meaning just what it says—"Not many things, but much." The class itself is composed of the following members:

Harriet C. Baker,
Clara V. Bass,
Getty L. Betton,
Sadie D. Grant,
Alvin E. Hoagland,
George M. Kirkner,
Edwin H. Lewis,
Annetta A. Glenn,
Laura A. Randolph,
Mary E. Robinson,
Laura L. Runyon,
Mary S. Schwartz,
Bessie S. Shepperson,
Nora H. Thorn.

The donors of this year's prizes for various reasons are partially changed. The death of Dr. Stillman led the Board of Education to believe that the "Stillman Prizes for Mathematics" would of necessity have to be dropped from the list. Rather than allow such an omission to occur, Mr. Jacob Kirkner offered to give the $15 and $10 in gold that is awarded the first and second respectively in that study.

Since this Dr. Stillman's widow has assured the Board of her intention to continue the prizes in the name of the founder, and Mr. Kirkner instead of withdrawing his gift decides that it shall be used in another way for the benefit of the School. Mr. Edward Brown who in past years established the "Prizes for English Composition," having been so long a non-resident of this city and interested in matters elsewhere, transfers his generous award to the care of Mr. Geo. H. Babcock who will this year present the two prizes to those judged as deserving by a committee composed of the Rev. Wm. Manchee, Samuel St. J. McCutchen and Henry P. Talmadge.

The "Prize for Spelling" will this year be given by Mr. Mason W. Tyler instead of Mr. Kirkner, on account of the latter's intended assumption of the Composition Prizes as spoken of above. Mr. J. W. Murray will, as usual, give the "Prize for U. S. History." The $25 in gold, that Mrs. C. A. Rutter has always awarded as Botany prizes, will not be given this year for that study as it has not been followed. Instead, Mrs. Rutter will double the amount for the purchase of a handsome microscope.

The particular essay each chosen member is expected to read will be as follows, excepting in the case of Miss Mary E. Robinson who has been excused.

The Emigrant's Story,	Mary S. Schwartz.
Arctic Exploration.	Alvin E. Hoagland.
Longfellow's Heroines,	Norah H. Thorn.
The War in Peru,	George M. Kirkner.
Charlotte Corday,	Sadie D. Grant.
Nature's Paintings,	Mary E. Robinson.
A Chapter of Modern Mythology,	Clara V. Bass.
Tennyson,	Getty L. Betton.
The Crusades,	Laura L. Runyon.
Political Novels,	Edwin H. Lewis.
The Holy Grail—with Valedictory,	Bessie S. Shepperson.

Following such "first part" of the exercises will be the awarding of the prizes and the fortunate ones who have secured the honors will be announced as—

Mathematics—First prize, Laura L. Runyon; Second prize, Sadie D. Grant.

English Composition—First prize, Edwin H. Lewis; Second prize, George M. Kirkner.

Spelling—Florence Kennedy.

U. S. History—Theodore J. Gillies and Edith E. Leonard.

The prize in English Composition this year will be to the first a set of "The Student's Handy Shakespeare" with notes by Hudson; and to the second a handsomely bound and illustrated volume of Longfellow's poems. The spelling prize will be an unabridged dictionary, and the others the same as in past years.

Then will follow the presentation of badges to those on "The Star Roll of Honor" as given below—the time above each denoting how long the scholar has been present and perfect every day of the term and every year in succession.

5 YEARS.

Mary E. Robinson, Alice Holmes, Florence G. Hawkins.

4 YEARS.

M. Lillian Newman, Percy H. Stewart.

3 YEARS.

Norah H. Thorn, M. Lula Kaufman, Henrietta Lilienstern.

2 YEARS.

Minnie M. Bird, Ellen Horde.

1 YEAR.

Clara V. Bass, Getty L. Betton, Edwin H. Lewis, Roberta Lee Bass, Francesca Escouara, Eleanor Sherwin, Ida L. Spicer, Harry M. Blackwell, Madge L. Sutphen, Carrie D. Hanes, Flora M. Randolph, Theodore Gillies, Frank Newman, William C. Beiter, Henry M. Wade, Howard M. Martin, Harry H. Coward, Minnie E. Chapin, Laura F. Baker.

In the Primary Department, 1 pupil has been on the roll three consecutive years, 7 have been on two years and 3 have been on for one year.

In the Fifth street Department, 8 pupils have been on two years and 16 have been on for one year.

An Address by Mr. Chas. D. Adams, a prominent lawyer of New York, will precede the conferring by President Kirkner of diplomas upon the graduates which will close the exercises. Throughout the programme the Seventh Regiment Band will execute sweet music, and later in the evening continue such performance in Assembly Hall where the classes of '80 and '81 will tender this year's class a reception.

Below we give the "Class Song of '82" and also a very able essay on a very arduous subject. We had hoped to publish the valedictory of Miss Shepperson in full but her sickness prevented its being finished in time, even did not the lady's reserve impel her to refuse its publication. We give instead a most artistic composition by another lady member of the class.

CLASS SONG.

BY A MEMBER OF THE CLASS.

The thistle is truly wisdom's point,
Thorny, and hard to grasp;
With tiny piercing lances [illegible],
Stingingly bitter, bitingly keen,
[illegible] with a [illegible] clasp.

The purple flow'rs of knowledge are here,
Fragrant, and wondrous fair;
But the serried ranks of bristling barbs
Stand ever on guard, with venomed darts,
Watching with [illegible] care.

Seize the sharp thorns with unshrinking hand
And, lo! the shrinking points,
[illegible] from grasping a trembling hand,
Will die away, and pleasure will come
Like sunshine after rain.

Wisdom, and knowledge and strength are won
Only by those who dare
To grasp life's thorns and, reaching at noon,
Look ever forward with fearless hope
Beyond earth's doubt and care.

POLITICAL NOVELS.

James Freeman Clarke has said "A Play of Shakespeare, or a novel by Dickens, shows us human faculties at work and alive; metaphysics shows them singly and taken apart. The one is like the study of muscles in the anatomical museum; the other like studying them in the gymnasium."

Not only is this true, but it may be added, that the writing of novels has become a useful art, and to-day there are probably few sources from which we learn more.

The romances of the Scotch wizard, who was virtually the founder of historical novels, brought before us more vividly than any history could have done, the golden times of Mary and Elizabeth. A host of novels, of which the "Tale of Two Cities" is, perhaps, the best, have since been devoted to [illegible] history.

But of a far nobler type, and one not [illegible] [illegible] have been made the instruments for overthrowing great civil or social wrongs, either through public opinion, acting as a voluntary agent, or through legislation, as the voice of the people.

To treat these graver subjects successfully, are required men and women who have left the period where sentiment is the ruling passion, and have shown themselves possessed of true literary ability.

Among such reformers, Harriet Beecher Stowe, in America, Dickens, Reade and Kingsley, in England, Turgenieff, in Russia, and Victor Hugo, in France, are preeminent.

From the books of these authors let us examine a few, whose influence on the politics of their time has been most strongly marked.

No more extensive reform than Chartism has ever been attempted by English workingmen.

England's wars had left her almost destitute; and the lower classes, deprived of their means of support, found themselves on the brink of starvation. The state of affairs among the London poor was known by every one, but not realized by one in a thousand. Prominent among efforts made in their behalf was Charles Kingsley's "Alton Locke."

The hero represents himself as a "Cockney of Cockneys." Thus, reared in the very heart of London, and leading the successive life of tailor, news-writer and cockney poet, he is well, though cruelly fitted, to tell the world of the terrible condition in which England's debts had placed her children.

"Alton Locke" is, no doubt, defective in many ways. But it showed to Englishmen that Chartism was not Communism. That men like Hetherington, Lovett and Watson were not petty demagogues, but men upright and noble as the best in England; men striving with no lower motive than to raise their fellow creatures from subordination and distress, to equality and comfort.

More marked in its effect on legislation, though affecting a smaller number, is Charles Reade's "Hard Cash," a book aimed at the English system of Insane Asylums. Despite the bitter attacks which it at first received, this novel's influence is to-day plainly visible, in the thousand healthful and humane improvements which have displaced the old system of barbarous brutality.

A few years later, the same hand struck another blow, this time at the cowardly despotism and assassination of English trades-unions. The presentation of long neglected facts could hardly be more.

We see men of talent, even of genius, overpowered and crushed. We see honest men threatened with injury and even death. There are brawny felons, lurking, weapon in hand, near the path where some workman must pass. Wives and mothers must slave till strength and hope, the last stay of life, give out. And all through the tyranny of a class of men both penurious and cowardly, to whom the larger part of working men, after the first threatenings, reluctantly yield.—But should a sterner man dare to defy them, his happiness and even life are at stake.

Had America, free nation that we call her, been made thus truthfully to realize the destructive effects of monopoly, we might, perhaps, have been spared some of the outbursts which in the last decade, have been a blot upon our fair name.

Sadder, if possible, than any of these, is the well-known story of 'Little Dorrit.'

That any human being, for no other reason than because he cannot meet a trivial debt, should be for one day confined, like the vilest criminal, in the rudest of prisons, is an indignity at which any nation should blush with shame. But that any human being, for the same offence, should see the quarter of a century pass before he is liberated, is an outrage, which nations like England and America, who profess before other powers to reverence and be influenced by the teachings of the gentle Nazarene; and from whose pulpits the parable of the cruel debtor has been read a thousand times, should not have tolerated for an instant.

Turning from other nations to America, we find our country spell-bound in the folds of slavery. Higher and higher moved the dusky coils, and not until the venomous breath touched her cheek, and the hard eyes shot gleams of lurid light into the fairer ones of its victims, was our country aroused from her lethargy. But once awake to the danger, she clutched the viper by its scaly throat, and tearing it away with one convulsive effort, held it afar till the long length hung limp and black, and the fire died out of its gleaming eyes.

The death-like indifference into which the American people had fallen, was broken by several causes. But not least among them was the quiet influence of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It shocked the good New Englanders, and it swelled the Federal volunteers to an enormous number; and putting new life into the dry facts which politicians had never yet realized, aided nobly in bringing about the long sought result.

What Mrs. Stowe has done for the slave in America, Turgenieff has done for the serf in Russia; and the two stand side by side, with no less fame than the very men who signed the Emancipation Proclamations.

There remain a score of books, of England, of America, of Russia, of France, which we may not examine.

But these represent the best of England and America, and are sufficient to show the influence and wide-spread power of fiction, which Charles Reade has called "The greatest, widest and noblest of all the arts."

EDWIN H. LEWIS.

TENNYSON.

June is the poet's month—but who, of all the singers since the world began, have tuned their lyres in harmony with her melodious notes? Spenser's verses, for all their sweetness, have a ring of the keen March wind. Shakespeare wrote in the full glow and glory of July—and, somehow, in the most perfect midsummer day, there is a nameless want, a something lacking; it is not that the soul of beauty has gone out, but it has lost the subtle charm, the sweet, glad thrill of life and hope; the dust of this work-a-day of ours has dimmed the beauty of the fresh green leaves; the dewy radiance of sunrise, and the pure, cool, rose-gray air are gone. Milton is a clear October night when there is the chill and sparkle of frost in the air, and the moon is full. The stars are strangely fair and bright, but the brilliant moonlight holds us down to earth even while it seems to be lighting the way out into eternity. Shelley, filled with wild caprice and tricksy grace, lingering midway between smiles and tears, sang in April weather when the Spirit of Beauty thrilled through all the earth and filled the air with vague promise—then vanished in a sudden storm. Amid the soft haze and warm, rich beauty of the November days, Coleridge mused in a happy dream, weaving into words the golden mist, and the strange cloud—visions that passed before his eyes. And Tennyson, the poet of our day, has he reached June? Twenty years ago a friend, writing of his earlier poems, said—

"Wait until your book with this sweet month of June,
When earth and sky are in their perfect tune;
For when I read thy golden words, I think
I hear the brown thrush and the bob-o-link;
I hear the summer brooks, the summer breeze,
I hear the whisper of the swaying trees;
Between the lines the roses seem to grow,
And lilies white around the margin blow."

But in June, the resting time of the year, doubt and longing are fled away with sorrow; while in our age the uncertain, shadowy glimpses of the perfect day when truth and beauty shall be one at last, seem like weird phantasms of the brain. We are reaching out blindly toward the good we do not comprehend, as the leaves and the grass, set free by the mist and rain, slowly rise from their earthly prison, searching for the higher life they feel but cannot understand. Tennyson, with the keen sympathy of a true poetic nature, feels the struggle and pain in the darkened earth below and has given it voice in song. It is still more dark upon the hill-tops, for the day is just at hand; but the gloom is thrilling with the first faint waves of light even while the valleys are lost in night. The wailing voices float up to him, clamoring for expression, for none but the poet can understand their strange half utterances. Under the sway of his happier genius they become fraught with meaning, and he shapes their story into human speech. This is what all our great dramas are—the story that the poor, dumb spirits have whispered to the poet's heart, and not his own—never his own; for the dramatist throws aside his own nature and speaks with heart and soul clothed in the character he portrays. Where has this been more perfectly done than in "Maud"? It is not Tennyson's heart that is speaking but a lower, weaker one, warped and embittered by the evil of the age, crying—

"Why sad, I have neither hope nor trust;
I may make my heart as a mill-stone, set my face as a flint,
Cheat and be cheated and die: who knows? we are ashes and dust."

Never, even in his deepest despair could the poet sink to this; but because the seer prophet does not come in the garb of other days the critics cry, "He is no prophet," and turn away. They say the dramatic spirit is dead, but it is only a form they are seeking and that form has passed away; the spirit is not dead. They call "Maud" "morbid" and "trashy" and "unworthy of his high poetic powers," because they cannot understand the spirit that underlies it all. It is a [illegible] interpretation of a type of [illegible] [illegible], but no one who has studied "In memoriam" can believe that type of thought the poet's own. He has chosen to take a single mind and develop it fully, instead of partially revealing many; but who shall say he has stopped, that his work is less complete? The day has not yet dawned, even upon the hill-tops, and a weary, weary burden of dream, black shadows is resting upon his own heart; his eyes ache with dull pain as he gazes out into the night for one glimpse of the day he feels is at hand. It is a subtle presence all about him, but it is dark, so dark! Still smiling grandly his triumphant song, his heart for he knows that the light is there, although his eyes are too feeble to behold it. Looking outward and upward and beyond toward the larger hope he sings with quiet trust, too,

"—all is well, tho' faith and form
Be sundered in the night of fear;"

for

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new,
And God fulfils himself in many ways."

But this is not the restful, happy calm that comes with the warm, rich beauty of June; then all is light and joy, and there is no more need for the faith that, through the long, dark winter and the changeful spring, promised the perfect summer. No; Tennyson is not the June poet. Keats might have been that poet had he lived to find that he had a soul; but the time was not ripe and the world still waits.

GETTY L. BETTON.

A Strange Suicide.

The community that was shocked by hearing on Monday morning of the body of a supposed suicide that had been found on Eighth street in this city, was more horrified later to learn that the victim had been recognized as a young man well-known to the older residents of Plainfield. The body when discovered lay on the embankment sloping from the gutter to the sidewalk on the West side of Eighth street just South of Madison avenue, and the news of the finding having attracted a crowd to the spot the body was identified as that of William F. Burnet. The unfortunate young man lay at full length on his back with the left hand resting on his abdomen and the right arm extended down along his side. In his right hand was loosely grasped a Colt's five-shooter, of 32 calibre, and directly through his head was the bleeding passage where a bullet had entered the right side of the skull above the ear and come out on the left almost directly opposite. One chamber of the revolver was empty and under the victim's head was found the cartridge that had dropped out while the suicidist was revolving the cylinder. Three of the cartridges in the pistol were indented where the hammer had failed to do its work, and the empty shell of the fourth showed how the young man had persistently, with the nerve of one temporarily insane, pursued his intent and effected his rash purpose.

The body was removed to Lennox's morgue where it was visited by a number of the deceased's friends and acquaintances who viewed with sorrow the remains of him they remembered as a genial companion and a fine fellow. No cause for the horrible act could be imagined, and probably never will any other reason than temporary aberration of the mind be generally believed to have inspired the deed. County Physician Terrill arrived from Elizabeth, Monday morning, as did also Mr. Charles C. Burnet and another brother of the deceased. An examination of the body was made, and after a consultation with Charles Burnet and a private conference with the members of a Plainfield family with which the deceased had been intimate, the County Physician decided that no inquest was necessary and subsequently issued a permit of burial. The funeral services were held on Wednesday, privately, at Elizabeth and the remains were interred in the family plot at Greenwood Cemetery.

William Frederick Burnet, the victim of death by his own hand, was formerly a resident of Brooklyn where he was born. He was the second son of his father John M. Burnet, who was a well-known manufacturing stationer of New York and a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity. The family removed to this city some years ago and resided on Union avenue where the elder Burnet died, January 27th, 1873. The widow's death followed shortly and four sons were left in charge of an executor of the estate. Charles the oldest continued his father's business with the executor under the firm name of John M. Burnet's Sons, and still does so in the interests of the younger brothers who have not yet attained their majority. Beside the profitable business left by Mr. John Burnet, ready money in the way of life insurance came into the hands of the heirs and they have always been very comfortably situated financially. William in his younger days attended the Plainfield High School and was greatly admired by teachers and pupils by reason of his diligent attention to his studies, charming disposition and pleasant ways. He at one time felt a desire to become a minister of the gospel and was a member of the class that graduated in 1876, but for some reason left the school before finishing the course. A few years ago he went South with the determination of going into business and ultimately secured a position in a large cotton-mill. All through the terrible epidemic of yellow fever in 1878 that raged throughout the South, young Burnet remained in the very midst of it nursing companions and helping wherever assistance would avail for good. In the mill where he was employed almost the entire force of men and women died, and Burnet was raised step by step to a very lucrative position. The section of the country, however, did not suit the young man and he returned North some months ago and accepted a situation in a New York fruit house. He boarded with his brother in Elizabeth and seemed generally in the best of spirits, going to and from New York every day and generally at home during the evenings except when in this city where he spent his Sundays. He had for the past few months been visiting a young lady of this city, the sister of Mrs. Charles Burnet, and they are said to have been engaged to be married. Thursday of last week Burnet complained of feeling unwell and was persuaded by his brother to remain at home. He did so, not going to New York again until Saturday, at which time he appeared to be in his general state of good health, and was joking with his employers about playing sick and getting well in time to draw his weekly salary. On Saturday he came to Plainfield and as was his custom staid at Miller's Hotel. He spent Saturday evening and Sunday with different acquaintances, seemingly to all in the best of spirits. He paid his hotel bill Sunday, and it is supposed that he ate nothing after his dinner of that day as it cannot be learned where he was about supper time. Those who last saw young Burnet before his death, were probably two friends with whom he was conversing on the corner of Park avenue and Fifth street. One of these taking out his watch remarked that it was half-past nine, upon hearing which Burnet said that he had just time to catch the train and started down Park avenue alone towards the railroad. Whether he really intended to take the 9:40 milk-train for Elizabeth and altered it or changed his mind, will never be known—when next seen his life had been closed by his own terrible act.

To repeat any of the many theories advanced on which to base the cause of the suicide, or to hazard any speculative supposition of our own, would be profitless. The reason for the deed is unknown, although probably many romantic dispositions will cling to the belief that his affections being set upon an unattainable object, he cared to live no longer. Everyone has, of course, a right to form their own opinion except if it be to the effect that liquor stimulated the act. Burnet was not a drinking man, and at the time of his death was entirely free of such influence. That his mind was some way deranged is certified by the deliberate deed and that it wandered from its balance is shown by the writings of his own hand on a time-table found in his pocket. The table was one of those just issued by the Central R. R., and the following words (that are unlike Burnet) must have been written during Sunday: "I am too soul to walk for to-night. I may get too warm"—"Christ Jesus receive my spirit"—"Lord abide with me"—and in other places were written disconnected sentences. A calendar, a receipt for a registered letter, three keys, two cents, a commutation ticket and a couple of silk handkerchiefs were all else found in the pockets of his clothing. Inside of his black derby hat was a band of blue silk on which were embroidered in cardinal the initials "W. F. B."

The revolver found in the victim's hand was recognized by Charles Burnet as one belonging to his brother and which the latter always kept in his bedroom. He took it with him upon leaving home Saturday, and to the brother's knowledge such was the first time that William had carried it for the past few months. This circumstance may suggest premeditation and yet such is not necessarily a convincing proof. If his family or others are possessed of any information of a private character that may account for the suicide, it is not the business of ourselves to ventilate matters that should be sacred from the unsympathetic public at large.

Some of our Plainfield lovers of good horse flesh made "killing" on the five class given at Coney Island last week.

It is said that next Tuesday is July Fourth. The patriotic citizens of Plainfield will keep the same in [illegible].

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

Woodcock shooting commences after July 1st and ends with the last day of the season.

The American Angler, published by Wm. C. Harris, Nos. 12 and 15 Park Row, New York, is a journal that every true lover of piscatorial sport should subscribe for.

The Fin and Feather, published at Fort Wayne, Ind., by Willis D. Maier, is a spicy little sheet devoted to true angling. The publisher hammers at pot hunters and fishers in right royal style. Continue on in the good work, Bro. Maier.

Capt. Joseph W. Orr, the Fish Warden of Camden, has made a full report to the State Fish Commissioners, in which he says there were two hundred nets of 615 fathoms used during the season, which caught 55,000 shad; there were 12,000 fathoms of gill nets used, with a catch of 59,400 shad, making the total number of shad caught 114,400; being a decrease of 56,000 shad from last year.

The races on the Fourth of July at Waverly will be contested by the following horses: Free for all; Parolio, Parole, Sevens, Yellow Dog, Dixie and Irish Lad.

Double team race; Adeline R. and Augustus, Billy Button and John Goldsmith, Harvey and Windbeam, Rocket and Marshall, Susie and Maid of Athens. The double team race promises to be the hottest ever seen. The free for all is more evenly matched than that of Decoration Day, when the contest was really between Josephus and Helene.

Mr. Albertus Swain and John Linbarger went fishing in the Raritan River last Thursday, and although the waters were so muddy that no experienced angler would think of catching a black bass in them, they succeeded in dropping a baited hook into the mouth of a large one who was searching the sides of the river bank for food, and captured it. After cutting the fish in two parts and dividing the same between them, it was ascertained by weighing one part that the fish must have weighed something in the neighborhood of six pounds. Oh! for such a fellow on the end of a silk line with a nine ounce Orvis rod to kill him with.

BUILDING A HEN-COOP.

"My dear," said Mr. Spoopendyke, as he appeared before his wife with a broad grin on his face, "say, my dear, I've bought some chickens, so we can have fresh laid eggs. Look!" and he held out a pair of fowls tied by the legs, for Mrs. Spoopendyke's contemplation.

"Well, upon my word!" exclaimed Mrs. Spoopendyke. "Of all things, chickens! Ever since we've been married I've wanted chickens!" And she approached the birds cautiously and with a misgiving that belied her words. "Where can we keep them?"

"In a coop, Mrs. Spoopendyke, in a coop!" retorted her husband, laying the chickens on the bed while he divested himself of his coat and vest. "We might keep 'em up the chimney or in the clock, but we probably won't. We will just keep 'em in a hen-coop, and I've got the laths and nails downstairs to build it with. Come down in the yard," and Mr. Spoopendyke grabbed his new acquisitions by the legs and started off, followed by his wife.

"Do you know how to build a coop?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, as she watched her husband dig a post hole in the corner she had reserved for a geranium bed.

"If I don't, you probably do," snorted Mr. Spoopendyke, kicking away at the spade until he loosened his leg. "Now, I put this post here and that one there. Then the two fences make the rest, and I only lath up these two—dodgast the post!" he concluded as it toppled over on his ear. "Can't you hold it up? What're you sitting around like a cork in a jug for? Hold it up, will ye?"

Mrs. Spoopendyke grasped the post firmly with both hands and it at an angle of thirty degrees.

"Now hold it perfectly still while I dig the other hole," said Mr. Spoopendyke backed away at the ground again and set his second post.

"I see what you mean," giggled Mrs. Spoopendyke. "You slat it up from one post to the other and then put the chickens in. My, how nice that'll be."

Mr. Spoopendyke glared at her a moment and then began putting up his laths, standing between the posts and the fence corner and whistling as he worked.

"Now," said he, as he finished, "what do you think of that?"

Mrs. Spoopendyke examined the job critically.

"It's a perfect palace!" she exclaimed. "But say, dear, how are you going to get out?"

"Yah-h-h!" roared Mr. Spoopendyke, bounding into the air. "Why didn't you tell me? What'd ye want to let me build myself in like a dodgasted mummy for? Ain't ye got any sense at all anywheres? Why didn't ye watch what I was doing?" and Mr. Spoopendyke grinned horribly through the slats.

"I supposed you were going to build a hole in it," faltered Mrs. Spoopendyke.

"So I am!" yelled Mr. Spoopendyke, jamming his leg through the structure. "Want any more holes?" and he kicked the side half way across the yard. "Four chickens, four holes!" he roared, and the laths flew in all directions. "Want any more holes?" and he smashed the roof out with the spade. "Holes constantly on hand! If you don't see the hole you want, ask for it!" and he blew out the end with terrific energy. "New goods coming in all the time! Second-hand holes a specialty!" and he banged out the other end. "Parties wanting holes to send to the country will consult their interests by applying here before going elsewhere!" and he ripped down the rest of the coop with prodigious clatter. "Want any more holes in this particular coop?" he roared, wrenching out the posts and slamming them across the yard. "Does this hen-coop begin to convey the impression of having a hole in it?" he demanded, stalking up to his wife.

"Yes, dear," replied Mrs. Spoopendyke, soothingly. "I'm so glad you got out, but where can we keep the chickens now?"

"Keep 'em!" ripped Mr. Spoopendyke, with a horrible grimace, and grasping the wretched fowls by the legs, "who's going to keep 'em?" and he cut the lashings. "S'pose I'm going to ruin my business just to gratify every whim of a dodgasted woman?" and he jerked the chickens into the air.

"Never mind," cooed Mrs. Spoopendyke, as the last bird slid over the fence and disappeared. "Chickens are a nuisance anyway. We really didn't need any."

"Why didn't you say so before I bought 'em?" blurted Mr. Spoopendyke, as he dashed into the house.

"I didn't know it," sighed Mrs. S., looking around on the wreck, "and besides, I don't believe we would have many eggs, because those chickens were all roosters."

And Mrs. Spoopendyke followed her husband, who stormed around the rest of the evening because she couldn't find the Eagle of January 12th, 1879, which he had cautioned her to save, because there was something in it he wanted to read, and which he had used the next day, in conjunction with the back breadth of her new flannel petticoat, to clean his gun with.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Noise is the music of industry.

Ignorance never settles a question.

There is a latent tiger in every man.

The greatest factor of eloquence is sincerity.

A good friend will always seek to do you a kindness, rather than an injury.

It is as necessary to have great virtue to sustain good fortune as bad.

Never strike a horse that is pulling its best even if the progress be slow.

He who betrays the confidence of one is not worthy the confidence of another.

Conceit is to nature what paint is to beauty. It is not only needless, but impairs what it would improve.

Wisdom is the olive that springeth from the heart, bloometh on the tongue and beareth fruit in the actions.

It is singular how men who cannot obtain a living from their own business, understand so well just how their neighbor's business should be conducted.

A swimmer becomes strong to stem the tide only by frequently breasting the big waves. If you practice always in shallow water, your heart will assuredly fail in hour of need.

Evil hangs on the skirts of good, and we have to ask ourselves, each time the tree of knowledge, shaken, drops its fruit, whether mankind, for the time being, have been gainers or losers thereby.

Advice to Firemen.

"Firemen would do well to bear in mind that one gallon of water at the bottom of a fire will do more to quench it than five gallons at the top. 'Play low,' is the true motto for the firemen. To play on the roof of a house on fire is to waste water; be sure to play low; get the water near the fire, and then you need not pour on a river. A few gallons at the bottom of a fire will rise in clouds of steam when the fire is rising, and will quench it. A gill of water thrown into the bottom of a grate equals a quart thrown on top. For a similar reason, water on the windward side is more effective than on the leeward. The big blaze on the leeward looks fearful, but it cannot be affected by playing on that side. Throw water in the bed of coals under the roof that is sucking them, and it will go out—that is to say, play at the bottom of the windward side of a fire and you take the speediest and surest way to quench the whole leeward side, blaze included."

A Good Order.

Under the above caption the New Brunswick Times of Monday last says: "Chief Fourratt yesterday issued orders to his force to station themselves on George street and Livingston avenue last night and break up all congregations of young men on the sidewalks in any place. The order was executed and, in consequence, for the first time in months these thoroughfares were cleared of the young loafers who infest them, and people were enabled to pass without listening to vulgar and profane remarks. For this the Chief will receive the thanks of the community." If our police force would only emulate Chief Fourratt's example, there would be no need of the press of this city continually calling attention to the same evil which exists in Plainfield.

"There are Two."

On Saturday, June 3, Mrs. Lottie Craig, the wife of Mr. James Craig, a wealthy gentleman who resides near Dunellen, gave birth to two children—a boy and girl. The most curious circumstance in this connection is, however, that the boy is a fine healthy chap, weighing five pounds, while the girl only tips the scales at one pound and a half. Notwithstanding this the little lady is perfectly formed, and, although she can be rocked in a pint measure for a cradle, bids fair to live and be an ornament to her sex.

Some fourteen years ago the wife of Mr. Michael Donahue of the same place made him the happy father of three children at one birth—two girls and a boy—all of whom are living at the present time.—New Brunswick Times.

The Common Council of Burlington has ordered that all tramps found begging in the streets are to be arrested and placed at work in the meadow ditches now excavating to drain the city.

A man went out to kill fish with explosives at Metamora, Ind. He made ready to float an ignited cartridge in the trout stream, but held it too long, and it blew off his hand. The Fishermen's Club of Indianapolis have resolved that the accident was "a severe yet not undeserved punishment."

A reception was given Michael Davitt at the Academy of Music Monday night by the Land League societies of New York city and neighborhood. Speeches were made by Mr. Davitt, Mrs. Parnell, Judge Van Hoesen and others.

There is an edifying story told of the American of African descent, who awoke at night and, after a critical sniff, hazarded the remark that some colored gemman's foot was burning—continuing, after a critical examination, "Golly, it am dis nigger's!" This ingenious apologue is recalled by the experience of our Republican friends who have for some time past been whooping up Independent movements.—World.

A new illustration of female ingenuity is given in a Newark paper. A Mrs. Shaw of that city, has hatched seven duck eggs by placing them in the bosom of her dress. The hen under which they had originally been placed, deserted her charge a week before hatching time, when Mrs. Shaw assumed the maternal duty, and brought the young ducklings safely out. Here is a new and promising field for female enterprise.

In an interview with a New York World correspondent, Mr. George Q. Cannon, the delegate in Congress from Utah, recently said, when the question was asked what would be the result of sending the Committee of Five to Utah with power to disfranchise Mormons, that he thought if that Committee went there and "undertakes any such business, the polygamists will make it very interesting for them." Well, that Cannon has been "busted" once, and it will be very "interesting" to know that all such as he represents are liable to follow his fate should they attempt to make it 'interesting' when Uncle Sammy calls upon them to show their hand.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

IN DISGRACE.

A BOARDING-SCHOOL SKETCH.

"May I come in?"

"No, it is not allowed."

"Then may I address you from here?" And the young girl placed her rosebud of a face in a pretty pair of white hands, and resting her elbows on the ledge stood framed, and looking into the chapel study of Hopewell Seminary.

"Even that," replied the gentleman tutor, Mr. Evistone, "would not be considered, I think, as proper by the authorities."

"For that reason, if no other, I am bound to stay until I have said all that I desire."

"And the entire school treated to a dish of proprieties," laughed Eva Leighton. "And, by the way, what a splendid confessional this would make!" Then she laughed merrily again, but seeing signs of annoyance in the face of the gentleman her mirth vanished, and she resumed: "Seriously, Mr. Evistone, I am in trouble again—having played a little trick on the [illegible] of girls."

"Peppered the pie, I suppose?"

"Yes, and Becky Sharp—"

"You should not speak so disrespectfully of your teacher, Miss Mullison; for it is she, I presume you mean."

"She is a wonderful reproduction of the wonderful creation of Thackeray; but if it suits you best, Miss Mullison has decreed that I am to be deprived of all sweet things for a week; and that is not all; I am not to go with the school to Glen Elder, this afternoon, and I believe that she would put peas in my shoes if she dared."

"But what can I do for you more than hope you will be more careful in the future?"

"Simply this," and she laid some money before him, "that you will bring me the wickedest novel you can find in town; and by way of revenge, I will read it while she is away."

Mr. Evistone returned the money, and said, "No, I cannot assist you in breaking one of the rules of the school, but I will see that you are provided with something to read."

"And just a little naughty or exciting, or I won't read a word. But I catch the fluttering of a gray dress in yonder walk, and am certain Becky is scouting around for me; and should she find me here talking to a live man, and one of her teachers at that, she would decapitate us both without the benefit of a clergy."

She placed her pretty finger upon her rosy lips, in token that there was a secret between them, slipped from her perch and glided swiftly away.

He laid down his book, watched the flutter of white garments until they had disappeared among the foliage and then sighed a trifle dismally; for, while the young lady was exceedingly pretty, she had the faculty of getting every one associated with her into trouble, and he had a presentiment that he would not long escape, for even now, were it known to the principal, Miss Mullison, that Eva Leighton had visited the chapel at the end of the garden, which was strictly forbidden, he would come in for a share of the censure.

Hopewell was an Episcopal school, and Mr. Evistone a divinity student, who taught the languages and read prayers in the chapel connected with it, which he used as a private study, and from the window of which Miss Eva Leighton had the audacity to hold conversation with. It was an improper act.

After an early lunch, the entire school, with the exception of Eva Leighton, started gayly upon their excursion to the glen. The young lady watched them depart with misty eyes, despite of the saucy curling of her lips.

"I shall do something awful, I know I shall," she had said to her room-mate, as she kissed her good-by, "for I feel so wicked and desperate."

And when alone in the great establishment, with only the servants, the quiet began to oppress her unpleasantly. But, fortunately, just then she heard a voice beneath her window calling her name.

"O, Mr. Evistone, is that you?" And swift as a bird she was at his side.

"There is a copy of Lallah Rookh for you, and a pound of the freshest and nicest candies I could purchase. I hope you will receive them as a bribe to be exceedingly good, amiable and happy for the remainder of the day at least," he said laughingly, as he handed her the package.

"A thousand thanks, Mr. Evistone. You are very good. And, oh, what a splendid cricket bat! Where did you get it?"

"No thanks required. What do you know about cricket? It is not considered a lady's game."

"More's the shame. Why, sir, I know nearly everything about it. My brothers Fred, and Tom, and poor Billy Blower and I, have had famous games many a time."

"Billy Blower!" exclaimed the gentleman, elevating his dark eye-brows despairingly.

"Yes, she laughed. "His name was Bloy, but it became perverted because of injuries received while stealing apples for me, and he could never run afterward without getting out of breath."

"I fear I cannot stay to hear the remainder of that somewhat disreputable story," returned Mr. Evistone, though laughing in spite of himself.

"O, but you must hear it out," she continued, eagerly. "As I was saying poor little Bill heard me express a desire for some lovely red apples, growing in a miserable, stingy old fellow's orchard, and went after them; to get a fall that ever after made him a cripple. And, oh dear! the trouble I used to get in for him, consequently. While he was lying ill at home I took everything I fancied would please him, even to walking into the door-yards of other people, and helping myself to choicest flowers without leave or license. But, Mr. Evistone, may I look at that lovely bat just for a moment?"

"Certainly," he replied, placing it in her hand.

Then he watched her with an amused expression as she assumed a graceful position, and noted the kindling of a true cricketer's interest in her glowing and sparkling face.

"Were you off for a game?" she asked.

"Yes. I am [illegible], and have accepted a friendly challenge from some of the town gentlemen; and that reminds me I have no time to lose. So, I must leave you now, Miss Eva, to the society of Lallah Rookh and the bon-bons."

"But just bowl me one ball."

And she again threw her lithe form into position.

Without a moment given to reflection, and carried away as it were by the enthusiasm of the girl, he [illegible] a ball; [illegible] struck it with a [illegible] blow, and sent it flying through the open window. There was a crash of glass and splashing of water, and the affrighted girl exclaimed:

"Oh, goodness! What have I done?"

The next moment they were in the parlor, surveying the wreck of the aquarium, the greatest pride and the especial property of Miss Mullison.

"The poor fish—we must save them," said Eva.

With these words she disappeared, but immediately returned with a tureen of water, into which she placed the gasping fish. Then she sat down amid the debris of the wreck and gave vent to her lamentations.

"Dear, oh, dear! what will become of me—of us? for you know Miss Mullison will never believe that I have not done this out of revenge; for you know that I have talked in an extravagant way, threatening all manner of things, all of which I didn't mean."

"I am certain you did not. But Miss Eva, if you leave the entire affair to me, I think I can adjust it, and save you pain."

"By taking all the blame upon yourself. But, oh dear, what shall we do? I wish I could tell a falsehood about it, and that you weren't within a mile of the place. But I can't. I never could do anything but own up. I am so awful transparent."

"It is the wisest and noblest plan," he answered encouragingly.

"I don't care a rush for myself," she went on, looking down upon the grass and then up into the face of her companion. "But can't something be done? Suppose we run away."

"A very flattering and tempting suggestion," laughed he, looking rather quizzically down into her innocent eyes, which just then catching the meaning expressed in his, suddenly veiled themselves, while a crimson wave crept over her animated face.

"O, not together of course," she said.

Then in spite of herself and the detestation of tears, they coursed down her long black lashes, making her look irresistably lovely, and completely subjugating the young gentleman.

"Miss Eva, you distress me exceedingly. Dry your eyes, please, and leave the entire matter for me to arrange."

"The [illegible] done," she answered, dashing away the glittering drops; "but as to permitting you to take the blame, I shall do nothing of the kind. There, take your hat and go and keep your engagement. I will get the servants to clean up this mess, and then I intend to enjoy the book and bon bons in defiance of fate, and the wrath of her majesty, Miss Mullison."

"At least you will promise me not to let Miss Mullison speak to you about it."

He still detained one little white hand in his own, and was looking very anxiously down into her eyes for her promise when a form bounded up in a doorway both knew to well to be that of the lady principal, who, finding the sun very hot had turned back and came upon the very expressive little tableau at the, most inopportune and suggestive moment.

"Mr. Evistone, is—it—possible! Eva Leighton, go directly to your room!" she commanded.

"I shall do nothing of the kind until you have heard an explanation of the accident," said Eva.

At that moment the gray eyes of Miss Mullison alighted upon the deluged carpet and wrecked aquarium, and with an indignant scream, she turned as a lioness upon the gentleman, and in her most frigid and sarcastic manner said:

"Mr. Evistone, was it not possible for you to steal into my house during my absence and make love to one of my pupils without destroying my property?"

"Stay, madam!" he commanded, indignantly. "How dare you put such a construction upon my being here, or wound that innocent girl by such base suspicions?"

"That girl!" sneered Miss Mullison. "Innocent, indeed; she is a perfect hoyden, without the least ladylike attributes or womanly modesty, else she would not be here alone, sir!"

"I told you she would rave," interrupted Eva; "and although every word she is saying is false, I richly deserve it for getting you into such a scrape. Go off, sir, to your glorious cricket, and leave me to be flayed alive, walk on pins, or any other punishment I have merited."

"Not until I have fully explained matters."

And, in spite of herself, Miss Mullison was forced to listen to an account of the accident.

"Ahem!" she returned, grimly. "No doubt it was necessary for you to conclude the whole affair with the tender little scene I interrupted. I plainly saw her hand in yours, and you looking at her as no honest man ought to look at a lady, unless he loves her. But enough; you can consider yourselves dismissed from this establishment now and forever."

"Very well, madam, I am satisfied. But, Eva, don't cry, dear. That woman has told you what your innocent eyes would not permit you to see. I do love you with heart and soul, and if you will only renew the proposition to run away, I will now jump at the chance."

Some mischief demon must have prompted the final clause of this sentence. The savagely virtuous Miss Mullison shrieked when she heard it, and dropped into a chair, entirely overcome. But "that girl!" impulsively gave both her hands to her lover, and said:

"Thanks. I would gladly go to the end of the world with you—that is, since you care for me; for—I do—"

She hesitated, looked down, blushed; and drawing her to him, he finished the sentence for her with:

"Do you care a little for me?"

"Yes," she whispered. "I am afraid I do, and that I am not worthy."

She was about to add more, but the words were lost upon his lips, which just then met hers with a betrothal kiss.

Then Miss Mullison endeavored to faint but did not succeed, and could only murmur:

"Oh, that girl! She will be the death of me and the everlasting disgrace of the school!"

"Indeed she shall not," replied Evistone. "I intend at once to take her to my people, and as soon as possible marry her. So Eva, love, go and pack up your things."

She complied readily, and in a glow of happiness made her [illegible] to any remarks Miss Mullison might shower upon her. But as she was driven away by the side of her lover, she heard the woman exclaim:

"O, that girl! that girl!"

A few weeks later the wedding cards were sent her, and the happy couple laughingly imagined that, as her eyes rested on them, they would roll up in holy horror, and the air be filled with lamentations for "that girl!"

The magnanimous know very well that they who give time or money or shelter to the stranger—so it be done for love and not for ostentation—do, as it were, put God under obligation to them, so perfect are the compensations of the universe.

WHAT BROKE A PRINTER.

The publisher of a weekly newspaper in Michigan before the war was under the saddle and hitched to a wagon to boot. He carried a load of doubt, debt and anxiety which would have crushed the secretary of the treasury in one brief week. A dollar was a cart-wheel in his eyes, and two cart-wheels in the eyes of his employees. It is vividly remembered by the writer how a certain publisher in an interior town felt as happy as a king when he could send for two bundles of paper at once, and it is more vividly remembered that he never saw the week when he could buy one bundle of paper and pay off the hands, too, in cash.

One day a printer died. Perhaps he gradually starved to death, or maybe the anxiety as to how he could buy both wood and flour the same Saturday finished him off. At any rate a new printer came up from Grand Rapids to fill the gap, and his wages were to be $12 per week. On the first Saturday he got an order on a hardware store for $10 and $2 cash. On the next he got a boot-and-shoe order for $9, and a $3 order on a grocery. On the third he had to take a $9 order on a livery stable and he let the balance go over. His fourth Saturday arrived, and he had $18 due him. An order for that amount on a saw mill man was quietly laid on his case and the books balanced, but he protested:

"Why, I can't use this order."

"Why not?"

"I don't want any lumber."

"You don't?"

"No, sir."

The publisher looked blank, scratched his head, and after a minute hurried over to the desk with the remark:

"I see—all right. I'll tear this up and give you one on a cooper for $9 and another on an undertaker for $9. You had better arrange to get married and settle down here."

The printer went out of that town that evening by a very muddy highway, having disposed of his orders for $2 cash and a satchel to hold his spare shirt.—Detroit Free Press.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

A GLORIOUS TRIO.

The three great principles of government, inseparably associated with true statesmanship and reliable public prosperity, are Justice, Honesty and Economy.

A glorious trio.

Justice, equal and exact, both in the framing of laws and in their execution.

Justice, that aims to advance the welfare, so far as legal enactments can do it, of each and every individual citizen, poor or rich, and of all interests and sections—North, South, East and West.

Justice, that revolts against conferring special favors and privileges, or bartering official authority and influence for mercenary gain.

Honesty, stern and real, that holds the filling of public position to be a sacred duty, not a personal speculation, an imposed trust, deserving and receiving the most faithful attention.

Honesty, that guards the public with even greater vigilance than the private purse.

Honesty, that winks not at fraud of any kind, high or low, and would sooner lose the right hand than knowingly engage in schemes of public plunder.

Economy, that seeks to use only for practical requirements the public revenue, and refuses to squander a dollar improvidently or corruptly.

Economy, that provides amply for every legitimate want of government, but declines to abstract from tax-payers pockets more than is absolutely needful.

Economy, that pays every employee, down to the humblest, just compensation for services actually rendered, but denies to sinecureism and thieving jobbery a single dime.

Such are the constituent elements of an honorable and advantageous management of public affairs, and did they sway Congress and the Executive in every particular, vast would be the saving of reputation to the country and of money to the people.

JUSTICE, HONESTY AND ECONOMY!

THE U. S. GRAND JURY.

The following have been summoned to serve as Grand Jurors at the United States Court at Trenton: John M. Van-Dyke, Washington, Warren county; Cortlandt S. Reynolds, Lambertville; John S. Read, Camden; John A. Morford, Long Branch; Andrew J. Scarborough, Lambertville; Henry J. Budd, Mount Holly; Julius Foster, Lakewood; John Carlton, Bordentown; John Griffin, Jr., Jersey City; Caleb Rogers, Columbus; Manning Freeman, Metuchen; Wm. A. Logue, Bridgeton; Geo. F. Brown, Vincentown; Wm. H. Sickles, Red Bank; Amos Du Bell, Columbus; Geo. Wills, Columbus; Geo. W. Colfax, Pompton; Peter Henderson, Jersey City; Geo. T. Crammer, Barnegat; M. S. Butterworth, Pemberton; Howard Ivins, New Egypt; Abram S. Staats, Newark; Warren A. Greene, Lambertville; John O. Hudson, Bordentown.

Judge Nixon did not charge them specially as there were no matters of sufficient importance to come before them to require it.

In the Malley trial at New Haven the prisoners were acquitted and discharged. It certainly was not for lack of being tried that the three persons accused of the death of Jennie Cramer were not convicted of murder. The case was investigated by the Coroner; then by a Justice; and finally, it was tried before a Judge and jury. The weak point in the prosecution from the first has been that it has never been established beyond a doubt that a murder was committed. It has seemed very probable all along that the unfortunate young woman took her own life. But the Malleys do not leave the court room unstained. The guilt of plotting and carrying out a wicked conspiracy to ruin Jennie Cramer, rests upon them. This ought to be a burden to sober and sadden them for the rest of their days. If exact justice could be measured out, they would yet be severely punished for these things. As for the woman who had a part in the shame and wickedness of these young men, and who seems to have been much sinned against herself, it is certainly to be hoped that some kind hand will be stretched forth to save her from plunging downward again. Her lot seems pitiable indeed.—Tribune.

We believe in universal equity and protection, but the paying of princely salaries to corporation officials, many of them only mere figure heads, when those who really do the work for the companies, clerks and laborers, are compelled to accept starvation wages, appears to us far, very far from the standard of human right.

The annual raising of over a hundred million dollars more than is necessary to discharge the legitimate expenditures of government draws around the National Capitol a horde of hungry political wolves. Public indignation ought to scatter the entire brood and all who encourage their ravenous appetites.

At Chester, New Jersey, on Saturday morning, a keg of giant powder was exploded, by accident or carelessness, in a frame building in which a number of miners had sought shelter from a storm. The building was demolished. John Peterson was killed and several others injured, two severely.

No political theory can improve on the good old fashioned Democratic plan of basing revenue upon just taxation, doing only what the public welfare demands, paying honestly for value received, and enlarging the bounds of personal freedom and prosperity.

The proposed Congressional appropriation of many millions for the professed construction of a Navy, when our foreign commerce is nearly obliterated, with no immediate prospect of revival, warrants honest men to shout aloud—Tie up the money bags.

Justice has been satisfied by the hanging of Guiteau. The assassin has met a merited doom. If the degenerate spoils system could be as effectually thrust out of existence, happiness would enliven the country from sea to sea.

To equitably collect revenue to meet the plighted faith and real wants of a liberal minded government is public duty. Beyond that lurks temptation—the parent of profligacy.

The lobbyists at Washington are unlike the Arabs—"who fold their tents and steal away." The American Bedouins remain to steal.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

Four out of six persons who came from Jersey City to Stirling, Morris County, on July 1st, with intention of hunting woodcock, were arrested by a member of the New Jersey Game & Fish Protective Society, on suspicion of being non-residents of the State and therefore violating a State law. Upon ascertaining that the parties were residents of New Jersey, they were released from custody, no evidence being adduced to prove that they had killed any woodcock.

The season for woodcock shooting in this State opened on July 2d. As that date, however, fell on a Sunday, lovers of the sport were constrained to wait until the 3d before they could legally shoot this royal game bird, which were found in large numbers along the Passaic river and other favorite haunts in this vicinity. We have heard of parties of two and three killing 12, 22 and 16 birds in a day.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

OH, for an Opera House.

COMMON Council meeting next Monday evening.

ALL other three clubs seem to be afraid of the Plainfield champions.

TIGHTEN the hinges of your gates, ye fellows of suburban lanes, July has two moons.

MOST of the pyrotechnic displays intended for Tuesday night, did not show forth till the 6th.

CHIEF of Police, Charlie Dodd, will want an increase of salary since the "force" has been doubled.

THE Sunday School of the Church of the Holy Cross enjoyed themselves at Chimney Rock, on Friday last.

A RAINY Fourth spoiled the calculations of many picnicers, ball players and other searchers after holiday amusement.

THE picnic that was to be held in Wooden's Grove on July 4th, was postponed on account of the weather until the 6th.

THE North Plainfield School bonds, amounting to $25,000, were taken by the Dime Saving Institution at prices averaging about 101½.

PORTIONS of the front of No. 2's Engine House have been tastefully painted after a peculiar style said to be the choice of one of the biggest officials on the C. R. R. of N. J.

THE stormy weather of Tuesday was bad for the fire-works business, but in spite of all that the enterprising firm of Bowles & Co. sold many hundreds of dollars worth.

THERE will be a Union Camp Meeting held in Hyde's Grove, under the direction of the Rev. E. H. Chippy, commencing on the 15th inst., and "continuing for three Sabbaths."

MR E. B. PORTER, former editor of the Somerset Unionist, has purchased the Bound Brook Chronicle, and will hereafter conduct that journal in the interests of his Republican friends and party.

THERE will be preaching of the gospel in the open air at 4:30 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, on the grounds of Mr. Paul J. Leinaux, on Chatham, at the foot of Water street. All are cordially invited.

WE publish elsewhere the essay of Miss Mary E. Robinson of the P. H. S. graduating class, on "Nature's Paintings"—the material for which was found amid the surrounding beauty of Wetumpka Falls.

HAVING in view the erection of a Public Hall in this city, the Citizen's Committee and the gentlemen appointed by the Union Club will meet again this (Thursday) evening in the Common Council room.

THE Union Club will give its first Ladies' Reception during to-morrow evening, the 8th inst. The occasion will be a novel one in this city, and probable rival in brilliancy other gatherings of the upper crust.

TREASURER Mallinson of the Fireman's Relief Association, has received from the Secretary of State $302.81 as the Plainfield Association's share of $12,152.46 that is divided among 40 like organizations throughout the State.

THE most astonished urchin in the city of Plainfield on the 4th, was that one who picked up a lighted cannon fire cracker and stowed it away in his coat-tail pocket. There was an explosion and a hole in the garment for his mother to mend.

ON Monday night a hay-stack belonging to Mr. Chas. Hyde was burned back of his residence. No. 2 Steamer took water from the brook at Richmond street and put a stream on the flames. The hay, however, was ruined by fire, water and smoke.

THE first nine of the Plainfield Base Ball Association defeated the second nine on their grounds, Tuesday morning, by a score of 14 to 9. The Plainfielders will play the Standard Oil Works nine, at Park avenue and Arlington Place, to-morrow afternoon.

POSTMASTER Pope has placed at the railroad station handsome boxes for the reception of drop letters, which will be of great accommodation to the public. Such a convenience is entirely optional with Mr. Pope, and an outcome of his desire to serve the community.

AN impartial thief last Saturday night stole a horse from Jacob Naylor, a wagon from Isaiah Curtis and a harness from Mulford Cole. On his way for parts unknown, however, the wagon broke down and through the promptness of Captain Dodd's action in the matter, the thief and his journey were arrested at N. Y. City.

ON Monday morning last as three of the employees of Manning's marble works were setting a heavy monument on its stone base, Mr. Al. Rosell was so unfortunate as to smash the middle finger of the left hand between the two stones. Dr. Chas. A. Hart subsequently amputated the finger at the Muhlenberg Hospital where the patient was treated.

ON Thursday afternoon and evening of next week, the T. A. B. Society of St. Mary's parish will hold its usual Summer picnic at Stelle's Grove, whereat a most delightful time is anticipated. Fine music, illuminated grounds, &c., will contribute to the pleasures of all who attend, and nothing that will in anyway interrupt the enjoyment, will be permitted.

THE excursion of the First Baptist church to Long Branch, Ocean Grove and Asbury Park on Wednesday, the 19th inst., promises to be an unusually successful one. The destinations are particularly attractive to those who love fresh air and need bathing—we mean, to those who need fresh air and love bathing—and as it will be the first trip in such direction, a large patronage seems assured.

THROUGH the exertions of Freeholders Stover and Hubbard a needed improvement has been made on Arlington avenue. Where for a long time has been a festering nuisance in the form of stagnant water and refuse matter carried through a drain pipe from the Park House, is now a clear running stream, flowing into Cedar Brook through a twelve inch pipe under the road way. Barney Grey did the work in a systematic manner. The nuisance alluded to, of sewerage matter from the Park House being carried to this low spot of ground, has received the attention of the City Physician and it is to be hoped will be abated.

THE water excursion of the Plainfield Saengerbund on Friday of next week, is just now occupying the minds of the public and a large number will seize this opportunity of a trip to a new field of enjoyment. Hudson Grove, Echo Bay, Long Island Sound, carries in its very title promise of various pleasures, and all who attend the excursion must surely pass a long day of gratification and delight. Everything that will contribute to the satisfaction of the party has been secured, and the exhilarating sail through scenes of interest, the fine music that will guide the dancers and the rambles and other attractions on shore will complete a day's programme seldom equalled.

They Say

That Plainfield is to have one of the finest Public Halls in the State.

That the Saengerbund Excursion, on the 14th inst., is to be one of the pleasantest that has ever left the city.

That ex-Collector Clark can prove he is not guilty.

That men have died and worms have eaten them, but not for love.

That at least ten car loads of Baptists and others, will visit Ocean Grove on the 19th.

That the Plainfield Chess Club "can't be beat."

That the Summer exodus of our residents will be much less this season than in former years.

That Plainfield's wealth and beauty, fair women and brave men, fashionable toilets and enchanting forms, will attend the Union Club reception to-morrow evening.

That July's pair of moons will lead to many marriage engagements.

The Death of Young Burnet.

Since our last issue additional particulars have been learned regarding the suicide of William F. Burnet that all the more strongly point toward the theory we have held that the act was impelled during temporary aberration of the mind. One cause of Burnet's leaving the lucrative position he held in the South, was—as we stated—on account of the bad effect he experienced by reason of the heat in that section of the country. As he described it—"the top of his head seemed to fly off." It is reasonable to suppose, therefore, that the extreme heat of June 20th, so affected him that the rash act was incited. Sometime during the Sunday that was Burnet's last day on earth, he wrote and posted to his brother a letter stating his intention of taking his life on account of "a secret sorrow"—all of which was undoubtedly the creation of an unbalanced and rambling mind.

Death of Wm. G. Baker.

Many will be shocked to learn of the sudden death of this estimable young man. Mr. Baker had been suffering for some time, but neither his physician nor friends were alarmed concerning him until a few days ago. Under advice of the physician he was removed to Ocean Grove last Friday, where, contrary to expectation he grew suddenly worse and on Monday night died. On Wednesday the funeral services were conducted at the cottage in Ocean Grove by the Rev. T. H. Stockton, of whose church he was a devoted member. The interment took place at Bound Brook. Those who knew Mr. Baker best, will mourn his loss the most, and can only be reconciled by the assurance that "God doeth all things well," and that all is now indeed well with him. Our friend was in his twenty-second year. He came to this city about three years ago with his parents from Bound Brook and soon unconsciously won to himself a large circle of friends, by his modest, manly, christian character. As a gentleman, Mr. Baker possessed qualities which made him welcome in social circles—indeed which made him a favorite among the young people of his acquaintance. He was diligent in his business; it was a sore trial to him and disappointment to his employer and fellow clerks, when a few weeks ago he was obliged to resign his position. Our friend was a modest but consistent follower of Christ. Such indeed was his trust in the Saviour, that weary with suffering he longed to be with Him and at rest. His parents, sisters and brother will have the sympathy of very many friends in Plainfield, and all who knew him can but be influenced to better lives by his example.

Mr. Samuel C. Peck, Jr., and son are rusticating at Milford, Conn., the old home of the former.

Mrs. Polak of Netherwood is gradually recovering from an illness that at one time seemed fatal.

Master Edmund Bliss, the second son of the pastor of the Crescent avenue Church, who has been so alarmingly ill, is now out of danger and steadily improving.

The golden wedding of Alexander D. and Elizabeth Graves Button, was quietly celebrated at their beautiful home on 7th street, on Sunday, July 2d, by their children and grandchildren and a few invited friends. The only members of the family absent, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. G. Button of Waterloo, Iowa, sent their regrets, accompanied by a beautiful floral offering.

The death of Howard W. Vail late of this city, occurred at Philadelphia on Saturday last. The deceased was twenty-five years of age and a member of the firm of J. T. Vail & Bro., blacking manufacturers of Plainfield. He was well known in the community where he had many warm friends. The funeral took place on Wednesday at the First Baptist Church, and was largely attended.

A telegram from Colorado notes the death of Mrs. Francis Abbey, wife of Mr. Charles Abbey and eldest daughter of the late Col. Dan Talmage of Bound Brook. Several years ago she removed to Colorado in the hope of recovery from chronic bronchitis, but the disease gradually developed into consumption from which she died on Sunday, 2d inst. The remains will be brought East and buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The "Excused."

As there has been a great deal of rather unbecoming discussion regarding the "excusing" of Miss Mary E. Robinson from a public presentation of her essay upon the occasion of the late Commencement of the P. H. S., Class of '82, we print it below in full that all may read and judge. It is necessary each year to omit a certain number of the class from an active participation in the exercises, and as never before has the charge of partiality been made against those controlling the appointments, we cannot in the present instance believe such an accusation. Those who heard read the essays selected, can compare them with the following and judge if it was more worthy.

THE PAINTINGS OF NATURE.

One winter's day as I wandered from the busy throng of the city, to be alone with nature, I came to a delightful, well-known spot, where I paused to admire the paintings of nature.

The woods are now in their winter's sleep, dreaming of autumn that has passed and of spring that is to come. Everything looks brown and bare. This mountain is frozen to its very heart; no life is seen on its rugged sides but the sapless green foliage of the cedar. These steep rocks have lost their once life-like appearance, when the velvety green moss clung to their sides, and the grass that was once so verdant is of the same color as the dead leaves. A lone winter bird is tapping on a hollow tree. The sky is gray and wintry. The water that once leaped and sparkled so joyously is now imprisoned in an icy embrace. Icicles of great length are hanging from the projecting rocks, and the streamlet below is frozen over. No sound is heard but the water gurgling beneath its ice-crested surface, and the whisper of the swaying trees.

As winter creeps into spring the different objects seem changed. The stream is released from winter's chain, and the trees are just putting forth their buds. This silver brook is pouring a white cascade over the jutting rocks, and the foaming water after sporting from rock to rock takes its final leap into this deep green pool; here it tarries a while as if to rest itself for its coming course. Now it hurries on in a small stream whose bosom is all transparent. The fair trees look over side by side and see themselves in the mirror on its surface.

The early flowers are beginning to spring forth here and there. On the hillside are the delicate petaled Anemones swayed to and fro by gentle zephyr, and the pretty blue and white Hepaticas lifting up their heads to the clear sky. The pink-veined Spring Beauty is here too. The pearl-white Immortal and sweet Saxifrage, companions of one another have their homes here and are now growing in all their beauty.

Early one May morning, when the air was fresh and the birds sang out their sweet carols to hail the coming day, I revisited my old haunt. The scene is full of beauty. This sweet spot laughs in flowers; the pretty violet is here, and yonder I spy the scarlet columbine. I look a little above in the same direction and there is the clematis, with its large purple bells twining its woody tendrils around the small trees. Hid in the shade are the delicate ferns just unfolding their fronds. No rocks can be seen but those at the very base, those above that were plainly seen in winter and early spring, being covered with the new moss and the bright green foliage of the trees. The water pours over as ceaselessly as ever, and with a roaring noise dashes from rock to rock its foaming spray.

Musing on all these paintings, that add a charm to this place, I think of the old associations, of the time when the Indian foot trod this same sequestered spot. Here in the bark-built wigwams the fires blazed and crackled, around which the old folks smoked in silence, and the shy maid wove her many hued baskets and bright wampum braid.

Along the shore of this brook the fishers have lounged. Spoils of chase and war have lain beside the warriors [illegible] and bow, and these same trees have listened to the long councils held by the warrior chiefs.

No matter what time we may visit this spot, whether in dreary winter or in leafy summer or in the spring season, we will always find it full of the beauties that belong to the different seasons, and these scenes will be beautiful paintings of nature.

Fire Matters.

The Board of Managers of the Plainfield Fire Department met in regular meeting in the Council room on Wednesday evening. Present—President Van Winkle and Messrs. Depew, Fisk, Gillies, Jones and Morris. Mr. Jones from Com. on Wells reported that the work on Franklin Place well was not satisfactory and he had declined to approve of it. Treas. Depew reported that the tax bills were all sent out, and that the bonds sold Mr. Zabriskie had been delivered and paid for. Mr. Morris from Com. on Repairs and Supplies read two proposals for furnishing a hose carriage to the Department. Chas. Cleveland was confirmed as a member of Zephyr H. & L. Co. Exemption certificates were asked for W. R. Cook, S. V. Varian and John H. Cuthbert of Alert Hose Co.; A. M. Griffen, of No. 1 Eng. Co.; George H. Butcher, Chas. H. Head, Thos. Jones, Jacob Fenner and Philip Brown of No. 2 Eng. Co.; all referred to Secretary for examination. On request of No. 1 Eng. Co., the resignation of T. A. Schild was accepted. A number of bills in hands of Com. on R. and S. were reported correct and ordered paid. On motion of Mr. Morris the Gas Light Co. were notified to light no more lamps at the expense of the Department. A number of new bills were ref'd for examination and others ordered paid. Mr. Morris moved that Com. on R. & S. be empowered to purchase two torches for No. 2 Hose carriage—carried. Also a resolution providing for a firemen's parade on Thursday, Oct. 19th—laid over until next regular meeting, and the Chief instructed to get the views of the officers of the Department regarding the same. Also a resolution that the Com. on Wells be instructed to advertise for proposals for building wells at Third near Liberty street and at Madison or Central avenue and Ninth street—carried. After some discussion regarding the bell-tower, the meeting adjourned.

Common Council Proceedings.

MONDAY EVENING, July 3d, 1882.

The council met in regular meeting. Present—President Rushmore and Messrs. Gardner, Ginna, Kaufman, Lindsley, Newhall, J. Simpson and Thompson—8.

Absent—Messrs. Depew, Livingston and E. Simpson—3.

Minutes of last regular adjourned meeting read and approved.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

By Mr. Newhall, the petition of Bateman Thatcher for permission to erect a frame building at the S. W. corner of Third and Washington streets, to be used as a carpenter shop. Ref'd to Lamps Com., with power.

By the same, the petition of owners of property with frontage on Dunham street, requesting the Council to open the street. Ref'd to Laws Com.

By the same, a communication calling attention to the unsafe condition of the board sidewalk on Second street at the east corner of Richmond. Ref'd to the Com., on Streets.

By the same, a communication from Catharine Flanagan, as owner of real estate at the corner of Third and Liberty streets, asking that her claim against the city for damages caused by lowering the grade of the street below the railroad track, be taken as an offset against taxes due the city from her. Ref'd to Laws Com.

PRESENTATION OF CLAIMS.

By Mr. J. Simpson, C. W. Dodd, $56.34; R. Randolph, 20.87; G. W. Grant, 4.69; M. Conway, 4.50. Ref'd

By Mr. Thompson, Plainfield Gaslight Co., (June) $248.50; E. A. Vermeule, 17.85; D. W. Littell, 8.85. Ref'd.

By Mr. Gardner, A. T. Shotwell, $95.92. Ref'd.

By Mr. Ginna, H. Hamilton, $36.50; O. B. Leonard, 93.17; J. Van Winkle, 75. Ref'd.

By the same, a bill of Wm. N. Pangborn for services, loss of time, sale of stock &c. in making preparations to assume the duties of Delinquent Tax Collector, $85. Ref'd to Com. on Laws.

By Mr. Newhall, Runyon & Leonard, $43.40; M. Bird, 62.50; D. Hand, 108; A. M. Runyon, 14; H. McAlear, 34; L. A. Connell, 3; Ford & Styles. 15. Ref'd.

The Clerk read a communication from the Mayor nominating Special Officer G. W. Grant as a regular policeman.

Nomination confirmed—all aye.

Also the statement of the City Clerk giving a list of the names of those licensed under the hack ordinance, with the receipt of the Treasurer as having received $165 in fees from such source. Rec'd and filed.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

By Mr. Ginna, the following:

The Special Com. to examine the accounts of late Collector L. E. Clark, beg to report progress in matters referred to them, and also to say that since their last report they have made a very careful re-examination of the last statement handed the Council by Mr. Clark and which the Committee fail to reconcile with any which he had previously handed them. Accepting Mr. Clark's own figures for interest received upon delinquent taxes and which your Com. are unable to verify, and also his own acknowledgment of State and County taxes received for years previous to 1874, and crediting him with all vouchers shown to which he has any claim, we find the deficiency swelled to over $5,200. This after allowing for various payments never audited by the Council, including certain payments to himself and the Assessor for services, but not deducting a claim for some $1,200 now before the Council for services as Collector for year 1881. In order to verify certain payments claimed to have been made the Board of Education, your Com. on June 22d addressed a communication to the President, and to the Sec. and Treas. of the Board, asking them to furnish the Com. with an itemized statement of all monies paid the Board of Education by L. E. Clark during his term of office, on account of School taxes collected and for School warrants returned, and which statement your Com. are satisfied could be made up in a very few hours, but up to this time we have had no response, nor has there been upon the part of the Board of Education any disposition shown to aid your Com. in this examination, although the accounts of the city and those of the Board of Education are intimately associated and should in the judgment of your Com., be jointly and simultaneously examined. In order that your Com. may secure from the Board of Education the information desired and which it is important they should have, they would request the Council to pass a resolution calling upon the Board of Education to furnish it. To carry out the instructions of the Council your Com. believe that the present Collector should make a demand upon the late incumbent of the office, Mr. L. E. Clark, for all monies, books, papers, &c., in his hands, and belonging to the city of Plainfield. With this in view, your Com. made such a request of the present Collector, but he hesitates to act without positive instructions from this Council. Your Com. would therefore request the Council to pass a resolution calling upon him to take such action. All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. A. GINNA,
HENRY B. NEWHALL,
H. LINDSLEY,
Special Committee.

July 3d, 1882.

Rec'd and placed on file.

By Mr. Newhall, the following:

PLAINFIELD, July 3d, 1882.

Report of Special Water Committee:

Your Committee appointed to ascertain and report upon the possible sanitary effect of the introduction of water without sewerage, having investigated the question by consultation with numerous gentlemen well posted in such matters, beg to report:

1st. Pure water is unquestionable necessary for the health of any community.

2d. The present system of drawing water from dug and driven wells cannot be continued without in the near future seriously affecting the sanitary condition of the city.

3d. Pure water can be obtained and brought into the city.

4th. Any amount of water likely to be used in excess of the present consumption will be easily absorbed and carried off by the porous soil of our city.

5th. The impure matter retained in the ground from cesspools, &c., will be no greater than at present.

Under these circumstances your Committee are convinced that the introduction of water, even without sewerage, will be a decided advantage to the city in a sanitary point of view, inasmuch as it will enable our citizens to use perfectly pure water instead of that which is now and must, under the present system, always be more or less contaminated.

Respectfully,
HENRY B. NEWHALL,
R. A. GINNA,
W. F. KAUFMAN,
Committee.

Rec'd and placed on file.

Mr. Depew arrived at this stage of the proceedings and the rules were suspended to allow his presentation of the monthly report of the Collector as published elsewhere.

By Mr. Newhall, from the Alms Com., the following as approved: C. S. Guion, $81.46; D. J. Baker, 61.63; A. V. Searing, 8.75. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

By Mr. J. Simpson, from the Auditing Com., the following as approved: M. Ball, $22.75; E. O. Chamberlain, 30.18; W. L. Force & Bro., 77; Mrs. D. Randolph, 46; Mrs. S. Wilkins, 9; A. M. Runyon, 17; A. Vanderbeek, 23.17 and others.

Warrants ordered drawn.

Mr. Depew, from Finance Com., reported that Treasurer was unable to make his report that evening; also that the Com. had in its hands certain statements of the late Collector which it desired should be referred to the Special Com. having in charge the examination of Mr. Clark's accounts. So ordered.

Also presented a request from Collector Brown that a committee be appointed to examine and audit his accounts to date.

On motion of Mr. Ginna, seconded by Mr. J. Simpson, the Finance Com. was instructed so to act.

By Mr. Thompson, from the Lamps Com., the following as approved: N. Y. & N. J. Globe Gaslight Co., Aug. '81, $491; Jan. '82, 127.35; Feb. 117.69; Mar. 127.13; April, 136.23; May, 126.83; D. W. Littell, 17.50. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Also the bill of the Plainfield Gaslight Co. for Dec. 1881, $239.87 with a report to the effect that the Lamps Com. of the previous Council had reported the claim as incorrect, yet the Gaslight Co. refused to make any material reduction.

On motion of Mr. Kaufman, seconded by Mr. Newhall, the bill was laid on the table. All present voting aye.

The same Committee recommended that the petition of Berry & Thorn for permission to erect an awning over the sidewalk at their place of business be granted. Recommendation adopted.

By Mr. Ginna, from Laws Com., as approved, the claim of $39.62, costs in the Supreme Court suit against D. L. Martine. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Also reported its examination and approval of the bond of Geo. W. Moore and asked the endorsement by the Council of its action in accepting the same. So approved.

Also reported back without approval the petition for certain changes in the provisions of the Hack Ordinance. Rec'd.

Also the following:

The Laws and Ordinance Com. to whom was referred the communication of J. S. & R. M. Pearson, bearing date of June 15th, 1882, and herewith attached, respectfully report that the Fire, Water & Lamps Com. to whom their petition was originally referred, directed their organization under the Gas law of April 21st, 1876. The Common Council approved the report of the Committee on Fire, Water & Lamps, and in pursuance of the same referred the drafting of the ordinance for their government to the Laws & Ordinance Committee. This Committee having reported their readiness to proceed with the drafting of a proper ordinance, as directed, when the company shall have been duly incorporated under the laws pointed out. The petitioners announced that it is not their intention to organize under said law of April 21st, 1876. It would seem that by such declaration on the part of the petitioners your Committee are relieved from further consideration of the matter. Your Committee report, however, that in their judgment the best interests of the city imperatively demand that the privilege prayed for should not be granted except upon a basis of adequate protection to the city. The law of April 21st, 1876, affords such protection, and until the petitioners are duly organized under such laws or in some other manner have assured the city as complete protection as is provided by such laws, your Committee recommend that the drafting of an ordinance be deferred.

R. A. GINNA,
ROBT. L. LIVINGSTON,
H. LINDSLEY,
Laws & Ord. Committee.

July 3d, 1882.

Rec'd and recommendation adopted.

The President presented the written opinion of the Corporation Counsel regarding the revoking of the saloon license of P. Day. The opinion held that the violation of the ordinance charged against Day was committed two days before the expiration of his old license, and could not therefore be held to affect the license which had since been granted for the present year. Rec'd.

By Mr. Gardner, from Police Com., the following as approved: C. W. Dodd, $58.34; R. Randolph, 20.87; G. W. Grant, 4.69; M. Conway, 4.50; M. Bird, 62.50; C. Winslow, 5. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

By Mr. Lindsley, from Sal's Com., the following as approved: J. S. Cutter, $77.11; J. Maynard, 5; C. W. Kimball, 179.96; J. Van Winkle, 36.50; O. B. Leonard, 93.15; H. Hamilton, 75. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Mr. Ginna moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet on the evening of Monday the 10th inst. Carried.

Mr. Ginna moved for adoption the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the board of education be and they are hereby respectfully requested to furnish to the special committee appointed by the common council to examine the accounts of the late collector full and complete information as to the amounts of school taxes received by them in each year respectively since the year A. D. 1873, on account of school taxes collected, with the dates of receipt, the amount of school warrants received during same period, with dates of receipt, and any and all other information that may be necessary in ascertaining what is the balance due the city from the late collector.

Adopted, all aye.

Resolved, That John B. Brown, collector of taxes of the city of Plainfield be and he hereby is directed to demand in writing from Lewis E. Clark, late collector of taxes of the city of Plainfield, and of the township of Plainfield, all monies, books, papers, evidences of debt and other instruments of writing, and other property of whatever nature real and personal belonging to the city of Plainfield, including all tax duplicates, tax warrants, check books, bank books, cancelled checks and other vouchers, lists of delinquents, and books of account which may have come to his (the said Lewis E. Clark's) hands by virtue of the office of collector of taxes of the township of Plainfield, and as collector of taxes of the city of Plainfield.

Adopted, all aye.

Resolved, That John B. Brown, collector of taxes of the city of Plainfield be and he hereby is directed to demand in writing from Joseph B. Coward, late town clerk of the township of Plainfield, all monies, books, papers, evidences of debt, and other instruments of writing, and other property of whatever nature, real and personal, belonging to the city of Plainfield, including all check books, bank books, cancelled checks and other vouchers, and books of account which may have come to his (the said Joseph B. Coward's) hands by virtue of the office of township clerk of the township of Plainfield, or otherwise howsoever.

Adopted, all aye.

Also providing for the issuing by the City Judge of warrants to Geo. W. Moore for the collection of certain delinquent taxes of sundry years. Adopted.

Also instructing the Com. on Laws to call upon the City Judge and ascertain the cause of his delay in issuing the warrants as directed at a previous meeting, and request greater promptness in the future. Adopted.

Mr. Newhall presented a resolution directing the City Clerk to procure the proper badges for licensed hackmen, and issue the same with the understanding that they be returned at the expiration of the license. Adopted.

The rules were suspended to allow Mr. Newhall to report the approval of the License Com. of the applications for hack, cart and other vehicle licenses in its hands.

Report rec'd and the applications granted.

The rules were suspended and Mr. J. Simpson, from the Aud. Com., reported sundry bills as approved.

Warrants ordered drawn.

The meeting then adjourned.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

On Thursday afternoon, June 29th, Sadie Sinclair, daughter of Robert R. Sinclair, Esq., fell from the fence while playing with some children, striking herself on the head and rendering her unconscious for some time.

The wife and children of Frank N. Earle left on Saturday last for Illinois on a visit to friends and relatives residing in that State. Frank expects to join them the last of August.

The Central Railroad Company have built the past week a raised platform along the walk in front of the depot, to enable persons to get in and out of carriages with ease.

Miss Ann Miller, residing on Central avenue, received the sad news by telegram from the West on Tuesday morning of the death of her older son David, who has been in the Western Territories for some years past. He was fording one of the streams in that section with his team of horses. The stream had been swollen with heavy rains and swept the horses [illegible] At last accounts his body had not yet been recovered.

What is the reason the boys did not ring the school house bell on the morning of the Fourth properly? Why take a piece of iron to do it with instead of the tongue or clapper of the bell?

A Public Meeting of the citizens of our town was held in Lyceum Hall on Wednesday evening, July 5th inst. in accordance with a resolution passed by the Town Committee at their meeting in June. At the hour of 8 o'clock p. m., Robert R. Sinclair called the meeting to order and stated its object, which was to discuss the question and to recommend the Town Committee whether to call a special election to vote money for the purchase of a stone crusher or not. Mr. Aaron T. Grant was chosen Chairman and Mr. George W. Tice, Secretary—Mr. Levi Cory made quite a lengthy statement in regard to the manner and mode of operation of a stone crusher which he and Mr. Henry Beardsley had visited and seen in operation in the city of Orange, N. J. Mr. Beardsley answered many questions asked by the citizens present. After considerable discussion of the question by Messrs James O. Clark, R. D. Chamberlain, W. Morehouse, Wm. G. Peckham and others the following resolution was adopted by a vote of 56 in favor to 8 against.

Resolved, That the Town Committee call a special Town Meeting on July 15, 1882, to vote an appropriation of $700, $500 to apply to the purchase of a stone crusher and $200 to lease of grounds and placing the machinery on the same.

This time John R. Barcalow is the happy father of a little girl. The event occurred on Sunday morning last. Both mother and child are doing well.

The meeting of the Westfield Bucket and Engine Company No. 1. which was held on Friday evening last, was well attended, every member exhibited a great amount of interest in the company. A large number of new members were elected, the roll now numbering sixty members. The election of a Foreman in place of O. G. Webb, who has removed from the town will occur on Monday evening July 10th inst, at 8 p. m. at Hose Hall.

The trustees of the Fairview Cemetery are about giving the contract for cutting Willow avenue to a grade according to the grade map prepared for the purpose. This, when completed, will make a fine improvement to the Cemetery grounds.

John Wilcox, carpenter and builder, has the contract for the erection of the new building for A. W. Moffett, in Clark Township.

The trustees of the Presbyterian church are discussing the advisability and costs of raising and otherwise improving the Parsonage building on Broad street and of getting the same in order for its new occupant on or about Sept. 1st next.

The Town Committee met at Town Rooms Wednesday evening, June 28th at 8 o'clock. Present—Robert R. Sinclair, Evert M. Pierson, Oliver M. Pierson, Committee. Luther M. Whitaker, Clerk. Minutes of last meeting read and on motion approved. The Game and Fish Protective Society having made application for lease of the A. L. Keasby property on Road Dist. No. 14 bought by Township at tax sale. The following permit was on motion granted.

Resolved, That in consideration of one dollar, the Town committee grants licenses and leases to the Westfield Game and Fish Protective Society and its members, the exclusive right as far as said township is concerned of hunting game on 22 acres on Road Dist. No. 14 formerly owned by Orren and Squire Pierson, which has been sold to said township for taxes for the term of thirty years from date and that the chairman of the Town Committee and the town clerk be authorized to execute said permit.

The following bills were on motion ordered paid—Joseph Moffett, Overseer of Road Dist. No. 5. Balance due Dist. from last year. Amt., $16 55. Dr. Wm. Gale, minute book for Secretary of Board of Health. Amt. $1 15. Chairman reported the Counsel's opinion in regard to the matter of Amos Clark, Jr., unpaid taxes, which was on motion placed on file and the following resolution adopted:

Resolved, That a quit Claim Deed be made to Amos Clark, Jr., for release of property on Road Dist. No. 4, known as the Leveridge Farm, taxed to Amos Clark, Jr., for the years 1879 and '80 and sold by Wm. W. Connoly, Collector to the inhabitants of the Township of Westfield, upon payment of $206 36, amount of tax, interest and costs.

Mr. Levi Cory and Henry Beardman, representing about 100 petitioners for the purchase of a stone crusher, being present, stated they had visited the city of Orange and had seen a stone crusher in use there. They have two crushers run by one engine which crushes forty ton each per day. The expense of running the engine is about $5 per day. They use the Blake Crusher, manufactured at Newark, N. J., and think that an engine, boiler and crusher could be purchased for $1,500 or $2,000. If stone could be had within three miles of the centre of the village it would be much cheaper in their opinion to have a crusher than to buy the stone crushed. In conclusion they recommended that a public meeting be called for Wednesday evening, July 5th '82, for a free discussion of the whole matter; such meeting to advise the Town Committee whether the people are willing to have the petition granted and a special town meeting called to appropriate the necessary money.

In accordance with the above recommendation it was on motion ordered that the Clerk be directed to invite a public meeting of the tax-payers for Wednesday evening, July 5th '82 at 8 o'clock, in Lyceum Hall and to give notification through the newspapers and by mail to each tax-payer. On motion the Committee adjourned subject to the call of its chairman.

SCOTCH PLAINS SCRATCHINGS.

Scotch Plains Public School No. 14, closed for vacation on June 30th, with most satisfactory results. The high school grade county certificate was awarded to two young ladies, Miss Lizzie Hollingsworth and Miss Lottie Lyon. Seven pupils obtained county grammar grade certificates and twenty-two the primary grade. The graduates of the school are Miss Lizzie Hollingsworth, Miss Lottie Lyon, Miss Alice Johnson and Miss Hattie Bell Gore. This is a most commendable record; especially as the school is strictly a village one, to which many pupils are often compelled to make long stormy journeys winter and summer in order to keep up their standard of studies and punctuality.

The upper hall of the Academy, where the exercises were held, was profusely and tastefully decorated and festooned with lovely flowers. A large audience of parents and others sat out the long programme with untiring interest and delight, that indicated keen appreciation of the scholarly entertainment that had been arranged.

1. Chant,	The Lord's Prayer,	School.
2. Salutatory,		Irving Taylor.
3. "An Oration"		Harry Rand.
4. "The Little Orator,"		Walter Frazee.
5. Duet, Piano,		Chas. & Irving Taylor.
6. Flowers Personified,		A number of little girls.
7. On Trees,		George Traber.
8. Lizzie Bel,		Charles Taylor.
9. Chorus,	On to the Conflict,	School.
10. Mrs Jones' Prescription,		Grace Smith.
11. Dialogue,	Peacemaking,	Several girls.
12. Drifted Out to Sea,		Nellie Hollingsworth.
13. Vocal Duet,	Baby Land,	Lily Nichols, Bertie Cooper.
14. Launching of the Ship,		Gertrude Gillhardt.
15. Essay,	[illegible]	Hattie Bell Gore.
16. Dialogue,	Choice of Trade,	Several boys.
17. Chorus,	Soldiers of Zion,	School.
18. [illegible]	[illegible]	Robert Rand.
19. Essay,	Roses,	Lottie Lyon.
20. Solo,	Piano,	Agnes Hollingsworth.
21. Recitation,	The Burning of Chicago,	Lola Hollingsworth.
22. Distribution of Certificates,		by Mr. Wm. Cooper.
23. Chorus,	Parting Song,	School.

After the parting song Mr. Wm. Cooper, chairman of the Board of Trustees, made a solid, common-sense address in which he clearly illustrated that the success obtained was the outcome of earnest application on part of the children and honest zeal and intelligent administration on part of the teachers. When he worthily complimented the latter his remarks were endorsed by prolonged genuine applause.

Mr. I. P. Town, the energetic principal of the school and his accomplished lady assistants, Miss Lizzie S. Johnston and Miss Carrie Bettman, feel assured that the school will make a still better showing next year. They are greatly encouraged by the hearty response that was given to a recent call of the Board of Trustees upon the district for an increase of funds. A larger number of scholars are enrolled in District No. 14, and in order to give comfortable accommodation and regulate classification, the rooms will be rearranged and another teacher has been added to the staff.

COMMUNICATED.

MESSRS EDITORS:—

Please notify the farmers through the medium of your far reaching weekly that there is no virtue whatever in tobacco dust, to rid all the Potato Bug; and the farmer who buys it and applies it will lose his money, his valuable time and work, and he will lose his plants while waiting on the effect. I have experimented on the Potato Bug with the finest powdered tobacco, and the more I give them of the weed the more they like it, they bring up to the plant to the very last and they increased and multiplied, next to the potato plant. I believe they love tobacco.

And oblige Yours Truly,

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

To worry about any Liver or Kidney trouble, especially Bright's Disease or Diabetes, as Hop Bitters never fails of a cure where a cure is possible. We know this.

EMORY'S Diseases of the Kidneys, Diabetes and other diseases of the Kidneys and Liver, which you are being so frightened about, Hop Bitters is the only thing that will surely and permanently prevent and cure. All other pretended cures only relieve for a time and then make you many times worse.

Malaria, Chills and Fever, and Bilious attacks positively cured with Emory's Standard Cure Pills—an infallible remedy; never fail to cure the most obstinate, long-standing cases where Quinine and all other remedies had failed. They are prepared expressly for malarious sections, in double boxes, two kinds of Pills, containing a strong cathartic and a chill breaker, sugar-coated; contain no Quinine or Mercury, causing no griping or purging; they are mild and efficient, certain in their action and harmless in all cases; they effectually cleanse the system, and give new life and tone to the body. As a household remedy they are unequalled. For Liver Complaint their equal is not known; one box will have a wonderful effect on the worst case. They are used and prescribed by physicians, and sold by Druggists everywhere, or sent by mail, 25 and 50 cent boxes. Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, best ever made, only 15 cents. H. P. Reynolds, Plainfield, N. J.

HOW TO SECURE HEALTH.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOVILL'S SARSAPARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilitic disorders, Weakness of the Kidneys, Erysipelas, Malaria; all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, skin, etc. It corrects indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health renewer, for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man and Beast. For use externally and internally.

DR. ROGER'S VEGETABLE WORM SYRUP instantly destroys worms and removes the Secretions which cause them.

Best ever made, Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, pleasant to take, sugar-coated; no griping; only 15 cents a box, of Druggists or mail. Standard Cure Co. H. P. Reynolds, Plainfield, N. J.

$1,800 per year can be easily made at home working for E. G. Rideout & Co., 10 Barclay St., New York. Send for their catalogue and full particulars. all71

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water, and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, which Sulphur, Sugar of Lead, and Nitrate of Silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggist for it. Each bottle is warranted. SMITH, KLINE & CO., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and C. N. CRITTENTON, New York. jal6-1y

TITSWORTH'S MALARIA BEAN & RABE SURE CURE

PLAINFIELD, N. J., January 10th, 1882.
DEAR SIR:—For the benefit of those suffering from that dread disease, Chills and Fever, I beg you will publish the following:
"I was sick with this disease about four months and had tried everything I could get, and consulted with several physicians, but could not get permanent relief, when at last I heard of "Titsworth's Malaria Cure," and its wonderful cures. After taking the first dose I felt better and continued to improve as I took the medicine. After using one bottle I was perfectly restored to health, and have not had a chill since."
Yours truly,
MARY ELIZABETH SMITH.

A DAY'S FISHING.

One morning when haying was in its prime,
 A morn to a poet's wishing;
All robed in her pink-and-[illegible],
 When Bessie and I went fishing.

In my rough and easy clothes,
 With my face in the sunshine's mercy;
She with her hat tipped down to her nose,
 And her nose tipped—vice versa.

I with my rod, my reel and my hooks,
 And a hamper for lunching recesses;
She with the bait of her comely looks
 And the seine of her golden tresses.

So we sat down on the sunny dike,
 Where the white pond lilies teeter;
And I went to fishing, like quaint old Ike,
 And she like Simon Peter.

All the noon I lay in the light of her eyes,
 And dreamily watched and waited;
But the fish were cunning and would not rise,
 And the baiter alone was baited.

And when the time for departure came,
 The bag was as flat as a flounder;
But Bessie had neatly hooked her game,
 A hundred and eighty pounder.

THE IMAGININGS OF A GREAT EDITOR.

From the Chicago Tribune

Low burned the fire; the room was dim,
 We heard the warning clock strike ten;
And by the moonlight, growing dim,
 Knew parting time had come again.

"I had a dream last night," I said,
 "I'll tell it to you ere I go;
I thought, my dear, your little head
 Was lying on my shoulder—so."

"'Tis time to go," I said, "and you—
 You kissed me twice upon the cheek;
Now tell me, love, if dreams come true."
 Most archly did my darling speak:

"Why, some come true, and some do not;
 "Dreams like this do, I quite believe."
And then she kissed me twice, and got
 Her waist entangled in my sleeve.

—From the [illegible]

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

"My dear Frank," said I, addressing my old college chum, Frank Harding, as we sat talking in the twilight of a delicious Indian-summer evening—"my dear Frank, you talk of being the victim of misplaced confidence. Stop grumbling, keep still for a little while, lend your careful attention to one of my experiences and be enlightened. But first take this Havana, which I know will insure me against your perpetual interruptions for at least half an hour."

"In the Summer of 1860, you remember the time, we had left college; and I, brimful of hope, ardor and enthusiasm, started to make a visit of ceremony somewhere or other—I forget where now, all recollection of the visit being obliterated by events of greater moment.

"The second day of my journey the train stopped for dinner at the picturesque station of G——, and I blessed my natal star when I found myself at table beside one of the most bewitching, sparkling, irresistible brunettes who ever donned a superabundance of crinoline.

"As a matter of course, I surrendered at discretion, and became a willing victim to the first volley of glances shot from a pair of liquid brown eyes.

"I had already made a sort of traveling acquaintance with a gray-haired gentleman, the father, evidently, who now occupied a chair on the other side of my inamorata, and out of respect for his years, I exerted myself as much as possible to save him the trouble of further attendance on the young lady, whom I escorted after dinner to the ladies' parlor, and then retired to the piazza to smoke a cigar with the old gentleman, who laughed on being relieved of his charge, and said, he, for one, much preferred attending on insensible baggage.

"Here, Frank, were it not for your manifest impatience, I could dissertate for an hour on the mighty and beneficent influence of tobacco as a fraternal introductory medium of communication. There we sat, perfect strangers—perhaps from opposite quarters of the world—wearing the genial, familiar aspect of old friends, by virtue of the transforming power of those ever-ascending, impalpable, pale-blue rings. There, Frank, don't interrupt. I've finished moralizing for the present.

"To return to our mutton, or, rather, lamb. When the young lady appeared at the sound of that most diabolical noise, the steam whistle, she was placed in my charge, after a hasty introduction in which I totally failed to catch the name, or even a semblance of it. None the less willingly did I take possession of the little hand confidingly placed with trembling touch on my arm, whence it sent an electric shock through my entire system. Heigh-ho!

"Confound you, Frank! There, again, you have cut short, by your unmannerly, uncouth interruption, what I feel would have been a masterly passage.

"On reaching the cars, I placed the lady with all advantages as to light and dust, then reversed the seat in front, so as to make comfortable room for a party of four, and seated myself beside her.

"The old gentleman took one of the unoccupied seats opposite, in a careless, lounging manner, and, with a nod and smile, which plainly said, 'enjoy yourselves, young folks,' settled himself for a nap, and got it, I trust, judging by the sounds which presently issued from behind a paper thrown over his face.

"'Insensible brute,' I mentally exclaimed, 'who but a father or husband could sleep in the vicinity of so much perfection?'

"My eyes must have betrayed something of my thoughts, for the blushing angel beside me replied to the outspoken words.

"'He is tired; pray excuse him; we have been traveling some days.'

The reply revealed so much considerate sweetness, that I mentally added:

"Harry Blake, behold the woman, the embodiment of the ideal you have so long sought in vain! If you let slip so good an opportunity of winning her, you deserve to remain unwed for life!"

"So resolved, be sure I made the most of my natural advantages, and never was devotion more deeply evinced than in that locomotive pandemonium, a railway carriage.

"All that night and the next day my attentions were unremitting, untiring, unrelaxed. And when we reached the Old Dominion, in which State I understood she resided, my offer of self, property and worldly goods was ready, all but the words in which to clothe it, and they would not come as glibly as usual.

"I hemmed, hawed, fidgeted; longed to choke the unconscious sleeper opposite, who, by a snore or snort louder than usual, several times put to flight my most felicitous expressions.

In an agony of love, admiration, hostility and tight boots, I got possession of one little hand, between my great brown palms, and blurted out confusedly—I don't know how, in fact:

"'My dear Miss M——, we are nearing your destination, and the happiest days I have ever spent are drawing to a close. Will you not, in mercy, grant me permission to call at your father's and try my luck after a longer and more intimate acquaintance?'

"What think you was the answer, Frank, as the mischievous coquetry in her face broke into a thousand dimpling dimples?

"'My father, did you say. That gentleman is my husband, and no doubt will be most happy to receive you at any time.'"

"Thus was my first passion nipped in the bud. No other has yet replaced it, for since then I have shunned the fair sex.

"I think the brown eyes were dimmer, and I know the pressure of the little hand was more fervent as I handed her soon after into a carriage in waiting at one of the branch stations, the old gentleman still attending to the baggage.

"Should she ever become a widow, those eyes would draw me with loadstone power from the 'Indus to the Pole,' and, old as I may be, will still cause my veins to thrill. And this, Frank, is the reason why I am still a bachelor."

THEY NEVER GOT OVER IT.

"Do you know, my dear," she suddenly said as she looked up from her piece work, "do you know that next week will be the twentieth anniversary of our wedding?"

"Is that so? By George! How time flies! Why, I had no idea of it."

"Yes, we have been married almost twenty long years," she continued, with something of a sigh. "You have been a good husband to me, darling."

"And you have been a blessed little wife to me, Susan. Come here till I kiss you. There!"

"I was thinking to-day—I was thinking of—of—"

"Of that sickly faced baboon who used to go home with you from prayer meeting before I knew you?" he interrupted. "Why, that Bison fellow, of course."

"Why, George, he wasn't such a bad fellow."

"Wasn't he? Well, I'd like to know of a worse one. He didn't know enough to chew putty, and there you were as good as engaged to him."

"Yes, George, but you know you were keeping company at the same time with that Helen Perkins."

"That Helen Perkins! Wasn't Miss Perkins one of the loveliest and prettiest young ladies in Liverpool?"

"No, she wasn't! She had teeth like a horse."

"She did, eh! How about that stoop shouldered, white headed Brace?"

"And such big feet as she had! Why, George, she was the laughing stock of the town."

"Not much she wasn't. She was a young lady who would have made a model wife."

"Then why didn't you marry her and all her moles and warts and mushroom eyes?"

"Don't talk that way to me. Her eyes were as nice as yours."

"They wasn't!"

"They was. I believe you are sorry because you didn't marry Brace."

"And I know you are sorry because you didn't marry that beautiful and accomplished Miss Perkins."

"I am, eh? I thought you said I had been a good husband to you?"

"And didn't you call me your blessed little wife?"

Then he plumped down and began to read the mortgage sales and advertisements in the paper, and she picked up the paper and gave the cat a gentle kick. These old things will come up now and then, and somehow neither side ever gets entirely over them.

Suspected Abduction.

The Elizabeth Journal says a lad named Charles M. Dunham of that city has not been seen for thirteen weeks, and fears are entertained that he has been abducted. The boy is thirteen years of age, rather small for his years, four feet four inches high, black hair and eyes, scar on the top of his head, scarcely covered by the hair. He had sore eyes and a sore over the shin-bone of the leg, which caused him to limp. In the postal cards that are issued for distribution, strong suspicion is thrown upon a man who goes under an assumed name, one of his aliases being William Riley. He is described as five feet five inches in height, light complexion, light hair and moustache, and is thirty-nine years old. He peddles salve, and pretends various physical infirmities in order to get sympathy and money. He says he is ruptured and has heart disease.

Judge Taylor, of Ohio, intends to seek consideration in the House for the bill to pay the Garfield funeral expenses after the Internal Revenue bill is disposed of.

The Kansas wheat crop is estimated at 30,000,000 bushels and twelve counties have each over 100,000 acres of corn planted.

J. C. Clayton, a Newark patent lawyer, the attorney for Green, the driven well man, had a narrow escape from a horrible death Thursday morning, at the Clinton street station, Trenton. He was disembarking from the [illegible] train when he slipped and fell between the platform and cars. Just at that moment the train started, and the spectators expected to see him mangled to death, but with great presence of mind Mr. Clayton called to those who rushed to his assistance to let him alone, and at the same time threw himself prostrate upon the ground and crawled as closely as possible to the edge of the platform. When the train passed on Mr. Clayton arose, uninjured but very much overcome by fright.

ABOUT A DEMIJOHN.

A GEORGIA WOMAN'S REMINISCENCE OF THE CLOSING DAYS OF THE WAR.

Although I was in hearing of the battles of Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge, and in the very thick of the fight at Resaca, and lived for two years in constant dread and terror of having to face Federal soldiers, owing to my home being within the lines of military operations, yet, strange to say, I never met this object of my terror till the close of the war, when I was a refugee in middle Georgia. Here, at last, I met my first blue-coat, and, drolly enough, he is associated in my mind with a demijohn.

It was in the spring of '65. Gen. Sherman had made his march to the sea, and Gen. Wilson had started on a raiding expedition through Georgia to capture Columbus and Macon, places Sherman had passed by. This, of course, threw the country through which he passed into the direst confusion. All the population that could, fled from their homes and betook themselves to the swamps, leaving their homes in charge of their negroes.

As luck would have it, the friend with whom I was staying lived directly on the route taken by Gen. Wilson on his march from Columbus to Macon. To face a party of raiders in a town is not pleasant; but to face them in the country is absolutely fearful; one has then such a lonely, unprotected feeling; and if face them I must, I would have much preferred to have returned to Macon and there await the dread interview.

But Mrs. Willis, the friend with whom I was staying, entreated I would not desert her. Her husband was off with Gen. Johnson in North Carolina, and she and her four little children were alone on her plantation. So I promised, and we rode over to her brother's plantation to hold a council of war with him. He was at home on crutches from a wound received in one of the battles around Atlanta.

By him it was decided that we had better follow the example of our neighbors, pack up all our portable property, take all the mules and horses and those negroes that would go and betake ourselves to the swamps; and no time was to be lost in making our arrangements.

It was dusk when we reached home, but Mrs. Willis sent a runner to "the quarter" to tell the negroes that she wished to see them. There are two scenes in this, my last campaign, that are indelibly photographed in my mind; one is the adventure of the demijohn, which I will tell a little further on, and the other is Mrs. Willis' first effort at stump-speaking.

To this day I can see that double row of stalwart blacks, their dark faces lit up by the red glare of the torches held by a squad of half-grown negro boys, while groups of negro women, with babies in their arms and little children clinging to their skirts, flitted around. But all eyes turned to the young and pretty woman who stood on the steps, telling them that she had to leave her home and asking who would go with her, reminding them that when their master had gone to the wars he had placed her and his children and all that he had in the care of his four head men, and they had promised to be faithful.

At this appeal Adam, the shoemaker, here literally the first man, stepped out of the ranks, saying, "I will go, Miss Fanny." Adam was Mrs. Willis' own personal property, and prided himself on "comin' from de Gibbs family." (Gibbs was Mrs. Willis' maiden name.) At this Jasper, the blacksmith, a most majestic colored man, stepped to the front and made a bow. He was a Willis negro. Whereupon Adam, not to be outdone, hopped upon the bottom step waving his hat. This burst of enthusiasm brought out Scott, the third head man, and captain of the "hoe gang" and cotton pickers. Scott was as stupid as the day was long, but as faithful as he was stupid; it had just then entered into his head what was wanted of him. So he stepped out of the ranks, dragged off a black thing which he called his hat and scratched his head. This act of allegiance carried all before it. The other negroes, following the lead of their head man, offered to go with their mistress; even Mingo, one of the cargo of the Wanderer (who was so pleased with clothes, that adjunct of civilization of which he was ignorant till he reached Georgia, that he never could get enough bright colors to wear), all promised to cast in their lot with her. All but Alfred, one of the head men, who said he was too old to go on such a jaunt, but would stay and look after the women and children. Alfred was an old bachelor, an uncommon thing with a negro, and his affections were fixed upon a tremendous gray mule, called "White Mike." I will here state that Alfred proved recreant to his trust and fled away the following night on the back of his idol to join the raiders. They, having no sentiment, confiscated "White Mike," and put him to pulling artillery out of the mud, and what became of Alfred I never heard, for he was ashamed ever to return.

The next day, under the management of three head men, the house was dismantled and the furniture hid in the fields, or in the negro houses. For we were apprehensive that the house might be burned by the raiders, as was often the case. And by sunrise the morning after, with wagons packed and a long train of mules and horses with negro men and boys on them, all under the care of Adam and Jasper, and the old-fashioned family carriage with Mrs. Willis, her nurse and babies and myself all packed in, under the charge of Scott, we wheeled down the avenue to join Mr. Gibbs and his cavalcade.

Mr. Gibbs, mounted on a pony, with his crutches hung on the pommel of his saddle, attended by Mrs. Willis' two little boys as aids, headed the procession. We made an imposing array as we journeyed along, looking like a small army train. We heard that morning that the raiders had taken Columbus, were pressing on to Macon, and were then at Butler, a little place not twenty miles from us, so there was no time to be lost in our leaving. They were marching up toward Macon, we going down toward Columbus, on parallel roads. Should anything cause them to strike across the country and travel the road we were on, we would surely fall into their hands. The prospect was not pleasant.

After we had traveled some time, we came to a fearful piece of road in a deep cut, where the mules and horses struggled and floundered, and the vehicles mired up to the hubs of their wheels. We got out of the carriages and let them go over empty, for we feared they would break down; and while the men pried saplings into the [illegible] eight mules would be hitched to a wagon, and with much shouting and whipping and pushing of the [illegible], they would be dragged through. While all this was going on, we ladies stood at the top of the cut, anxiously surveying the road.

That night we camped by the roadside near a spring. A deserted log cabin sheltered the whites; the negroes made up large camp fires and slept around them. By dawn we started the next morning, and traveled on some eight or ten miles, meeting no one; the houses were deserted; every one had fled to the swamps, leaving a few old negroes to guard the premises. At last we left the road and turned into the woods, making for the swamp, that general refuge. At last we reached the edge of a tremendous swamp. It was densely wooded and looked like a jungle. A little amphitheater of hills sloped gently down to it. On a little plateau at the foot of one of the hills, in a grove of large pines, we made our camp.

Our tents were simple, but comfortable, two tall poles with a ridge-pole and a carpet drawn tightly over it and pegged along the edges of the ground. A bush arbor, back and front, kept off the sun. Clean [illegible] strewn with a carpet spread over it made a nice floor. The wagons containing household effects were unpacked, and we began to make ourselves comfortable. The mules and horses were picketed on the hillside. Rations were issued out to the men. Each family had brought their cook, who began to prepare dinner, while the children ran to look for a spring, which was easily found along the edges of the swamp.

I was aroused at midnight by the voice of a stranger talking with Mr. Gibbs. A party of raiders, he said, had followed down the road behind us, and might find us in our hiding place. On the morrow by twelve M. he thought they would pass by, and if we saw none till then we might feel safe. He was a Confederate scout, familiar with the whole country, and he left us to go and warn other poor refugees. I did not sleep much after that, and I was glad when day came.

The guns were all hidden in the bushes. Henry and Walter Willis, aged ten and twelve, were directed, in case the raiders came, to fly to the swamps, taking all the negroes with them. Mr. Gibbs would have his hands full parleying with the intruders. His wife and sister had their little children to look after, and to me, the single woman of the party, was consigned—the demijohn. In those days it was all but impossible to get a drop of whisky, and as a good deal of it was used on a large plantation for medicinal purposes, Mrs. Willis, who was the wealthy owner of a five gallon demijohn of it, had foolishly lugged it into the great woods after her. Being well aware of the great danger we ran in case a band of roving soldiery should get hold of it, she determined to destroy it, but rashly postponed it till the last moment.

"When the raiders come upon us Charlotte must take the demijohn and run off and break it. She has been under fire so often she won't get frightened and lose her wits," Mrs. Willis said, and pleased with the compliment, I readily undertook the job. It was but a trifling matter, I thought. I had a vivid recollection of the extreme brittleness of all glass demijohns; of the number I had smashed in my childhood, and the trouble I got in for so doing, and I rather liked the idea of wrecking it out on this one.

All our arrangements being made there was nothing left to do but wait, and that I have always found the hardest thing under the sun. The hours dragged slowly on. Every noise startled us. Every time a horse neighed or a mule brayed we thought that we were lost. But at last the longed for, the dreaded twelve o'clock came—and passed; and we began to breathe freely. Afternoon came on and we felt safe. "Now," said Mr. Gibbs, "as soon as we hear that the raiders are in Macon we will go home."

The weather was mild and balmy, and made me feel drowsy. So Mrs. Willis and I betook ourselves to our tent to take a nap, Mr. Gibbs and his wife following our example. It was late in the afternoon when I was aroused by a scream, followed by a rushing sound, and springing up, I saw Harry and Walter dart by, a troop of little darkies at their heels, flying for the swamp. "The raiders! the raiders!" they cried, and plunged into the morass. Rushing to the door we looked out. The whole hillside was alive with surging, plunging horses. To my dazed eyes it seemed as if a regiment of cavalry were riding down upon us. It was, in reality, not fifty yards to Mr. Gibbs' tent, but it seemed to me that I would never get there. I had seen a good deal of active service, for a woman, and had stood under fire without a particle of fear. But now I experienced my first panic. My knees knocked together and I could hardly make my trembling limbs support me as I tottered along in the wake of Mrs. Willis, who, in spite of her little girl clinging to her, made excellent time.

Mr. Gibbs stood in the doorway of his tent, leaning on his crutch, and even in the dim twilight I could see how pale his swarthy face looked. His sick wife had crept out of her bed and stood looking over his shoulder, quite still, with the calmness of desperation. Even in the midst of my panic I could but feel sorry for Mr. Gibbs, as he stood there, crippled and helpless, the centre of a group of trembling, terrified women.

"Oh! Brother John," Mrs. Willis gasped, "have the raiders come?"

Looking at the waving hillside and hearing now the loud talking of men, Mr. Gibbs nodded his head without uttering a word.

"Brother John," said the irrepressible Mrs. Willis, "the demijohn! hadn't Charlotte better smash the demijohn?"

"Yes," he said, harshly, "and lose no time about it." Here all the other females of the party, except myself, ran to fetch that pernicious jug from its hiding place in the back of the tent. I had entirely forgotten the demijohn, and now that it was brought to my mind, heartily wished it in Kamschatka. To tell the truth I did not fancy going off all alone in the dusk with that dangerous luggage. But being a celebrated veteran, I was ashamed to object.

"Here, here!" said Mrs. Willis, thrusting the dangerous burden into my hands. "The raiders are coming. Run! Run! What makes you go so slow?"

Now, a five gallon demijohn of whisky is mighty heavy, and my trembling limbs could with difficulty support my own weight, and the energetic shove she gave me nearly upset me, as I tottered unwillingly away with my odious load. I could but think what a fool I was to run so far and then at last be caught like a rabbit in the woods, and I heartily wished myself in Macon. While such unpleasant reflections flitted through my mind I staggered along with the hated demijohn toward the swamp. On its edge I stopped, for I was afraid to go any farther, and getting behind a large pine tree I threw my burden down, confidently expecting it to smash. But it did nothing of the sort, but lazily rolled about on the hillside. Then it burst upon me that there was a vast difference between the soft swamp soil of middle Georgia and the rocky ground of the mountains where I had destroyed the demijohns of my childhood. I looked wildly about for a friendly stone, forgetting that that was a thing unknown in this region. Then I looked for a pine knot, but strange to say, not one could I see in the gathering gloom. In my impotent wrath I kicked the demijohn; but, alas! my shoes were Confederate and thin and soft. All the while I could hear talking going on at the tent and did not know at what moment some investigating raider might come in pursuit of me. In despair I pulled out the stopper and tried to turn out some whisky. But the exasperating demijohn calmly went "guggle, guggle," and discharged its contents with a deliberation that frenzied me. Worse still! I heard footsteps approaching. Great heavens! I thought, they are following me and if they find this whisky we are lost. With the courage of desperation I stepped quickly in front of the pine tree, behind which I had the dreadful jug and faced about, standing with hands mechanically clinched, ready to meet the intruder. The next instant, in the dim twilight, I recognized Mrs. Willis with a hatchet in her hand. Snatching it from her I darted back and shivered the glass demijohn at a blow. The whisky flew in the air and bathed us in a very odoriferous shower.

"How did you get away from the raiders?" I asked.

"There is but one."

"One! Why, where is all that cavalry I saw riding down the hillside?"

"Those were our horses picketed there, which took fright and tried to stampede."

After all the much-dreaded raider had come as a messenger of peace. It seems that the head of Gen. Wilson's raiding column had reached Macon, when, rumors of Gen. Lee's surrender having arrived, the authorities had effected an armistice for ten days in which to learn the truth. On hearing of the armistice the colonel commanding the rear guard sent squads of men in every direction along his route to tell the inhabitants out hiding to go home. Engaged in that errand he stumbled upon our camp.

"How do I know you are telling me the truth?" asked Mr. Gibbs.

"I am here alone and unarmed," said the man; "you might kill me if you chose."

That was so; for one of the two negro men suggested that we should tie the raider to a tree in the swamp and leave him there, and was surprised at our declining. The news of an armistice conveyed no idea to his mind.

The Federal soldier spent the night at our camp, sleeping on a pile of carriage cushions in the front of Mr. Gibb's tent, took breakfast the next morning and escorted us a part of the way on our journey home. No burning had been allowed since the raiders left Columbus, so our houses were uninjured. We returned peacefully to our homes. I had met my first Federal soldier and broken my last demijohn.—Detroit Free Press.

HOW FAR WRONG IS THIS.

She had been called an old maid, and rather resented it. She said: "I am past thirty. I have a good home. I think you know I have abundant opportunities to marry. I have been bridesmaid a score of times. I ask myself with which one of the beautiful girls that I have seen take the marriage vow would I exchange to-day? Not one. Some are living apart from their husbands; some are divorced; some are wives of drunken men; some are hanging on the ragged edge of society, endeavoring to keep up appearances; some are toiling to support and educate their children, and these are the least miserable; some tread the narrow line beyond the boundary of which lie the mysterious land; and some have gone out in the darkness and unknown horrors, and some are dead. A few there are who are loved and honored wives, mothers with happy homes; but, alas! only a very few."

"Don't you want a squeezer?" she asked.

"Marm?"

"Won't you have a squeezer, sir?"

"Well, marm, if I was a young man I would. But I've been married nigh onto thirty years, and the old lady is dreffle set agin huggin' out of the family."

An explanation was made, and the Squire bought a squeezer to settle it.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

A GLEAM.

Mr. Hayes, of Massachusetts, upon assuming the chairmanship of the recently appointed Tariff Commission, delivered quite a lengthy address, from which we extract as follows:

"By making the national interest paramount to those of section, class or industry, we may also find a solution of many questions of opposite individual sectional interests, and may avoid many difficulties by remembering, while not unmindful of justice to existing interests, that protective duties should be imposed or withheld, not for the benefit of individuals or special industries, but for the good of the nation. If through the spirit and methods of our labors we should be so fortunate as to conduce to the result that sectionalism and partisanship shall sink in the aim for the general good, and the policies and names of protection, free trade, and revenue reform shall be merged in the broader system and phrase—a national policy—the moral will equal the material benefit of the new economical departure."

If Mr. Hayes is sincere in such offered precept, and at present we have no reason to judge him otherwise, and his colleagues make it their official action, the Commission may be productive of public benefit.

"Protective duties should be imposed or withheld, not for the benefit of individuals or special industries, but for the good of the nation."

That is correct doctrine, and comports with our repeatedly expressed sentiment.

The good of all the people means just and liberal protection to every interest and industry, and for labor fully equal with capital.

It means that the poor man's blanket shall not be taxed more in proportion than the silks and satins of the rich, nor the implements and essentials of the farmer and mechanic to a greater degree than articles of mere ornament and luxury.

We would levy duties to guarantee ample revenue for all the necessary purposes of government, and discarding tribute and favoritism, so equalize them on sound business principles, that every legitimate enterprise and occupation throughout the land might realize healthful and permanent encouragement, and all classes of citizens enjoy lucrative employment.

That is the Democratic plan.

It is honest and practical, and can be readily accomplished, if the advice of Senator Bayard, also approvingly quoted by Chairman Hayes—"Be just and wise," is strictly followed.

We hope the Tariff Commissioners will adopt it as their guiding star, and thereby "sink sectionalism and partisanship in the aim for the general good."

The threatened war in Egypt commenced on Monday last in the bombardment of the forts around Alexander, by the English fleet under Admiral Seymour. The bombardment lasted from 7 a. m. to 6:50 p. m. The English suffered a loss of five killed and twenty-seven wounded. Four forts were blown up and all the others severely damaged. It is asserted that this bombardment is likely to be followed up by a complete understanding between England and Germany at the expense alike of Russia and France.

The British Consul at Port Said has stopped the entrance of ships into the Suez Canal. The canal company has protested against this action as a violation of its neutrality, and it is reported that M. de Lesseps has gone to Egypt.

The Turkish Minister at Paris has informed the French Government that the Porte will not send troops to Egypt.

The strength of a country consists not in pride of over-grown private fortunes, but in affording all the people an opportunity to honestly accumulate and securely enjoy the results of labor, skill and enterprise, unfettered by arbitrary enactments and unawed by heartless monopolies. That is the Democratic road to national greatness and individual prosperity, and it is the only safe route to travel.

The recent exhibition of personal crimination and vulgarity among members of the National House of Representatives was a disgrace to the country. Respect for the American people, if he has none for himself, should induce every man who goes to Congress to act the part of decency and dignity. If he cannot do that, he ought to be commissioned to stay at home.

Band of Hope.

The closing exercises of the Band of Hope were held on Friday, June 30th, in Warren Mission Chapel. The programme consisted of singing, recitations, dialogues and a short address by Mr. Press. Rev. Mr. Raymond presented the prizes to those members who had been present every Wednesday afternoon or absent only twice since the 14th. At the close of the exercises the members were treated to cake and ice cream.

There are 186 names on the pledge roll of this Band; 65 of these have signed the pledge forever. The average attendance of members since Dec. 14th, when the present corps of officers took charge of the work, has been 91; the largest number present on May 3d, when there were 134.

Great credit is due Mrs. A. Vanderbeek, President of this organization, and her faithful assistant, Mrs. Wade, Vice President; also the noble band of ladies who have served as teachers, for the success of this work during the past six months, and when they come together in the Fall, may greater success crown their efforts.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

The well-known trotting horse, "Carbolic," owned by Mr. William Moore, of this city, died from inflammation of the lungs on Sunday last. "Carbolic" gave promise of great speed in the future, and was valued highly by his owner, who once refused an offer of $6,000 for him.

The young black bear cub presented to Mr. E. P. Thorn, of this city, has become so tame through the handling received by Mr. T. that he now plays and romps with him and looks for his coming at meal times.

On July 4, at Cuttyhunk, the fishing club of the same name enjoyed some fine sport. W. R. Wrenwick hooked and landed a striped bass weighing sixty-four pounds, and Alfred de Cordova one weighing fifty-eight pounds. This club has been in existence for fifteen years and these two fish are the largest ever landed by a member. Cuttyhunk is in Dukes County, Mass.

The latest "wonder" in horse flesh in these parts, is the Mambrino Pilot, Jr., six year old "Marble," owned by Mr. Gid. Smalley, of New Market. On Wednesday last, in a trial heat, "Marble" turned the half-mile track on the Fair Grounds in 1:14, the last quarter in 35½ seconds.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

Horatio M Clark, who lives corner of North avenue and Elm street, is to be congratulated on being the father of a boy. The happy event occurred on Saturday last.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westfield Bucket and Engine Co., No. 1, occurred on Monday evening, July 10th inst. Considerable business of importance was transacted and a large number of new members proposed. Charles Lyon was elected foreman in place of O. G. Webb, who has removed from the town. This organization is in a flourishing condition, and will be on hand in time of need to do their whole duty as firemen for the protection of lives and property.

The Central Railroad Company have been putting fine stone ballast around the carriage drive at the depot, which is a decided improvement. The lawns and shrubbery are kept trimmed and in first-class order by our florist, Wilford B. Woodruff, who understands his business thoroughly.

The children of the grammar grade of Public School No. 10, and the teachers, held their annual picnic on Thursday last in Woodruff's Grove, Westfield avenue. A very enjoyable time was had.

On Saturday, the 15th inst, there is to be a special town meeting held at Town Rooms, to decide the question of raising $700 to be appropriated towards the purchase of a stone crusher for our town, to be used in crushing stone for the repair of roads. The legal voters of the township are to decide whether we are to have good stone roads or mud and dust to wade through as we have in the past.

The record of vital statistics for the month of June shows 2 deaths, 3 births and 1 marriage.

The death of Stephen H. Woodruff, who formerly lived in Westfield and worked at shoe making for several years, occurred in New York city on Friday, July 7. His body was interred at Irvington, N. J.

The Township Assessor has completed his assessment roll for the year 1882 and is ready to meet with the County Board of Assessors at their annual meeting on Monday, July 17th, inst. The valuation does not vary but very little from last year.

The farm adjoining A. A. Drake, Esq., on Rahway road, belonging to George B. Murfey, was sold together with the stock and household furniture to a gentleman from New York city, who expects to occupy it this week.

The Sabbath schools of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches expect to have their annual excursion to Ocean Grove on Tuesday, July 18th, inst. The train leaves Westfield at 7:30 a. m.

The United States Marshal was in our town last week making things lively with the Green patent driven well owners.

One of Adam Miller's famous team of grey horses is laid up with lameness.

Mrs. Du Bois, of New York city, has rented and occupied the past week one of Mr. L. V. Clark's handsome residences on Clark avenue.

Charles Littell was arrested on Tuesday and brought before Justice Jaques, on complaint of Jennie Layton, for stealing a pocket-book containing $13. His examination was postponed until Saturday evening the 15th inst.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

OH, for an Opera House!

THE City wants Dunham street opened about as much as a toad wants a pistol-pocket.

EIGHT new members were elected into the Union Club of Plainfield, on Monday evening.

THE Rev. E. H. Chipper opens his customary camp meeting at Hyde's Grove, to-morrow.

GIVE the City some plan of sewerage and a Water Supply will follow without opposition.

MR. A. Vanderbeek has in possession, and for sale, a violin which it is claimed is 265 years old.

"ON account of the inclemency of the weather" the celebration of the Glorious Fourth has been postponed until next July.

MESSRS. Laing & Nelson intend to arrange another of their successful excursions to Ocean Grove, on Thursday, August 3d.

THE "Union and Somerset Counties Social Club," will have a picnic at Wooden's Grove sometime during the month of August.

EUREKA'S strikes us individually by remarking that "Gray hairs in early life are a result of information of the brain." Ain't we glad we found out.

THERE will be no dog-pound nor dog-pounder established nor appointed this season—and undoubtedly no evil effects will result in consequence.

THE Fourth Annual Picnic of the A. O. H., No. 4, of this city, will occur on the 10th of August. Full particulars as to place will be given next week.

EX-Collector L. E. Clark, states that he has in his possession no books, papers, monies, nor other property whatsoever belonging to the City of Plainfield.

ON Friday morning last, a blind horse belonging to Mr. Mulford Cole ran away and committed suicide by dashing his head against a tree with such force as to break the animal's neck.

THE residents of North Plainfield were greatly indebted to the brother of ex-Councilman Waring for the costly display of fire works that illuminated the sky in their vicinity, recently.

THIS (Thursday) evening, Steile's Grove will be a scene of merriment. The T. A. B. Society of St. Mary's church will hold another of its annual picnics, which are acknowledged to be the best of the kind.

ONE of Scott's Perfecting Presses, manufactured at the Potter Works of this city, printed and issued at Washington 30,000 copies of the account of Guiteau's death, five minutes before the body was cut down.

THE North Plainfield Catholics had an immense time at their picnic of Thursday of last week in Wooden's Grove. Cahill's music was even better than usual, and the lively dancers kept the fun at its height until the next morning.

UNLESS something unforeseen happens to prevent, the Plainfield Saengerbund leaves this morning for a water excursion to Hudson Grove, Long Island Sound, accompanied by a large number of its friends and the public in general.

WE understand that the old case of the City against Thorn for selling liquor to minors, is to be dropped and a new suit instituted. In fact another affidavit has been prepared and proceedings in the matter will commence in a few days.

ONE of the gentlemen that attended the Union Club Reception, was admitted upon the presentation of two "lady's tickets." The question before the Club at present is, whether the circumstance was merely complimentary to the guest or rather derogatory to the gentle sex.

THE Telephone Co. assures us that the trunk line will be finished and subscribers connected with New York City circuits, by to morrow. It cannot be denied that much dissatisfaction is expressed by subscribers regarding the delay in the completion of the service promised.

THE Board of Managers of the Plainfield Fire Department has given its permission for Gazelle Eng. Co. No. 1, to take the Company's old hand-engine "out of pawn" and place it in its rooms as a memento of the past. A meeting of the exempts will probably be called and action in the matter decided upon.

BY the way, wouldn't the hotel building on North avenue, so long unoccupied, be available for the uses of the Grammar Department of the Public School, during such part of the coming term as will be necessary to consume in the completion of the new building contemplated on the site of the late fire.

THOSE who accompany the Baptists to Asbury Park on Wednesday next, may, by getting off at Long Branch, witness Gov. Ludlow's review of one of New Jersey's regiments that takes place on that day in front of the West End Hotel. This will probably be the only military review in the State, during the present year.

PROPERTY owners in this city are justly displeased with the report, published last week, of the Special Committee on the Water Question. A doubtful statement to the effect that our residents are drinking "contaminated water," coming from the source it does, cannot but in a measure effect the salable value of Plainfield property.

DURING Tuesday noon a fire in the engine room of French's Mill threatened the destruction of the buildings, but was quenched before much damage had resulted. A large quantity of shavings for use in starting the fire under the boiler, and that were piled up near the engine, caught in some unknown way, but the blaze was promptly extinguished.

A CLEVERLY designed table, for use in the sorting of mail according to the sections in which the letters belong, has just been added to the many other facilities of our Post Office that tend to afford the public prompt service. The table is unique in construction and was built to order from original plans designed by First Ass't Postmaster F. A. Pope.

MR. John G. Staats, the proprietor of what was, until recently, Voorhees' Drug Store, is offering the public a full line of everything that pertains to the business, including toilet articles and fine cigars. He also intends not to be undersold, and if his patrons will inform him of any reduced figure at which competitors are selling the same article, he will conform to such price at once.

FREEHOLDERS Stover and Hubbard from the Com. on Bridges, visited South Ave. and Terrill road on Tuesday, in company with Street Commissioner Meeker and R. Simpson, of the Street Committee, for the purpose of inspecting certain localities where culverts are needed to carry off the surplus waters after heavy rains. They were satisfied it was necessary to do the work.

THE only astrologist in this section of the country, Mme. J. Bernard of Harmony street, North Plainfield, may be consulted at any time by ladies or gentlemen desiring a peep into the future or to learn the results of intended lawsuits or proposed marriages. Mme. Bernard converses in English, German and French. Her advertisement appears on our first page.

SOME of the members of the Fire Board seem to hesitate directing by resolution that a Fireman's Parade shall take place this Fall, because they imagine it will be a great expense to the respective companies. Such idea is fallacious, as the cost need be but nominal—unless the companies see fit to entertain other organizations and get up big collations, all of which is entirely unnecessary.

JUSTICE Wadsworth has a way of dealing out punishment that considerably assists in keeping our city free from undesirable visitors. On Wednesday he sent a tramp to the County Jail for six months for being a tramp, and although the authorities below may let the prisoner off at the expiration of ten days, he and his friends will give Plainfield and Justice Wadsworth a wide birth in the future.

THE grounds of the residence building at the corner of Park and Crescent avenues for A. G. Baldwin, Esq., are enclosed in a low stone coping (the artistic work of contractor I. E. Melbourn) from which the lawn will slope up to the house. No iron rail will surmount the masonry, thus insuring a most unique and pleasing effect, and the possible adoption of the same style by Messrs. Roberts and Stuart at some future time, will present an attractive appearance in that neighborhood.

TWO infant prodigies, with thieving proclivities, one a dozen years of age and the other just past twelve, started from their homes in this city recently to hunt "injuns." They selected a good horse from its owner's pasture, a strong harness from another's stable and hitched up to a wagon that was the property of a suburban resident. The red men not being found in this vicinity in paying quantities, the lads got tired of their search, returned to Plainfield and obligingly showed Captain Dodd where he could find the property for [illegible]

THE undertaking business of the late David Lennon will be continued at the same place and be in charge of competent hands.

AT noon of Thursday, Eugene Eaton, Secretary of Warren Engine Co., died at the residence of his father on New street, of consumption.

WE shall take pleasure next week in publishing the composition of Mr. Geo. M. Kirkner, that gained the second prize in English Composition for 1882.

A RUNAWAY on Front street, Monday morning, is credited to the horse of Mr. John H. French the miller. No damage was done however, except, to wrack the wagon and probably ruin the horse.

IN the parlors of the Alert Hose Co., this (Thursday) evening, the foremen of the different companies of the Department will meet with Chief Vail, and consider the desirability of having a Fireman's Parade during the coming Fall. A feeling among the above, in favor of such a pageant, is apparent.

THE Plainfield Turn Verein will hold its Second Annual Picnic in Wooden's Grove during the afternoon and evening of Thursday the 27th inst. Besides the gymnastic exercises, dancing and other attractions on the grounds, the society with visiting members from elsewhere will form a procession on Park avenue at 2:30 p. m., and headed by Voss' Band march to the Grove.

MISS Pinkie Blink, a young brunette to fortune but not to fame unknown, was recently the victim of a slight misunderstanding that resulted in her commitment by Justice Wadsworth, on Wednesday last, to await the action of the Grand Jury. The young lady (according to her own statement) understood young Mr. Voorhees of Sherwin's shoe store to say that she might have a pair of slippers, but when she helped herself the relentless grasp of Officer Randolph led her to the City Jail.

THE business of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST for the past year has never been equalled in its history, and the claims that we have before put forth of having the largest circulation and the greatest advertising patronage of any paper in the county, have never been disputed. The demand upon our columns by advertisers, even at this season of the year when business is comparatively stagnant, continues to be great, but we shall endeavor to fill the remaining space with such readable matter as will be of interest and profit to our readers.

A MOVEMENT has been started in this city that already gives promise of success, having in view the early closing of the stores. The grocers are circulating a paper to be signed by their trade agreeing to close every evening at 9 o'clock, and other lines of business will undoubtedly adopt the same plan with a humane consideration for the comfort of their clerks. The Rev. Mr. Raymond recently preached a strong sermon on the subject that greatly advanced the movement, and we trust other pulpits will follow suit and stir the Plainfield merchants up unless the practice of early closing is universally and speedily followed.

THE "Sewaren House" at Woodbridge Beach, Mr. J. Turner, proprietor, is daily becoming more popular as a Summer resort. Extensive additions are being finished to the house, which already has a large number of Summer boarders. The bathing is delightful, closely adjoining the House, the beach being of smooth white sand. Commodious bathing houses are erected on the grounds. Lovers of good fishing should avail themselves of this spot. During the weak fish season, excellent sport is afforded. Good boats and bait at reasonable rates can always be depended on. Give the "Sewaren House" a call. You will go again.

AN important trial was held before commissioners in chancery at Elizabeth on Wednesday last. The case appeared to be one of conspiracy, against Wm. E. Westerfield, a respected citizen of Plainfield, aiming to get the control of his property out of his hands, on the ground of incapacity to attend to his own business, owing to alleged drunkenness. Fifteen witnesses were summoned from this city by the complainants, and with one exception they all testified in favor of the defendant. The defendant had witnesses in court but did not deem it necessary to put any of them on the stand, and upon the evidence of the complainant's witnesses, the Jury of twenty-two men, without leaving their seats, in about ten minutes gave a unanimous, and as we believe, a just verdict in favor of the defendant. Messrs Jackson of Plainfield and Lindabery of Elizabeth were the counsel for the defendant and received many encomiums for the ability and eloquence with which they managed the difficult case.

One Year Ago.

The City was divided into wards. - - - William McD. Coriell resigned his membership in the Common Council. - - - The Hon. Chas. A. Campbell died at Woodbridge. - - - The first locust of the season began his song.

That "Cul-de-sac."

The action of the Committee in charge of the matter, in reporting adversely upon the petition to open a street from Ninth street to nowhere, was commendable. But the action of the Council in referring the report (instead of accepting it) and seemingly striving to open a new street when the city is not able to keep in order the many thoroughfares it has, was as entirely unnecessary as the discussion on the subject was absurd. Some representatives of the people have strange ideas regarding the better way to serve the interests of the tax-payers.

A Hotel Coach.

Mr. J. B. Miller, the proprietor of Laing's Hotel, in continuance of his efforts for the comfort and convenience of his guests, is running a handsome coach between the railroad station and the hotel to meet all trains. The turn out is one of the handsomest in the city and consists of an elegant vehicle from the celebrated maker Stivers of New York, a fine harness manufactured especially for the purpose by Worth of Plainfield, a high stepping horse and a competent and obliging driver. All of which is an evidence of Mr. Miller's business principles—to spare no cost in serving the best interests of his patrons.

Election of Officers.

At the annual election of officers of A. O. H. No. 4 of Plainfield, the following were elected to serve the ensuing year:

OFFICERS OF COUNTY BOARD.

James Connealy, County Delegate.
John Coury, County Secretary.
James Delaney, County Treasurer.

DIVISION OFFICERS.

President—Patrick Casey.
Vice President—James Muldowney.
Cor. Sec.—Michael Conway.
Financial Sec.—Thomas Marley.
Treasurer—Michael Nugent.

Plainfield's Public Hall.

It will be decidedly encouraging to those concerned, to learn of the enthusiastic interest that is being taken in the Public Hall project by the citizens' committee and the members of the Union Club who are acting together in furtherance of the scheme. On the evening of June 30th, an informal meeting of a few of those engaged in advancing the project, was held at the residence of Mayor Randolph, upon which occasion a general consideration of plan, location, cost, and probable profit or loss was indulged in. Owing to the stormy weather and the consequent small gathering, no organization was effected and no official action taken; those present desiring rather a fuller meeting before appointing Committees on location, style of building and plan of subscription. From the feelings in relation that were verbally expressed, could be gathered sentiments that assure at no distant day the erection proposed. One of the members of the Union Club present, outlined a plan that seemed to meet with the approval of his hearers, and which struck us as the desideratum. It was for a building on a corner centrally located, far enough from the railroad to be free of the jar or noise of passing trains. To contain rooms for the Union Club, Council Chambers, Library, &c., with a commodious Opera House in the rear. The lower floor to contain, each side of the main entrance a handsome store, one to be rented as a cafe or restaurant, which would be available to the Club's members, and the other to be occupied by a pharmacy or some such unobjectionable business. The structure to cost about $80,000, and on which amount would be secured at once—without reckoning the income from the Opera House—at least 4 per cent of the investment, yearly, from the tenants mentioned. Such satisfactory result has been achieved by the same projects in Orange, Morristown and other places less available for the purpose than Plainfield, and it really seems as though a Public Hall in this city of extensive proportions as outlined, would assuredly pay a fair dividend to its stockholders.

As now comes the season when rest and recreation is being sought in pastures new, the absence from the city of many of the gentlemen interested in the above, will naturally postpone until Fall definite action in this matter. The project will not be allowed to languish, however, and in September, or October at the latest, it will be [illegible]

First Baptist Sunday School Excursion to Asbury Park.

July 19, 1882, is going to be a "red letter day." At 7:30 a. m. on that day the above school is going on the annual excursion to Asbury Park. Any one who has ever gone with these before will not fail to be on hand next Wednesday, and we advise all who want to spend a pleasant day in royal company, at a cost of only one dollar, to secure tickets at once for the excursion of the season, as the number of tickets is limited.

Tickets are now on sale at the stores of Joseph P. Howell, D. F. Randolph & Son, R. M. Stelle, Mulford Estil and H. P. Reynolds. Don't forget day, date, time and price—Wednesday, July 19, 1882, 7:30 a. m., one dollar.

Union Club Reception.

The select of Plainfield's highest society, was favored with elegantly printed and monogrammed cards of invitation to the opening reception of the Union Club of this city, on Saturday evening last, from 8 to 10 o'clock. During those hours the Club House was handsomely illuminated within and without and was a scene of such brilliancy in the way of personal beauty and costly toilets, as is seldom reached upon like occasions elsewhere. Chinese lanterns shed pale lights of variegated color along the piazzas that surround the lower floor, and Greek fire limited in quantity but dazzling in quality cast hues of the intensest tints amid the trees about the grounds. Through the windows of the music room floated operatic strains from the instruments of the orchestra within, and waiters strolled to and fro serving the guests with creams and ices. Politicians of opposite parties met with cordial greeting and all intercourse was unconstrained and congenial.

The success of the first reception assures the success of the Club, and its officers and members may well be proud of their organization and the esteem in which it is held.

Among the large number present were the following gentlemen and their families: Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, Hon. Jos. W. Yates, Rev. E. M. Rodman, ex-Councilmen O. T. Waring, M. W. Tyler and Alexander Gilbert, Councilmen S. A. Ginna and Wm. Thompson, Messrs. W. E. Lowe, Charles Tweedy, George H. Goddard, A. C. Baldwin, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, Dr. Charles A. Hart, Jos. B. Yerkes, Walter M. McGee and others.

Financial Statement of the Hospital.

The treasurer of Muhlenberg Hospital has presented a brief summary of the receipts and expenditures of the Institution from the beginning of the enterprise.

It was thought that the statement would be interesting to the public. It is herewith submitted. It will be seen that the current expenses of the hospital, during the seven months that it has been in operation, have been $962.81. There has been received from pay-patients $373, and the balance $589.81 required for the care of those who could not pay, has been taken from the general funds of the Institution. The managers have never refused to admit any proper applicant for aid. Some have been admitted who had no claim, except that they were human beings and in need. They ought to have been provided for by others, or their expenses paid by others. But the managers could not send them away. They believed that a benevolent Christian community would sustain us in caring for them.

During the first six months twenty-nine (29) patients were treated, twenty-three of whom had surgical and six medical treatment. Ten (10) were discharged, cured; nine (9) improved; two (2) unimproved. A large proportion of these were charity patients.

Base Ball.

The first match game of the Crescent nine of the Plainfield Base Ball Association, took place on its grounds on Saturday afternoon last. Upon that occasion the Plainfields met the Standard Oil nine of New York, and most discourteously administered to the visitors an unmistakable defeat. The game opened with the Standards at the bat, but although the first striker reached his base in safety, Bass of the Crescents put the next three out in regular order and a goose egg was credited to the visitors. McCutchen succeeded in scoring an unearned run for his side, before Bass; W. Kaufman and Doane were put out at first base, and the first inning closed with the Plainfielders ahead; which vantage they retained throughout the game. In the third inning, Parkhurst of the Standards reached his first base through an inexcusable error of Ruttman and eventually scored the first run for his side; this with two more in the eighth inning comprised the sum total of the visitor's score. The Crescent's continued to add one run at a time as a result of each inning until the last, when through the discouraged playing of the other side twelve were gained. The total is given below.

Of the individual playing, even though so little drilling and practice has been had by the Crescents lately, much in commendation may be said. Cornwall as short stop and Bass at first base, played together like clock-work and much of the credit of Saturday's victory is due these two. Flys were caught by McCutchen, W. Kaufman, Lowry, Cornwall, Ruttman, Murray and H. Kaufman, the latter scooping a treacherous foul-bound in the fourth inning in a manner that was worthy a professional. While running to second in the third inning, W. Kaufman slightly sprained his ankle and Leonard was substituted. The latter filled the place most satisfactorily, capturing five in the fourth and sixth innings. The Plainfield Association has plenty of material and will probably accomplish much praiseworthy work before the season closes.

Mr. Walter McGee of this city, who played second base for the Standards, did nobly and put out five of his friends on the Crescents with beautiful fly catches.

Umpire—O. T. Roberts. Time of game, two hours.

The service of Mr. O. T. Roberts as Umpire, was remarkably satisfactory. His decisions were prompt and just, and given in a clear voice that was heard by every player. The Association has cause to congratulate itself upon the possession of so admirable an umpire.

The Club in their brand new suits, will to-morrow play an "Alumni" nine from New York city—a combination of young brokers and college graduates that form an exceedingly strong team. The costume of the Plainfielders—in which they are to receive their first defeat, possibly—consists of a garnet shirt, long grey trousers trimmed with red and a soft grey hat. The nine will be the same as above, probably, excepting that J. W. Murray, Jr., will fill his brother's place and W. McGee will be substituted for W. Kaufman on account of the latter's accident.

THIS (Thursday) evening a regular meeting of the Fireman's Relief Asso. will be held at the house of No. 1 Eng. Co., at 8 o'clock.

Closing Business for the Summer—The Dunham street Opening—Judge Runyon Discovers Another Error—Coward and Clark's Reply to the Council's Demand—Mrs. Flanagan advised to Pay Her Taxes—An Old Claim Settled—The Collector's Compensation—Another Demand for the City's Monies.

MONDAY EVENING, July 10th, 1882.

The Council met in adjourned meeting. Present—Pres't Rushmore and Messrs. Depew, Gardner, Ginna, Newhall, J. Simpson, R. Simpson and Thompson—8.

Absent—Messrs. Kaufman, Lindsley and Levi—3.

Minutes of Regular meeting of 3d inst., approved as read.

PETITIONS AND COMMUNICATIONS.

By Mr. Ginna the remonstrance of O. T. Waring and others against the opening of Dunham street.

Ref'd to Com. on Laws and Ord's.

PRESENTATION OF CLAIMS.

By Mr. Thompson—N. Y. & N. J. Globe Gaslight Co., (June) $127.60.

By Mr. J. Simpson—City Judge Runyon (salary) $150.

By Mr. Newhall—J. P. Howell, $28.75; N. Laing's Sons, $80.50.

By Mr. Gardner—W. L. Force & Bro., $36.90.

Ref'd to proper committees.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM OFFICERS OF THE CITY.

By President Rushmore, from Judge Runyon, stating that it had not been shown that the City Judges of 1876, '77, '78 and '79 failed in the performance of their duties relating to the collection of delinquent taxes of those years, and consequently, unless such dereliction was shown, he was not willing to issue a warrant for the purpose. Ref'd to Laws Com.

By Mr. Depew, from Collector Brown, stating that in reply to his Demand, J. B. Coward late Township Collector expressed his readiness to surrender all books, papers, &c., belonging to the city in his hands, upon the receipt of a release. Also that the late City Collector, L. E. Clark, denied the possession of any books, monies or papers whatsoever belonging to the city. Ref'd to the Spec. Com., on examination of the late Collector's books.

By the same, from Assessor Hubbard, asking if a judgment tax and a deficiency tax were to be levied. Ref'd to Finance Com.

By the same, the report of the Treasurer for the past six months. Rec'd, filed and ordered published.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. J. Simpson from Aud. Com., as correct, the claims of N. Y. & N. J. Globe Gaslight Co., $676.55; Costs in Martine suit, 19.62; D. J. Boice, 61.65; A. V. Searing, 8.75; C. S. Gulon, 41.46.

On motion of Mr. Depew, warrants ordered drawn.

Mr. Thompson from Lamps Com., recommended that the following petitions be not granted: L. E. Hart to build a frame stable; L. A. Connett to erect an awning, and E. Thatcher to build a carpenter shop. Recommendations adopted.

Also recommended that petition of Mrs. M. L. Force be granted and reported that the petition of S. F. Dunn had been withdrawn. Report received.

By the same as correct the claims of E. A. Vermeule, $17.85; D. W. Littell, 8.85. Ref'd to Aud. Com., with a request for its report thereon the same night.

Mr. Ginna from Laws Com., reported adversely on the claim of W. N. Pangborn $25, the charge being too indefinite. Report rec'd.

Also returned without approval the petition for opening Dunham street. On motion ref'd to Corp. Counsel for written opinion as to whether the City was bound to open the street.

Also reported against the petition of Catherine Flanagan, recommending that she pay her taxes and then present to the Council any claim she may have against the City. Report rec'd and Clerk directed to send copy of same to the petitioner.

Also returned the claim of Berry & Thorn without report, and asking the action of the Council thereon.

On motion of Mr. Depew, seconded by Mr. R. Simpson, a warrant was ordered drawn for the original amount of the claim, $80.16, without interest. Mr. Thompson voting in the negative.

Also certain provisions for payment of the Collector as follows:

The law and ordinance committee to whom was referred the resolution looking to the regulation of the city collector's salary beg to report that they have carefully studied this matter, and would recommend that the council enact an ordinance embodying the following provisions, believing these would serve the interests of the city, and fairly compensate the incumbent of the collector's office.

1st. The compensation of the city collector shall be 2 per cent upon all monies collected by him on account of taxes, previous to said taxes having been placed in the hands of a delinquent tax collector, if such an officer should be appointed by the common council. And this charge shall apply to the amount of school warrants returned the city by the county collector.

2nd. The collector shall not receive any compensation for the disbursements of any monies received by him on account of taxes, or school warrants. And this compensation shall be in full for his services as collector, and in lieu of the compensation heretofore paid. No compensation shall be paid the city collector for taxes collected by a delinquent tax collector, if such officer should be appointed.

3rd. It shall be the duty of the collector to return, for the benefit of the city, all penalties, and interest imposed upon tax payers, and collected by him.

4th. These provisions to apply to the year 1882, commencing January 1st of that year.

In connection with this, and as intimately associated with it, your committee would recommend that the Board of Education shall be charged their proportion of the expenses of collecting all school taxes and school warrants.

July 10th, 1882. S. A. GINNA,
H. LINDSLEY

Report rec'd, and a resolution was offered by Mr. Depew to the effect that the compensation of the Collector for the year 1882 be as provided above. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Newhall it was ordered that the Corporation Counsel be requested to give his written opinion as to the payment by the Board of Education of its percentage.

On motion the protest against the opening of Dunham street was referred to the Corporation Counsel with the other papers in relation.

The rules were suspended and Mr. J. Simpson from Aud. Com., reported as correct the claims of D. W. Littell $8.85 and E. A. Vermeule, $17.85. Warrants ordered drawn.

NEW BUSINESS.

Mr. Ginna moved for adoption a resolution to the effect that the City Treasurer demand of L. E. Clark all monies that may have come into his hands as Collector of the taxes of the city of Plainfield. Also of J. B. Coward all monies that may have come into his hands as Collector of the taxes of the late Township of Plainfield. Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

The Grammar School Building Destroyed.

At midnight on Friday last, the rear of the frame building on Fourth street at the corner of Union was discovered to be on fire; information of which was promptly communicated and such workers as were to be found on the streets ran out the steamers of the Department. The structure which is of frame, has been in use as one of the Public School buildings for many years and was in a most dilapidated condition. It was undoubtedly set on fire, as the rear door was discovered to have been soaked with kerosene and lighted from the outside. Two alarms were rung and in spite of the lateness of the hour a force of firemen reached the scene in time to overcome the total destruction of the building and prevent the spreading of the conflagration to adjoining structures. No. 1 Engine got "first water" from the well on Fifth street and Park avenue, which was followed by a stream from No. 2 Engine which had dropped its suction in the Fourth and New streets well.

The upper story and roof of the building were entirely consumed, and the whole more or less damaged. It was insured in the Commercial Assurance Co., of London for $3,000. The Board of Education has held one or two meetings since the occurrence, and as soon as the damage is adjusted by the insurance company's representatives (which will probably be completed to-day) the erection of a new building will be commenced. Let us hope that a model structure large enough to allow for the growth of many future years, will be built—with every consideration for the comfort of the scholars and the convenience of the teachers.

Washington Rock Mountain House.

The following is a list of the arrivals at this popular and healthy resort, since June 17th:

J. T. Hanneman and wife; E. M. Howell, wife, nurse and child; H. Havemeyer, wife, nurse and child; Fred E. Grant and wife; Mrs. J. C. Bloch; E. Rosenwasser; John Coil, wife, son and daughter; [illegible]

Obituary.

JACOB MANNING.

Jacob Manning, of this city, who died July 8th, 1882, was the oldest person at the time of his death that was born in the city of Plainfield. He was born Oct. 18th, 1798, on the corner of Somerset and Front streets, where Pope Bro's store now stands. On account of the death of his father in 1818, he had to commence business life early, as it fell on him with his mother, to manage his father's estate that included a large portion of the business part of Plainfield, the Hotel, the Still House (which was burnt down some years since) and the mill and store on the spot where now stands F. M. French's mill. He was one of the owners at this time, and superintended the central section of the stage line between New York and Philadelphia, passengers in those days stopping here for dinner at the old Hotel. This line was known as "Old Swiftsure," and had the contract for carrying the U. S. Mail from Washington to New York. Mr. Manning's father established the line from this place.—He took a great and active interest in establishing the First Baptist church, of which his Grand-father, Rev. Jacob F. Randolph, had organized in 1818, and was the Treasurer of the church about 25 years, resigning in 1851. He also advocated the establishment of the Evergreen Cemetery in 1848, and it was decided to locate it on grounds owned by him, he being elected its Treasurer and serving until 1861, when he resigned. He served as Post-master of Plainfield 12 years. In 1837 he was appointed and acted until 1841; during this time he secured the establishment of the first daily mail to New York. He was again re-appointed in 1852 and served until 1861. During this term he established the box system in the office. In 1858 and about 1854 he had the second mail established from New York in the afternoon. He was a great friend to and aided in establishing the old Plainfield Seminary that was located opposite the First Baptist church. In 1836 he was elected one of the Directors of the old State Bank at Elizabeth and served until 1856, when he resigned. He built the Green Valley Mills about 1847, and operated them in connection with a store in Plainfield and one in Newark from 1850 to 1862. In 1856 he was one of the originators of the charter for the Plainfield Mutual Insurance Co., and was elected director and was its first President. In this Company he served for nearly thirty years. He was one of the few that thought the time had come for a Bank in Plainfield and went with others to Trenton and obtained the charter for the Union County Bank in the winter of 1858, and on June 2d, 1859 was elected a director and President and served until he resigned in 1863. Having considerable property he was one of the first to advocate getting the charter for the Plainfield Fire Department and was elected one of its first managers to organize it. He never held any public office excepting Post-master. About 1844 he was nominated Democratic candidate for Assemblyman but was defeated by a small majority, the vote being for the whole county of Essex, Union County not being created at that time. During the past few years he has done no business except acting as agent for a few Companies. In politics Mr. Manning was an unwavering Democrat. He leaves behind him a daughter and son, the latter, Mr. Samuel Manning, Treasurer of the State Agricultural Association. His funeral, which took place from his late residence on Front street at 10:30 a. m. on Tuesday last, was largely attended by those who knew him in past years as an honest and upright man, the remains being interred in Evergreen Cemetery, this city. The pall bearers were J. J. Gardner, John Simpson, Levi Hetfield, F. M. French, S. O. Horton and D. J. Boice.

DAVID LENNON.

Probably sympathetic sorrow has never been more universally felt throughout a community than was the case when the death of David Lennon, during Sunday night last, was made known, the next morning. The deceased was admired and respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances who had observed with sadness, during the past few months, that he was gradually completing his life on earth in the very prime. Almost to the very day of his death, he personally attended to the management of his business, and labored as he had in years past for the welfare of a widowed mother and fatherless sisters. His struggle with that dread disease consumption was a courageous one but its hold was relentless, and the devoted son, affectionate brother and fond friend passed quietly and painlessly away at last to the everlasting rest that his blameless life on earth had won for him above.

The funeral took place from the late residence of the deceased on Wednesday and was attended by the Young Men's Social Club of which he was a member. Gazelle Engine Co., of which he had been Foreman, representatives of the Fire Board, Chief Vail and assistants, Foreman Robert L. Day of the Somerville Eng. Co., Messrs John Merz, J. A. Wolverton and John Garhart of the Somerville Fire Department and brother firemen of this city. The floral tributes of respect and affection were profuse and handsome. Besides offerings from private individuals, there was an Anchor on which were the words "Our late Foreman, No. 1," from the Gazelle Engine Company, and a broken column from the Y. M. S. Club. The remains were escorted to the Crescent Avenue church by the friends, during which march the fire bell was tolled. Rev. Dr. John G. Bliss preached at the church a most affecting sermon, taking as a subject the motto of the deceased's company, "Always Ready." The Rev. Dr. Yerkes delivered the closing prayer. The remains were then deposited in the Evergreen Cemetery.

The pall bearers were Benj. Force, S. Whitney, J. Hervey Doane, Robert Anderson, Jr., F. Mac Donald and Jos. G. Miller.

The exterior of Gazelle Engine House is beautifully draped in memory of the dead; and the committee appointed from the company for the purpose has prepared the following:

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT AND CONDOLENCE.

WHEREAS in view of the loss we have sustained by the decease of our late Foreman and esteemed friend and associate, DAVID LENNON, and of the still heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him; therefore be it

Resolved by Gazelle Engine Co. No. 1 of the City of Plainfield; that it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in deeply regretting his removal from our midst we sincerely mourn for one who was always, in every way, worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved, That we earnestly condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best, and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Resolved, That this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be published in the newspapers of the city, and a copy forwarded to the family of our departed brother by the Secretary of the Company.

THE Trenton Business College has attained its majority—is 21 years old—and appropriately the last year has been the most prosperous in her history. We know no reason why an institution of its practical character and excellent reputation, should not go on increasing in patronage and usefulness. Its plan of instruction is based on good common-sense, and its students command the desirable openings for business. We are told that the large wholesale house of Wm. Dolton & Co. of Trenton recently took three of its graduates in one week. Most of the large wholesale and manufacturing establishments of that city are continually drawing upon this institution for their supply of clerical labor, showing that business men appreciate their course of training, and what is good for the business men is good for the boys.

COMMUNICATED.

For "The Constitutionalist."

Justice, When Justice is Due.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

An injustice has certainly been done Miss Mamie E. Robison by depriving her of her stage honor to which she was so worthily entitled, and being the only member of the Graduating Class who had attained the Star Roll of Honor for five consecutive years, should not have been deprived of this through any caprice whatever. The Essay itself is an entirely original description of the beauties of our own "Watchung Falls," and should endear itself to the heart of every reader. I should say it compares most favorably with the other Essays, inasmuch as it has received no attention in regard to stage preparation, and has missed the effect of the clear, sweet voice of the writer. EX-TEACHER.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

Through the instrumentality of our gentlemanly and efficient Freeholder, E. M. Stever, our city has been relieved of the pest spot at Arlington avenue, caused by the stoppage of a culvert crossing the highway. This evil has been of long standing and has been repeatedly brought to the attention of our authorities, but it seems that it was not to be corrected, until our newly elected official took his place at the wheel.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

HAYESVILLE, Ohio, Feb. 11, 1880.
I am very glad to say I have tried Hop Bitters, and never took anything that did me as much good. I only took two bottles and I would not take $100 for the good they did me. I recommend them to my patients, and get the best results from their use. C. E. MERCER, M. D.

A WORLD OF GOOD.
One of the most popular medicines now before the American public is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not so pleasant to the taste as some other Bitters, as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old-fashioned bone-set tea, that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

A Yonkers belle, soon to be married, started out recently to furnish her new home. Her first purchase was a small sofa and a corn-popper.

"Happy is the father," exclaims the Buffalo Express, "whose children are so young that he can delude them into the belief that the procession is all there is of a circus."

"Come down stairs and I'll make a charnel house of you!" exclaimed a Texas man to an editor, and the editor had him arrested. He didn't feel as though he would like to have a Texas man crawl down his throat and die.

It is stated that experiments conducted by Krupp at his great cannon factory, have solved the problem how to construct a missile, which, after piercing the object, shall expand with disastrous effect. It is presumed that he used dried apples.

Don Carlos, the would-be King of Spain and his wife have parted. The cause of the disagreement is not given, but the neighbors say she used the royal sceptre to stir soap with, and set a hen on fourteen duck eggs in his kingly crown.

A Parisian journalist writes: "Monsieur, I cannot myself the pleasure do to you fight this afternoon. I have the gumboil of my father and the bunion of my grand uncle. I will with great pleasure some other time you meet with the rapier. I have the honor, etc."

The court austerely: "Prisoner, how did you have the audacity to break into this man's house at midnight and rob him?" Prisoner piteously: "But your honor, last time I was before you, you wanted to know how I could have the audacity to rob a man on the highway at high noon. When do you want me to get in my work, anyway?"

A letter mailed in 1853 was recently found behind a shelf in a country post office, and forwarded to its destination. It was addressed to a young lady and contained a marriage proposal. When the lady read it she looked pleased and exclaimed: "Law me! I didn't expect to hear from him so soon. But what a wonderful thing that fast mail service is."

"Is it true that Mrs. Pompom has false teeth, that Deacon Lightfoot's daughters rouge and that the new family who have just rented a pew in the middle aisle are descendants of the pirate Kidd?" asked a spruce looking old lady, brilliant in bright ribbons and jewelry, at a social meeting of the members of the church. "I don't know," answered the weak-eyed seraph to whom this was addressed. "Ask the minister's wife."

A man went into a drug store and asked for something to cure a headache. The druggist held a bottle of hartshorn to his nose, and he was nearly overpowered by its pungency. As soon as he recovered he began to rail at the druggist, and threatened to punch his head. "But didn't it help your headache?" asked the apothecary. "Help my headache?" gasped the man. "It's my wife that's got the headache!"

A TYRO AT TYPES.

A mistaken idea obtained with us the other day, viz.: that we could set type. We had seen it done almost daily for years, and if we could not do it ourselves, we felt that we would like to know the reason why.

Selecting a time when the eye of man was remote from our composing room, we armed ourselves with a stick, preparatory to a composition that should produce a clean proof and open our foreman's eyes. We couldn't help chuckling as we thought how astonished he would be. We felt so business-like and capable, as we thus meditated, stick in hand, that we caught ourselves contemplating the advisability of discharging the printers and doing our type setting. Why not? We could set say so much every day, and six times that would be—however, we would think of that later, and now to business; we would just throw a half-column of paragraphs together to show what we could do.

Why it was we don't know, but we must have got to thinking about something. At any rate, we had only succeeded in getting a two-line idea up when we were interrupted by the return of the boys from dinner. Two lines in one hour—that knocked our calculation cat west, and we temporarily abandoned the idea of discharging the typos.

When the proofs were handed to us, we locked ourselves in from the cold world and hunted out our maiden effort in type setting.

We found it, and then we knew how different everything seems when a man finds out that he doesn't know what he has been talking about; then we appreciated the fact that our devil could have stood on his head in front of the case and picked out a better job with his toes. Since then we have been more lenient with our compositors. When we find a comma turned upside down, we refrain from threatening to discharge every man in the office, and when our foreman comes to us for advice we find ourselves meekly requesting him to do whatever he deems best.

Our proud spirit is broken, and this is what busted it:

A young man who went to the circus and stopped too near the monkey's cage had his nose seized and savagely jerked by one of the monkeys. He would have escaped safely if he had not said: "It's merely a monkey-wrench," but when they heard that, the infuriated crowd threw him into the lion's den.

That a little water in butter will prevent it from burning when used for frying?

That pennyroyal distributed in places frequented by roaches will drive them away?

That oil paintings, hung over the mantlepiece, are liable to wrinkle with the heat?

That a little saltpetre worked into butter that has become sour or rancid will render it sweet and palatable?

That leaves of parsley, eaten with a little vinegar, will prevent the disagreeable consequences of tainted breath by onions.

That Spanish brown, mixed with a little water, will make the hearths look pretty? a pound costs ten cents and will last two or three months; use a little at a time.

Jones is a timid man. He lives out of town and out of town he has remained for a month. Every morning he starts for the train, gets nearly as far as the railroad, sees the red flag at the station and returns homeward, wondering how much longer that case of smallpox is to keep him away from the depot.

A man in Green Bay, Wisconsin, sent a pair of trowsers to a friend who had a part in private theatricals, with the message: "Loaned for the part you are about to play." He entrusted to the same messenger a piece of silver ware designated as a wedding gift to a young lady about to be married. The messenger gave her the wrong parcel.

A young woman at a picnic near Madison, Indiana, was warned by the young man with whom she was walking against tumbling down the cliffs near them. But she thoughtlessly went ahead and plunged over a precipice of rugged rocks seventy feet high. She was so lucky as to miss them all, landing in the mud face foremost, whence she was pulled out with no bones broken and only a slight bruise. She will learn to listen more attentively to what young men say to her.

"I see," said Mrs. Brown, "that in this boat race the Scudmores took water first. Poor fellows! How thirsty they must have been; but what do they put it in the paper for?" "It doesn't mean that!" jerked out Brown. "Don't mean that?" said Mrs. B; "then what does it mean?" "Why," said Brown, "it means—why it means that they were the first to take water, that's all. You women can never understand anything." "The idea of letting women vote!" said Brown at the club that evening.

"Did you see anything of a strange hen over in your yard this morning, Mr. Brown?" "Well, yes, I did, Mr. Jones. There was a hen here that acted strange among among my young tomatoes and cucumber plants, that I concluded I'd try to cure her." "How are you going to do it?" "Well, I thought I'd try what effect setting would have." "Where are you going to set her?" "In a dripping pan first, and after that in the oven. Come over and assist at the inquest, won't you?"

OUTWARD BOUND.

I sit and watch the ships go out
Across the wide sea;
Now one by one in [illegible],
They sail away from me.
I know not to what lands they sail,
Nor what the freights they bear;
I only know they outward go,
While all the winds are fair.

Beyond the low horizon line
Where my short sight must fail,
Some other eyes [illegible] will keep,
Whatever the ships may sail;
By night, by day, or near or far,
O'er [illegible] wide,
These follow still, at love's sweet will,
Whatever may betide.

Around the world the ships will sail,
To [illegible] lands or fair;
So with them go, for weal or woe,
Some dear ones everywhere;
And these will speed each lagging hour
When homeward it is said,
Or watch will keep o'er ocean deep,
If [illegible] grave be made.

Oh, ocean deep, so kind, so true,
Thou knowest [illegible] bound,
But [illegible]
Our [illegible]
Oh, love divine, [illegible]
What [illegible] I can,
[illegible]
Thy [illegible] never fail.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

A GIRL'S PROMISE.

"And you propose to stand by what you say sir!"

"Exactly, George!"

Then silence fell between the two men for a moment.

It was the old, old story—the useless petition of poverty stricken youth asking of wealthy old age the hand of beauty.

George Stanley had loved pretty Esther Dana from his youth up, and Esther had returned his love in full measure, but when the decisive moment came and he asked rich old farmer John for his daughter, then he was told that he was too poor to be aspiring.

After staring for a while in dumb despair at the hard featured farmer where he sat in his great chair beside the sunny window, George mustered up sufficient courage to ask:

"And is poverty the only objection you have to owning me as a son-in-law sir?"

"That's about the long and short of it, my boy," was the prompt reply. "I had to make a nest before I caught my bird, and I don't see why other men should not do the same."

"Quite right, sir," said the young man brightening a trifle; but may I ask how wealthy I must be before I can propose for Esther?"

Farmer John stroked his chin with a covert smile playing about his weather-beaten features and drawing from his pocket an envelope which contained a $100 bill, the price of some land which had been sold that day, he displayed the crisp note.

"When you can show 100 notes like that, then I'll part with my daughter."

"All right, good-bye."

"Where are you going?"

"West."

"God bless you. Good-bye."

And so they parted; and so lightly did the old man think of his harsh treatment that, listening to the drone of the honey bees in the rose-tree outside the window, he fell asleep in the sunshine, his arm resting on the window sill, the envelope containing the $100 bill in his hand.

Meanwhile George had hurried to the trysting place down at the stile in the meadow, and had told Esther his sad story.

When she heard he was going so far away from her she burst into tears.

"Esther, Esther darling, don't cry," George faltered. "Can't you be true to me till I come home again?"

"I can, and will!" was the passionate reply.

"Promise it, dear."

"George, I promise it on my life."

The shades of a summer evening were closing in as George Stanley stood at the door of the cottage which had been his home, and held his mother in his arms.

Scarcely had the last farewell been spoken when the garden gate opened and the constable of the village strode up the path.

"George," the man said regretfully, "I must arrest you."

Mrs. Stanley uttered a low cry but the young man laughed.

"Is this some joke, Mr. Hardy?" he cried, "arrest me—for what?"

"For theft."

"For theft?"

"Theft of what?"

"Of a $100 bank note."

"From whom?"

"Farmer Dana."

"Merciful heaven! I—"

"Mr. Dana says that you are the only person who knew he had the note in his possession, and after you had called upon him he fell asleep; and when he awoke the note was gone."

"Why should he accuse me?" the young man cried indignantly.

"Because an hour after you left the farm, you purchased a ticket to Nevada with a $100 bill."

"But the money was mine!"

"Ah, but Mr. Dana has identified the bill as his. I'm afraid, George, you must come to the lock-up with me until you can have an examination."

Like a man he faced the disgrace, and was cool and dignified until he was dismissed on the following day, the evidence against him not being considered serious enough to condemn him.

So he went West with a heavy heart to seek his fortune, knowing that his lifelong friends alone deemed him guiltless of the galling charges against his name and honor.

A year went round, and it was already the springtime of another, and Esther prayed day and night for the welfare and the success of her absent lover.

The only happy moments of her life were when she sat with the Widow Stanley and talked of George.

Oh, how happy the poor boy might have been could he have heard those two loving women talk of him, and have known the depth of their affection.

Returning one afternoon from the cottage, Esther met her father on the veranda.

"Esther," said the old man, "I want to speak to you. I have decided to overhaul the old house, furbish it up a bit, and lay in a new stock of furniture."

"I don't see the use of it, father, dear," she replied.

"Don't you, eh?" with a sly wink; "do you think the old place is fit for the wedding of the richest girl in Maysville?"

"My wedding, father," Esther gasped.

"Certainly, why not? I've always thought Dr. Bell was sweet on you, and to-day he asked me for you. Now, I could not be better pleased than to—"

"Father! hush, I cannot marry Dr. Bell."

"Why not?"

"Because I never loved him!"

"Oh, that's all right. In the meantime I'll have the carpenters round in the morning and have them throw out a bay window in the sitting-room."

And with a jovial laugh the old man sauntered down the steps and away through the sunshine.

Up in her chamber that night Esther stood at the window and raised a pale, tear-wet face to the twinkling stars.

"I'll die first," she murmured, resolutely, "for I promised George that I would be true to him, and I will not break that promise."

Bright and early she appeared at breakfast the following morning and, though her father eyed her keenly, he never mistrusted the conflict she had been waging through the dead wastes of the night.

With a shudder of horror, Esther heard the carpenters begin to work at the sitting-room window, and while her father stood in the front of the house planning some alterations with the architect, she fled to her room to stifle her misery by reading George's letter the twentieth time.

Scarcely had she concluded the perusal of the second page when a rap came upon the door, and upon opening it, Esther encountered the maid-of-all-work.

"Please, Miss Esther," the girl said extending something in her hand, "the carpenters found this when they tore away the mop board beneath the sitting room window."

Esther took the object, uttered a wild cry and darted down stairs.

"Father, look!" she cried. "George is innocent."

With a puzzled air the farmer took the dirty envelope and with trembling fingers extracted a mildewed note for $100.

"Slipped out of my fingers into that pesky crack!" he gasped. "By Jove what wouldn't I give if that poor boy was here now! I would give you to him without one cent for the wrong I've done him!"

In the bewilderment the old fellow did not notice the stir beside him, and when he raised his eyes at last, there stood George Stanley with Esther tightly clasped in his arms.

"Your wish is granted, sir, the boy is here but not poor. There are the bills you wanted to see before I could claim Esther."

But the old farmer pushed the proffered wallet aside and faltered brokenly:

"Say no more about it, George—take her, she is yours, and may heaven forgive me and bless you. See here Mr. What's-your-name, I want you to get through with these improvements in double quick time, for there's going to be a wedding here next week!"

APPLE BUTTER.

BY MARY KYLE DALLAS.

"Oh, dear! oh, dear!" moaned little Peggy Porter, rocking herself to and fro on the bottom step of the back porch of Squire Baldwin's big red brick house. "Oh, dear! oh, dear! I am distracted!"

"What is the matter, Peggy?" inquired the squire, looking over the balustrade, with his pipe in his mouth. "Be you suffering from any gastric perturbations? Them green apples ain't none too salubrious; and I saw you eat a peck of 'em last night."

The squire thought it necessary to use fine language in these days, when election was approaching, and the eyes of his fellow-townsmen were fixed upon him as a future candidate for office.

"Oh, no, sir! I wish it was the cholery," sobbed Peggy. "I'd a great deal rather it would be brownskeeties in my throat, or the small-pox and marked with it. Silas is took up."

"These here dispensations is for our good," said the squire. "What did he hev?"

"He didn't hev nothin'. He never touched one of 'em," sobbed Peggy.

"I can't say, Peggy, as I actooaly comprehend your diagnosis," said the squire.

"Oh, Mister Baldwin, you know I don't know French like the young ladies does," said Peggy. "Why do you talk it to me?"

"That ain't French, Peggy," said the squire; "but no matter. What was the matter with Silas? How did he die?"

"He ain't dead. Lord forbid!" said Peggy. "He's took up for stealin'. Him that is just as honest as a minister."

"I thought you meant took up to Heaven," said the squire. "I'd just been reading about Elijah for the morning chapter, and my thoughts were of a spiritual nature. That's dreadful news, Peggy. Tell me the particulars?"

"That nasty, horrid, hateful Mr. Moses Parker says he's got a purse full of gold money," said Peggy doubling her fists. "Says he stole it, e'en a most afore his eyes. One comfort, Silas knocked him down and left him black and blue; but there he is in jail, and we was to have been married in a month an missus knows, for she's give me the beautifullest light blue poplin and trimmings. Oh, Squire Baldwin, you that's the greatest lawyer, and the highest edicated gentleman a goin', can't you see justice done to my Silas?"

"I rather reckon I will, Peggy," said the Squire, with dignity. "You haven't made any mistake in coming to me. I rather reckon I do know more than the majority of my fellow-townsmen about most things. And I say boldly, I don't believe Silas Tucker is a thief. I'll go over to Parker's and see about it." And in five minutes more the Squire, with his head in the air and his wide coat skirts flapping about him in the high wind, was seen marching over the common toward Moses Parker's store.

"Good morning, Squire. Glad to see you," said Mr. Parker, who, with a black eye, fast growing yellow, was waiting behind his counter. "Anything I can do for you, sir?"

"Well, I just stepped over to inquire into this conglomeration of circumstances twixt you and Silas Tucker, Mr. Parker," said the squire. "My domestic, Peggy Porter, has attempted for to give me some idea of the ramifications, but her agonies of mind seems to have superinduced hysteria, and there ain't no penetration to the root of the matter; so I've come to you."

"Well, I'll tell you all about it, Squire," said Mr. Parker, as the loungers about the store nodded to each other and looked at the squire, as much as to say that there was a man who would do honor to the town if placed in a prominent position. "Here's the butter, Sissy. Don't let it slide off the plate. It's hard as ice. John, show Miss Perkins those brooms."

"Why, the story, I'm sorry to say, Squire, is just this: Silas Tucker has helped himself to seventy dollars of my money—all in gold. You see, I'd been selling my hay—seventy dollars' worth—and they paid me in these here gold eagles. Seven ten-dollar gold pieces there was, and I put 'em into a little yaller silk purse I keep for change, and I had that in my vest pocket. It was just dinner time when I came home, and Silas and me were eatin' our dinner together, just got through, and I took out the purse.

"'That looks like resumption of specie payment, don't it?' I said. 'Well, it does,' said Silas. 'I hain't had gold for so long that I don't like to spend it,' said I. 'I feel like hoardin' it up;' and then I put the purse down on the table, and was lookin' at it and the gold shining through the meshes, when my old woman called to me out of the cook-room:

"'Moses, come and keep an eye on this apple butter; I've got to go down cellar.'

"Now, the kitchen is here and the cook-room there; open right one into each other. 'Twasn't four steps, and I was out and took the ladle and stirred away; and all of a sudden I put my hand into my pocket and felt there wasn't no purse in it.

"'Silas,' I called out, 'keep an eye on my purse.'

"'There ain't no purse here,' said Silas. 'You took it. I saw you put it into your pocket.'

"And with that he got up and went out. Wife came in a minute after, and we searched high and low. Nobody had been into the room but Silas, and I calculated he'd hid it somewhere to scare me. That he'd stolen it, I couldn't think. But the critter stayed out until twelve o'clock that night, and he'd had too much hard cider when he got in, and he was pretty sassy when I spoke about the purse. And at last wife up and says:

"'Hired help is all alike, Moses.'

"'I reckon it is, Betsy.'

"And I up and told Silas just this: 'Hand over the purse and I'll take no steps about it.'

"Then Silas he just knocked me down, and I went for the proper parties and had him took up, and he's in jail. You see there wasn't no one else to take 'em, and he had a holiday, and he went off and spread 'em away in New York. He's worked for me a long time, and I'm cut up about it. So's my wife. I'd rather seen a'most anybody else had done it; so would she."

"Mr. Parker and esteemed friends," said the squire, waving his hand to his audience, now augmented by the lady with the new broom—"Mr. Parker and friends, this here is one of the most unfathomable mysteries it has ever been my fate to attempt to penetrate. Here air two feller-citizens, my esteemed coadjutor, Mr. Moses Parker, perhaps the most celebrated merchant of our world-renowned town of Pippinville, and here is that hitherto highly respected young man, Silas Tucker, wrapt in abysses of the darkest gloom. The shadder of suspicion rests upon our city like a nightmare. The brows of my feller-citizens grow furrered. Be it my task to eliminate the light of truth out of this chiarrer oscurrer, as my friend, the eminent photographer on my left, pertinently remarked in his studio but yesterday. I pledge myself to this work, like Diogenes with his lantern, with whom my friend, the school-master, who has just come in, is naturally familiar. I will discover the facts of this case, and I trust I shall find the honest man in our hitherto respected feller-citizen, Silas Tucker. I'll be over at court to-morrow, rely on me. Mr. Parker what do you ask for this here very fine apple butter?"

"Dollar a pail, Squire," said Mr. Parker. "That's the apple butter I was stirring when I missed the money."

"It becomes historical," said the Squire. "I'll take a pail."

"Send it over right away?" asked Mr. Parker.

"I'll take it," said the Squire. "I have no petty pride about me, sir; none."

So the pail was handed over, a big trade dollar dropped into Mr. Parker's money drawer, and the Squire walked home across the common.

Despairing Peggy waited at the table with swollen eyes and a very red nose. Mrs. Baldwin, a sallow, serious lady, who took a dark view of life in general, shook her head and groaned. The two Misses Baldwin were eager to know what had been done for poor Silas.

The Squire nodded mysteriously.

"Monday will show," he said. "Wife, I reckon I'd like a little of that apple butter. Dish out some, won't you?"

Mrs. Baldwin obeyed, and came back with a contemptuous expression of countenance.

"Next time you go and buy apple butter, ask if I can't make it better than Jane Ann Parker," she said. "This is full of lumps."

She set the glass dish on the table, and dipped a table spoon in the apple butter, then shrieked:

"Good gracious!" and every one at the table, as well as Peggy Porter waiting around it, saw that she held upon her spoon-tip a long netted purse, through the meshes of which something glittered.

"A purse of money!" she cried; and the Squire, bringing his fist down on the table, roared:

"This here mystery is elucidated. Parker has biled his seventy dollars in his apple sarse."

An hour later the audience in the store gathered about the squire, as he stood beside the counter.

"There are moments, fellow-citizens," said the squire, "when inspiration seems to be bestowed on us poor mortals. Why did I buy this apple sarse? 'Twould be flying in the face of Providence not to admit that it was inspiration. It is evident that our esteemed feller-townsman, Mr. Moses Parker, in his zeal to assist his admirable wife in her household duties, lapsed over the kettle of apple sarse and let fall from his manly bosom that there purse of gold into the boiling mass.

"There it might have rested on a shelf, while our once most highly respected fellow-townsman, Mr. Silas Tucker, mouldered in prison, but that I was led to purchase this pail. Ladies and gentlemen, I see your brows are smooth again, and I rejoice to have been the humble instrument."

Later in the day Silas Tucker had an interview with his employer.

"You're a durned old fool," said he, "and I had orter thrash you."

"So you orter, Silas," said Mr Parker. "I admit it, but I'd rather you wouldn't for the sake of my family. Mrs. Parker's nerves are out of order. If you'll come back, Silas, I'll be obliged to you, and I apologize before all these folks."

"All right," said Silas. "Only, Mr. Parker, after this I shall expect to be treated with servility."

"So you shall be," said Mr. Parker. "So you shall be, Silas;" and peace was established once more.—Ledger.

TOO MANY GENERALS.

A Detroit saloon keeper who spent considerable money for decorations and worked his patriotism up to the top round, was heard wondering if any of the generals would be around to see him, and this gave one of his acquaintances a clue to work on. He went off and put up a job with a friend, and the other day walked him into the saloon and said:

"Allow me to introduce Gen. Alpeus Smith, the hero of three wars and eighty-four battles."

"Sheneral, I vhas gladt to see you," said the saloonist, and he set 'em up for three.

In the course of twenty minutes the deceiver returned with another stranger on his arm and said:

"Allow me to introduce Gen. Commissary Jones, the man who fired the first gun in the war."

"Sheneral, I vhas blessed to shake hands mit you," said the man of beer, and he set 'em up again.

Then the friend went out and returned with General Hard Tack, and after him Gens. Debility and Back Pay. The last one received a rather cool greeting, and the beer glasses were not quite full, and after he had departed the saloonist turned to his friend and said:

"My frent, I vhas mooch blessed to see all does great shenerals in mine saloon, but you needn't bring any more to-day. From now until night we'll let der shenerals go, und look out for der fighting man. Dose men always bay cash for beer!"

EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

RALLY! DEMOCRATS!

It is time for the Democratic party to cast off all hindering weights and come boldly before the people with an aggressive and clearly defined plan of action.

We would thus emblazon its banners:

Every candidate for office, from the highest to the lowest, to be selected because of his known individual capability and unsullied moral character, and with the positive guarantee that he will serve the public honestly and intelligently.

Ample revenue to be raised for every obligation and want of government that the honor of country and best interests of the people demand, but not a dollar for profligate waste or plundering jobbery.

War to the hilt against political corruption of every name and kind, and the use of money to control elections or influence legislation.

Equitable taxation and the abolishment of all that is unnecessary and oppressive.

Protection, full and fair, to every American industry and pursuit, but exclusive favoritism to none.

The revival of ocean commerce and enlargement of foreign markets for American products.

A currency sufficiently large to meet the requirements of business intercourse and transformable at pleasure into the gold and silver legal tender of the Constitution.

Prudent economy and rigid accountability in every department of government.

Each appropriation of public money to stand upon its own legitimate merit.

No log-rolling in Congress and thieving raiders around the doors of the Treasury.

Labor to be justly rewarded and respected as the producer of wealth.

Death to arrogant monopoly.

A free chance for all to live and prosper, the weak on a par with the strong.

Peace at home and no entangling alliances abroad.

Democrats! The foregoing truthfully portray the principles of your time-honored party. Rally with Jeffersonian wisdom and Jacksonian heroism and make them sovereign, for the glory of country and the lasting welfare of all the people.

DOWN BRAKES.

Some people may imagine that Roscoe Conkling is politically dead, if they do, great is their mistake.

He is no longer a Senator, but he remains to be Roscoe Conkling and possessed of living speech.

At a serenade recently given him in Utica, N. Y., his old home, the ex-Senator said:—

"We are in a period of peace and great prosperity, but let us never forget that prosperity often tests and tries the wisdom of nations and men more even than adversity. The tendency is to spend largely. The tendency in the Government is to make profuse, perhaps lavish, appropriations of the public money. In the affairs of government and in the affairs of business, unless I greatly mistake the lesson, the need and the admonition of the hour are frugality, foresight and care. We have more need of the brake than of steam in a good many ways just now."

There is a mine of truth in those few words, and they were uttered by one fully conversant with business and public affairs.

"The need and the admonition of the hour are frugality, foresight and care."

That is golden precept.

It is an undeniable fact that frugality, foresight and care are the only reliable promoters of individual and national prosperity, and, unfortunately, the truth is equally positive, that those most valuable ingredients of the general welfare are shamefully dishonored at the present day.

It is plainly visible in wild business and stock speculations, in absurd extravagant living, and to a marked extent, in the profligate expenditure of public money.

To avoid a crash it is time, as Mr. Conkling wisely suggests, to let off steam and put on the brakes.

Down brakes and save disaster.

COMMUNICATED.

For "The Constitutionalist."

Some Problems.

MESSRS EDITORS:—

If the mere proposition to start a new Gas Company in Plainfield has caused the old Gas Company to reduce its rates to consumers, what would the effect be if a new company should be actually established, and how much pecuniarily would our citizens be benefited by the competition?

Why should our Common Council hamper and embarrass the new company (presumably in the interest of the old company) by requiring of them unreasonable and impossible things, to the detriment of the people?

I think if the question of having competing Gas Works established in our city were submitted to the people, the vote would be almost unanimously yes, and why not? ANTI-MONOPOLIST.

For "The Constitutionalist."

Water Works.

MESSRS EDITORS:—

The projectors of Water Works in our city, and their friends, are trying very hard just now to silence the batteries of the opponents of the scheme, by pouring into the ears of our Councilmen the persuasive words "No sewerage will be necessary." Now, sirs, I desire to make a prophecy (provided the monopoly is fastened upon us) that within ten years after the Water Works are completed, the self-same projectors of the "Works" will quietly scheme to have a Common Council (or a majority thereof) elected on some reform plea, and hoodwink the people in the most respectable manner known to modern tacticians, and have said Council vote to construct sewers and costly appendages, that will saddle upon the taxpayers and property owners of our city hundreds of thousands of dollars, and they (the people) will not be able to stay the avalanche of pecuniary burden that will sweep down upon them and bury them in financial difficulties for a generation to come; the people, be it observed, will be powerless against a majority vote of the Common Council, and no protests or remonstrances will be of any avail; this vested power in the Common Council is by a law passed March 27th, 1882, Chap. CXXXV (which see). By whose efforts this law was passed I of course don't know, but it will be a splendid auxiliary to the Water Works scheme—provided it is carried through.

The law above referred to gives the Common Council of our city power to raise annually by general taxation five thousand dollars, for the improvement of streets and the construction of necessary sewers therein; the said $5,000 is called in the law a "Capital Fund" and can be applied to paving streets or constructing sewers, or both, in the discretion of the Common Council; the balance of the expense of sewerage and paving can be assessed upon the property benefited and will be a prior lien on the land thus "specially benefited," and can be collected peacefully if possible, and forcibly if necessary. All this can be done without the consent of property owners, and the bare majority of a quorum of a Common Council can do it.

As regards paving &c., the Water Company seem to be looking forward to the time when the city will contract with them not only for hydrants (which are not needed) but for flushing the gutters of the streets, and before gutters can be flushed they must be constructed, and herein it seems to me is where the little joker lies as regards street paving provided for in the law under consideration.

I think it would be well for you to publish said law, so that our citizens can see to what danger they will be exposed, if ever the Water Works are constructed. It behooves the people of our city to be extra cautious as to who they elect as Councilmen for next year, or they may rue the day they cast their votes; Politicians should be ignored and only safe and true men elected—men who could not be used by scheming monopolies and selfish politicians; men who can see as far as those who would fain bamboozle them.

Obituary.

MRS. DR. W. A. SANDILES.

At Braddocks, Allegheny Co., Pa., there died last week, Susan, wife of Dr. W. A. Sandiles, aged twenty-seven years, one month and one day. Mrs. Sandiles was a former resident of this city—before her marriage living on East Third street with her brother, Mr. Paul Symons. In addition to a most devoted husband the deceased leaves one child, an infant six weeks old.

FREDERIC WARNER GUION.

The sad news was announced on Sunday of the death during the preceding day, of Frederic, son of ex-Councilman Guion and wife, in the nineteenth year of his age. The deceased was another of the victims of the dreadful epidemic of measles that visited our community recently, from which sickness he drifted into consumption and so died. A large number of faithful friends that had been gained by the good heart and pleasant ways of the young man, unite in sympathy with the family in its affliction.

EUGENE ZEISE.

As announced upon our going to press last week, Eugene Zeise, Secretary of Warren Engine Co., died at the residence of his father on New street, of consumption. The deceased was a well-known and exceedingly popular member of our community, and his death—although expected as the result of a long illness—was a shock to a large number. He had long been an officer of Warren Engine Co., and was respected and admired by his associates. At the funeral services, which took place on Sunday, was gathered a large delegation from the different companies of the Department, as well as members of the Board of Managers and Chief Vail with his assistants. During the march of the funeral cortege through the streets, the fire bell and that of the Seventh Day Baptist church, where the services were held, were tolled. Even before the expiration of the 30 days, during which the front of the Engine House was draped out of respect to the late C. A. Foote, another beloved member has died and a new season of mourning commenced.

DEATHS.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

OH, for an Opera House!

ONCE more, and all together—Oh, for an Opera House!

THE merry colored folks will have a picnic next Thursday.

THE Fire Department felt the need of a Water Supply, last Friday evening.

ENGINE Co. No. 2 is making arrangements for an excursion to Neshaminy Fall's Grove.

THE weak fish are biting briskly at Boynton Beach. On Thursday last one party caught 32 and Mr. John Oakley of Rahway caught 54.

THE Fourth Annual Picnic of the A. O. H. No. 4 of Plainfield, will take place at Stelle's Grove on Thursday, Aug. 10th. Music will be furnished by Cahill.

IN our advertising columns will be observed a "Notice to Builders" calling for plans and specifications for the building of a stone church at Flemington. Sealed proposals will be received up to the 31st. inst.

THE Times of Canaseraga, N. Y., recently contained a very glowing account of the reception given in that Town to the Rev. J. Dudley Ferguson and his bride, formerly Miss Mary Leathem of this city.

NEXT week D. Boehm & Bro., will mark down their large assortment of Summer dress goods, to cost. Don't neglect to take advantage of the unusual opportunity offered of purchasing at so low a figure.

THE Mayor has made a sworn statement that covers the objections raised by City Judge Runyon against issuing his warrant for taxes of back years. The Judge being satisfied will now perform the duty required.

LEAVING this city at 7:30 a. m., on the morning of Thursday, August 3d, Messrs Laing & Nelson will conduct an excursion to Long Branch and Ocean Grove, which will undoubtedly be as successful as their past pleasures in the same line.

M. VERMEULE the Front street hatter, announces a great reduction in straw hats and his sales are daily increasing thereby. The stock offered is one of the largest in the city, and the assortment of styles so varied that everybody is sure to be suited.

IN another column the attention of our reader will be call to the advertisement of Mrs. Lilian G. Ludlam, an instructor on the piano and organ, who may be engaged at No. 3 Manning avenue, North Plainfield. The lady is well recommended.

THE Union & Middlesex Counties' Social Club, a new organization of the young men of this city and North Plainfield, proposes to make its first appearance in public by means of open air festivities in Wooden's Grove during the coming month.

LILIENSTERN the clothier is closing out a large stock of fine goods in ready-made suits for men, boys and children, as well as a large line of furnishing goods. Mr. Lilienstern is making preparations for getting in his usual handsome assortment of Fall goods.

E. P. THORN of the Mansion House has secured the sole agency of Wirtz's bottling of Milwaukee and Ballantine's lagers, the finest table beers in the World. He is also introducing Bouche Fils' Dry Verzenay and Napoleon's Cabinet Champagnes at prices that will enable the public to test the merits of these popular wines.

MONDAY was a bad day for track walkers. Two Hungarians on the tramp to the coal diggings, when near North Branch stepped from one track to avoid a coming train over to the other track and directly in front of another train. One of the men was instantly killed while the other died shortly after his removal to the Muhlenberg Hospital.

IT is asserted by the "knowing ones" that the reason why so many aspirants to become disciples of Izaak Walton, fail to catch the wary black bass, is because of the poor tackling they use. We advise all such to go to Vanderbeck's on Park avenue, and purchase their supplies of him. He has a large assortment at prices equal to the largest houses in New York.

A YOUNG man by the name of Green aged about 20 years, a resident of this city, while endeavoring to get on a moving coal train near Westfield, caught his foot and fell, hurting himself badly by striking his hip and the car going over the calf of his leg. He hailed a farmer near by and was subsequently assisted to reach the Muhlenberg Hospital, where he is steadily improving.

THE early closing movement has sensibly progressed during the past week, and following the example set by the grocers, the hardware merchants, shoe dealers, and others are commencing to close every evening (except Saturdays) at 8 o'clock. In their advertisement to-day Edsall & Price announce their intention. Pack is so doing, and other dry and fancy goods dealers will probably "follow suit."

E. C. MULFORD at his office in the East Room of the C. R. R. Depot, is the authorized agent for the following first class Fire Insurance Companies, and is issuing policies therein at premium rates as low as possible in consideration of the security given and the prompt adjustment of losses assured. North American of Philadelphia, assets $8,818,805 09. Phœnix of London, assets $5,364,504 44.

A HORSE attached to the carriage of Mr. Bushnell of this city, ran away on Thursday morning, but stopped of its own accord upon reaching the stables of D. J. Marshall, of whom it had been recently purchased. No damage was done, although a lady and child in the carriage were terribly frightened by the unusually fast ride. The coachman had taken the bridle off to put ear-nets on the horse, when it sprang away from him.

W. B. MAXSON, Esq., and Judge Buchanan, attorneys for the residents in this vicinity that are resisting the demands of "Driven Well Green", have just accomplished an admirable move and gained a creditable victory in favor of their clients. Green's attorney, upon late decisions in his favor, had taken steps to sell out a number of those refusing to pay the royalties claimed. Messrs Maxson and Buchanan, however, promptly secured an appeal, and thereby nipped in the bud, as it were, Green's hostile intentions.

THE Baptists, everybody else and all the neighbors, left Plainfield on Wednesday morning in two trains of ten cars each, for Ocean Grove and the surrounding country. About 1,104 excursionists, in consequence, spent a day of limitless enjoyment, unalloyed by any circumstance to mar the complete pleasure of each and every one. Lack of space and the occasion happening so close to hour of publication, combine to prevent the extended notice we should desire to give this most successful of affairs.

THE Annual Picnic of St. Mary's T. A. B. society of this city, was held at Stelle's Grove on Thursday of last week and as usual was a success in every particular—due to the efforts of the Committee of arrangements, Messrs John Mottley, Edw. Bermingham, Morris Higgins, Alex. McGuigan and Patrick Lynch. The music was Cahill's best and dancing was freely indulged in under the direction of Floor Manager Peter Flynn and his assistants, James Whelan, P. Connelly and M. Sweeny.

DURING Monday noon as Messrs Dan'l McCarthy and Hugh O'Donnell of this city were crossing at Hudson and Canal streets, New York, an empty half-barrel fell from a loaded wagon of Yuengling the brewer, and striking McCarthy on the head knocked him insensible. The victim's companion immediately secured the attendance of Dr. C. S. McCann of New York and during the evening it was possible to bring McCarthy to his residence on William street, this city, where he is being treated by Dr. C. M. Field.

DURING the visit of the Union and Morris County Boards of Freeholders to Stanley, N. J., to award the contract for stone work on the proposed new line bridge over the Passaic at that point, they were kindly shown through the extensive paper mill of Mr. Henry W. Mather, located at that point. This mill is replete with all the modern style of machinery, and turns out about forty tons of paper felting for roofing purposes a week. Extensive additions are being made to the already large factory. Mr. Mather is Director of the Morris County Board of Freeholders.

A PLEASANT evening's enjoyment was accorded a few of Mr. Tell Regulin's friends, at that gentleman's residence on Front street, last Thursday evening, the occasion being a call to extend congratulations on the recent marriage of Mr. R. to a most estimable young lady, Miss Emma Dreyer. Among those present on the occasion were Freeholder Stover, Mr. Auguste Heitzman and wife, Mr. Henry Meyer and wife, Mr. J. Marc Martin, Mr. F. Hirschey and Mr. Emile Dreyer. Mr. Regulin is one of Plainfield's most respected citizens, and we are happy to say, is of the Democratic persuasion. The hospitality enjoyed by those who have the pleasure of calling upon Mr. R. and his charming bride is not soon or easily forgotten.

TWO Chinamen washee-washees have rented the brick store on Somerset street, next to Fairchild's, and are fitting it up as a laundry.

AT the camp meeting to night, Mrs. S. Murray is expected to be present and address the gathering. She will remain over the Sabbath.

PRESIDENT Kirkner of the Board of Education on Wednesday evening, filed with City Clerk Leonard the report of Public Expert and Accountant Thomas Bagot, embracing the result of his examination of the books of the Board in account with the late Collector L. E. Clark.

YESTERDAY morning, Councilman Robert Simpson was standing alongside of his horse in the yard of Schepflin's factory, engaged in fixing some part of the harness, when the animal becoming frightened at escaping steam started to run. Mr. Simpson seized the horse by the head and was dragged out in the street, and there struck in the side with the shaft and knocked down. He was afterward found lying insensible and taken to his home, where the attendance of Drs Probasco, McKnight and Long was called in. The physicians found their patient in a stupor from a slight concussion of the brain, caused by a sudden blow on the head, supposed to have happened by coming in contact with the wheel of the wagon. Although, as we go to press, (a few hours after the occurrence) Mr. Simpson has not yet recovered consciousness, no dangerous result is apprehended.

Firemen's Parade.

The meeting at Alert's Hose House, on Thursday evening of last week, for consultation as to the feasibility of a Firemen's Parade during the coming Fall, was attended by Chief Vail and the foremen of the different companies of the Department. After some discussion in relation to the project, it was decided that a parade would be given providing the Board of Managers of the Fire Department allowed each company the sum of $50 towards the expenses of the affair. It is believed that a majority of the members of the Board is in favor of such an appropriation.

Church Services.

A beautiful exemplification of Christian fellowship was exhibited last Sunday in the M. E. church. It will be remembered that during the progress of the fire at Trinity church last Friday night, the Rev. Thomas H. Stockton on behalf of the entire membership of his (M. E.) church, extended a cordial invitation to the congregation of the Trinity church to worship with them the Sunday following. This invitation at a meeting of the consistory of Trinity (held Saturday night) was cheerfully accepted. Mr. Raymond in a very feeling manner spoke of the kindness of the officials of the M. E. church, as well as those of the First Presbyterian and Crescent avenue churches, in offering the use of their several churches to his congregation. The consistory of his church, he said, passed resolutions of thanks at a meeting held Saturday night, to the churches who had issued these invitations; also to the firemen for their invaluable services, and to the friends and neighbors who showed so much sympathy.

Our County Agricultural Association.

The U. & M. C. M. A. A. at its Director's meeting of last Friday, completed its list of directors for the ensuing year. The Board now stands as follows: J. I. Holly, of Piscataway, Pres.; N. Robins, of Metuchen, 1st Vice Pres.; O. T. Waring, of Plainfield, 2d Vice Pres.; Jas. S. Vosseller, of Plainfield, 3d Vice Pres.; J. W. Johnson, of Plainfield, Treasurer; E. C. Pearson, of Plainfield, Secretary; J. V. D. Christopher, of New Brunswick; W. T. Ames, of Woodbridge; Job Winans, of Linden; E. J. Waring, of North Plainfield; Bergen Vanderhoven, of Metuchen; Samuel Blish, of New Brunswick; A. H. Smith, of Netherwood; E. A. Gross, of North Plainfield; John S. Clark, of New Brunswick; Smith W. Laing, of Dunellen, and J. C. Meyer, of New Brunswick.

The Association has been very successful in selling stock lately, more than 150 shares having been taken since the 1st of June, mostly by old stockholders. There is every prospect that the entire floating indebtedness of the Association will be lifted before the commencement of the Fair.

Every exertion is being made by both directors and stockholders to make the ensuing Fair a success, and it is the confident hope of all interested that the attractions offered will far surpass all the Fairs that have been hitherto held.

The premium list has been somewhat increased, and will, we are informed, soon be ready for distribution.

The privileges extended to exhibitors are somewhat greater than they were last year; each exhibitor, without regard to the amount of entrance money paid, will receive a ticket good for one admission each day of the Fair.

A new feature is introduced by the management this year, which it is hoped, will prove attractive. On the last day of the Fair, an auction sale will be held on the grounds, at which will be sold all articles offered by exhibitors desiring to avail themselves of the opportunity.

The inhabitants of Union and Middlesex Counties should exert themselves to insure the success of the Fair, both by entry exhibits and by attendance. For unless generously supported by the public, no management can conduct a Fair to a successful issue.

County Line Bridges.

The Committee on Bridges of the Boards of Freeholders from Union, Somerset and Morris Counties have been quite active and busy the past two weeks in ordering necessary work done to bridges bordering on the lines of said Counties. The severe freshets of the past two springs seriously affected bridges over streams which have been kept in repair for years past, but which now must be replaced by new structures. Freeholder Stover, of the Union County Board, has been very active in endeavoring to see that the wants of the community are satisfied in the repair or construction of needed bridges, taking the ground that a "stitch in time saves nine." His efforts will certainly be appreciated by the tax-payers. On Friday last the Committee on Bridges from the Union County Board, Messrs. Stover, White, [illegible], Briant and Director Martine, visited the site of a proposed new line bridge at Stanley, over the Passaic river, and met with a like Committee from the Morris County Board, Henry W. Mather, Director. The proposed new bridge is to be of iron, and will cost about $3,300. The iron work was awarded to Post & McCord of New York, for $2,550. The stone work was given to the lowest bidder, a Mr. Cisco, of Dover, N J., for $4.70 per cubic foot. This structure is a much needed one. The Union and Somerset County Committees have also decided on the necessity of a new line bridge across Green Brook at Leland avenue, the same to be an A truss wooden structure with iron stringers. The present rickety bridge was removed from Grove street, across the same stream, to its present site a number of years ago. They also decided it necessary to construct a similar bridge over the same stream at Crescent avenue, just below the late Mr. Harberger's residence. Also to make needed repairs to the Somerset street line bridge, by taking up the rotten planks constituting the water bed and substituting a substantial bed of grouted stone. The Committee from Union County on the three last named are Stover, Hubbard, Oliver, Husband, Thompson and the Director. The Somerset County Committee are Schenck, Owen and Dow. Mr. Schenck, the newly elected member from Somerset is indefatigable in his endeavors to faithfully serve his constituents.

They Say

That the Plainfield firemen did nobly last Friday evening.

That the Crescent B. B. Club should try its skill with the Potter Press Works nine.

That $200 reward is offered for the conviction of the person who started the fire in Warnock's barn.

That possibly it was not started by an incendiary.

That the Saengerbund had an enjoyable excursion.

That the Board of Managers of the P. F. D. will allow each Company $50 towards the expenses of a Firemen's Parade this Fall.

That the Turn Verein Picnic of next Thursday will beat them all.

That the coming Autumn will witness the completion of all arrangements for erecting a Public Hall.

That Laing and Nelson will have a successful excursion on August 3d to Ocean Grove.

That Vice President Lamport of the Continental Fire Insurance Co., would never have allowed a policy of $4,000 on the Trinity church, had he known of the frame barn that so closely adjoined it.

That Plainfield is to have a substantial Grammar School House, with all the latest improvements and a new piano.

That ex-Councilman Waring's house is to be one of the "small residences" of the city.

That the graduate who was "excused" should be entirely satisfied that a good and sufficient reason was possessed, of which she is aware.

Sojourners.

Mr. C. F. Goddard and family are at Blue Mountain Lake, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Martin are registered at the Lenox House, Greenwich, Conn.

Mr. Albert Everitt is enjoying the cooling breezes of Cornwall-on-the-Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Rogers are at Atlantic City for the season, and Mr. J. Frank Hubbard has been spending a few days at the same place.

Messrs. Chas. F. Day and L. E. Ross are captivating the ladies at Lake George.

Ex-Councilman Henry Smith and family are spending the Summer at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. C. A. [illegible] and daughter will reside at Ocean Beach until the beginning of September.

Dr. William E. Stelle will spend the month of August at Edinboro, Erie Co., Pa.

Miss Mary E. and Joseph A. Robinson are spending their Summer vacation among their many friends at Ontario, Canada.

The Saengerbund's Water Excursion.

Friday of last week was a glorious day, bright and pleasant, and not too warm, but just cool enough for the Saengerbund and its friends to thoroughly enjoy the Society's enjoyable trip by land and water to Hudson Grove. The excursion started from Plainfield in a special train comfortably filled with a merry party and its numerous baskets of mysterious lunch. At the Jersey City docks the transfer was made from land to water, and after waiting for some promised delegates from other societies, the Plainfielders aboard the barge Wm. H. Vanderbilt, started for the excursion's destination. The sail around the Battery, between the masses of shipping lining the lower end of the East River, under the Great Bridge, past the charitable institutions and other buildings on Blackwell's, Randall's, Ward's and other islands, through Hell Gate, along the path of the burning Seawanhaka, over the sunken torpedoes at Fort Schuyler and out into the deep and widening waters of the Sound until Echo Bay was reached—was the most enjoyable and interesting journey that we have ever experienced. On board, everything that would afford comfort and pleasure was arranged by the Committee, Messrs. Solomon Flaig, Fred Caspar, Hugo Weigmann, Charles Smith and Adolph Kormann. These gentlemen, distinguishable by badges of blue and gold, were here, there and everywhere looking after the gratification of all. The music was by Voss' choicest performers, and with Mr. Ed. Bachman and others to lead off, form the sets and keep the dancers going, that sort of merriment was not allowed to languish. At the grove the programme of entertainment was varied by some of the Saengerbund's very agreeable singing, and instrumental solos by members of the Band. The three hours on shore were spent in bathing, boating and numerous other attractive recreations, by which every individual enjoyed himself and herself to the utmost. The start home was somewhat retarded by the carelessness of the pilot of the tug in running his boat aground, but Plainfield was reached at last in safety without the slightest accident, and the tired party did not even regret the delay which gave so many more minutes for dancing and other pleasures.

Ex-Collector Clark Arrested.

On Saturday of last week Lewis V. F. Randolph of this City appeared before Justice of the Peace Louis F. Wadsworth and swore and subscribed to a form of complaint against the late City Collector Lewis E. Clark, in substance as follows:

"That the facts, matters and things set forth so far as they relate to his own acts are true and so far as they relate to the acts of others he believes them to be true, and that the facts set forth are made on information and belief and received from such sources that he believes them to be true.

"That he is Mayor of the 'Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield' a public corporation and body politic and corporate by virtue of an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey.

"That Lewis E. Clark of the City, County and State aforesaid, having held the office of Collector of the said Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, for several years, did hold such office from Jan. 1st, 1878, to Dec. 31st, 1881, having been duly elected for the years 1878, '79, '80 and '81, respectively, having been duly qualified as such collector and said office being then and there an office of trust and profit.

"That the said Lewis E. Clark as such public officer did receive and collect and take into his possession during the time aforesaid, a large amount of money for and on account of taxes collected for said City, to wit, the sum of five thousand, two hundred and eighty six dollars and fourteen cents, and did unlawfully and fraudulently embezzle the said sum, the same being then and there the property and money of the said public corporation, with intent to defraud the said, body corporate, to wit, the 'Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield'.

"And deponent further saith that the time for which the said Lewis E. Clark was elected as such Collector expired on Dec. 31, 1881, and his successor John B. Brown having been duly elected, duly qualified as Collector immediately upon the expiration of the term of office of the said Lewis E. Clark as Collector.

"That after the expiration of the term of office of the said Lewis E. Clark, he unlawfully retained in his hands and failed to account for and turn over as by law he was required to do into the hands of his successor in office, or the Treasurer of the 'Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield' or to said 'Inhabitants' to whom the same belonged, or any other person or persons authorized by law to receive and have charge of the same, the sum of five thousand, two hundred and eighty-six dollars and fourteen cents.

"And therefore he prays that the said Lewis E. Clark may be apprehended and held to answer said complaint and further dealt with as law and justice may require."

The Mayor at the same time swore to an affidavit of the same general form, charging in substance

"That the said Lewis E. Clark does refuse and neglect to deliver tax duplicates for the years 1872 and 1877 inclusive, formerly of the Township of Plainfield, and books and papers used by him in his office of Collector, the same belonging to the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, to his successor John B. Brown, the person authorized by law to receive and have charge of the same."

Warrants were issued on Saturday night and placed in the hands of Constable Wm. N. Pangborn on Monday. That officer arrested Mr. Clark at his house at about 7 o'clock of Monday morning. On being brought before the Justice, bail was placed at $5,000 in the first charge and $500 in the latter. Mrs. Sarah Ann Boice of this city became Mr. Clark's surety, and the matter will now await the action of the Grand Jury, which meets on Tuesday Oct. 3d. If an indictment is then found the accused appears before the Court of Oyer and Terminer and gives bail in such amount as is then stated.

It is but fair to state that Mr. Clark claims his ability to show that he is not delinquent in his accounts, and until the matter is more publicly ventilated an opinion would be unjust. He holds a claim against the City of about $1,100 for services rendered, and the balance charged against him is said to have arisen by reason of the failure of the expert to credit him with certain amounts, the vouchers for which Mr. Clark had mislaid. The only way to finally settle the validity of the charge is in the Courts and Mayor Randolph has only acted as is right and proper. The latter has consulted the best legal authority; the complaints were drawn up under the advice of the Prosecutor of Union County, Mr. Wilson, and Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, and the steps taken were after due deliberation and with entire impartiality. As to the books and papers that are charged as being retained against the statute, Mr. Clark denies the possession of any such.

Personalia.

Mr. Luther Adams, of Norwich, N. Y., has returned home after a short visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Adams of this city.

To Mr. John M. Messersmith of the New Rochelle Rowing Club, we are personally indebted for many very pleasant circumstances that surrounded a recent visit to Hudson Grove. Through his courtesy we were shown the interior of the Club House, its handsome shells and working boats, and were favored with an introduction to some of the members. Later, a visit to Starin's Glen Island, an initiation into the mysteries of Little Germany and a too-brief glimpse at a beauty of New Rochelle in a steam-launch, closed a summer-day experience long to be remembered with pleasure.

The many friends of Mr. Bennet Britton of Scotch Plains, will be glad to learn that he is somewhat improved from his recent severe illness.

One Year Ago.

The First Baptists occupied Ocean Grove and Asbury Park - - - - The Plainfield Daily News suspended - - - - - The weather was generally cool and pleasant - - - - Comet No. 4 was discovered - - - - Chestnut blossoms were unusually numerous.

Nathans & Co.'s Circus.

The Boston Post of Tuesday morning, May 9th, 1882, says: "The rain clerk evidently does not understand himself this season, a fact upon which the community is to be congratulated, because for once a circus has hit into this city without bringing the time-honored rain storm. Nathans & Co.'s new consolidated railroad shows, now making a week's stand on the Coliseum grounds, opened with two performances yesterday afternoon and evening, both of which were well attended. The menagerie department is not very heavy, but contains several interesting features. The circus, however, is first-class, and a ring performance of 21 items is given, all of which are good, while many deserve more than a passing comment. The three Ashtons do an excellent brother act, and toss each other about with a systematic recklessness that never fails to rouse the enthusiasm of the spectators. Another item of the gymnastic display is the trapeze act by Mlle. Miranda, an unusually pretty and graceful lady, and Geo. Ashton. The manege act of Mme. Martin, a very easy rider, and the performance given by Prof. Bryer's pony circus, are also very interesting features. The two clowns, Tom [illegible] and William Carroll, fairly divide the honors in their line and are to be accredited with a budget of humor, which includes many new and telling jokes. These are a few of the many good features of the show, which is now seen at its best, as costumes, trappings and people are all fresh and brilliant. One noticeable innovation which patrons will be sure to appreciate, is a line of electric lights from the Dartmouth street bridge to the entrance, so that there is none of the annoying up and down hill experience by the uncertain light of smoky torches. There will be performances every afternoon and evening during the current week.

The above mentioned Circus will exhibit in Plainfield, Aug. 1st. See advertisement.

Base Ball.

The Crescent Base Ball Association played its second match game on its grounds during Saturday afternoon last, and experienced its first defeat. Its opponents were a nine of ex-college ball players, whose abilities had been so thoroughly praised beforehand that the Plainfielders had entirely lost their nerve, as a general thing, and were beaten before game was called. In spite of the odds against them our boys did comparatively well, and Messrs. Cornwall, Deane and McGee especially, played earnestly to overcome the big score that seemed fated to be recorded against their nine. McCutchen in the 7th inning made a double play off of a beautiful fly catch, and caught the third man out in the 8th inning when three on base promised that many more runs for the visiting club. Lowry caught three creditable flys from the bat, but made a bad muff in the 2d inning by reason of his not calculating the twist that is a component of those mild looking "pop-ups." In the 7th inning, when three of the Crescents were on bases, Bettiman brought in two by a fine hit, sent Cornwall to third and thus assisted him in making the only run earned by the Plainfielders.

It will thus be observed that the Crescents rather overcame their fright in the latter part of the game and played much more effectively. Had they, however, done better from the start it would not have changed the result, as the Alumni plainly took matters very easily and only exerted itself sufficiently to reach a score just out of the "teens". The Crescents have good stuff in their nine, much ability and a little science. They only need more practice individually, and considerable drilling together.

On Saturday next a game will probably be arranged with the Mystic of Bergen Point, and it is hoped that upon such occasion new grounds opposite the very deplorable ones now used, will be inaugurated. Should this change be arranged a field will be secured and laid out where the first baseman and the ladies won't have the sun in their eyes, and other ill-effects will be remedied. Lawn Tennis Courts, it is promised, will also be built; and matches at this skillful game, in which the lady friends of the Association can participate, will probably occur in the near future.

As to the new suits—Well, as the ladies said, "They look just too sweet for anything."

The following is the "unofficial score" in detail.

A Prize Essay.

Our readers will be interested in reading below Mr. George M. Kirkner's essay that gained for that young gentleman the Second of the Stillman prizes in English Composition for 1882.

VIEW FROM A TREE TOP.

While enjoying a morning ramble in the Catskills, I espy a noble oak in the midst of a broad field—a tree which has withstood the storms which rage through these parts for fully a century. This vast mass of wood and leaf looks very inviting after a hot walk, so I make my way towards it and am soon in the topmost branches.

'Tis a beautiful day, one of those perfect mornings in July when one is filled with a delicious sense of comfort, a day which cannot last too long, and into which we put all our energy of thought.

As I lie back in a natural chair formed of three spreading branches, a vague feeling of relief steals over me, and with eyes half closed, I prepare to enjoy the scene which lies before me spread out like a vast panorama, ever changing and always beautiful. No painter can give this enchanting picture of light and shade, these grand mountains and lovely valleys. To the west stretches the valley of the Delaware, ever varying, always changing. The tiny stream now in its infancy but afterwards the rushing Delaware, winds slowly along in gentle curves, a silver streak, now lost in some green patch of woods and again appearing broader than ever as it is fed by other small tributaries.

Upon each side lie waving fields of grain just tinged with yellow and showing the near approach of harvest. The morning breeze gently blowing over it produces long billows rolling along one after the other like the waves of the ocean. These fields spread away in gentle undulations with here and there a housetop with its thin wreath of blue smoke rising from the chimney and adding to the charm of the scene.

Near by assuming shape and color, but in the distance dwindling to mere specks, the cattle browse on the hillsides or lie in the cool shade.

A few miles below and just at the base of a sloping hill lies a country village with its two church spires peeping above the trees. The maples for which this vicinity is famed hang over the street forming an arch and protecting it from the rays of the sun.

In a grove of trees lies the village churchyard with its clusters of headstones and grass grown graves just visible and completing the harmony.

Far in the distance creeps a train of cars, now winding in and out, as it follows the course of the river and then slowly moving across a space of a mile or two in a direct line. It stops at some little station, though the difference is scarcely perceptible, and then a little puff of smoke and the clear and tinkling sound of a bell undulating through the still air, and we know that it is again in motion.

On each side rise the mountains, those ever rolling and far extending ranges which hem in such gems of valleys. Here will be found the sparkling streams from which the "speckled beauties" leap for passing flies and unlucky grasshoppers. In these cool glens, where ice is found in the middle of summer, one forgets the heat and bustle of the outside world and imagines he is hundreds of miles away.

In these dense thickets the partridge, that bird so loved by sportsmen, passes the hours eating the juicy wintergreen berries and drinking from the cool springs.

Over all gleams the sunshine diversified by the shadows of the fleecy white clouds sailing through the blue and breaking the whole into patches of light and shade beautiful to look upon; and as I slowly rise and stretch my limbs, which have become somewhat cramped by my position, I cast a lingering glance over the whole and then wend my way back to the village.

The Fire Wells.

Advocates of Water Works make capital out of the assertion that there was not a sufficient supply of water obtained from the fire wells by the steamers located on them on the occasion of the Trinity Reformed church fire. We venture the assertion that if the proper authorities would have the fire wells cleaned out, so that the springs in the bottom are opened thereby allowing a free flow of water, there would be no danger of a failure to procure sufficient water to supply a steamer as long as a steamer would work on the well.

The Turn Verein.

During the afternoon and evening of next Thursday, the Plainfield Turn Verein, will hold its Second Annual Picnic in Wooden's Grove. Besides the amusements and pleasures furnished by our own association, from 400 to 500 members of visiting societies are expected to be present and contribute their efforts in making the affair a success. At 2:30 p. m., a procession will be formed on Second street at the corner of Park avenue, headed by Voss' celebrated band, in which other societies will participate.

The New School House.

The Board of Education on Friday last, arranged matters satisfactorily to all concerned with the company in which the Grammar School building was insured, whereby almost the total amount of insurance ($5,100) was paid over. The Board has taken steps to procure plans for a two story brick building to be erected at once, and is already searching for temporary accommodation for use while the new school house is building. Another policy of $600 on the piano and other contents, will be adjusted in a few days. Until the new building is ready a few of the classes will be accommodated in Assembly Hall and the others in private houses.

Defective Sidewalks.

The Street Commissioner and the Committee on Streets of this municipality, should turn their attention to the condition of the flagging along the sidewalks of our principal thoroughfares. In some places the flags are almost standing on edge, while on Front, Second and many other streets a two inch rise or fall at nearly every joint, makes pedestrianism after dark a dangerous undertaking. The cost of repairing this evil would not be much, as the expense should be charged in many cases to those who originally laid the walk in so imperfect a manner. Action in the matter should be commenced at once as a lady fell and seriously injured herself, on Second street recently, having tripped over the edge of an obtruding flag stone.

FIRE MATTERS.

At about eight o'clock of Friday evening last, the rear porch of the residence of Mr. J. D. [illegible], at No. 19 West Front street, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was at once given, but meanwhile the effective labors of Mr. John [illegible] and other neighbors had resulted in extinguishing the flames before the arrival of the steamers. The cause is believed to have been sparks that had smouldered in the wood work since the same afternoon when an attempt had been made to destroy the caterpillars in the vines on the porch, by burning.

At just a little before nine o'clock of the same evening, the fire alarm was again sounded and the entire force of the Department was called upon to arrest a conflagration that had started in a frame barn back of Feltz's butcher shop and closely surrounded by a number of other inflammable structures. All the steamers got to work immediately after their arrival at the scene, No. 1 getting water from the well on Second street, No. 3 at the corner of Front and Somerset streets and No. 3 from the race back of French Bros' Mills. No. 2 is to be credited with "first water". From the barn where the fire had started the flames spread to the rear roof of the Trinity Reformed church and for a time it seemed as though that building would be entirely consumed and probably others. But the firemen fought nobly, to save the surrounding property and their efforts were successful. The Truck men did great service in preventing the spread of the flames, and the stream of No. 1 Engine on the church roof sensibly stopped the progress of the fire. Both wells gave out when most needed, and the suction of No. 2 had to be shifted to the mill race. The fire having gained a hold above the church ceiling and under the shingles, some difficulty was experienced in fighting it; but by means of a hole cut through the roof and a stream from the inside of the church upon such spots in the ceiling where the flames were breaking through, the fire was subsequently put out.

The barn where the flames were started is occupied by Mr. A. Warnock, the baker. It contained about a hundred barrels of flour which were all rolled out in time and thus saved. Mr. Warnock's son had just put up his horse and wagon for the night a few minutes before the fire started, and had left everything to all appearances secure. The cause of the fire is, consequently, unknown. A large quantity of hay was consumed which with the building was all the loss sustained. This was covered by an insurance of $500 in the Liverpool, London & Globe.

The church was damaged about $4,000 and its furniture about $1,000. The organ, which was situated in the rear where the fire was confined, is a total loss covered by an insurance of $3,000. The entire insurance is as follows: on the building, $5,000 in the Orient of Hartford, of which W. A. Woodruff is the agent; $8,000 in the Liverpool, London & Globe and $4,000 in the Continental of New York, which policies were issued by Mr. G. B. Leonard. On the Organ, furniture, pulpit, bell, carpets, &c, was an insurance of $4,500 in the Fire Association of Philadelphia of which Mr. Woodruff is also the agent.

The bi-ennial parade of the New Brunswick Fire Department takes place in October next, and the firemen of that place are already taking steps to properly observe the event.

The firemen of Morristown have resolved to have a grand parade about the last of September.

Dover has a fire alarm bell for the department at last. The bell weighs 900 lbs. and is said to have a fine tone.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

Our sportsmen report a great scarcity of woodcock.

Fishing in the Delaware is reported to be exceedingly good.

Rabbits seem to be very plenty just now in all parts of the country.

50,000 young California mountain brook trout have been planted in Greenwood Lake by Monroe A. Green, brother of Seth Green.

Mr. James Van Winkle, of this city recently returned from a few days fishing trip in the wilds of Pennsylvania. Result—180 trout, two of which measured 13 and 17 inches in length respectively.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

The valuation of Westfield Township for the year 1882, as returned to the Board of Assessors at their annual meeting on Monday last, July 17, by the Assessor was as follows: Real estate $675,815, personal $95,760, deduction $1,450, total less deduction $769,125. For the year 1881 the total value was $771,025, a decrease of $1,900 which is in the personal estate.

On Saturday, July 15th inst., the Special Election was held at the Town House to decide whether the people of the Township would vote to raise, by special tax, the sum of seven hundred dollars, to be used towards the purchase of a stone crusher for the Township. Charles E. Leveridge, Judge of Election and Wm. Schoonover, Inspector, being absent, Wm. W. Connoly was chosen Judge and Wm. M. Townly, Inspector. The vote polled was about one-half of the voters in the Township, which numbered 266, 146 in favor of the appropriation and one hundred and twenty against. The Town Committee have notified the Assessor to levy the same this year.

A fire occurred in a small frame unoccupied dwelling along the railroad track, belonging to Charles E. Clark, on Monday afternoon, at 4:30 p. m. It was ignited by sparks from a passing train. After the alarm was given both fire companies repaired to the ground, but too late to be of any service. In the language of one of the firemen, they saved the cellar foundation. It was a total loss; no insurance. It was a very dilapidated building. During the progress of the fire, H. Dougherty, a member of the [illegible] Engine Company, while in the line passing water, was struck by the bumper of the engine of a passing coal train and slightly injured on the shoulder. The Hook & Ladder Co. had a chance to try their new Chemical Engine. Foreman Lyon was on hand with the men.

Tuesday, July 18th inst., Westfield and its surroundings was almost deserted, it being the occasion of the annual excursion of the Methodist and Presbyterian Sunday Schools to Ocean Grove. As early as 6:30 a. m., the members of the different schools with their parents and friends began to assemble at the depot. When the hour for starting had arrived the people filled fourteen cars, about 900 people in all. The train was run in two sections within five minutes time of each. They arrived at Ocean Grove at 9:45 a. m. and spent a very pleasant and happy day, enjoying the sea breezes, bathing, boating &c., nothing happening to mar the enjoyment of all present. [illegible] E. Sinclair, Superintendent of the M. E. Sunday School and Wm. H. [illegible], Superintendent of the Presbyterian Sabbath School, used their best endeavors to have a good time for the scholars of their schools. The two trains left Ocean Grove at 5 o'clock p. m. and arrived at Westfield at 7:30 p. m.

Our town mourns the loss of one of its citizens, John H. Worth, Esq., who died after a short illness at his residence on North avenue, on Wednesday afternoon, July 19th inst., at 3 p. m. His funeral takes place on Friday, the 21st inst., at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Worth was engaged in business in New York, and was one of the regular commuters over the Central Railroad to and from that city. He leaves a widow and 4 children, two boys and two girls to mourn his loss.

Last Saturday, George Todd and John S. Wilcox, of Westfield, Samuel B. Hedden and Henry Krauss of Linden, David T. Pierson of Cranford and James B. Lambert of Fanwood, six surveyors of the highway, met pursuant to appointment by the Court of Common Pleas at the Westfield Hotel for the purpose of laying out two public roads in the Township of Westfield. They organized by the election of Samuel B. Hedden as chairman and David T. Pierson, Secretary and proceeded to examine and view the premises where the road was proposed to be laid, after which they adjourned to the hotel to hear the arguments for and against the laying of the road. Frank Bergen of Elizabeth represented the applicants and James C. Bolton the opposition to the laying of the road. Mr. Bergen made a short speech giving his reasons for the laying of both roads, which are the extension of both Kimball avenue and Orchard street from Elm to Prospect street. James C. Bolton, occupied about one-half hour in opposing the laying of the road. Messrs. Arnold, Peck, Bayard, Mapes and other parties across whose lands the roads were proposed to be laid, were present and opposed the laying of the same. After hearing the arguments the Board had the room cleared for consultation and decided unanimously in favor of laying both roads, and did so and assessed the benefits and damages among the different owners and property holders along the line of road and in the vicinity of the same. After the same had been completed it was signed by the surveyors, and ordered to be filed. There has been in our village considerable talk about the laying of those two roads, both sides has had its friends and now that they are laid by the surveyors, both sides seem to be disappointed in the way that the question of damages and benefits was arrived at.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.

I had been sick and miserable so long, and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—Mother.

[illegible], Mich., Sept. 25, 1878.

Sirs—I have been taking Hop Bitters for inflammation of kidneys and bladder. It has done for me what four doctors failed to do. The effect of Hop Bitters seemed like magic to me.

GRANDMOTHER KIRKE.

"How do you like it?" said Charley Clare to Millicent Kirke, as he pointed to the villa he had selected for them to commence in, when they should be married in a few weeks.

"Oh, it is beautiful," she whispered, "but, Charley, don't you think it's rather small?"

"Well—yes—perhaps so; but what do we want of anything larger? The bedroom up stairs is really a good size, and—"

"But is there no bedroom on the ground floor?" asked Millicent, anxiously.

"No; why?"

"For grandmamma, you know."

Mr. Clare's countenance fell slightly at the reference to "grandmamma."

"I have made no arrangements for your grandmother, Milly."

"But, Charley, she brought me up. Oh, Charley, we can't settle down without her."

"We can't settle down with her, you mean," said Clare, impassively. "When a man marries a girl he don't contract to support all the relatives she happens to have!"

"I am all that grandmamma has," said little Milly, her face all aglow, her eyes darkly corruscating. Grandmother has loved and cherished me more years than you have, and I will not leave her to neglect and suffering in her old age."

"Very well, then," said Mr. Clare, quietly. "It is settled."

"Yes," said Milly in a firm voice, "it is settled."

And grandmamma Kirke, sitting by her fire, was astonished some five or ten minutes later by the sudden apparition of little Milly, flinging herself upon her shoulder, and sobbing most bitterly.

Grandmamma Kirke listened to the poor little girl's story with an odd working of her venerable features.

"I don't ask this sacrifice of you, child," said old Mrs. Kirke, stroking down the lustrous meshes of disheveled brown hair. "I dare say I shall do well enough."

Milly looked up, loving and indignant at the same time.

"Do you suppose I could leave you, grandmamma?"

Mr. Clare was a little surprised at the turn events had taken; it had never for an instant occurred to his mind that any girl in her sober sense could prefer the society of a crooked old woman to that of himself.

"She will come to her senses after awhile," was the thought with which he was consoled. "All girls indulge in heroics now and then, but it won't last long."

Mr. Clare, however, was destined to disappointment.

"Engaged to Frank Blakesly!" he said, about six months subsequent. "Why, he's been courting her this long time—sending her flowers, and books and music, and all that sort of thing. And the old witch of Endor is to live with them, I suppose. I wouldn't have stood it!" continued Clare, growing more heated and angry as he talked, "but Frank Blakesly never had any mind of his own. Well, I wish 'em joy, that's all."

And the tone of voice in which Mr. Clare spoke indicated anything rather than the benevolent aspirations shadowed forth by his words.

Frank Blakesly and Milly Kirke had not been married more than a year when a dark messenger came to the door of their humble yet infinitely contented home—the mighty and relentless angel of death.

"You've been very kind to me, Frank and Milly," said grandma Kirke; "but it's well nigh over now. I only wanted to live long enough to see my little girl confided to the care of some good man who would value her as she deserves, and I've got my wish!"

And grandma Kirke, whose old eyes were growing dim, fumbled under her pillow for the old work-bag with outlandish little pocket, which, with its paraphernalia of antique housewives, bodkins, scissors and thimbles, was her constant companion.

"The needle-book, Milly," she said, faintly; "look in the needle-book."

"But, grandmamma, the leaves are all sewn tightly together!"

"Cut them open, child! but be careful! I'm going to give that needle-book to you, Milly. It is one I bought when you were a wee baby. All my treasures belong to you, child."

Frank Blakesly stood looking over his wife's shoulder, as she obeyed the old lady's behest, deftly passing the scissors' points between the flannel leaves, scalloped and embroidered with faded silks, which had once boasted the colors of the rainbow. Suddenly he uttered an exclamation, and at the same instant Milly dropped the scissors.

"Grandmamma, there is money here sewed to the inside of each leaf—£100 notes!"

Grandma Kirke smiled serenely.

"How many, Millicent?"

"Ten, grandmamma."

"Yes, yes; I thought so," said the old lady, nodding her head. "It's all right; take them, Frank, and spend them as you and Milly please; they are the old grandmamma's gifts."

"A thousand pounds! Oh, grandmamma, said Milly, with a long breath, "you never told me this!"

"Because I wanted you to depend on yourself, my girl; but I always meant it for you. Now leave me in quiet awhile; I want to sleep."

And half an hour afterward grandmamma Kirke died.

"It's a precious lore," said Mr. Charles Clare, when the strange story reached his ears, as of course it was not long in doing. "Blakesly always seems to have all the luck. If I'd known about the thousand pounds, I don't know that I should have objected to the old lady."

And then he went out and kicked himself all over the back yard in sheer vexation of spirit.

Simpson says that when he asked the girl who is now his wife to marry him, she said: "I don't mind," and that she never has minded since.

An advertisement reads: "Wanted—A young man to be partly out-doors and partly behind the counter." What will the result be when the door slams?

A Yonkers man says his wife works like lightning. By this we presume he wishes to convey the idea that she never strikes twice in the same spot.

'Sitting up' is about the only parlor game which never gets worn out. There is this about it, however—only two persons at a time can play it successfully.

"What can I do for you to induce you to go to bed now?" asked a Lowell mamma of her five-year old. "You can let me sit up a little longer," was the youngster's response.

WHY HE WEAKENED.

In Detroit the other night a policeman saw a man hanging around the entrance of a Michigan avenue hall in a queer sort of a way, and he asked him if he belonged to the order then in session up stairs. The man replied that he did and the officer inquired:

"Then, why don't you go up?"

"Well, I was thinking of it."

"Haven't been expelled, have you?"

"Oh, no."

"Aren't afraid of anybody?"

"No."

"And you haven't lost your interest?"

"I might as well tell you," said the man, after hesitating about a while longer. "I went down to Toledo a few days ago, and somehow the story came back here that I was drowned. My lodge passed resolutions to the effect that I was honest, upright and liberal, and a shining ornament, and that what was its loss was my gain. I wasn't drowned as you see, but I kind o' hate to walk in on 'em and bust those resolutions. I've tried it three times and I can't get higher up than the fifth stair before I weaken."

A wild goose chase—"quill driving."

The best illustrated paper—a bank note.

The woman's oldest club—the broomstick.

If custom is law, is a customer a lawyer.

It is hard to catch a man's meaning when he carries on a running conversation.

A lady, describing an ill-natured man says, he never smiles but he feels ashamed of it.

A wag proposes to publish a new paper to be called the Comet, with an original tale every week.

'Oh, by the way, dear, have you congratulated Lily on her engagement?' asked Miss Florence of her friend. 'Oh yes, of course. I went round, yesterday afternoon. I told her she couldn't have done better—and I don't think she could, the horrid, homely thing!'

A thoughtful person suggests that everyone before going boat sailing, this Summer, should leave his name, address, and a brief sketch of his life at the nearest newspaper office—not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith and to save the Coroner trouble.

'I think,' said a fond parent, 'that little Jimmy is going to be a poet when he grows up. He doesn't eat and sits all day by the stove and thinks, and thinks.' 'You had better grease him all over,' said Aunt Jerusha. 'He is going to have the measles. That's what ails Jimmy.'

The late Cephas M. Woodruff of Newark, one of the victims of the Parker's Creek railroad disaster, left no will, and the Essex county courts have appointed Mr. James P. Dusenbury administrator. Mr. Dusenbury has instructed his attorney to begin suit against the Central Railroad of New Jersey to recover damages for the loss of Mr. Woodruff's life. The damages are set at $60,000. Mr. Woodruff had a fixed salary of $5,000 as President of a Newark insurance company. He was 61 years of age, and it is estimated on insurance principles that he would have lived twelve years at least.

POETRY.

NO TIME FOR HATING.

Begone with hate! Away with strife!
Our human hearts are [illegible];
Let us be friends again! This life
Is all too short for hating!
So dull the day, so dim the way,
So rocky the road we're facing—
Far better walk with faithful friend,
Than walk alone [illegible].

The barren fig, the withered vine,
Are types of selfish living;
But souls that give, like those [illegible],
Renew their life by giving.
While [illegible] within o'er sandy graves,
On all the ways we're going,
Far better plant where seed is small,
Than tread on fruit that's growing.

Away with scorn; Since die we must—
And rest on one low pillow;
There are no rivals in the dust—
No foes beneath the willow.
So dry the tears, so few the flowers,
Our earthly way [illegible],
Far better sleep, where daisies droop,
Than weep o'er broken roses!

Or what are all the joys we hold,
Compared to joys above us?
And what are fame, and power, and gold,
Compared to hearts that love us?
[illegible] tears,
So close death is waiting—
God gives no space for loving grace,
But leaves no time for hating.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

A YOUNG HERO.

In June, 1860, the brig Polly Deane, Capt. Job Payson, sailed from Boston for a port of Turkey, laden with cotton goods. She was a new, taut little vessel, with plenty of storage room, and had accommodation for two passengers.

The crew consisted of the captain, mate, four sailors, a black cook and a cabin boy.

Capt. Payson was a conscientious, just man, who treated his crew neither to jokes or grog, but who lodged and fed them better than would five out of six of the masters from New England ports.

"Old Job," the mate, who was from the west, used to say he was "a hard man, but one you could tie to, in fair weather or foul."

His crew were picked men, and, with the exception of Dan, the cabin boy, had been with him for years. This was Dan's first voyage, and he felt that the captain and crew eyed him with suspicion. He was on probation, and he felt that not a grain of favor would be allowed him.

Dan was a farm boy, who knew nothing of the world beyond the village in which was his mother's church. Shipboard, the sea, Europe, Turkey; here were bewildering ideas to burst at once on his narrow experience, scarcely wider than that of the house-dog sleeping at the barn door.

"Keep your eyes open and your hands ready to see the work of the moment and to do it before the moment is over," was his mother's last advice. "For the rest, Daniel, ask the Lord's help. You'll find Him just as near to you in Turkey as in your own home here."

Dan, in the hurry and excitement of getting under way, and of his new duties, repeated this over and over to himself. It seemed to keep his mother near him. Several days after, while he was carrying the dinner dishes into the cabin, he overheard the mate say:

"That boy is clipper enough for a raw hand, captain."

"Aye," grunted Capt. Payson; "turns out better than I expected. I took him for his mother's sake. Widow. Old friend of mine."

"Rather gentlemanly fellow this passenger?" ventured the mate, finding Capt. Payson in an unusually talkative mood.

"He is a gentleman, sir, one of the Farnalls, of Springfield. Ill-health. Doctor prescribed a long sea voyage. A gentleman and a scholar, Mr. Briggs!"

Dan, while waiting on the table at dinner could not help notice the passenger. "Some of these days," thought the trueborn Yankee lad, "I too, shall be a gentleman and a scholar."

Dr. Farnall was a tall, lean man, carefully dressed, with sandy hair and mustache, but with eyebrows and lashes almost white. His eyes were large and pale. They met the eyes of any other man fairly. Once, when Dan happened to look at him, he turned quickly away, and he glanced furtively and suspiciously at the boy, at times, during the rest of the meal.

"Don't like him," thought Dan. "Looks sneaking and tricky, and not like a gentleman."

But Dan, of course, kept his opinion to himself. Even Job, the cook, snubbed the "raw hand," and tolerated no remarks from him.

Fortunately, the lad was not seasick. He learned his new duties quickly, was alert, neat, and always good-natured. In the course of one week Capt. Payson had twice grumbled approval.

Dan worked harder than ever, and between times, for recreation, when the passenger was on deck, he watched him.

Dr. Farnell talked fluently and brilliantly, as even Dan's uncultured view could perceive. But his talk was leveled far above the heads of either the captain or Mr. Briggs, who listened with half-comprehending admiration.

But there were days when the doctor was absolutely silent, ate nothing, and paced the deck wrapped in a profound gloom, his light eyes darting suspicious glances from side to side.

On one of these days, Dan, going down just at twilight to find something he had left in his bunk, saw a tall figure, which he could not recognize, with a candle groping among the chests of the sailors.

"Who's there?" he shouted.

The man came quickly toward him. The candle threw a yellow glare over his set face and glaring eyes. It was the passenger. He caught Dan by the sleeve.

"Here, boy—what do they call you?"

"Dan."

"You're surprised to see me here, Dan?" with a guilty laugh. "Took me for a ghost, eh?"

"I beg your pardon, sir; I oughtn't to have called to you. But it took me aback, sir."

"Naturally, you need not be surprised at seeing me in any part of the vessel. I am studying its construction, as a scientific man. Capt. Payson has been good enough to give me admittance to all parts of the vessel. You needn't shout in that disagreeable way again. It startles a nervous man;" and, with a vague smile, he blew out the candle and went upon deck, leaving Dan staring after him.

"It's not all right; or why should he, being a gentleman, make such a long explanation to me, being a cabin boy," said Dan at last, shaking his head.

That night Capt. Payson was alone on the quarter-deck, when Dan presented himself before him and saluted. His voice shook a little, for he was terribly scared.

"Old Job" was a bigger man in his eyes, than any king or potentate.

"Well, what's the matter with you?" growled the captain.

"The—passenger, sir."

"What have you to do with the passenger?"

"I beg your pardon, sir—but are you sure he isn't a thief, or worse?" gasped Dan, forgetting in his terror, the respectful speech he had planned, in which he meant to state the fact of Dr. Farnell's visit below deck.

The captain seized the rope's end. "Take that for your impudence!" he shouted, aiming a blow at Dan, who dodged it, and then blurted out the whole story.

"Searching among the bunks? Dr. Farnell?" muttered the captain in astonishment, dropping his weapon; and then he walked thoughtfully up and down. Suddenly he stopped before Dan.

"It is well you came to me and nobody else with the story," he said. "It is of no account. Dr. Farnell is an eccentric man. If he wishes to examine the ship in any part, he is not to be watched and spied upon. So keep your eyes open to yourself and your tongue too. If you go blabbing this story about I'll flog you."

Dan crept off to his work feeling as if he had a sound drubbing. Tears of rage and mortification stood in his eyes.

"Mother's rules do very well on land, but they won't work on shipboard," he muttered. "But there's something that needs watching about that man, and I'll watch him."

Nothing of moment happened, however, for a week. Then Dan observed that the passenger's days of fasting and depression grew more frequent. There were whole nights when he paced the deck until morning.

The crew joked together about him. One declared that he was a murderer; another, that he had escaped from a lunatic asylum; but the common opinion was that he had run away from a termagant wife.

"D'ye mind," said sailor Jim, "how he eyes every ship we hail, as though she might be aboard?"

Dan alone never joined in the gossip below decks about the mystery.

One day a little incident occurred which suddenly strengthened his suspicion.

Just before nightfall, when passing the after hatchway, in the covering of which was a slide that could be opened and closed at will, Dan met Dr. Farnell coming up, covered with dust and dirt. There was an unsteady glare in his eyes. He seized Dan by the shoulders.

"Do you know where I have been?" he said hoarsely.

"In the lower hold, sir, among the boxes."

"What d'ye think is down there, boy—for you and all of us? Death! Death! But tell nobody—nobody—" He dropped his hold and staggered on.

"Mad as a March hare!" muttered Dan.

But half an hour later Dr. Farrell was seated at the supper table, gay, self-possessed, keeping the captain in a roar with his good stories.

About the middle of the second watch that night, Dan turned out of his bunk. The boy was really too anxious to sleep.

"Death in the hold, eh? Death in the hold?" he repeated to himself.

He did not dare go to the captain and crew with his story. Yet he was sure some peril was at hand. He sat shivering for a while, then pulled on his clothes.

"If Death's in the hold, I'll find him," he said.

He groped his way to the after hatchway unquestioned, for the mate, who had charge of the deck, was reclining listlessly against the rail further aft, where the hatchway was hid from view by the cabin.

The slide was open.

His heart beat quick with excitement, but noiselessly as a cat, Dan crept down to the lower deck, and groped his way for the hatchway that open into the lower hold.

He was so certain danger was afoot that he was not startled when he saw a faint reddish light, and found the lower hatchway open.

The hold was not so closely stowed but what one could move about in it quite freely, and on lowering himself carefully Dan saw that the light came from a lantern, and that it cast a glare directly upon the face of the passenger, who was kneeling and working at something upon the floor.

"So that is the way death looks, hey?" thought Dan. "He couldn't well look worse," and he eyed the haggard, ghastly face.

"What grating noise is that?" he asked himself; and in the same instant he sprang forward with a cry of horror.

The passenger had an auger in his hands, and a saw lay beside him.

He had bored a hole through the side of the vessel, below the water line, and the water was already coming through.

The boy clutched Farnell and shook him like a wild beast. "You are sinking the ship. Help! Help!"

The madman turned upon him quietly, and nodded.

"Yes, we'll go down together. Don't make that outcry. Nobody can hear you."

He had caught the boy's wrist, and held him with the unnatural strength of the insane.

Nobody could hear him. Dan remembered that, and became suddenly silent. Horror and fear only made thought more vivid.

Death was just at hand. There was nobody to drive it back but himself, and he was in this madman's hold.

He stared in the fierce, glassy eyes with an agony of hesitation.

Farnell looked back at him.

"I thought of burning, but this is the quietest. I want to go calmly into the great hereafter. We shall all go together in—a few minutes," glancing at the stream of water gushing out of the opening.

"Oh, mother, mother!" cried the shivering boy.

"We'll all go together. Kings among the ancients went across the Styx attended by the slain on their burial. I will be followed by the Yankee captain and his crew!"

A sudden flash lighted Dan's eyes.

"Not by the captain," he said.

His own voice startled him, it was so calm, and in a tone so very different from any in which he had spoken before. "The captain and Mr. Briggs will escape!" he cried.

"Why, what do you mean?" cried Farnell. "Escape! How can they escape?"

"Because they are not in the hold. They will take to the boats."

"I never thought of the boats."

Dan felt a chill run over. He tried to speak, but his voice failed. He had but one chance, and he must try it.

"I will go and bring the captain and Mr. Briggs down, if you like? Then they can't get away."

"Ha, ha! Pretty good joke. Well, go and bring them and be quick!" loosing his hold, and pushing Dan away.

Dan walked slowly to the ladder, then he made one wild spring up.

"To the hold! To the hold! A leak!" he shrieked, and fell to the deck.

Within another hour the madman was in irons, the leak had been stopped, and the water pumped out of the hold. The danger was past, and all snug and taut.

The crew made a hero of Dan. Even Capt. Payson spoke out his hearty praise.

"The lad saw what was to be done, and he did it. He had courage, and, what is better, good sense. Who taught you to use your wits, my boy?"

"My mother, sir," said Dan.

A LOST WATERPROOF.

"My dear," said Mr. Spoopendyke, pulling the shams off the bed, "where is my—my—where is my—you know what I mean; what did you do with it?"

"Your shawl strap?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, dropping the baby into the crib. "Oh, I know; your dumb-bells. Is that what you want?"

"Has does shawl strap got sleeves to it?" demanded Mr. Spoopendyke, ransacking the sewing machine. "Are those dumb-bells split up the back and tore around the collar? You know what I want, my rubber overcoat. Where did you put it?" and Mr. Spoopendyke pulled a pile of letters out of the pigeon hole to his wife's desk, and spilled them along the floor.

"Where did you have it last?" murmured Mrs. Spoopendyke, with her finger in her mouth and consternation in her eyes.

"Had it on," growled Mr. Spoopendyke. "Where d'ye s'pose I had it? Think I had it for lunch? Don't you know where the measly thing is gone to. Spry around now and find it. Take your finger out of your mouth; I don't suppose it's in there. Get that coat before it clears up, will ye?" and Mr. Spoopendyke shook the clock and then peered into the mantel vases.

"I don't believe it's going to rain much anyway," faltered Mrs. Spoopendyke, who couldn't remember having seen the coat for a month. "When it looks like this, it's always going to sunshine," and she followed him around the room in a flutter of apprehension.

"Of course it is," snorted Mr. Spoopendyke. "Things are going to do just what you tell 'em to. If you had a lot of tin figures in front and a streak of mercury up your spine, you'd only need a shoot iron case and a wire handle to be a barometer. If you'll look along your measly information about the weather, p'raps you'll find that overcoat at the other end of it. Where's that coat? Going to let me stand here and soak while the moths picnic that coat into a shad net? Take me by the elbow and lead me to that coat!" and Mr. Spoopendyke tipped the sofa over so that he could see under it, and then slapped the plaster bust of Minerva against the wall under the impression that the coat might have crawled into her ear.

"It's the strangest thing in the world," giggled Mrs. Spoopendyke hysterically. "Are you sure you wore it home?"

"If I didn't, how'd it get home?" roared Mr. Spoopendyke, putting his hands on his knees and grinning in his wife's face. "S'pose it hired a hack and drove home? Oh, no! I didn't wear it home. The last I saw of it, it had its hat over its ear and a female waterproof on its arm, piking up Fulton street, as happy as an Alderman's funeral. What're ye standing there for? Got some indistinct notion that the dod gasted coat has gone to get shaved, haven't ye? Who'd ye give it to? Been endowing a metaphysical chair in some kind of an old woman's home with it, haven't ye? Where's the coat? Develop the coat before I vitiate the insurance!" and Mr. Spoopendyke kicked his wife's work basket across the room and rammed his arm to the shoulder up the chimney.

"Do you remember where you wore it last?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, suddenly becoming calm and analytical.

"I wore it on my back!" protested Mr. Spoopendyke, who didn't remember whether he had taken it to a church or to a hospital. "Maybe you're under the impression that I tied it to a stake and wheeled it along on the buttons. On my back, I tell you! On this particular back!" and Mr. Spoopendyke almost broke his arm in pointing out the attraction referred to. "Most folks fit up their rubber overcoats with a bent wire and a focus and wear 'em for spectacles, but I hadn't time, so I wore it on my back! Bring forth the coat," yelled Mr. Spoopendyke, spinning around like a top. "Fetch out the measly coat before the proprietor of these premises makes up his mind whether he'll build a new house here or mortgage the lot."

"You wore it the last day it rained, and when it cleared off in the afternoon, I noticed that you had on your spring overcoat," said Mrs. Spoopendyke, quietly.

"Great head," grunted Mr. Spoopendyke, beginning to feel uncomfortable, and wondering how it was coming out. "With your perceptive faculties and meteorological education, you only need one more leg and a clear night to be a dod gasted street telescope at ten cents a peep. What of it? S'pose I did wear a spring overcoat? It's spring ain't it?"

"And I don't know," continued Mrs. Spoopendyke, "but I think you had it on over your waterproof. If you look you may find the rubber coat inside of the other now."

Mr. Spoopendyke growled and snorted his way to the closet, like a foghorn, and found things as his wife had predicted.

"Smart, ain't ye?" he grumbled, as he hauled out the waterproof. "Great powers of inductive reasoning! Some day I'm going to fit you up with a stiff neck and a pot of beans and start a Concord School of Philosophy with you."

And with this threat Mr. Spoopendyke threw the coat over his arm, and all the way to Coney Island entertained his friend [illegible] with a description of his habits of order, "which are so perfect, sir, that I could put my thumb on anything I wanted, sir—if my wife would only let things alone!"

* * *

A father complained bitterly of the way his children destroyed their clothing. He said: "When I was a boy I only had one suit of clothes, and had to take care of it. I was only allowed one pair of shoes a year in those days!" Then the oldest boy spoke up and said, "I say, dad, you have a much easier time of it now—you are living with us!"

Nothing overcomes passion more than silence.

He that is master of himself will soon be master of others.

If a man is born a liar, there is nothing he can improve on so fast.

About the only force some people have is the force of habit.

The man who feels certain that he will not succeed, is seldom mistaken.

Our bravest lessons are not learned through success, but misadventure.

Who never walks save where he sees men's tracks, makes no discoveries.

The world does not require so much to be informed as it does to be reminded.

You have become calm—it is a proof of strength gained, or of growing feebleness.

Have the courage to prefer propriety to fashion; one is but the abuse of the other.

The sphere of Christian duty is not there nor yonder, but here, just where you are.

Circumstances are the rulers of the weak; they are but the instruments of the wise.

Services to be rendered reconcile friends whom services rendered have estranged.

The sublimity of wisdom is to do those things living which are to be desired when dying.

All passions are good when one masters them; all are bad when one is slave to them.

How absurd to be afraid of death, when we are in the habit of rehearsing it every night.

All nature is a vast symbolism. Every material fact has sheathed within it a spiritual truth.

A lawyer is a gentleman who rescues your property from your enemies and keeps it himself.

Curiosity is a thing that makes us look over other people's affairs, and overlook our own.

There is many a man whose tongue might govern multitudes, if he could only govern his tongue.

To be a criminal is to be afraid of the day because you see, and of the night because you do not.

It is one of the worst errors to suppose that there is any other path of safety except that of duty.

Don't be anxious until you are compelled to be; many a man worries about a ghost that never appears.

Do not try to force yourself into the confidence of others. If they give their confidence, never betray it.

He who has nowhere to lay his head often suffers less than he who does not know where to put his hands.

A Spanish proverb says men are usually tempted by the devil, but an idle man positively tempts the devil.

One year of noble and generous life is worth a century of cowardly years, and self-cares and over-solicitude.

The only solid basis for civil government is the proper enforcement of parental authority in the homes of the people.

Truly great men are polite by instinct to their inferiors. It is one element of their greatness to be thoughtful for others.

There is a great deal of modesty in the world that isn't shocked by any sight, so long as it can be seen through a crack.

What a folly it is to dread the thought of throwing away life at once, and yet have no regard to throw it away piecemeal.

Literary Notes.

In the North American Review for Aug. the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher writes of "Progress in Religious Thought", pointing out the many influences, social, educational and scientific, which are by degrees transforming the whole structure of dogmatic belief and teaching. T. V. Powderly, the official head of the Knights of Labor, the strongest union of workingmen in the United States, contributes a temperate article on "The United States Army", dwelling more particularly on those features of our army management which appear to him to be most worthy of imitation by the military governments of Europe. "Woman's Work and Woman's Wages," by Charles W. Elliott, is a forcible statement of one of the most urgent problems of our time. The author sees no advantage to be derived from the employment of woman in man's work, whether of brain or of hand; such employment, he insists, only reduces man's wages, and does not really add to the total resources of the whole class of workers. In a highly interesting essay on "The Ethics of Gambling," O. B. Frothingham analyzes the passion for play with rare ingenuity. "The remuneration of Public Servants," by Frank D. Y. Carpenter, gives matter for serious consideration, both to the civil service reformers and their opponents. Finally, there is a paper on "Artesian Wells upon the Great Plains," by Dr. C. A. White, of the Smithsonian Institution. The Review is sold by booksellers generally.

ANXIOUS TO BE NEIGHBORLY.

The Detroit Free Press says: He was a small boy, with dirt on his nose and a faded straw hat on his head, and feet long unwashed. He walked boldly up the steps, pulled the bell, and when the lady came to the door, he said:

"Say, can you lend me your telephone for a few minits?"

"Why, I can't!" she gasped out.

"We'll bring it back in half an hour."

"But I can't lend it, child. You don't seem to know what a telephone is. Who are you?"

"We live around the corner—just moved in, and we want to be neighborly. I tried to borrow your wheel-barrow and shovel, but your boy wouldn't lend 'em, and our hired girl has been over to borrow tea and sugar and couldn't get any. We kinder thought we might borrow your telephone or something, and ma would bring it back and get a chance to see your style and ask you to run right in with your old clothes on!"

* * *

Always look on the right side; a mighty ugly sized girl can ring the bell for a mighty good dinner.

* * *

A New York dentist says it hurts the tooth more than it does the patient, but that's poor consolation. The tooth doesn't have to pay for being hurt.

* * *

The pugilist dots his "eyes,"
The grocer crosses his "teas,"
The billiardist minds his "cues,"
And the farmer minds his "peas."

* * *

"Is this a safe investment?" asked Brown. "Safe investment?" exclaimed the broker. "I never knew anybody who put his money into it take it out again."

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

A NATIONAL SHAME.

The four great interests of a country like the United States are Agricultural, Mining, Manufacturing and Commercial. The first producing by cultivation the varied fruits of the earth, the second developing its hidden resources, the third converting crude material into articles of living necessity and convenience, and the fourth transporting and exchanging commodities so produced, developed and converted.

They are all interests of paramount importance, all wealth creating agencies, and each equally deserving with the others of national encouragement.

Yet, what is the disgraceful fact existing to-day?

A land teeming with harvest riches, ocean bounded, and without a commercial marine to convey surplus products abroad and retain carrying earnings at home.

Foreigners do our ocean business, pocket the gain, and laugh at American stupidity.

Inexcusably neglected, Commerce, once the glorious pride, power and profit of the United States, is almost dead. Its emblem scarcely flutters on the watery pathway of nations.

The Tariff Commissioners in session at Long Branch, as they look seaward and seek respite from the exhausting labor of figuring duties, can discern fleets of deeply laden vessels passing in and out of the port of New York, but rarely a native craft among them. The flags of England, France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Austria, Denmark and Sweden proudly float above cargoes of American wheat, corn, flour, cotton, oil, butter, cheese, pork and lard, but not a sign of the star-spangled banner.

A humiliating sight.

For eight long months Congress has been sitting at Washington, sedulously engaged in jerking a hundred millions or more of surplus revenue out of the public treasury, but saying little and doing nothing for the commercial welfare of the people.

It is shameful.

OHIO DEMOCRACY.

The Democrats of Ohio held a large and harmonious State Convention at Columbus last week and enthusiastically adopted the following platform:

"The Democratic party, in convention assembled, reaffirm the great principles which are the foundation of free government; among which are equal rights to all, special privileges to none, protection of the weak against the encroachments of the strong, equal taxation, free speech, a free press, free schools and, first of all, a free and incorruptible ballot.

"Resolved, That we favor honest reform in the civil service and denounce the extortion of money from office-holders to corrupt the ballot and control elections as the most threatening, as it is the most insidious, danger that besets a free government; and the shameless resort to such methods by the party in power to carry its ends evidences utter abandonment of principle for place and spoils under "boss" rule. We denounce the reckless extravagance and profligacy of the Republican party in the appropriation of the public treasure, which should be applied to extinguishing the national debt; and we believe the time has come when by an honest and economical administration of the government the burden of war taxes, which the people have so long borne and which in the end fall upon the laborer, may and ought to be reduced, but we denounce the attempt of the Republican Congress to reduce the taxes on those articles which alone will inure to the benefit of the rich.

"Resolved, That we favor a tariff levied so meet actual needs and so adjusted in its details with the view to equality in the public burdens so as to encourage productive industries and afford labor just compensation without creating monopolies.

"Resolved, That stability in the value of money is a primary requisite to industrial and commercial prosperity. This can only be secured by maintaining both gold and silver as money, as provided by the Constitution, and subjecting the issue and regulation of paper money to established principles which will prevent fluctuations in the value of the currency.

"Resolved, That the growth of monopolies is such as to seriously threaten the rights of individuals and the public welfare, and ought to be provided against by proper legislation.

"Resolved, That the Democratic party has ever maintained, and still steadfastly adheres to, the doctrine of the largest liberty consistent with the public welfare, and is opposed to legislation merely sumptuary.

"Resolved, That it is incumbent upon our Government to protect its citizens, native born and naturalized, at home and abroad, and we demand searching inquiry into the alleged outrages committed against citizens of the United States in foreign countries."

That is Democratic from beginning to end, and plainly recites what the people need to secure permanent prosperity. There is no other safe road to travel.

ENGLAND AND EGYPT.

The Khedive has signed a decree dismissing Arabi Bey and declaring him a rebel, and has issued a proclamation requesting the Egyptians to assist the English. A mail steamer from Constantinople, which arrived at Alexandria recently, was embargoed and her captain arrested. The Queen desires the Duke of Connaught to join the expedition in Egypt. The troopship Malabar has arrived at Alexandria with 1,108 men and a battery of artillery. Eight thousand persons are reported to be starving in Cairo. Admiral Seymour has adopted energetic measures to insure the water supply of Alexandria.

The Egyptians made an attack on the English outposts at Alexandria Tuesday night, but were easily repulsed. It is said that the looting at Ramleh was not done by British soldiers, but by Bedouins and Egyptians. A German official was expected at Alexandria Thursday. In the House of Commons Wednesday an address thanking the Queen for calling out the reserves was adopted. The House adjourned without acting on the motion for a credit. The London Times of Wednesday said that England by acting alone in Egypt will acquire and assert the right of controlling in the future the country she has saved. General orders have been issued for a large part of the English expedition to embark this week. It is reported that Prince Bismarck considers English intervention in Egypt as the only means of avoiding a European conflict. Arabi Bey is said to be very popular among the Ulemas and lower classes in Constantinople. Italy declines joining in the protection of the Suez Canal until the Conference arrives at a decision.

The Committee of the French Chamber has effected a proposal for a second credit of 9,500,000 francs for protective measures in Egypt.

* * *

Receiver Little said Wednesday that the statements published in a New York newspaper concerning the finances of the Jersey Central road were grossly inaccurate.

* * *

Alexander Klein, the section foreman of the New York and Long Branch Railroad, who placed the rail switch on the Parker's Creek bridge where the fatal accident occurred recently, has been arrested and held for manslaughter.

* * *

Frederic A. Potts says that he will not, under any combination of events, run for Governor of New Jersey, which reminds us of a little story: An accomplished miss of sixteen, seeing her brother of twelve walking on his hands in regular circus style, said to him reprovingly, "George, I would not do such a thing as that." George, suddenly pausing in his gyrations, curtly replied: "By jocks, sis, you can't."

* * *

A harmless duel took place Tuesday at Christiansburg, Va., between John S. Wise, Readjuster candidate for Congressman-at-Large, and the Commonwealth's Attorney, John S. Crockett.

* * *

Union County is entitled to the Democratic nomination of Congressman for the Third District. Judge Nathan Harper, of Plainfield would make an exceptionally strong candidate.

* * *

In the Senate Tuesday the House bill granting Mrs. Garfield $50,000 was passed. The Internal Revenue bill was discussed and its first section adopted.

* * *

The House on Wednesday last adopted the conference report on the River and Harbor Appropriation Bill.

* * *

A band of hostile Apaches were defeated on Monday by a detachment of United States Cavalry under Captain Chaffee in Arizona.

Mr. Alexander H. Stephens was nominated for Governor of Georgia by the Democratic Convention at Atlanta Thursday.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

NOTICE!

Many individual complaints having been made to me, verbally, concerning the offensive odors arising from the Oil Cloth Factory, I hereby invite parties who, as property holders or citizens, feel aggrieved, to meet for conference at my residence on Saturday evening, July 29th, at 8 o'clock. L. V. F. RANDOLPH, 167 E. Front St. Mayor.

OH for an Opera House!

THREE excursions from this city to Ocean Grove, during next month.

WEAK fish are biting splendidly at Perth Amboy and Woodbridge Beach.

DON'T forget the excursion to Ocean Grove and Long Branch on Thursday next.

ONE year ago the City was suffering for rain and at the mercy of the irresponsible street sprinkler.

THE Board of Managers of the Plainfield Fire Department, holds its regular meeting next Wednesday evening.

THE Crescent Club play the Potter Press Works nine, on the grounds of the former, to-morrow at 5 o'clock p. m.

THE Crescent Base Ball Club holds its next meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Monday evening the 31st inst., at 7:30 o'clock.

THE Crescent avenue church, as usual, will close the season by an excursion to Ocean Grove on Thursday the 31st of August.

THE Union & Somerset Counties' Social Club has not yet decided upon what date in August it will hold its First Annual Picnic.

NEXT Sunday is the last of the Rev. A. V. V. Raymond's occupancy of the Trinity Reformed church pulpit, prior to his customary Summer vacation.

TUESDAY and Wednesday of this week were exceptionally hot days. The thermometer registered 97 degrees in the shade on Tuesday and 95 on Wednesday.

To allow for their semi-annual stock-taking, the store of Messrs Edsall & Price will be closed during Monday next, but will open for business again on Tuesday morning.

MR. John Clifford, a former resident of Plainfield, died at the Morris Plains Insane Asylum, on Monday of last week, in the 68th year of his age. He leaves a widow in this city.

ADJOINING the residence of Mr. L. V. Shepherd, near Bound Brook, stands the old homestead of the Shepherd family, a portion of the structure being over one hundred and sixty years old.

THE Dime Savings Institution of Plainfield commenced on Wednesday of last week to pay another dividend of ten per cent, making a total of eighty per cent. The balance will follow in a short time.

THOSE who enjoy open-air festivities will not fail to attend the Fourth Annual Picnic of A. O. H., No. 4, at Steile's Grove on Thursday, August 10th. It is to be one of the best of the season.

THE second-nine of the Crescent B. B. Asso., was defeated at Westfield on Wednesday. The score standing 16 to 4 in favor of the Westfield nine. A return match will be played on Wednesday of next week.

A NEW hose-carriage for Warren Eng. Co. No. 3 arrived in this city on Tuesday from Philadelphia where it was purchased last Thursday by the Committee empowered from the Board of Managers of the P. F. D.

IN another column the Board of Managers of the P. F. D., invite proposals for building two new fire wells: one at the corner of Ninth street and Central Ave., and the other at the corner of Third and Liberty streets.

THERE will be a grand lecture given by Mrs. S. Murray, on the camp meeting grounds this evening, subject, "Whose fault is it." All are invited to attend and bring a dime, as the address promises to be well worth it.

PROF. James Lyon has broken ground for the erection of a new building for his Young Men's Academy. The exterior and interior of the structure is to make it a model of its kind; a description of which we will shortly give the public.

IMMEDIATELY after the arrest of ex-Collector Clark on Monday of last week, the late Township Collector, Mr. Joseph B. Coward, paid into the Treasury of the city the amount reported by Expert Bock as due from him, $766.10. Result No. 1.

IN our advertising columns to-day, Whitney, of No. 8 East Front street, announces a genuine reduction of all prices in order to close out the balance of his Summer stock of dress goods, gloves, &c. Don't fail to call and see for yourself.

IN a special notice elsewhere, Messrs. Berry & Thorn the old reliable hardware dealers announce their offer of an entire stock of farming utensils and house furnishing goods at reduced prices for cash. Also $500 worth of tin ware to be closed out in the next thirty days.

THE Premium Lists of the Union and Middlesex Counties' Mutual Agricultural Association for their Fourth Annual Exhibition, are out in pamphlet form, and ready for distribution. Copies may be obtained by addressing the Secretary, E. C. Pearson, at Plainfield, N. J.

A SANITARY authority says that cucumbers, to be crisp, brittle and "nice," should be soaked in cold salt water half an hour before they are served. This process extracts the alleged poison in the vegetable and removes the elements of cramps. Very seasonable advice.

THE Telephone Co. here is agitating the subject of establishing a special mounted police force, for the use of its subscribers only. If a sufficient number of the latter can be induced to subscribe a small sum each month towards the cost, the intended protection will be put into effect.

WITHIN the past few days a dangerous counterfeit silver dollar, legal tender, has been discovered in circulation. So perfect is the workmanship that many banks throughout the country have been deluded in accepting them. The coin bears date 1879, and can only be detected by the light weight.

THE potency of homœopathic medicine becomes rather a question for discussion since a Fifth street heir of a tender age recently swallowed the entire contents of a full bottle each of chamomilla, belladonna and pulsatilla. The sugar created a slight stomach sickness, but no other effect was apparent.

VENNOR has modified his sinister predictions about the weather this Summer, and says the outlook is somewhat better; but he can't say much that is encouraging for next Fall. According to his best information the cold will put in an unusually early and severe appearance. That is to say we will have a pleasant and late Fall.

THE "early-closing clerks," during Monday evening last, formed themselves into a procession and armed with tin-horns and headed by a drum-corps paraded in front of the single dry-goods store and the three North Plainfield grocers that remain open after 8 o'clock. This order of exercises was more boisterous than effective.

THE Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., of this city, will have an excursion to Ocean Grove on Monday the 21st day of August, accompanied, it is believed, by the Sunday School of Grace Church. This is the only excursion to the Grove from this city during the holding of the Methodist Camp Meeting.

THE speed contests at the Fourth Annual Exhibition of the U. & M. C. M. A. A. will take place during Tuesday, Wednes*day and Thursday, Sept. 26th, 27th & 28th.* The purses offered amount to $2,[illegible]. Those desiring a programme or other particulars, should address Mr. Jas. B. Vosseller, Speed Secretary, Plainfield, N. J.

THE Engine and Hose Co's No. 2 of this city, will unite in a grand excursion to Neshaminy Falls and Rocky Glen on Thursday, August 17th. The train will leave Plainfield at 8 o'clock a. m., stopping at Dunellen and Bound Brook. Tickets for the round trip, $1.60. The above locality is a delightful summer resort. There is plenty of boating and fishing, and fine platforms for dancing.

A PARTY of about forty, old and young, from this city, visited Woodbridge Beach on Tuesday last, and spent the day in picnicing, boating, fishing and bathing. The proprietor of the "Sewaren House," Mr. John P. Turner and nephew, Charlie, did everything in their power to accommodate the party, while Mr. E. E. Acker, gave them the privilege to use his cool and delightful grove and luncheon tables just opposite the Hotel, at a very reasonable remuneration. Parties desiring to spend a pleasant day in picnicing, should visit Mr. Acker's Grove, where ample accommodations are afforded. Mine host of the "Sewaren House" will also furnish boats for fishing, bathing suits, &c., and treat all in a courteous manner. The weak fishing at this point is now fine, members of the above party caught in the day in question. Baits and lines furnished at reasonable rates.

North Plainfield's Corps of Teachers.

The North Plainfield Board of School Trustees have appointed the following corps of teachers:
Principal—Charles E. Bess.
Vice Principal—Miss Dora Stillman.
Head of Primary Department—Rachael Mair.
Teachers—Misses A. M. Smith, Carrie Randolph, E. J. Bainbridge, Louise Tremly and Lizzie Kiernan.
The principal is a New York man and is the only change in the corps of last year.

Corner Loafing.

We give below the State law in reference to street corner loafing:

The State law in chapter CCCLII, approved March 27, 1871, and provides "that any person or persons who shall loiter or assemble on the streets, at the corners of the streets, or in the public places of any city, etc., being under the influence of intoxicating liquor, or who, not being under such influence, shall indulge in end utter loud and offensive or indecent language, or shall address or make audible and offensive remarks or comments upon any person passing along such streets or public places, shall be deemed to be disorderly." The second section of the act provides that upon conviction it shall be the duty of the justice to commit such disorderly person to the county jail, "there to be kept at hard labor for any time not exceeding thirty days, or fine such person in a sum not exceeding $20."

Early Closing.

The custom of closing every evening at 8 o'clock, excepting on Saturdays, has now become universal with all our merchants in the various lines of business outside of the druggists and ice-cream dealers. After this hour Front and other business streets present an exceedingly novel and deserted appearance, and an unusual darkness and dullness is observable. Those who have purchases to make do so in the early evening, and the tired clerk who has spent the long hot day in serving the public can now enjoy the cooling breezes after sunset wherever he or she may choose. The employers who have so considerately sacrificed their benefit for the comfort of their clerks, certainly deserve the entire patronage of the community, and we feel assured that a large falling off of trade will be the deserved reward of the very few who declined to join the movement.

An Extended Prayer Meeting.

A retiring but inquiring reporter of this paper, dropped (by mistake) into a Seventh Day prayer meeting, one evening recently, and found—although he supposed it; much later—that the clock hands pointed to 7:45, and the gathering was earnestly engaged in the customary exercises. Never having attended such a ceremony before, our reporter remained out of curiosity long enough to observe the leader glance at the clock every ten minutes for a half-hour, and remark "we have yet a few minutes to spare"—during which the hands never budged from their register of a quarter-before-eight. When this had continued for some time, a number of the younger and gentler lambs of the flock had passed into a hysterical state induced by their efforts to laugh in their sleeves. What might have been the ultimate result, however, was obviated by the janitor remarking: "If Brother Spy-sir is er goin' by that air clock, its stopped." The meeting was thus abruptly brought to a close at twenty minutes before ten.

A New Firm.

There are few callings in civilized and christian society which demand more fact and delicacy of taste and feeling than that of an undertaker. He enters homes at a time when hearts are newly lacerated and bleeding and who should be approached only with looks and words of sympathy and movements of quiet tenderness. A man with a solid countenance, with a noisy jostle and a heavy tread adds torture to hearts already suffering to the utmost. Families of ordinary feeling would rather send a long distance and pay extra price to obtain the services of one who has some natural or acquired adaptation to his work, than to endure the pangs occasioned by an undertaker who is awkward and in appearance at least, unfeeling. Messrs Ford & Stiles, who have taken the business of the late David Lesson in this city, possess all the above elements of character combined with many years of experience. The Hon. Geo. Stiles, the junior partner, will remove to this city with his family and personally superintend the business here, while Mr. Ford will continue the management of their establishment at Elizabeth. Mr. Frank Day, so long connected with Mr. Leeson, will remain in the position where he has given such general satisfaction.

"That Oil Cloth Factory.

We publish elsewhere an invitation of the Mayor requesting all property owners or citizens who have cause of complaint against the odors arising from the Oil Cloth Factory, to meet for conference at his residence, to-morrow evening. This plan of arriving at the best means to pursue in overcoming the annoyance, seems to be the only one that will bring about the desired final result. These present can agree as to whether an application should be made to the Chancellor, whether legal advice should be engaged, or in fact, as to what would be the most satisfactory and speediest method of obviating the nuisance.

We understand that the proprietors of the factory have repeatedly promised to erect a chimney and endeavor to consume the objectionable fumes that arise from the materials used; and we are informed that such expressed intention served to retard the finding of an indictment against the company by the last Grand Jury. If such is the case, our public should in future allow no promises to impede direct steps towards the abatement of the pest.

Old Reminiscences.

Many of our exempt firemen will recollect the occasion which brought forth the following effusion from one of the 'boys.' The Chief thinking the members of the hand engine were using too small a nozzle, thereby bursting the rotten hose, abstracted the smallest one from the House. The boys demanded it back from the Board, which instructed the Chief to return it. As that official was a little dilatory in doing so, a small nozzle was constructed from a piece of gas pipe inserted in the mouth of a large nozzle, and used until the missing nozzle was returned. The verses were read at a meeting of the Company (Gazelle) one night and created considerable merriment, the Chief enjoying the joke as much as any one. The verses were accidentally unearthed recently and handed us.

GAZELLE'S POET.

They Say

That the Board of Education in its "Expert's report" give ex-Collector Clark credit for about $1,600 less than did the City's Expert.

That a late officer of this city, and a leading Democrat, is to be married to a Plainfield lady about the first of October.

That business will cease in this city next Thursday, when the entire community leaves with Laing and Nelson's excursion to Ocean grove.

That if those aggrieved will meet at the Mayor's residence to-morrow evening and join in a combined effort, the Oil Cloth Factory nuisance can be abated.

That the Potter Press Works nine will give the Crescent Club a hard fight on the "diamond field" to-morrow.

That Sister Murray's address to the representatives of Aunt Hagar's race was the great success of the Rev. Chippey's Camp Meeting on Sunday last.

(The [illegible] dealers do) that this is splendid weather.

That some of the members of the Roselle nine of Saturday last, were imported for the occasion.

That at least one of the North Plainfield grocers intended to begin closing early this week, but since the serenade of Monday evening has changed his mind.

That eight of the jury in the liquor case followed the Court's advice and were not biased by their sentiments regarding the temperance question.

(Experts do) that Engine's Truck is too high and the steering wheel is too small.

That some of the plans submitted for the North Plainfield school building are [illegible], and all will be thrown out.

An Appeal.

It is now five years since the Muhlenberg Hospital was incorporated. Only a year and a half has passed, however, since it was completed and paid for. Within that period it has received thirty-two patients, the majority of those being cured or much improved by the treatment. New cases are frequently arriving, whilst those cured are promptly discharged. Four are now in the Hospital. The thirty-two included persons, of different nationalities, the majority, however, being natives of the United States. The Hospital has a faithful Superintendent (a lady) and the best medical advice. It is filling what was evidently a want in Plainfield and the country surrounding. It is undenominational in management; and its Governors are in perfect accord in the one cause; help to the suffering. Only one thing is necessary to continued success, that is a small assured income, $1500 a year would suffice, $2,000 per annum would certainly be ample, including maintenance of property, unless the work should materially enlarge. 200 subscriptions of $10 each would thus avert all possible danger of the suspension of the good work, as would a smaller number of larger average amounts. The Institution is, as yet, unendowed, and has now no balance available for continuing its work.

No more worthy a cause has ever appealed to the generosity of the public. Let every reader of this give whatever may be possible, and endeavor to interest friends in the same way.

The Nathans' Circus.

The Providence Sunday Transcript of May 7th, 1882, says: "Nathans & Co.'s new consolidated railroad shows, appeared on the Messer street lot last Tuesday, and captured the town. The menagerie, although of modest proportions, contained some rare zoological specimens, and the ring show comprised a number of novel and interesting acts. Among the most noteworthy features were the bareback riding of young Sebastian, the double tandem manage act of Madame Martha, who presented her thorough-bred Arabian stallions in a number of wonderful evolutions; the astonishing and wonderful tricks of Prof. Pryer's troupe of trained ponies, dogs and riding goats, the gymnastic acts of the Ashton Brothers, the contortion-act of the India rubber man, the daring bareback riding of Miss Minnie Perry, and the great four horse act of Mr. Philo Nathan. The trio of towering colossals, Prince Ka-te-na-la, heir apparent to the royal throne, and Signor Cyclops, the Silician nobleman, attracted much attention. The witticisms and amusing antics of the two clowns Tom Minco and William Carroll kept the audience in the best of humor. The concert which followed the ring entertainment was unusually good and well attended."

The above circus will exhibit at Plainfield Aug. 1st. See advertisement.

Personals.

Miss Gregg of Brooklyn is visiting friends on Central avenue.

Mr. J. T. Vail and family are spending a few weeks at South Cairo, N. Y.

Messrs. Edward F. Milliken and R. F. Murray were registered at Willards Hotel, Washington, D. C., last Sunday.

Mr. Frank T. Webster, for many years connected with this office, left on Tuesday for Minnesota and the Far West. Mr. Le Harris and our best wishes for his success, accompany him.

Mr. S. Lancaster of La Grande avenue, has closed his Winter residence for the season, and is spending the Summer at Old Orchard Beach, Maine. Mr. Lancaster has taken his family, servants and livery with him.

Mr. Thomas Greenfield and daughter Florence, of Carlisle, Penn., visited friends in this city on Saturday last, remaining over Sunday. The young lady was charmed with the beauty of Plainfield.

Geo. P. Suydam Esq., has so progressed towards recovery, from his serious sickness, during the past week, that he is now able to sit up for a few minutes at a time and is slowly regaining lost strength and vitality.

Councilman Simpson's condition, since the terrible accident of Thursday of last week, has been and still remains the same. A consultation was held during Saturday last, by Drs. Field, Long and Probasco, but seemingly no satisfactory understanding of the case was arrived at. Mr. Simpson lies as unconscious of the state of affairs on this the eighth day, as he did the first and has every day since.

Mr. Chas. C. Bock was married on Tuesday evening last to Miss Louisa E. Smith of this city, at the residence of Mr. M. Koller of North Plainfield the bride's brother-in-law, by the Rev. H. P. Schnelleendreuter. Music was furnished by Prof. Frasse; and with the singing of the Saengerbund and dancing by the large company present, an auspicious and enjoyable evening was passed.

Councilman Robert Livingston has just returned from a two week's sojourn in the Adirondack regions in company with his brother. They made their camp in the woods a two days' journey from civilization, and had a glorious time with the trout. Although taking large numbers of this member of the finny tribe, none were retained that were less than half pound in weight. Mr. Livingston and family are now summering at Rye Beach, Long Island, enjoying the hospitality of mine host Mr. Geo. B. De Revere, formerly of the Park House, this city.

Base Ball.

On Saturday afternoon last, the closest and most interesting game of base ball ever played in this city, occurred at the grounds of the Crescent Base Ball Association, between a nine of that organization and the Lynwoods of Roselle. In the beginning the Plainfielders seemed to have the result in their own hands, but the visitors so effectively out-batted their opponents that the eighth inning closed with the score standing 10 to 8 in favor of the Lynwoods. As we remarked in recording the game of the 15th inst., the Crescents always gain courage in the face of defeat, and so on Saturday they seized the only opportunity of victory they had and tied the game at the close of the ninth inning. The excitement among the spectators at this point, when Doane at 3d base put out the runner and saved the game, was only equalled in the 12th inning when Doane again, by a creditable catch of a twisting fly, saved his nine from the defeat which, even yet, we cannot understand how they escaped. Two double plays on the part of the Lynwoods were flatteringly applauded, and the only earned run throughout the game was credited to Gott of the same club. A number of flys of the usual kind were caught by both sides, the only ones out of the customary line being a one-handed catch by Harrison in the 5th inning and a foul bound captured by Rattman in the 6th just as he tripped and fell.

The Crescents labored under the disadvantage of the absence of at least three of their regular first nine. The substitutes, however, did remarkably well. To-morrow it is hoped that the new grounds will be in condition for use, as the Crescent's fielders will have to "lay out" for some of the Potter nine's long hits. During the game of Saturday last, many a base was gained by a Lynwood man on a strike to left field, that would have been captured by Murray if the grounds had been further extended.

The following is the unofficial score:

CRESCENT	R.	O.	LYNWOODS	R.	O.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Umpire, Mr. O. T. Roberts. Time of game, 2 hours, 30 minutes. Runs earned; Lynwood 1, Crescent 0. Left on bases, Lynwood 14, Crescent, 8.

Look out for the above next Tuesday.

Notice.

Will the person who made the complaint in the Central Times of some woman for whom the city was paying rent was harboring bad women, please report it to the proper authority and her case will be looked after.

A. VANDERBEEK.

Spilled Milk.

Ernest Barrett, a lad of about 13 years of age, on his way to serve his customers with Monday morning's milk, thought he had time to cross the track of the Lehigh Valley R. R., at New Market, ahead of a train that he saw approaching. But when just over the rails, his horse "stopped short never to go again," and seemingly paralyzed with fright, stared at the rapidly approaching engine. Young Barrett with remarkable coolness, seized the animal by the bridle and endeavored to back him out of the perilous position, but without avail. He did not cease his efforts until the last moment, and had just jumped out of the way when the locomotive struck the horse and carrying it about 100 yards threw the animal to one side of the track, with a broken neck. The wagon was more or less damaged, but with the exception of the top can be easily repaired.

State and County Taxes.

From a table of figures given in another part of this issue, it appears the total valuations of Plainfield for this year are $4,342,500, of which $3,722,500 is real estate and $867,950 personal property, less liabilities amounting to $247,950. The tax for 1882 is divided as follows:

County tax	$22,402.52
State tax	4,075.21
State School tax	10,956.48
Total	$37,434.22

The total valuations for 1881 were $3,939,700, and the taxes were as follows:

County tax	$18,865.07
State School tax	9,822.08
Deficiency tax	9,115.08
Judgment tax	2,322.62
Total, 1881	$40,124.85

Ho, for the Sea-Shore.

During Thursday of next week, the second excursion of the season from this city to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park, will be conducted under the able management of Messrs Edward Nelson and Eugene Laing who in past years have so successfully carried out like affairs. The train will leave Plainfield at 7:30 a. m. and return from the Grove at 5:15 p. m., stopping at Long Branch both ways. The journey being made in two hours the excursionists will reach home again at about eight o'clock. Two trains will probably be engaged and every person is guaranteed a seat both going and coming. If the day should be stormy a postponement will be had and another date advertised. Tickets at one dollar each, can be procured at the C. R. R. station and drug stores of the city. No one who loves to pass an enjoyable day at the sea-side, will neglect this opportunity.

The Liquor Case.

The case of the City against E. P. Thorn on charge of selling liquor to a minor, was set down for trial on Wednesday morning last, before Judge Runyon, in the Council Chamber. The prosecution was present on time as well as the Court, reporters, audience and jury panel, but the Counsel for the defence, R. V. Lindabury, Esq., failed to put in an appearance.

The Hon. Wm. B. Maxson subsequently was substituted for the latter, and the case proceeded before a jury composed of Messrs. John Johnson, Levi Hetfield, Henry S. Barnes, Samuel Allen, Voorhees Laing, Abraham Angleman, C. O. Meeker, W. L. Hetsen, James H. House, John R. Naylor, Henry Waldron and Robert Walker. Those challenged by the prosecution were Messrs. W. H. Warner, Eden L. Boice and H. P. Brook. The defence challenged Joseph Perrine.

The opening by ex-Corporation Counsel Kimball, the conduct of the case, the witnesses examined and the evidence adduced in support of the accusation, were the same in effect as during the former trial of this matter. Counselor Maxson's management of the defence, however, was entirely new and able. From his cross-examination of the first witness (the minor who had made the purchase) from whom he cleverly drew the testimony that he was born in 1864, until the close of his summing up, Mr. Maxson was unusually effective.

The Court met at two o'clock after an adjournment, and Mr. Kimball summed up the case for the city. During his speech he stated that after instructions from the Court the Jury would have no difficulty in establishing their verdict and bringing in the accused as guilty. The safety of such assurance (so far as the Court's connection was concerned) was proven by the character of Judge Runyon's charge that followed. The latter held that the authorities cited by the prosecution entirely covered the case; made no mention of the defendant's plea or the similar cases cited by him, and—as in former trials of the same matters—in effect instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty. Despite this, the Jury failed to agree on a verdict and were discharged after a conference together of about two hours. It is understood that they stood 4 for "guilty" and 8 for acquittal.

CASTOR-OIL beans are being extensively planted in some parts of this State, it is said, as a certain antidote for the mosquito pest. It is asserted that both flies and mosquitoes abandon the premises where this bean is grown.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

The following is an 'order for supplies' for a fishing party of two: "Please to send by bearer the following articles, which, if you prefer it, you can charge to either Mr. A—— or Mr. B——. Either is the safest: Four pounds of salt and a small cask of whisky; one pound of ground black pepper and a dozen bottles of whisky; four pounds of lard and a large jug of whisky; four canvassed hams and six quart bottles of whisky; three good stout fishing lines and a quarter of a hundred weight of biscuit, same weight Cheshire cheese, and two large quart pocket flasks of whisky; one paper of large Limerick hooks and a gallon of whisky in any old vessel you don't use; also send one pound of white sugar and a small jug of whisky. P. S.—As we shall be gone several days, and as we may get wet fishing, my doctor, who has just stepped in, suggested that we had better take a little whisky. Send it, and enter it on your books with other items above."

Mr. Abel Crook, the well-known counselor-at-law of the Bennett Building, is quite as expert with the rod as with the law. Last week, in company with Messrs. Frank C. Chamberlain, Chas. W. Wingert, and A. Eddy, of the Fountain Gun Club, he visited Forked River, New Jersey, on a fishing boat. The quartette engaged a yacht and sought the waters of Barnegat Bay with miraculous luck. The first day's fishing netted 600 weak fish and the second day 793, making the extraordinary number of 1,393 in two days. The highest previous record was 320 in one day. The fishing was done with four rods, and the tally is as reliable as Jersey justice.

The season for shooting woodcock closes on the 31st inst., and will open again October 1st closing the 15th. The penalty for killing these birds out of season is $15 for each bird.

About two weeks ago Mr. Smith, living a few miles of Calhoun, Georgia, on the Oostanaula river, lost a yearling heifer about three years old, and as it was fine stock made diligent search, but could not find it. A few days ago a party of young men fishing in the river were attracted by the smell of a dead carcass, and upon examining the same, lo and behold, they found a monster catfish, which had swallowed the calf, and the horns of the calf becoming entangled in the fish's gills had drowned the fish. The fish measured exactly twenty-three feet and seven inches in length and was five feet eight and one-quarter inches across the head, and from the length of its whiskers supposed to be one hundred and seventeen years old.—[Calhoun Times.]

Fourth Congressional Democratic Convention.

The Democratic Executive Committee for the 4th Congressional District of New Jersey, have appointed Thursday, the 17th day of August next, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Court House in Easton, Sussex county, as the time and place for holding the next Democratic Congressional Convention for said District, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress. Delegates will accordingly be elected by the several towns and townships in said District, at the places selected by the several county organizations, on Saturday, the 12th day of August next, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, electing one delegate for every one hundred Democratic votes or the fractional part thereof (not less than fifty), cast at the last Gubernatorial election.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

The irrepressible Mrs. Batchford was arrested and brought before Justice Jaques on Monday evening last upon complaint of Mrs. Osmont for threatening the lives of herself and children and stoning her dwelling. She was held, and in default of bail was committed to jail. This is the third time Mrs. Batchford has been committed to jail within the past three months. The confinement in jail does not make her behave any better.

On Wednesday the case of Smalley vs. Schwenfurth for trespass of cattle on land of Smalley's and destroying her corn, was tried and a judgment rendered by Justice Jaques in favor of defendant, after a number of witness had been examined.

On Tuesday afternoon and evening the ordination and installation of the Rev. Newton W. Cadwell occurred in the Presbyterian church. The new minister preached a very able sermon in the afternoon. Before he was ordained in the evening the Rev. Dr. Varnsdyn delivered the charge to the people, the Rev. Dr. Leden the charge to the pastor, and the Rev. Mr. Bisserit, of Roselle, preached the sermon. There was a large turn out of the members of the church and congregation.

A nine from the Base Ball Association of Plainfield came to Westfield on Wednesday afternoon and played a friendly game with a nine of the Westfield Association. Game was called at 3 p. m.; five innings were played, the score standing 16 to 4 runs in favor of the Westfield boys. Mr. McCutcheon of Plainfield umpired the game. It was the general remark of all present, that just and unbiased decisions were given by Mr. McCutcheon. Charles Mcquoid acted as scorer.

Albert A. Drake, Esq., presented this week the Westfield Bucket and Engine Co., with two dozen buckets to be used in case of fire. The regular meeting of this company will be held on the second Monday in August, and the annual election of officers on the fourth Friday in the same month.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.

I had been sick and miserable so long, and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—Mother.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS OF THE COUNTY OF UNION.

[OFFICIAL.]

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 6th, 1882.

The Board met in regular monthly session on Thursday, July 6th, 1882, at two o'clock p. m.

Present—Director Martine and Freeholders Briant, Clark, Doty, Eiler, Halliday, Hubbard, Husbands, Issemann, Mapes, Newberry, Oliver, Runkle, Smith, Stover, Thompson, White.—17.

Absent—None.

The minutes of the last meeting were read (omitting list of bills ordered paid) and, on motion, approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication from F. H. Gilhooly, Esq., relating to the mandamus cases against the cities of Elizabeth and Rahway, was read.

On motion of Freeholder Hubbard, received and ordered on file.

A communication from Rev. W. J. Wiseman, of Cranford, requesting the moving of three culverts, in Cranford township, which, it is claimed, are not in proper positions, was read.

On motion of Freeholder Hubbard, received and referred to the County Attorney.

The following from the County Attorney was read, and, on motion of Freeholder Doty, received and ordered spread upon the minutes.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 3d, 1882.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN:—

With reference to the bill of D. K. Ryno, Esq., dated May 26th, 1882, for $20, referred to me at your last meeting, I have the honor to report as follows:

By act approved March 4th, 1879, morgues and morgue keepers could be established and appointed in certain counties of this State, of which the county of Union was one.

By the 3d section of that act it was provided:

"That the fees and expenses of the said morgue keepers for the recovery and care of the bodies of the unknown dead be fixed by the respective Boards of Chosen Freeholders and paid by the County Collectors on bills duly passed by said Boards of Chosen Freeholders.

And, provided further, That no more than the legal fees for the burial of such bodies shall in any case be allowed."

The legal fees as they existed at the time of the passage of the above act were fixed by the General Law, entitled "An act concerning Coroners," approved March 27, 1874, and will be found in section 26 on page 173 of the Revision. It is in the following words: "Burying body when necessary, fifteen dollars."

There is no doubt but that the above amount of fifteen dollars was the utmost limit the Board could approve and pay for the burial and all other services of the morgue keeper, but as if to settle beyond any dispute that question, the act of March 3d, 1880, is passed:

By the law therefore as it now stands:

In cases where no inquest is held, the Board of Chosen Freeholders cannot pay more than the sum of ten dollars in any one case for morgue fees, including burial, see sec. 2, act of March 3d, 1880, page 79 of laws of 1880;

And in cases where an inquest has been held, the Board is limited to fifteen dollars, which is in full for services and fees of morgue keeper and burial expenses.

By the bill referred to me I notice an endorsement "no inquest." If such is the case, the Board of Chosen Freeholders are precluded by law from paying from the County Treasury over the sum of ten dollars.

With reference to the bill of J. J. Yates for $39.01, likewise referred to me at the same meeting, I have to report that the same is not a legal charge against the County Treasury.

Very Respectfully,
J. AUGUSTUS FAY, JR.,
County Attorney.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

From Committee on County Line:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN:

Your committee appointed at the last meeting of this Board "to fix monuments on the county line as established by the recent act of the Legislature," would respectfully report, that after notice to the Essex County Board, they met on the line on Wednesday, June 14th, and after passing along the line it was resolved to place monuments, eight in number, at the following points:

First, on the road leading past Jonathan Winans, Jr., 35 feet 6 inches southerly from the most northerly corner of Phebe Grummon's land.

Second, on road leading from Irvington to Lyons Farms, near the residence of Wm. Weiss.

Third, on road leading from Union to Irvington, between the residences of W. B. Smith and Adam Rapp.

Fourth, on Harbor road 147 feet northeasterly from the westerly corner of Jotham Brown's land.

Fifth, on road passing from Hilton to Unionville, near Timothy Burnett's house.

Sixth, on Springfield and Newark turnpike.

Seventh, on southerly side of road leading from Orange to Springfield in the northerly corner of Wickliff Headley's land.

Eighth, also a monument in the land formerly belonging to O. B. Halstead.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE W. DOTY,
R. M. STOVER,
Committee.

Elizabeth, July 6th, 1882.

On motion of Freeholder Runkle received and ordered spread upon the minutes.

From Committee on Bridge over Passaic River near Page's Mills, Summit Township:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN:—

Your Committee appointed to report as to the necessity and probable cost of a new bridge between the counties of Morris and Union over the Passaic River near Page's mills, would respectfully report that they have jointly with the committee of Morris county, made an examination of the present structure and find it too much decayed to warrant further repairs; the stone work is also poor, being laid up mostly of small stone with two piers in the center of the stream.

The joint committee after careful consideration voted to recommend that new abutment walls be built 80 feet apart, using as many of the present stones as are suitable, and building a superstructure of iron 20 feet in width of one span, the cost of the whole not to exceed $4,500.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. H. BRIANT,
R. M. STOVER,
THOMAS WHITE,
SAMUEL O. SMITH,
JOHN ISSEMANN,
Committee.

Elizabeth, July 6, 1882.

On motion of Freeholder Doty, received and recommendation of the committee adopted.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Director Martine:

Whereas, The county was persuaded by the earnest solicitations of the township of Summit, and relying upon their solemn declarations to stay proceedings then commenced for the collection of back taxes due upon the years 1874 and 1875, on their assurance that they would either pay the amount, put it in the next tax levy or issue bonds to liquidate the claim, and as they have allowed more than a year to pass without doing either, be it

Resolved, That the County Attorney take immediate action to collect the amount.

The Director asked that the resolution lie upon the table for the present, as the attorney for the township of Summit was present and desired to make a statement to the Board in regard to the matter.

On motion counsel was invited to address the Board, after which Freeholder Runkle moved to so amend the resolution that the Director and Collector might defer immediate action if, in their judgment, they think it advisable.

The amendment being accepted, the resolution as amended was on motion adopted.

By Freeholder Stover:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to meet a committee of Somerset county Freeholders and report as to the necessity and probable cost of a new bridge at Leland avenue, Plainfield, over Green Brook.

On motion adopted, and the following committee appointed: Freeholders Stover, Hubbard, Husbands, Thompson, Oliver.

By the Director:

Resolved, That the County Collector pay the Sheriff twelve dollars advanced to Constable McCarty on a proper bill certified to by the County Clerk.

On motion adopted by a unanimous vote.

PAYMENT OF BILLS.

The following bills, audited and approved, were read and ordered paid by a unanimous vote:

Ira G. Hulbert, bridges, Clark, [illegible]; Elias [illegible] ... [illegible] ... Cook & Hall, stationery, [illegible]; John W. Dunn, do, [illegible].

Freeholder Clark moved to adjourn. Which was carried.

The Director declared the Board adjourned to Thursday, August 3d, 1882, at 2 P. M.

JOHN L. CROWELL,
July 6th, 1882. Clerk.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

We desire to call the attention of the public to the method of Cleaning Carpets of all grades, and of "Extracting Moth" without beating, shaking or scrubbing, [illegible]

PRICES.

Ingrains and 3-Ply,	3c. per yard.
Brussels and Tapestry,	5c. " "
Moquet, Velvet, Wilton and Axminster,	6c. " "

The Mattresses and Feather-Beds are Renovated by the Popular Manley Process,

Which has been in operation in Plainfield for the past three years, giving entire satisfaction, and for which we can furnish testimonials from all the leading physicians, and as many as desired from the citizens generally.

The Mattresses, Beds, Pillows and Bolsters are rendered free from DUST and MOTH by steaming, purified by the laws of evaporation, and dried by the heat of steam, as then no dry heat, or rather heat from fire comes in contact with the feathers at all.

We WARRANT all our WORK. Send for it and return it free of charge, within the City limits.

All goods while in our possession insured against loss by Fire. Carpets taken up and relaid if desired. Also, furniture, &c., boxed and shipped.

C. W. WHITNEY, & CO., Managers.

All orders left at our office or the Real Estate office of Benj. A. Hummel, 20 North Ave., opposite the Depot, will receive prompt attention.

POETRY.

TRUE LOVE.

"How much I love you, mother dear,"
A little prattler said;
"I love you in the morning bright,
And when I go to bed.

"I love you when I'm near to you,
And when I'm far away;
I love you when I am at work,
And when I am at play."

And then she slyly, sweetly raised
Her loving eyes of blue,
"I love you when you love me best,
And when you scold me, too."

The mother kissed her darling child,
And stroked a tear to hide;
"My precious one, I love you most
When I am forced to chide.

"I could not let my darling child
In sin and folly go;
And this is why I sometimes chide—
Because I love you so."

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

A LONG PARTING.

"How handsome he is," thinks Daisy, as she leans over the rustic fence watching the mower as with long sweeps of his scythe he cuts down the swaths of grass. "I really believe that a man looks better in the roughest of clothes than in those stiff immaculate garments they call 'dress suits'—that is if he is good-looking at all."

It is only this morning that Daisy has come to the country, to revel in its bracing air for the first time in her young life.

"Where are your roses, pet?" her father had asked her one day, a few weeks before waking from his business plans to notice the pale listless look of his child.

"I think I want quiet, papa. I am tired of dressing, calling, and parties. Papa, may I not go to the country—to my old nurse's—instead of to the Branch this summer?"

And Mr. Nelson had answered yes.

"I would like to come with you, but business will not allow of it. So, enjoy yourself all you can, my pet, and write me very often."

And with these words, kissing her affectionately, he had left her in farmer Shear's care, who was waiting her arrival at the small station. Farmer Shear's wife had been Daisy's foster-mother, caring for her ever since her mother on her death-bed, calling her weeping housekeeper to her, and laying her child in her arms, had said:

"You have served me faithfully, Susan, and I know you will be kind to my baby."

And well that trust had been fulfilled. The first great grief Daisy had ever experienced had come to her when, two years before our story opens, her kind nurse had left for a home of her own, offered her by a worthy farmer, who recognized in her just the sensible qualities his farm needed in a mistress.

It is two o'clock; dinner has been over a couple of hours, and since then Daisy has been luxuriating in the wild flowers and thousand and one delights new to her city-bred eyes. For the past ten minutes she has been watching the mower at his work. She knows that he is Farmer Shear's nephew, for she met him at dinner; but she only gave him the most casual observation then, and now she notices, for the first time, how more than averagely fine-looking he is.

She thinks herself unseen; but she is not, for a pair of amused dark eyes are watching her furtively as she peeps through the only partially concealing screen of wild-rose vines that trail about her feet, and, clambering upward, fling their scented arms high over her head, making a charming frame for a charming picture. A great red lily lifts its tinted chalice in the centre of the meadow; the sunlight touches it and makes it such a thing of beauty that Daisy longs to possess it. But the scythe with its measured strokes is nearing its slender stem.

"Oh don't!"

The exclamation is involuntary, and Daisy flushes crimson as the mower glances up as if just conscious of her presence.

"The lily," she says, in answer to his questioning look. "I thought you were going to cut it down, and it is so pretty."

"Permit me."

It is the action of a moment to pluck it and present it to her, and, as he does so, Daisy wonders as much at the young man's easy unembarrassed manner and refined tones as she did at the comeliness and grace of his appearance.

That was how it began, the summer idyl that was destined to have such an abrupt ending. Both young, both impulsive, what wonder that the more these two saw of each other the stronger grew the charm that drew them together.

Mrs. Shear looked on unsuspiciously; it pleased her genial heart to see "the children," as she called them, enjoying themselves; and so the summer hours flew all too swiftly by. At length came a day when, all through an accident in which, by the falling of a tree, Steven Haughton nearly lost his life, the thin veil which the saucy boy-god had been rearing, called friendship, fell aside, and his true face became disclosed, and with a sense almost of fear, Daisy awoke, as from a dream, to see whither she had been drifting.

"Can it really be that I care for him—this young farmer whom a few months ago I did not know?"

Thus she questioned her heart, and its answer came quickly:

"Ah yes, I do! I do!"

And Steven, lying in his room with his broken arm in a sling, felt happier than a king. Never to his dying day would he forget the look of anguish that he had read in the lovely face his eyes had rested upon when they had opened from the unconsciousness that the dreadful stunning blow had brought.

"She loves me!" he thought triumphantly; "and before long, please God, I shall hear her sweet lips say so."

But it was not to be, for it so happened that the young man had just arisen from his bed of pain and resumed the role of a convalescent, when Mr. Nelson came to spend a few days with his daughter. It was but a short time before, with a keenness of vision for which he congratulated himself, he saw how matters were. He noticed how the blood rushed to the young man's pale cheeks whenever Daisy addressed him, and how an answering light sprang into the maiden's blue eyes.

"This will never do," he thought to himself, in positive alarm. "My Daisy a farmer's wife—or rather drudge! The idea is preposterous! How foolish I was ever to allow the child away from me. But after all it is not beyond remedy. He has not spoken to her, I know, for she would have told me. I will take her home at once. Once away from his society the danger will be over."

Poor little Daisy! She acquiesces unquestioningly in her father's sudden mandate of departure, as what else can she do? She well knows what the feeling is that throbs with her every pulse for Steven, but though his admiration has been plainly evidenced, no words of love have been spoken, and when [illegible] quietly, almost coldly, he answers her farewell, her warm young heart chills. And the years pass, and yet it does not awake from that chill.

In vain does her anxious father, inwardly remorseful for what he recognizes as his own doing, gratify, before it is spoken, every desire; nothing brings back the old girlish animation.

At length they go away, Mr. Nelson fondly hoping great results from the change of scene and surroundings.

They are in London, when one evening Mr. Nelson urges his daughter to accompany him to hear a noted lecturer.

"I do not care much to go, papa, but to please you I will," Daisy answered.

And before long, leaning upon her father's arm, she enters the thronged hall.

Their tickets entitled them to seats in one of the foremost rows, and thither the usher takes them.

The lecture begins even as they enter. What is it that causes Daisy to start and tremble? As the deep rich tones of the orator fall upon her ear they bring back with vivid force that summer five years ago, when all unasked and unsought her girlish heart went out of her keeping forever. With an effort she controls herself and raises her eyes to the platform. Her ears have not deceived her. She sees a tall, manly figure, whose handsome features, eloquent with power and talent, are those of the never-forgotten hero of her fancy.

At the same moment, looking down, his gaze meets full her own.

Never before did the great question upon which he is treating get as ably handled.

"Our favorite orator surpassed himself," so says the voice of the press the following day.

It does not tell, for it does not know, what it was that lent such more than usual fire and vigor to the speaker's utterances; but we who are behind the scenes can say that it was the radiant expression of surprised gladness that looked out of Daisy's blue orbs.

As Mr. Nelson and his daughter issue from the hall, some one comes towards Daisy with outstretched hand and the exclamation:

"How glad I am to see you, Miss Nelson! It is an unexpected, and therefore all the more welcome, surprise. I read your familiar name amongst the list of arrivals published in the papers, but I did not know whether it were really my old friend or not."

The bright color bathes Daisy's face at the unaffected pleasure in his tones, and she answers frankly and simply, as she places her small gloved hand in his:

"I, too, am very glad to meet you."

Then turning to her father, who by this time has recognized to his infinite wonderment in the celebrated orator the young man he met five years ago in the country, she says:

"Papa, this is Mr. Haughton—you surely remember him?"

After that, every evening that Mr. Haughton's engagements allowed him to call his own, finds him at Daisy's side, and after a little everything is explained and she learns how it was that he allowed her, though loving her passionately, to go out of his life without a word or question, and how he, whom her father had looked upon as a detrimental, was in reality heir to a large fortune, and even then engaged in the scientific pursuits which afterward made his name noted. His health for the time having suffered from over-application to study, he had come to his uncle's—his mother's brother—to recruit, knowing the benefit fresh air and outdoor exercise does both to the brain and body.

A month goes by, and one afternoon Mr. Nelson concludes an all-important conversation by saying:

"I hope, Mr. Haughton, that now you are to be my son-in-law, you will let bygones be bygones, and bear me no malice for the past. I thought I was acting for the best. My daughter was my all, and I considered you not a desirable match for her. I trust you will pardon me for frankness when I assure you how proudly and gladly I now resign her to you. When I intimated to you that there was another suitor in the case I did not deceive you in the word—only in the letter—for there was one, rich, and with fine prospects, who for some time had looked upon Daisy with the same feelings as yourself; though the truth was, and I know it, she regarded him with utter indifference."

"I can certainly condone the past," he answered, "in view of the joyous future which you have opened before me in giving me the right to woo for my own your dear daughter."

And so, not long after, the merry bells ring out, and the sun streaming through the stained-glass church-windows, falls like a radiant benediction upon the bowed heads of Steven Haughton and his newly made bride.

DICK'S EXPERIMENT.

Dick Lynchfield was in the library smoking, with his heels a good deal higher than his head, his eyes unseeingly upon the pages of the Weekly Romancer, and his ears strained eagerly to catch the sound of a girl's merry voice on the lawn.

Grief, anger and chagrin were mingled in Dick's heart. He had come down to make one of a delightful party at Oak Dell, with every reason to believe that he was the favored lover of pretty Nell Oakley. He had made no secret of his devotion to her, while she had played him off against that white-headed Walter Simmons with the most engaging air of innocence imaginable.

She was flirting with him at that very moment over a game of tennis on the lawn; and Dick chewed the end of his cigar vindictively and glared at the columns of the Romancer.

Right before his eyes was the editor's "Answers to Correspondents," and the following paragraph suddenly caught his attention.

"Nemo.—It is just possible that you are too devoted to the young lady. Girls are sometimes capricious. A judicious suitor is willing to let his sweetheart do a little of the courting herself."

Dick straightened himself with a half-smothered exclamation.

"What a trump of a fellow that editor is! Wonder if he has had any experience with girls? It's comfortable to know that 'Nemo,' or any other man, is in the same fix that I am. By George I'll try that prescription. Little witch! I'll pay her in her own coin."

Half an hour later the gay party on the lawn had drifted away—the gentlemen to the village, the ladies to their rooms. Only Nell Oakly, the pretty daughter of the hostess, swung to and fro in the hammock between the veranda posts.

She looked up with a charming smile as Dick emerged from the house.

"I have been wishing for you, Dick. I want a sail down the river. Will you take me?"

For a moment Dick was tempted, but a wicked gleam in Nell's brown eyes recalled his resolution.

"I am sorry Nell, but you must excuse me. I am going to the village. Perhaps we will go down the river to-morrow. Au revoir!"

He tossed her the rose from his buttonhole and sauntered leisurely down the drive.

Nell actually gasped as she looked after him. That was a new order of things, to be sure.

Only yesterday Dick Linchfield would have considered a sail down the river alone with her the seventh Heaven of delight.

She must teach him better manners. He would surely claim that sail to-morrow; then she would punish him.

But on the morrow Dick had apparently quite forgotten the matter. Nell watched him with increasing exasperation. He treated her with a gallantry that was very unlike his usual earnest deference.

He did not try to gain a single tete a tete with her, and he flirted outrageously with Hattie Durfee. He seemed suddenly to have acquired a new power and fascination.

Nell wondered that she had never before noticed how handsome Dick was, and how pleased the other girls were with his attentions. He had been her humble slave for so long that she had ceased to put any special value on his delicate attentions; but she missed them sadly to-day, with surprise and anger at first, then a gradual sense of pain and fear lest through her own willfulness she had lost him.

They were standing together upon the veranda late in the afternoon, watching a group who were practicing archery upon the lawn.

"Dick," she said reproachfully, "you were to take me down the river to-day."

"I declare, so I was!" exclaimed Dick, in well simulated dismay. "Better late than never, ma'm'selle!" and then leaning over the veranda railing, he called the others: "Judson, Simmons, Fiske, and ladies, what do you say to a sail down the river? The moon will be up by the time we return."

His proposal was hailed with acclamations of approval, and ten minutes later they all went trooping down to the shore.

As for Nell, she was ready to cry with disappointment, for she had expected to regain the lost ground in a quiet sail with Dick, but it was very evident that he thought nothing at all of being alone with her.

She had lost him now, all through her own foolishness. And worse of all she must keep up a brave front for it would never do for her to mope in the presence of her guests. Not one of the party was so gay and bright as Dick; he laughed, and sang, and told stories, and Nell looked, and listened, and smiled, with a growing pain of dreariness in her heart.

They came home through the moonlight, Nell walking silently with downcast eyes at Dick's side. He looked at her pale cheek and said tenderly, yet with a certain light undertone:

"Tired little girl?"

Nell laughed and did not look up lest he should see the tears in her eyes.

"No indeed!" she said.

After that he hardly spoke to her all the evening.

As the summer deepened, Nell and Dick seemed to have changed places. Of all the lordly, cavalier-like lovers, he was the greatest; and of all the meek, deprecating maidens, she was the meekest and most deprecating.

And strangest of all, Mother Oakley made no attempt to bring matters to a climax, although she could hardly help seeing that Nell's capricious heart had fixed itself upon this handsome young fellow, who seemed in no haste to make known his intentions. How was Nell or anyone else to know that Dick had already made a confidant of Mother Oakley and won her over to his side?

It was a lovely day in August; so near to September that some of the richness and dreaminess of autumn seemed to have flavored it.

Nell, on the way home from the village in her pony carriage, had overtaken Dick, and he was beside her now, watching the little, gray-gloved hands that held the reins.

Presently he told her in a cool, indifferent sort of way that the firm of which he was a silent partner, would send him to South America next month; that he would probably spend two or three years there.

Poor little Nell! Her pretty face was like a white rose. She tried to meet Dick's keen eyes with a careless smile, but she could not control the quiver of her pallid lips. In an agony of shame she dropped the reins and clasped both hands over her tear-filled eyes.

Dick caught the reins in one hand and uncovered her face with the other.

"Look here, Nell," he said, rather hoarsely. "Would you like to go to South America with me?"

"I would go to the end of the world with you, Dick, you know that," she cried, a passionate sob rather disturbing the clearness of her enunciation.

Dick drew the little tearful damsel closer to him, and kissed her in a masterful way.

"All right, honey," he said composedly. "Have you a pretty, white frock and all the fixings? We will be married in just two weeks."

"Oh, I could not get ready so soon," demurred Nell, wiping her eyes and trying to look dignified.

"You must," asserted my lord, calmly, "or I must go without you."

And he kissed her again, and Nell clung to him and declared that he shouldn't go without her if she had to be married in a print dress. And he didn't. Nell accompanied him to South America, one of the daintiest little wives imaginable, with an irreproachable trousseau, although there was but a fortnight in which to prepare it.

And I will inform my readers in confidence, that Dick never relinquished the advantage he gained, and his wife remained his most ardent admirer, though it is my firm conviction that if it had not been for that answer to "Nemo" in the Weekly Romancer, Dick would have been this day either a rejected suitor or the most wretched of hen-pecked husbands.—Annabel Dwight.

AN ANXIOUS CAPITALIST.

"I came to ask," began a little old man in a whisper, looking as if fearful of being overheard, and drawing his chair close up to the editor, "if you know anything of the condition of the Nevada Bank?"

"No special information," replied the editor.

"Then you think it solvent—perfectly solvent?" demanded the little man, with intense eagerness.

"Certainly."

"Three millions, I believe," said the editor, beginning to wonder what manner of man had floated against him.

"And," continued the man in black, tugging in nervous excitement at his thin and straggling iron-gray beard, "what's the Nevada Bank's reserve—its reserve—that's what I want to find out?"

"Four millions, I think."

"And how is it invested—how is it invested?" He fairly gulped with eagerness as he glued his eyes upon those of the editor and awaited the reply.

"In United States bonds."

"Ah," he said, with a great sigh of relief, "I'm glad of that. Then"—here he looked all around to make sure there were no listeners—"then you think a man could safely intrust his money to it?"

"Why, certainly. There is no safer bank in the world. It has unlimited backing."

The little old man chuckled, and took the editor's hand, which he shook almost gleefully.

"You have done me a great favor, sir," he exclaimed, "a great favor—and I shall not forget it!"

"It bothers you to be sure your money is safe, I suppose, sir?" said the editor, with that respect in tone and manner which every independent man instinctively assumes when addressing a wealthy man.

"Well—er—no, not just yet. The fact is," he cried with a burst of confidence, "I'm about to change my manner of life. I'm fifty-five to-day, and I have formed a resolution that henceforth I shall save my money instead of spending it, as I have done from my youth up, and I have suffered considerable anxiety about where to put my money when I get it. In point of fact, I am just now excessively hard up, and if you could oblige me, sir, with a loan of a dollar until I am started on my new career, you would lay me under a heavy obligation."

The editor staggered toward the club in the corner, but when he turned he was alone.—Virginia City Chronicle.

A MARKED MAN.

He had a stub of a pencil in one hand and a sheet of paper in the other, and he walked up to a citizen who was about to go aboard a ferry boat, and said:

"I have a document here for you to sign."

"But I never sign any petitions," was the speedy reply.

"This is no petition. This is an agreement to the effect that none whose names are signed below will either swear while fishing or lie about the size or number of the fish afterwards. Please write your name on the blue line there."

"But I never go fishing."

"Well, you can't tell when you may. Besides, I want the influence of your name."

"I guess I won't sign."

"Let me hope that you will. Are you not willing to eschew profanity for an hour or two once or twice a year?"

"I never swear, anyhow."

"But perhaps you lie! If so I only ask you to tell the truth in just this one instance."

"I'm in a hurry to catch the boat."

"Never mind the boat. Isn't your soul of more consequence than a ferry-boat? Please sign right there."

"I won't do it."

"You won't, eh? You refuse to bind yourself not to rip and cuss and jaw and howl because you don't get a bite. You refuse to enter into an agreement not to come home and lie like a trooper and lose your soul for the sake of making somebody believe you caught a bass weighing six pounds! That's the kind of a Detroiter you are, is it?"

"I've a good mind to spoil your nose," growled the passenger.

"Of course you have. Just because I want to bind you not to lie and swear you want my heart's blood. If I had asked you to agree not to cheat and steal and burn buildings you'd have wanted to cut my throat. Go on, sir! Take your old ferry boat and go to Windsor with it!"

"I'll see you again!"

"That's it—more threats. But you have tackled the wrong man, sir! I'll have an eye on you for the next ten years, and the first time I know of your going out to fish I'll follow you. Yes sir, I'll be on your track, and if you utter one profane word or tell one single lie I'll put you behind the cross-bars of the cooler. Go hence, marked man!"

Mash and to Mash.

The following droll jingle, which originally appeared in one of the New York weeklies, is descriptive of "Change," and is well worth reproducing:

I.

Shady tree,
Babbling brook,
Girl in hammock
Reading book.
Golden curls,
Tiny feet,
Girl in hammock
Looks so sweet.
Man rides past,
Big moustache,
Girl in hammock
Makes a "mash."
Mash is mutual,
Day is set,
Man and maiden
Married get.

II.

Married now
One year ago,
Keeping house
On Baxter row.
Red-hot stove,
Beefsteak frying,
Girl got married
Cooking trying.
Cheeks all burning,
Eyes look red;
Girl got married,
Nearly dead.
Biscuit burnt up,
Beefsteak charry;
Girl got married
Awful sorry.
Man comes home,
Tears moustache,
Mad as thunder,
Got no hash.
Thinks of hammock
In the lane,
Wishes maiden
Back again.
Maiden sits
Thinks of swing;
Wants to go back
Too, poor thing!

III.

Hour of midnight,
Baby squawking;
Man in sock-feet
Bravely walking;
Baby yells on,
Now the other
Twin he strikes up
Like his brother.
Paregoric
By the bottle
Emptied into
Baby's throttle.
Naughty tack
Points in air,
Waiting some one's
Foot to tear;
Man in sock-feet—
See him there!
Holy Moses!
Hear him swear!
Raving crazy,
Gets his gun,
Blows his head off,
Dead and gone.

IV.

Pretty widow
With a book,
In the hammock
By the brook.
Man rides past,
Big moustache;
Keeps on riding—
Nary mash.

George Washington had a hatchet, but he never ground it at the public expense.

The imprudent man carries postage stamps in his pocket. The prudent man never does, for he knows very well that he can borrow of the imprudent.

A San Francisco man has been arrested for deceiving a widow. While his crime is to be abhorred, it must be admitted that his genius commands admiration.

A young girl, being asked recently as she returned from the circulating library with the latest new novel if she had ever read Shakspeare, tossed her pretty head and answered; "Shakspeare? Of course I have; I read that when it first came out."

An Iowa prohibitionist was declaiming against the discovery of rum, when somebody prodded him in the leg with a bradawl and they told him it was a rattlesnake. A man on a bicycle couldn't keep up with the prohibitionist as he made for a rum shop.

A San Francisco jury has awarded a book canvasser $150 damages for being kicked out doors. This is a mighty bad precedent. A book agent will only need one book to carry under his arm, and a brick in his coat-tail pocket, and he will make more money than by canvassing.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Hon. A. S. Hewitt, Democratic Congressman from the City of New York, is a gentleman practically conversant with business affairs and interested in one of the largest iron manufacturing establishments in this country, employing hundreds of workingmen. His remarks touching public questions are intelligently founded on knowledge, not theory, and therefore deserving of thoughtful consideration. From a recent speech delivered by him in the House of Representatives we make the following extracts:

"There is but one security for the tax-payer, who is the working-man of the country, for all Federal taxes come at last down on his broad shoulders.

That security is to keep the Treasury poor.

Poverty of the Treasury is the wealth of the people.

Let the Treasury have all that it needs for the legitimate expenses of the Government.

Then the money wrung from the hard labor of the working people of this country will be expended with a just sense of the responsibility which we have here as their representatives, and which in this Congress we are violating day after day, by taking the money that ought to be left in the pockets of the people and applying it to worthless and useless works, which we miscall works of public utility.

I appeal to gentlemen on the other side to reduce expenditures and take the load of taxes off the over-burdened energies of our hard-working people, and thus restore to them the margin of earnings which make up all the difference between comfort and want.

But if we do this some one will cry out—"How is the national debt to be paid?"

The people of this country, those engaged in business and largely borrowers of money at rates ranging from 6 to 12 per cent. per annum, do not want the debt paid off all at once when the Government can fund it at 3 per cent.

There is no antagonism of interests between the Government and the taxpayers of this country.

If the debt is liquidated in the lifetime of this generation, which is thirty years, the people will be satisfied.

The difference between the current rate of interest paid by individuals and that paid by the Government will pay the principal of the debt off in less than thirty years.

What we want, what the interest of the people demands, is that the annual payment of principal shall be so moderate as not to press too severely on the annual earnings of the nation.

The Federal taxes are all taxes on consumption.

They come in an insidious form and are not perceived, and yet the workingmen of this country eat nothing, drink nothing, wear nothing, use nothing which does not pay a tax into the National Treasury.

The eyes of the people will be opened by the suffering which is now beginning to spread over the country, and the day of reckoning is not far off for the party which, having the power, refuses to reduce taxation, when there is a surplus in the Treasury, on the plea that the national debt must be paid at once, and at a time when every dollar of principal thus paid is taken from the earnings of those who find it impossible "to make both ends meet."

The country demands a rest from excessive taxation, and in this case "the voice of the people is the voice of God."

SOWING AND REAPING.

"A free people, who make their own laws and choose the officers whose duty it is to execute them, must bear the responsibility of their own action, and must reap just as they sow. For nations, as well as for individuals, there is a moral law whose mandates are imperative, and which never can be violated without bringing down righteous retribution upon the transgressor."

We clip the foregoing from one of the journals of the day, because it expresses truths of exceedingly great value.

Pernicious laws and venal legislative and executive practices are the certain results of conferring office upon men lacking purity of moral character and rigid fidelity to the principles of honesty and honor.

A people must reap as they sow.

If they place governing power in the hands of bad or doubtful men, a heavy crop of corruption will ensue, to the pecuniary loss and discredit of country.

That is as sure as the law of gravitation.

The present generation of voters have witnessed it.

A principal is bound by the acts of an agent, be they good or depraved.

The representative of a free people is such an agent and should be in every particular above reproach.

In no other way can freedom be preserved.

The people are by right sovereign, and their best interests call for the vigilant exercise of sovereignty.

Sow sound seed and reap a healthy harvest.

ENGLAND & EGYPT.

The position at Alexandria is again becoming dangerous. The inhabitants are becoming insolent and a large force of Bedouins are surrounding the city. Midshipman Le Clair, who was captured by the Egyptians, is confined at Cairo and is well treated by his captors. Assioot, the capital of Upper Egypt, is holding out for the Khedive. It was announced in the House of Commons Tuesday that the Russian Minister at Constantinople has been ordered to rejoin the conference, though the London papers publish despatches saying that Russia intends to oppose England's Egyptian plans. The London press denounce the acceptance of Turkish troops as allies in Egypt and declare that they should be used only when acting under the English commanders. The Second Battalion of the Coldstream Guards has sailed for Egypt. It is reported that the English are negotiating to lay a cable from Alexandria to Port Said. The Ministerial crises in France still continues. Despatches from Madrid deny the statement that the Spanish Government cannot send 25,000 men to Egypt. The British guns opened fire on the Aboukir forts Tuesday night.

The vote of the New Jersey Members of Congress on the River and Harbor bill, over the President's veto on Wednesday last, was as follows: In the House Messrs. Harris, (D.) Robeson, (R.) Ross, (D.) voted for the bill, and Hill, (R.) against it. The following members were paired: Hardenbergh, (D.) and Jones, (R.) In the Senate Mr. Sewell, (R.) was paired and McPherson, (D.) absent.

The Monmouth County Agricultural Society have issued their premium list for their twenty-seventh annual Fair, to be held at Freehold, Sept. 12, 13 and 14. On one page they give a "list of Fairs held in the State of New Jersey during 1882," omitting however, to mention the Fair of the "Union & Middlesex Counties' Fair," which occurs Sept. 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th. We presume, however, that the Monmouth County Fair authorities must have forgotten (?) it. Nevertheless, the Fair of Union & Middlesex Counties will occur at the time stated, all the same.

How the Republican press does howl because Hon. Miles Ross, in his endeavors to serve his constituents, secured liberal appropriations in the River and Harbor bill for New Jersey. If he had sat still in his seat and said nothing, they would have asked—"Who ever heard of Miles Ross outside of the House of Representatives. He never made a speech." Action and not talk, is Mr. Ross' forte.

We notice that the Republican press are "dropping" on their predictions as to who will be the next Democratic Congressman from the Third District. That is what we thought. The Democrats will nominate the pall-bearers for the Republican funeral.

The time is approaching when the Democracy of Union County must buckle on their armor for a grand political fight. Organization is the first move toward a successful issue of the same. Let not the Democrats forget that.

The President on Tuesday returned the River and Harbor bill to Congress with his veto. Both Houses, however, on Wednesday, by a two-third vote, passed the bill over his veto.

Many of our exchanges speak in flattering terms of the suggestion of Judge Nathan Harper's name for Congress from the Third District.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

On Sunday last, Caleb H. Mills, infant son, Edward, died with cholera infantum.

On Sunday morning last, Charles B. Paddie, residing on Broad street, lost a valuable colt with lock-jaw.

On Saturday, a nine from Elizabeth came to our town and scooped a Westfield picked nine, with a score of 16 to 3 in their favor.

D. W. Lucas, residing on Mountain avenue, was the happy father of a daughter on Sunday morning last, as also was Mr. Newton Hoffman, residing on same street on Tuesday.

John H. Urmston has removed his furniture repairing shop from Wittke's building on Broad street, to the store on Central avenue, formerly occupied by Mahlon H. Ferris. Jacob Herder will occupy the store which Urmston removed from, with a vegetable market.

The young men from this place that play base ball in the vicinity of Scotch Plains every Sunday, are known to the authorities of the latter village and unless the practice ceases they will experience the legal effects of Sabbath breaking. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

On Wednesday morning the team of Daniel G. Fink, after being loaded with beer grains at the railroad depot, ran away, upsetting the wagon and spilling the contents at the corner of Central and North avenue. The damage to the horse was slight; the wagon was considerably broken.

On Wednesday evening a large number of our residents visited the residence of David E. Miller on Elmer street, to view his plant of Night Blooming Cereus, which was in full bloom, having six beautiful and fragrant flowers. There are eight more buds on the plant, which will bloom in a day or two.

On Monday last, Hugh Matthews, an old gentleman and former resident of this Township, but now living in New York city, who has been for some time troubled with an affection of the brain, wandered away from his residence and got on one of the trains on the Central Railroad and was carried to Plainfield. He lodged in the station house in that city that night, and on Tuesday hired a hackman to bring him to Westfield, which he did. He, Matthews, wanted to find his farm which he owned some thirty years ago, being under the delusion that he still owned it. The hackman in company with officer Marsh, took him to the farm but he failed to identify it. He was left at the hotel with officer Marsh, who telegraphed to two or three addresses the old gentleman gave, and succeeded in getting an answer from one of them from New York. On Wednesday morning his daughter arrived and took him home. She said they had telegraphed all over the country on Tuesday, inquiring about him. Matthews is in good circumstances, owning considerable real estate in New York city.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

The shooting of woodcock is illegal during the month of August. The penalty for each bird killed is $15.

The question as to the propogation of ruffed grouse by artificial process has been demonstrated by a Mr. Ayres of Lyons Farms, this county, who placed six eggs of this species of game bird in an incubator, and hatched out the young birds, which he kept for six days, when they died from his want of knowledge as to what food to give them.

COMMUNICATED.

For "The Constitutionalist."

Messrs Editors:—

As J. C. Lewinsky, Ph. D., intends to make Plainfield his home, I will avail myself of your columns to introduce him to the public.

Dr. Lewinsky has been prepared in the most thorough manner for the work he will undertake in Plainfield. He has devoted twenty years to the study of the Classics and he graduated with honor from the University of Berlin, an institution acknowledged to have a higher standard than any other institution of learning in the world. In fact, graduates of American colleges are not much more than prepared to enter the University of Berlin. Dr. Lewinsky is the author of several works, the latest of which is a translation from the German into Latin, Hexameter and Pentameter. This last work has received the commendation of C. Short, Ph. D., Prof. of Latin, Columbia College, who has recommended it for publication. Dr. L. will be associated with me in conducting the Plainfield Academy for Boys, and will have charge of the Classics and the Modern Languages. There is probably not another teacher in Union county as well qualified to teach Latin and Greek as Dr. Lewinsky. He will also organize classes in German and French. Dr. L. is an enthusiastic teacher and comes with the highest testimonials.

I feel assured that those of our citizens who are fortunate enough to make the acquaintance of Dr. Lewinsky, will find him to be as Dr. Thos. Eggleston, President of the School of Mines, N. Y., writes of him "An attractive and agreeable man personally."

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Charles E. Ketcham and Mrs. Charles E. Ketcham, his wife.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Ferdinand Zuckmann is complainant, and you are defendants, you are required to appear and plead, answer or demur, to the bill of said complainant, on or before the twenty-seventh day of September next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Evan Jones and Eleanor Jones his wife, to Elias Morse, on lands in the city of Plainfield, New Jersey, dated January 1, 1873, and assigned to the complainant, by Sarah R. Morse, executrix of the last will and testament of Elias Morse, by her assignment dated May 26, 1882. And you, Charles E. Ketcham, are made defendant, because you own said lands, or some part thereof.

And you, Mrs. Charles E. Ketcham, are made defendant, because you may have, or claim an inchoate right of dower, or other interest in said lands.

UPSET SALE!

Commenced This Week and Gives Promise of Great Success.

Scotch people and old-time folks all know what is the meaning of "upset sale." It is a term used when things are to be sold out to close estates, partnerships or corporations.

I propose a sale of this nature. The prosperous season so far this year, the largest I ever had, encourages me to

RING ALL THE BELLS!

and call the people in to close out, before the 1st of September,

The Balance of my Spring & Summer Goods.

Nothing stops me in executing the right plans, and if the prices must be cut down to gather the people

DOWN GO THE PRICES!

The people have treated me generously for many years and I am satisfied even though I do sacrifice my profits one month.

IN A NUTSHELL, THIS IS IT!

The practical point of all this is a radical reduction in prices from August first. They are cut, some ten, some twenty, some thirty per cent., and some on goods prepared specially for this sale, not at all. My great desire is to get the people to examine the goods and see the reality of the reductions.

THE State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in his last year's report, gives Plainfield 2,624 children between the ages of 5 and 18 years. Of these 1,263 were enrolled on the Public School registers and 305 was estimated as the number attending private schools.

THE Annual Picnic of St. Mary's R. C. Church of Stony Hill, N. J., will take place at H. Guerrier's Grove during Thursday the 24th inst. There will be good music and refreshments on the grounds. If the date should be stormy the occasion will be postponed until the next fair day.

ON Thursday of last week the Plainfield Turn Verein of this city and visiting members from other societies of the state, united in a picnic at Wooden's Grove that far surpassed even the very successful occasions of former years. Headed by Voss' celebrated band, the Turners marched from Park avenue to the Grove and spent an afternoon and evening in gymnastic exercises, dancing and other festivities.

IT is amusing to observe the excitement some people will get into, over nothing. The Board of Education has its hands full at present arranging for the rebuilding of the grammar school on the old site, and has no thought of erecting any other building at present. Yet residents around and about Putnam and La Grande avenues are indignantly protesting against that probable benefit—a school-house in their vicinity.

AFTER some objection on the part of Mr. Michael Sweeny, Sr., of this city, he was arrested on Friday afternoon last by Officer Conway with the assistance of Mr. Warren Marsh, on a warrant issued on an affidavit of Mrs. S. charging her husband with assault and battery. Justice Wadsworth held the accused to bail on this charge as well as on that of assaulting an officer, and the $100 required not being obtainable Mr. Sweeny, Sr., was lodged in the County Jail until Tuesday, when Mr. P. Muldoon became his bondsman, and Michael was released from durance vile.

HOWARD, a ten year old son of Dr. B. J. Burnett, of Millville, N. J., met with a serious accident on Grove street, this city, one day last week. While riding a velocipede over the rickety and rotten board walk in the vicinity of Mrs. Watt's boarding house, corner of Grove street and Prospect avenue, the machine caught in a crack and threw the young lad to the ground, the handle of the velocipede entering his person near the groin and inflicting a serious wound. He was treated by Dr. South at Mrs. Watts, where he was stopping and afterwards removed to his home in Millville.

Fourth Annual Picnic.

During Thursday afternoon and evening of next week, the Ancient Order of Hibernians No. 4 of this city, will hold its Fourth Annual Picnic in Stelle's Grove. The programme will be the usual pleasurable one, and Cahill's justly celebrated band will furnish the music. During the evening the woods will be brilliantly illuminated. Tickets can be had of members or at the entrance to the Grove, at twenty-five cents each.

An Expression of Thanks.

The Board of Relief Association desire to express their appreciation of the liberal response to their appeal for assistance in the case of Prof. Maurice. Also for the great interest manifested by his countrymen in the city of New York, who, when appealed to by one of our Advisory Board, Mr. Lisignolo, so generously responded, providing a free passage for himself and family to France. With their assistance we were enabled to provide an outfit for them all—and means for their support until he can meet friends. We thank you all who have in any way contributed to this good work. MRS. G. W. FISHER,
President Relief Association.

A Wonderful Plant.

Mrs. Juliet Runyon of Central avenue, is the owner of undoubtedly the finest specimen of Night Blooming Cereus extant. Not only is its great beauty as a plant especially admirable, but its size and symmetrical training are unusual. On Wednesday evening it accomplished "the greatest effort of its life" and twelve flowers bloomed at once alongside of some buds that opened together twenty-four hours later. No such record has, to our knowledge, ever before been made; and we feel safe in challenging an authentic narration that will equal the above.

The Next Excursion

Is that of No. 2 Engine and Hose companies, which will go to Rocky Glen, Neshaminy Falls' Grove, Pa., on Thursday the 17th inst. This excursion promises to be a most enjoyable one, as the spot selected offers all the attractions of land and water. Refreshments of all kinds will be furnished on the grounds; and music by Prof. Boeman will lead the dancing. An unusual feature of the day will be the opportunity of a visit to the Camp Meeting Grounds of the Spiritualists, adjoining the Grove.

A Horse Theft.

Mr. J. G. Cadmus, the Park avenue liveryman, was on Friday last the loser of a fine rig, for the recovery of which he has offered a reward of $100. The description of the property and the man who obtained it, is as follows:

Hired and stolen from stable of J. G. Cadmus, Plainfield, N. J., July 28th, 1882, black horse 15½ hands high, 8 years old; both feet white behind to fetlocks; thin mane and tail; in good order; slightly roach-backed; long stride when trotting. Harness, single, leather; silver mounted; plating nearly all worn off. Padded Hams, Worth maker (name on tag.) Side-bar buggy, very dark green with fine light stripe; lined with dark green cloth; Hatfield & Jackson, makers, Rahway, N. J. All in good order. Hired by man 5 feet 8 or 9 inches tall; weighs about 160 lbs; light complexion, sandy, thin moustache; dressed in light clothes, long linen duster, straw hat.

Suicide of a Former Resident.

On Friday morning of last week Mr. James E. Mains, aged about seventy years, hanged himself at his cottage on Monroe avenue, Asbury Park. The victim was formerly a resident of this city and at the time of his death was still a property owner here. During his past life he amassed a considerable fortune, but much of it was invested injudiciously and thoughts of impending poverty have for many years preyed upon his mind. About two years ago Mr. Mains attempted to hang himself at Morristown but was cut down before life was extinct. He has also upon other occasions tried to commit such an act. The position of the victim when found on Friday, showed his determination. He could have easily stood erect upon his feet, but he had leaned over so that the weight of the body came on the neck and caused strangulation.

An inquest was held by Coroner Woolley of Monmouth County, and a permit of burial given. The funeral services took place at the Grand Avenue Reformed church of Asbury Park, on Monday evening at 7:30.

Important to Veterans.

Colonel Charles J. Courtois of Newark has important information to impart to the following soldiers, some of whom may be residing in this vicinity: Wm. W. Conner, late Captain Fourteenth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; W. H. Cook, late Lieutenant Twenty-ninth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; John Stutt, late Captain Third New Jersey Cavalry Volunteers; Albert Hertsberg, late Captain Third New Jersey Cavalry Volunteers; Meyer Asch, late Captain First New Jersey Cavalry Volunteers; Charles Meyer, late Captain Fourth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; Charles A. Damlong, late Lieutenant First New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; Thomas M. Fetter, late Captain Fourth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; Robert Allen, late Lieutenant Seventh New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; J. H. Garretson, late Lieutenant Twenty-first New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; Ridgeway S. Pomeitt, late Captain Third New Jersey Volunteer Infantry; S. Von-Fostner, late Major Third New Jersey Cavalry Volunteers; F. W. Schaefer, late Captain Third New Jersey Cavalry Volunteers; W. J. Harrison, late Captain Seventh New Jersey Volunteer Infantry.

Nathans' Circus.

It has been many months since a better circus visited Plainfield than that of last Tuesday, Nathans' & Co.'s Consolidated Railroad Show. They gave even a better show, in many respects, than their advertisements announced. Philo Nathans, in his four-horse bareback act, elicited the applause he deserved. Miss Miranda, with her thoroughbred horse, and daring feats of hurdle jumping, received the praise due her. The Ashton brothers, as fine and accomplished athletes as ever traveled, performed some wonderful and daring feats in acrobats. J. A. Whittaker, the bare-back rider, is superb. The gymnastic acts of a male and female performer, were simply marvelous. The trained dogs and ponies of Prof. Fryer, elicited round after round of applause from the audience, by their performances. The India-rubber man is a wonder and no mistake. The management did all they claimed to do, and more, by their advertisement. It has seldom been our experience to deal with more courteous gentlemen than those connected with Nathans' & Co.'s Circus. A feature of the show is the absence of all vulgar and personal remarks by the clowns, of whom there are two, who keep the audience in a roar of laughter by their sayings and doings.

Personalia.

The Rev. Dr. John C. Bliss has left Plainfield with his family for a vacation of about six weeks. During his absence the pulpit of the Crescent Avenue Church will be occupied by the Rev. W. E. Honeyman of this city.

Dr. Charles S. McKnight of this city was the physician associated with Drs. Long and Field in the late consultation held regarding the case of Councilman Simpson.

Ex-Corporation Counsel Suydam is gaining health so rapidly that it is believed he may, in a few days, safely leave this city for a visit to his father at Millstone.

Mrs. John Egbertson and Miss Kate Egbertson, formerly of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Egbertson, of Brooklyn, are stopping at the Washington Rock Mountain House.

Mr. Ethan Lanphear of Central avenue has presented the Muhlenberg Hospital with a very desirable and serviceable laundry chest. Something that has long been needed and is greatly appreciated.

Corporation Counsel Marsh has left the city for a short vacation. The Rev. Thos. Stockton is away for several weeks, as is also Messrs. O. T. Roberts, and W. Montgomery.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Wigger, Bishop of Newark, will hold a confirmation in St. Mary's R. C. Church, on Sunday morning the 13th inst. We understand that the Bishop will also deliver a lecture during the evening of the same day, when, no doubt, many will avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing and hearing this gifted and popular prelate.

The Rev. J. H. Vincent delivered an address at Chautauqua on Tuesday evening, upon the occasion of the opening of the Ninth Sunday School Assembly. In spite of a heavy rain, an audience of over 4,000 gathered together.

J. C. Lewinsky, Ph.D., of the University of Berlin, a highly accomplished and wide-awake teacher, has associated himself with Prof. Lyon in conducting the Plainfield Academy for Boys. They announce in their new advertisement that German and French will be taught advanced students without extra charge. This liberal offer will no doubt attract many students the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Smith, of North Plainfield, have the sympathy of a host of friends, in the loss of their ten-year-old daughter "Minn," who, for years past has been a sufferer from spinal affliction. She has been a patient Christian in her trouble and welcomed death as a relief. At her request, she was buried from the Church of the Holy Cross, the Sabbath School of which she was a member, last Sunday afternoon.

Councilman Simpson's condition seems to be slowly improving, and hopes of his recovery are daily strengthened by the symptoms of promised restoration that are plainly observed.

Mrs. C. Potter, Jr., and family are at the Larkin House, Watch Hill, R. I.

Mr. E. W. Anderson, Jr., has left for Mount Desert; and Mr. Willis Anderson is spending some weeks in the heart of the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Jones are on their way to Mount Desert.

Mrs. W. E. Lowe and family have gone to the Delisle House, Bar Harbor.

It was with pleasure and astonishment that we met, face to face, at the Treasurer's box of Nathans' & Co's Circus last Tuesday, the genial and smiling countenance of our old editorial friend, Jacob Pentz, who for many years was the Field Editor of the Turf, Field & Farm, but who now occupies the position of Treasurer to the above mentioned excellent show. The sporting fraternity lost an able writer when brother Pentz laid aside his editorial quill, which he announces he is not likely to again assume. Good luck to "Jake" Pentz, wherever he may go. He is a true sportsman and an able writer.

County Clerk Vosseller and family are again afflicted in the loss of an infant member of their household, little Mabel, which event occurred last Sunday. They have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

It was with extreme pleasure that we grasped the hand of our old friend and former townsman, James H. Smith on Monday last. Mr. Smith, who a number of years ago was a successful builder in this city, is now engaged in business in Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Terrible Accident.

On Monday afternoon last, Mr. Wm. Barnes of Elizabeth, formerly in the employ of Messrs. Berry & Thorn and a nephew of Mr. Wm. Little of this city, was the victim of a frightful accident due to his own carelessness. The young man, who is just 21 years of age, had been out hunting all day with two companions. On their way home a stop was made at a wayside pump for a drink. Barnes' companions laid their guns against the fence, but he carried his by the muzzle in his hand. As he took hold of the pump he set the gun down heavily and the sudden jar caused one of the hammers that was raised to fall. The explosion that followed literally tore away the entire left jaw and ear of the unfortunate victim, and he fell at once unconscious to the ground. A wagon was procured and on a bed of salt hay the bleeding man was carried over the miles of road from the scene of the accident to the Elizabeth Hospital. At this place he now lies, and as we go to press his death is hourly expected. The sympathy of all is with the father, mother, brothers and sisters that will remain to feel the loss of one so much beloved that was suddenly taken in the very commencement of his promising manhood.

Driven to Suicide by Liquor.

One of the terrible results of the use of intoxicating liquors is shown by the suicide of Thomas Boyle of Scotch Plains on Sunday last. The victim, who was about twenty years of age, was well-known in the village as an industrious and gentlemanly young fellow. His occupation was that of a stone mason and he had lately finished working on the new Episcopal Church. During Saturday evening of last week, he, with a number of companions, became very much intoxicated, and upon his return home under the influence of the liquor he had drank, it is said that Boyle so maltreated his father and mother that the services of a constable were secured to restore order. The next morning young Boyle experienced the most acute feeling of shame at his acts and condition of the previous night. He walked up to the hotel of H. C. Guerrier on the mountain back of Scotch Plains and there expressed the sentiment that he would rather die than be as he was. He intimated very plainly to a number that he intended to kill himself, but none thought him in earnest. Leaving the hotel he crossed over to a barn on the place, from whence there was afterwards heard the report of a pistol. Upon examination of the cause, Boyle was found to have shot himself in the right side and his death almost immediately followed the act. For the purpose of suicide the victim had used a large horse-pistol, which he had loaded with a charge so great that his body where the shot entered was terribly torn and mangled. The County Physician arrived on the scene the next day and issued his permit of burial in accordance with the above facts.

Base Ball.

The new grounds of the Crescent Base Ball Association were inaugurated on Saturday of last week by a most disastrous defeat due to many causes but mainly accomplished by the absence of the Crescent's own members. To take from a nine the services of such players as W. and H. Kaufman, Cornwall, Bass, McGee and Ruttmann could have no other effect than to seriously cripple the team's abilities and insure a defeat that otherwise might have been doubtful. It was self-evident that in view of the fact that the game would decide the championship of Plainfield, the Potter Association would select its best representatives, and the bad judgment on the part of the Crescent Association in opposing such a nine with three or four players and five or six useless substitutes, when so much was at stake, cannot be too severely condemned. Results of this sort can have but one effect—the ultimate dissolving of the Association; and that is all the more certain to be the final fate of such organizations when members become—in their own minds—superior creatures, and too high-blown to compete in matches with the various classes the game brings together.

The game opened with the Potters at the bat, which inning would have closed with a "goose egg" to their credit, had the third baseman been attending to his duties. As it was three runs were scored, while the Crescents retired with none. This lead at the start was added to each inning by the good batting of the Potters and the poor fielding of the Crescents. No runs were earned until the 6th inning, when Buckley and Andrews each made one and the inning closed with the score standing 15 to 3 in favor of the Potters. The entire game was, however, so one-sided and uninteresting that a detailed account would not be entertaining. Meyers, Doane and Lowry are each to be credited with assisting in very beautiful double plays, while two flys and a foul-bound caught by Gavett was the leading score in the field. To McCutchen, however, is the praise due for general good and careful playing throughout the game.

The following is the unofficial score:

They Say

That we have been having some warm weather.

That on four days notice your personal property will be sold for delinquent taxes, unless you settle.

That you shouldn't miss No. 2's excursion to Neshaminy Falls Grove of Pennsylvania on the 17th inst.

That the hammock thief is abroad in the land seeking whatever he may loot.

That the Mayor of Feltville still refuses to accede to the demands of the Common Council, and the city is to be sold, next Wednesday, in consequence.

That some of the Crescent's first nine proved themselves gentlemen by declining to play against a colored brother.

That the real reason of their absence was timidity.

That the Turn Verein picnic closed early so as to allow the "outsiders" no opportunity to create the disturbance they so love.

That during the coming Winter the Union Club is to put life and gaiety into the upper circles of society.

That the Board of Education may not build another school house except on the site of the burnt one.

That the Public Hall project is neither dead nor sleeping.

That even if it does rain, our streets are so dirty that the mud is much worse than the dust.

That the A. O. H. picnic, in Stelle's Grove, next Thursday, will beat them all.

That the Plainfield Temperance Alliance should turn from the prosecution (or persecution) of licensed liquor sellers.

That it should direct its attention to a Front street merchant that trades a concoction of "lightning" and benzine for old clothes or other articles.

That it is because the licensed will not sell certain confirmed drunkards, that the latter get their liquor by such means.

That if the hackmen were posted, they would not have to pay either license fee or fines.

That a six week's vacation is too little rest for the hard-worked ministers that have to preach every Sunday during the rest of the year.

That the Fourth Annual Exhibition of the U. & M. C. M. A. A., is to surpass all previous ones.

That the prospective trip of an old offender to the County Jail, was put off by the generous donations of comrades who made up the $5 fine imposed.

That the owners of Flagg's Hotel contemplate turning the lower part into commodious stores, and dividing the upper stories into comfortable offices.

That the North Plainfield School Trustees are going to employ an Elizabeth architect to prepare plans for the new school building over the brook.

That the troop of heavy dragoons which were noticed drilling on Park avenue Tuesday evening, was a detachment of the "Rahway Light Cavalry."

That one of them nearly severed his head in an endeavor to give the "right-oblique—perpendicular—concave—upper-guard-thrust."

That if the owner had known for what prospective purpose a certain member of the Board of Education purchased the lot at Franklin Square, the sale would not have been effected.

That the ministers who prayed for their "sister church in the affliction" (upon the occasion of the late fire that damaged the Trinity Reformed church) might have said a word or two for the owner of the barn who was the only individual that suffered any loss.

That the "sister church" is not the loser but rather the gainer—as a new organ will prove.

The Oil-Cloth Factory Nuisance.

The Mayor, on Saturday evening, having thrown open his house for the use of those who were complaining of the intolerable odors that are wafted by the changing winds from the oil-cloth factory, a number of our residents gathered together to take steps towards overcoming the nuisance. From an account of the meeting in the Central Times, we take the liberty of gathering the following in relation thereto:

Among the representative citizens present were such men as Rev. Dr. Bliss, J. F. Plummer, of Netherwood; Wm. Rockwell, cashier of the National State Bank of Newark, Isaac L. Miller, Councilman Thompson, Wm. R. Clarkson, Edward C. Mulford, John L. Ludlum, T. W. Burger and several others.

The meeting was formally organized by electing Mayor Randolph chairman and W. J. Leonard, secretary. After a discussion upon the various ways that were open to the citizens in moving to suppress the nuisance, the following resolutions were heartily and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is our right and duty to protect our families and property interests from the nuisance of the oil cloth works recently set up in Plainfield, near the Central railroad.

Resolved, That an executive committee of five be appointed to carry out the purpose of this protective movement; and that they be empowered to take legal advice and any legal proceedings necessary in their judgment for the purpose, and to expend money in their discretion to the extent only of whatever subscriptions, in this connection, they may receive.

"Resolved, That a memorial be addressed to the Council of this city urging them to take any and all, measures in their power to abate this nuisance.

Resolved, That the said executive committee be requested before commencing suits, or taking other legal proceedings, to visit the proprietors of the oil-cloth works and to endeavor to persuade them to relieve the city from the stenches now given forth from the said works."

A committee was appointed to obtain the names of those who wish to petition the Council for its co-operation and also to secure subscriptions for defraying legal and other expenses. This committee is J. F. Plummer, E. C. Mulford, Louis F. Wadsworth, Wm. Rockwell and Wm. Thompson.

The executive committee appointed according to the resolution is H. P. Talmadge, W. R. Clarkson, Abram Baker, W. D. W. Miller and by a special request of the meeting Mayor Randolph was made a member of the committee.

In discussing the question of securing counsel it was agreed that two of the lawyers of the city would render all the aid needed. The present Corporation Counsel Marsh and the late Corporation Counsel Kimball, the meeting decided should be retained for that purpose.

Before adjournment voluntary subscriptions were freely made to the fund for meeting the expenses of the movement, and Wm. Rockwell was made the treasurer of the fund.

Union & Middlesex Counties' Fair.

The Union & Middlesex Counties' Agricultural Association have issued their premium list for the Fourth Annual Exhibition of the Association, which occurs on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of Sept., the 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th, on their grounds near Plainfield. From it we gather that the general programme is as follows:

First day—Monday, Sept. 25th. Will be devoted to receiving goods and entries. Second day—Tuesday, Sept. 26th. 11 a. m.—Grand parade of all horses and mules upon the track. 11:30 a. m.—Horses in classes 1, 2, 3 and 4, will appear at their numbers, inside the track, where they will be judged. Classes from 5 to 9 will be judged on Wednesday. 1:30 p. m.—Class No. 10—Gentlemen's roadsters. 2 p. m.—Class No. 16—2:30 Class. Open to all. 2:30 p. m.—Class No. 20—Three-year-old colts. 3 p. m.—Class No. 16—2:60 Class. Open to all. Third day—Wednesday, Sept. 27th. 9:30 a. m.—Classes 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, will appear at their numbers, inside the track, where they will be judged. 1 p. m.—Class No. 15—2:45 Class. 1:30 p. m.—Class No. 18—Trotting Teams. Open to all. 2 p. m.—Class No. 21—Four-year-old colts. 2:30 p. m.—Class No. 12—2:35 Class. Open to all. 3 p. m.—Class No. 11—2:50 Class. Open to all. Fourth day—Thursday, Sept. 28th. 1 p. m.—Class No. 14—Trotting pairs. 1:30 p. m.—Class No. 17—Free to all. 2 p. m.—Class No. 19—2:40 Class. Open to all. 2:30 p. m.—Class No. 22—Five year-old colts. Fifth day—Friday, Sept. 29th. Auction sale, commencing at 10 a. m. Unfinished races.

The gates for the admission of visitors will open at nine o'clock, a. m., and close at sunset each day.

Officers and employees must be at their places of duty before the opening of the gates.

All vehicles for the transportation of supplies, etc., and all persons not entitled to remain must leave the grounds before nine o'clock, a. m.

The first day will be devoted to the reception and arrangement of articles for the exhibition.

The last day will be devoted to an auction sale held under the management of the Association, at which exhibitors may, if they desire, have their exhibits put up and sold, for which the Association will charge a commission of ten per cent. upon the selling price. The sale will be conducted under certain conditions stated.

A strong police force will be upon the grounds to arrest all violators of the law or rules of the Association.

No animal will be permitted to run at large upon the grounds. Bulls over 18 months old, not having rings in the nose, will not be assigned a place by the Superintendent. During the exhibition the General Superintendent will have full charge and control of the grounds. His office will be at the office of the Secretary, where he will hear all complaints of irregularities, neglect or violation of the rules. Should he be absent attending to any duty a book will be found in which complaints may be registered for his attention.

The Superintendents of Departments will see that their divisions are in proper order for the reception of exhibits of and for the convenience of exhibitors and visitors. The General Superintendent and Superintendents of Departments will also be vested with all the powers and prerogatives with which constables are invested, so far as acts or offenses committed with reference to, and in connection with, the exhibition; and they shall be responsible for the proper management of their departments.

Superintendents of Departments will see that no property leaves their charge without a ticket corresponding with the number of the entry card, which ticket will be surrendered by the exhibitor on delivery of the goods.

The Superintendent-in-Chief is Mr. J. V. D. Christopher, of New Brunswick, with Smith W. Laing, of Dunellen, N. J., as Assistant. Both of these gentlemen are well calculated to occupy the positions accorded them. Mr. H. Dayton Crowell, of Rahway, will again act as Superintendent and Marshall in Division A., the Horse department, a position he has most creditably filled the past three years. In Division B, Cattle, Messrs. Lewis D. Kelley and Reuben Potter will act as Superintendents. Division C., Sheep, Swine and Poultry, Messrs John I. Craig and Samuel R. Manning, Superintendents. Division D., Grain, Vegetables, Fruits, Messrs L. F. Randolph, Alex. Noe and J. W. Whitenack, Superintendents. Division E., Ladies' Department, Wm. Van Sicklen, Wm. Bedman, Jr., and R. B. Manning, Superintendents. Division F., Machinery and Mechanical Department, Winston Schenck and J. F. Morris, Superintendents.

The Speed Department will be under the supervision of Mr. James E. Vosseller. There will be trials of speed between some of the best trotting flesh in the State on this occasion. The premium list is large and offers extraordinary inducements to owners of fast horses, the purses amounting to $1,650.

Taken altogether, the Fourth Annual Fair of the above Association offers inducements that should make it one of the grandest successes of the season. All the gentlemen having charge of the various departments are well versed in the manner in which the Fair should be conducted, and it needs now, only the hearty co-operation of farmers and others to liberally display their products to insure a grand success.

How Others See It.

Since the injudicious report of the Committee from our Common Council as to the purity of Plainfield water, the press throughout the state has been circulating the false statement, embodied in the report, to the effect that our drinking water is "contaminated."

The Elizabeth Herald says:

"The people of Plainfield don't like their water. The taste is strong and they find bugs, snails and mosses in it, and write indignant letters to the papers about it. What do these Plainfield growlers want? [illegible]"

We might reply that did we stir our water with a "stick," as is the custom in Elizabeth, we would expect to see snakes, with every probability of such ocular realization.

TUESDAY's temperature reached 92 degrees.

One Year Ago.

Augustus Hobbs died at his residence in North Plainfield on the 8th inst.—— Sylvanus Compton, of whom nothing had been heard in over twenty years, returned to his parents in this city.——The thermometer on Thursday the 3rd inst., registered 100 in the shade.

FIRE MATTERS.

The Board of Managers of the Plainfield Fire Department met in regular meeting on Wednesday evening. Present—President Van Winkle and Messrs. Gillies, Jones, Depew and Flaig. Absent—Mr. Morris. Mr. Jones acted as chairman. Minutes of previous meeting read and approved. The report of the Committee on Wells was read by Mr. Depew. It recommended that a well be put down at the corner of Ninth street and Central avenue. Also if other wells be deemed desirable there should be one at Ninth street and Broadway or First place, and one at Liberty and Second or Third streets. The Committee had been requested to locate a well at William and Third streets. Report accepted. The Committee asked an appropriation of $15 for the purpose of cleaning out the well sunk in the raceway of Randolph's Mill, and for having a pipe put in to keep the flow clear. A motion to that effect was carried. Mr. Jones made a satisfactory explanation of the cause of the inability of getting water at Somerset and Front streets well upon the occasion of the Church fire. The fault was a difficulty in turning the water from the race into the well, which had since been remedied. Chief Vail reported in regard to the proposed parade [illegible] a meeting of the respective company's representatives in relation to the matter, that the idea would meet with their approval if the Board would appropriate $50 to each company towards the expense of the affair. The resignation of Chas. H. Smith as a member of Zephyr H. & L. Co. was received and accepted. Mr. Chas. H. Smith was proposed as a member of Gazelle Eng. Co., and Messrs. A. Love, P. Kelley and W. Davis as members of Zephyr H. & L. Co. All laid over under the rule. The following bills were ordered paid: J. [illegible], $4 70; N. Marsh, 4 50; W. Murphy, 1 50; W. Newman, 1; H. Hamilton, 4; L. R. Wright, 1 40; J. R. Flannery, 2 90; G. E. Hope .75; E. Waters 2. The following were referred to the Com. on Repairs and Supplies: Plainfield Gas Co., $97 20; J. N. Schenck, 39 05. The claim of J. A. Hubbard, for assessing fire tax including North Plainfield, $125, was referred to the Treasurer. Mr. Gillies moved that two lines of rope be procured to be drawn across the street at each side of a fire, to be in charge of Zephyr H. & L. Co., for the purpose of keeping outside the boundary all persons other than firemen. Laid over for thirty days. Mr. Flaig called the attention of the Board to the desirability of its being represented at the coming Convention of firemen in Cincinnati in September.

On motion, the President was authorized to call a special meeting for the purpose of considering the subject of such representation. Bids were opened for the building of wells as advertised. They were as follows: David Martin, $156; W. M. Smith, $169. Mr. Van Winkle moved that if David Martin furnish satisfactory security for the accomplishment of the work, that the contract be awarded him for digging a well at Ninth street and Central avenue to be located by the Committee on Wells. Carried. A motion was also carried empowering the Com on Wells to clean any that may need to be. The meeting then adjourned.

SCOTCH PLAINS SCRATCHINGS.

The Episcopal Church is nearly completed. It is expected that services will be held in it as early as September next. The edifice is a decided ornament to the formerly long stretch of vacant property between the village and the old depot road.

"Somebody" had better stop breaking the lamps.

The Baptist Sunday School will enjoy an excursion to Coney Island on Wednesday August 16th.

Many new residents have appeared in the village this summer. The morning and evening trains indicate that the sleepy old Plains are waking up.

The exterior of the school house has been improved by a coat of paint. Inside alterations will soon be made. The school library will be kept open regardless of vacation.

Next Sunday begins the vacation of the pastor of the M. E. Church. The pulpit will be supplied during his absence.

It is to be hoped that the tragic event which followed Saturday night's unfortunate brawl will not be without its moral effect upon the belligerent element that has too often made "night hideous."

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

It seems impossible that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., should make so many and such great cures as Hop Bitters do; but when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them you must believe and try them yourself, and doubt no longer.

There is no one article in the line of medicines that gives so large a return for the money as a good porous strengthening plaster, such as Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

MY UNCLE'S WILL.

My uncle was a millionaire and rejoiced in the euphonious name of Smith. My elder brother had been named as his heir, and I was sent to Japan and placed in a mercantile house to work out my own salvation. I worked diligently for five years at this pursuit, at the end of which time I received a letter from uncle's family lawyer announcing the death of that relative, and notifying me I was named as his sole heir, my brother having been disinherited because of a mesalliance he had contracted.

I was somewhat dismayed at the condition of my inheritance, which was that I must marry my cousin Cecelia Brooks, a young lady I had never seen and scarcely heard of, otherwise the whole of the vast estate would be distributed among the charities. However, I was heart whole, I resolved to make the best of it; and proceeded to shed a tear at my uncle's memory and started home.

Having plenty of funds and time at my disposal I prosecuted my journey slowly, visiting on my way every place of interest on the continent.

My traveling companion was a wealthy young Englishman, named Lockhart, who knew everybody worth knowing, and who introduced me into the best of society. At Manheim we fell in with a widow lady and her niece, whom Lockhart had met in England, and claiming them for our country women, we soon became fast friends, traveled with them to Heidelberg, and took rooms at the same hotel.

Mrs. Grantham was a wealthy young widow, beautiful and fascinating, and Lockhart soon fell a victim to her charms. But the enchanting loveliness of the niece far eclipsed the mature charms of the widow, and I too, soon became ensnared beyond redemption. So we used to pair off and thus enjoy the glories of Heidelberg all the more from having uninterrupted possession of our charmers.

Thus we passed a few happy weeks, I little dreaming that I was too far gone to retreat. But the last day of Heidelberg settled it. We were out for our usual stroll among the ruins, and were sitting on a hoary, mossgrown block of decaying granite. I was about to announce my near departure for home, and was trying to come to the point, when I suddenly looked up into my companion's face. The soft sweet glance I received from her cerulean eyes sealed my fate. Resign her for the sake of riches! Permit myself to wed a girl I knew nothing of! Never! Away, with filthy lucre! Money could not buy such a precious gem as this! I was not so poor after all, and I would toil for her sweet sake. I hurriedly reasoned this and told her of my love.

Passionately I poured forth my appeal. She seemed to grow close to me at each word, and ere I ended, my arm was circling her taper waist, her blushing cheek was pillowed on my breast, her wavy hair hung over my shoulder like rivulets of molten gold, and with one long lingering tooth-pulling kiss our betrothal was completed.

The next day I left for England, and at once waited upon my uncle's lawyer, Mr. Capel, and after receiving congratulations, cooly informed him that I did not mean to accept the estate upon the conditions named in my uncle's will.

"You are surely not already married?" he cried.

"No, not yet; but I am engaged to a young lady, and I would not give her up on any account."

"But, my dear sir, circumstances alter cases," pleaded the man of law. "This is probably some attachment formed before your uncle's death and no doubt the lady will forego her claim when she hears how you are circumstanced. At all events you will hold possession till you do marry. I know how useless it is to argue with a man who is in love; but I would advise you to go down and see the old place, and then perhaps you will change your mind," added the sly advocate, as he bowed me out of the office.

I went down to Manfoeville. The splendid mansion and spacious demesne seemed still more magnificent than ever after my long absence, but my faith never wavered, and I held true to my allegiance to Clasie. She knew nothing of my belongings or affairs, save that I had inherited a large estate, and was well to do in the world; this much she had learned from Lockhart. When I saw Mrs. Grantham's arrival announced in a fashionable paper, I at once proceeded to London, and repaired to her house in Portman square. She gave me a cordial welcome; and Clasie, dear girl, flung her arms around my neck and tenderly embraced me as soon as her aunt left her alone. I felt I could refuse kingdoms to possess my darling.

Mrs. Grantham pressed me to stay to luncheon, but I excused myself on the plea of urgent business, promising her, however, to return to dinner.

"Mind you come for I have so much to tell you," whispered Clasie, as I descended the stairs.

I went direct to Mr. Capel's office.

"You may consider me no longer your client. I'm going to plunge headlong into matrimony," I said, on entering.

"Without seeing Miss Brooks? I hear she has arrived, and was on the point of visiting her. Wait awhile, and don't do anything rash. Who knows but she may have a beau, and refuse to marry you?" he replied.

I laughed, but he evidently did not like the ringing careless tone of my merriment; it sounded like a funeral knell to his cherished hope of still retaining the position of legal adviser to a millionaire.

I went to my hotel, dressed, and then returned to Mrs. Grantham's. I was sitting in the gloaming on a low sofa, with my arm around my darling, reiterating the vows I had taken amid Heidelberg ruins. The slant crimson rays of the setting sun were streaming across the room, glittering on the golden tresses of my love till they shone like nimbuses of glory, and I was gazing, spellbound by her beauty, when the door opened and Mr. Capel appeared on the threshold.

"Pardon my intrusion, Miss Brooks; the servant told me you were alone," he said, and then stopped, mute with astonishment on recognizing me.

"This isn't Miss Brooks, but my intended, Miss Grantham. Permit me to introduce you, Clasie. This is my lawyer, Mr. Capel," I said.

They bowed to each other—Mr. Capel with a most mystified expression of countenance.

"Am I dreaming, Miss Brooks?" he said at last.

"I ought to have told you before, Harold. I meant to have done so just now. Mrs. Grantham is not my aunt—only a friend whom I was traveling with. She wished me to pass as her niece on our journeys, but my real name is Brooks. Can you forgive my not having told this, even to you?" she said.

The whole truth flashed upon me, at once. Could I forgive her, indeed! I covered her rosy cheeks with kisses, then, bringing tears to the eyes of the lawyer by the warmth which I grasped his hand.

"Why Clasie, darling, you are my own cousin—the identical one Uncle John ordered me to marry, and whom I pictured to myself a fat dairy-maid sort of girl!" I cried in glee.

"Shall I still have you for a client?" said Mr. Capel, with a roguish twinkle in his eye. "I think you may trust his affection, Miss Brooks; for he intended to resign all claim to one of the finest estates in England to enable him to marry you," he added.

"I don't know whether to put that construction on it or not," replied Clasie archly. "It is true that he was willing to surrender that estate rather than to marry his cousin—I am that cousin."

I replied again by covering her blushing face with kisses.

It was not till years had elapsed, and Lockhart and the pretty widow were married, and were on a visit to our happy home, that I learned that it was all a put up job on the part of the lawyer, Lockhart, the widow and Clasie. They were afraid I would be as great a fool as my brother, and fall in love with the first pretty face I met, so they took care that Clasie's should be that face.

A MISCHIEVOUS AMENDMENT.

We hear much complaint from gentlemen intelligently interested in the fishing interests of the State, of the change made by the Legislature last Winter in regard to catching black bass. It made the open season from the first of June, instead of from the first of July as before. This change was all wrong. The law was right before. The spawning season of the black bass, especially in lake springs, such as the past, lasts all through June, and it is murderous slaughter of the fish to take it at this time. The female bass might be seen guarding their spawning beds beside almost every rock, and in many places by persons walking across the upper bridge during June. They carefully guard their beds until the young fry are hatched, which takes about two weeks. To catch the vigilant and faithful mother while thus protecting her babies from harm is certainly opposed to the interests of the true sportsman, and it is to be hoped that the law will be again changed next Winter.—State Gazette.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

THE STAGE DRIVER'S WIFE.

Four horses dashed in fine style up to the door of an inn, pulling behind them the gorgeous red stage, which swayed and rocked in a fashion that made the more nervous passengers wince and shiver.

Hollister threw his reins to the stable boy and went into the inn. He was a bluff, big fisted fellow, rather rough looking in his wolf skin overcoat and broad visored cap. Nobody ever doubted the kindness of heart under that unpolished exterior, however.

Now as he tramped through the big hall on his way to the bar-room he paused at the sight of the female figure in one dim corner, with her face drooped into both hands and her whole attitude one of sorrow and despair. The figure was slender and young, clad in a well worn suit, and the hands upon which the brown head was bowed were white and delicate.

"I beg your pardon, ma'am, are you in trouble? Can I be of service to you?"

Then the girl looked up and Hollister recognized the daughter of a man who had been at the inn for several weeks—a man whom the driver had no hesitancy in classing as an adventurer and a blackleg.

He had pitied the girl on that night when he had first seen her, when he had brought them out from the city; for she seemed a lady with her quiet ways and her wistful eyes, and not at all fitted for a life of Bohemianism, such as her father was leading her.

She looked up, and meeting the expression of kindness in Frank Hollister's clear gray eyes, she struggled a moment for self-control and then burst into tears.

Frank squared his broad shoulders before her in order to screen her from the curious gaze of any who might pass through the hall, and waited in silence.

Presently the girl raised her head once more, looked at him with tear-stained eyes, and with quivering lips, said: "I am in trouble, sir. Yours are the first friendly words I have heard to-day. My father"—here a crimson flush dyed her fair brow—"my father has left me; where he has gone I do not know. I am absolutely among strangers, and our bill here is not paid."

For one instant Frank looked at her doubtedly, and then with a sudden rush of self-shame and chivalry, his hand went into his breast pocket and drew therefrom a big leather pocket-book.

The girl make an indignant gesture, and looked at him with wide, opened, haughty eyes.

"Sir, I scarcely expected such an insult!"

Whereupon Frank began a hurried and indignant repudiation of her insinuation. He insult a woman? He had the dearest mother and the sweetest little sister in the world, away off there in the Eastern States, praying for him!

"P'raps I ain't dainty in my choice of words as I might be, lady. I am a rough fellow at the best; but I am dreadful soft-hearted where a woman is concerned. If you choose to look upon me as a friend and a straight one—one that never goes back on his word—you shan't be disappointed. Now, then, how can I serve you?"

The big pocket-book had disappeared and the girl's face softened at his rough gallantry. She extended one little hand frankly.

"Forgive me, sir; I know that you are all that you seem. I cannot accept any pecuniary aid from you or any one. The landlord has offered me a situation as a table girl. I shall accept it, and in that way pay our indebtedness. Thanks for your kindness. I shall not forget it."

With a little fitting smile she slipped past him and went up the dark stairway, while the driver proceeded to the bar-room, where the men were talking, laughing, smoking and drinking.

Here Hollister listened to a detailed account of the disappearance of Colonel Pressy, interspersed with various comments concerning him and his daughter Cora.

Pressy was stigmatized as a cheat, a villian, and a sponge—anything, everything they call him so he was gone. There were some expressions of sympathy for the girl; but she herself was not liked. Miss Pressy had kept herself too far aloof from every one in the house to win the approval of this free and easy western community.

One loutish looking fellow leaning against the bar-rail, remarked with a sneering grin: "That gal's a mighty stuck up little critter—reckon she won't put on any more airs with me!" and he sent a stream of tobacco juice in a very skillful manner straight into the mouth of a spittoon which occupied the centre of the room.

Hollister, who had been a silent listener until now, [illegible] extraordinary [illegible] striking him a light blow upon the shoulder, said, evenly and distinctly: "Look here, Jerry, you don't want to talk any more like that about Miss Pressy."

"Goin' to marry her, Frank?"

"I expect to," replied Frank, coolly, as he turned to select a cigar from the case.

There was no more [illegible] about Cora Pressy in his hearing. The daughter of an unknown adventurer, no matter how thorough a lady she might seem, and the sweet-heart of the jolly, blue-eyed, strong-armed stage driver were two different persons, and when the lonely girl entered upon her new duties the next day she was surprised at the kindness and consideration of all about her.

Frank did not try to weaken the impression which his words had made. He knew that it would be her surest protection; that [illegible] desire to protect and help her, she was so delicate and sorrowful, so absolutely alone, [illegible] arrival of Hollister's stage, she was left to wait upon him in the dining-room.

She felt an instinctive confidence in this big, bluff, sun-burned fellow. There was a bond of sympathy growing between them which she had no desire to break.

One day, twenty minutes down his route, Frank heard a bit of news which worked him into a fever of impatience. Never had the whip curled so sharply over the flanks of his sturdy horses; never had he made better time than on that day, when it seemed to him but a snail's pace.

At last, however, the stage drew up before the inn, whose roof sheltered the girl, who, in a few short days, had grown inexpressibly dear to the driver.

He held a hurried conversation with the hostler, which resulted in the latter agreeing to drive the stage on to its destination for a certain sum of money.

Then Frank went into the long dining room, and seating himself at one of the small tables in a secluded corner, he waited for Cora Pressy.

He flushed to the roots of his crispy curling brown hair as he smiled at her. She noticed it and wondered silently, and thinking meanwhile that he was not a bad looking fellow, with his broad brow, honest eyes and grim lips.

"Miss Cora," he said rather awkwardly; "I would like to have you ride with me this evening, if you will. I have something of importance to tell you," he added hurriedly, growing redder than ever before with embarrassment.

Cora looked at him wistfully. Was it something about her father? But she dared not put the thought to words, there being too many about. So she merely bowed her head in acceptance of his invitation and went away.

Half an hour later she was tucked into a trim little cutter beside him, dashing along over the moonlit road, and waiting anxiously for him to reveal the matter of importance at which he had hinted.

But Frank was curiously silent for a long while. It seemed to Cora that he would never speak. At last with a sudden effort, he said: "Miss Cora, you've known me only a few days, but you've seen enough of me to know that I am a blunt spoken fellow, so I hope you won't be upset by what I'm going to say. I'm not much of a gentleman, but I haven't any bad habits, and make a fair living, and—and—well, I want a wife, little gal, and I love you. If you'll have me I'll do my prettiest to make you the happiest woman in the country."

Cora smiled at him through tear-filled eyes, and this gave him courage to slip one arm over the back of the cutter and draw her closer to his side.

She murmured something about being almost a stranger to him; but Frank, grown wonderfully bold, pressed with his lips the lids over the girl's dark eyes and queried: "Do you love another man?"

"No," she answered honestly enough; "I believe you are the best man I ever knew."

Whereupon Frank kissed her again upon the lips this time, and made a second proposition, to which at first she would not listen. But the will and the energy of her earnest hearted wooer carried the day, and the result was a call upon a Justice of the Peace; and when they re-entered the inn that night the girl was Cora Pressy no longer, but Cora Hollister, and Frank's face was radiant and triumphant.

In the dingy waiting room an excited crowd was gathered.

Frank endeavored to hurry his wife past the doorway, but her quick glance had caught a glimpse of a familiar figure.

"Father," she cried, and stepped into the room.

Yes, there he was, haggard and disheveled, with bloodshot eyes and unshaven face. He might have been fine looking once. There was just a ghost of a debonair about him still despite his wretchedness. An officer guarded him on either side.

"What has he done?" cried Cora with pallid lips.

Some one in the crowd answered brutally enough: "Killed a brother gambler twenty miles back. They're taking him through to the city."

Then the poor little wife went into a dead faint in her husband's arms and he carried her upstairs with his brown cheek against her white one.

All night he watched beside her while she went from one deathly swoon into another. At last in the gray morning she smiled sadly into her husband's eyes and whispered: "Do not be troubled. I will go away."

"Not if I can help it," answered Frank with a grim set of his under lip. Then all at once he put his face down on the pillow beside her and began to cry like a two-year old baby.

With her slender hands she stroked the man's big curly head and talked to him in a sweet, weary way that went straight to his warm heart.

"Dear friend," she said, "I know how unselfish you are, but I will not allow you to make such a sacrifice. You shall not share my shame."

"Look here, little woman, I knew all about this affair yesterday morning; that's why I was in such a rush to get married. I knew they would bring Col. Pressy through here, and I knew if I did not make sure of you then, that I should never get you. My little darling wife," he went on, kissing her hair and eyes and lips, "thank God nothing can separate us—nothing but death."

And looking into her husband's eyes Cora knew that here was her safe home and shelter forevermore.

My reader would set me down as an unsatisfactory story teller were I to omit the sequel.

Col. Pressy committed suicide a month later in his prison cell.

Frank took his little wife away to his eastern home, where she lives a contented little matron, proud and happy in her husband's love and in possession of a cooing, bright-faced baby.

CRESCENDA'S PLAN.

It was a brilliant February afternoon, with the world all crusted over with fairy pearl, the woods hung with fringes of icicle, and the sun going down in a great sea of yellow gold. The sunsets at Glen Angel were a sort of daily miracle, and Beth Gifford, leaning her fresh young face against the quaint, lozenge-shaped panes of the casement, looked out and dreamed, until she could almost have fancied herself in fairy land.

Suddenly old Peggy, in the room below, dropped a resounding tin pan on the hearth, and in the same instant Muff, the cat, made a leap at an adventurous mouse, which had dared to peep around the edge of an ancient folding screen.

Beth turned around with a sigh and a shiver.

"Put up your work, Cressy," said she. "Oh, I wonder if there are any girls in all the world like us?"

"I suppose we are all alike," said calmer Crescenda, who, in a Baize blouse, and with her hair flying in silky curls all over her head, was standing before an easel, with a palette [illegible]

Two or three eventful weeks went by, Cora filling her new situation with satisfactory promptness. Every night on the [illegible] one hand, and a brush in the other.

"No, we're not," said Beth. "Squire Selwyn's daughters are drinking afternoon tea, at this moment, surrounded by a host of young gentlemen admirers; Miss Mizzell is practicing 'La Juive;' the rector's girls are making flannel petticoats for the poor, and Fannie Clare is working wonders; while we—"

"Well, we?" Crescenda laughingly filled the momentary pause.

"I am dreaming over my last poem, which won't suit itself to suit me; and you, Cressy, are painting 'Queen Guinevere!' We don't go anywhere, we don't see anybody. Do you suppose we shall ever be married?"

Crescenda looked quietly up. She herself was slightly deformed, with one shoulder higher than the other, and she halted slightly as she walked. Since the day that she was twenty, matrimony had scarcely ever entered her thoughts. But with Beth it was different. Beth was only eighteen, with dark, long-fringed eyes and cheeks of sea-shell pink. Beth ought to marry a prince, at the very least. But where are princes to come from in these lonely mountain fastnesses?

"Beth," she said, abruptly, "you ought to go to Miss Selwyn's party."

"Granted," said Beth. "And evidently Miss Selwyn thinks so, too, else she never would have sent us those lovely gilt-edge cards of invitation. But how can I go? I've nothing on earth to wear but that cream-colored silk, that everybody knows by heart."

Crescenda sighed. How passing hard it was to be poor!

"Beth," she said, coaxingly, "couldn't you wear it just once more?"

Beth shook her head.

"It wouldn't do," said she. "Thirteen times within the year! People will begin to think—what is the truth—that I haven't got anything else."

"You'd like to very much, wouldn't you?" said Crescenda, lovingly.

"Oh, wouldn't I, though?" nodded Beth.

"Well, you shall go," said Crescenda.

"If you will conjure up some fairy god-mother," laughed Beth, "to provide me with something new and splendid to wear."

And then she sighed again, for she knew that Colonel Champney Durelle was to be at the same party, and she had fancied once or twice that Colonel Durelle did not absolutely dislike her (Beth) although Maud Selwyn was so much more regularly beautiful, and Essie Parks sang so delightfully, and Rosalind Hawkshaw could talk so much more learnedly about "Shakespeare and the musical glasses," and all that sort of thing.

"But one's fate is one's fate," thought Beth. "And it will come to one even in an old stone cell of a house like this, new dresses or no new dresses. Not quite so soon, perhaps, or not quite so brilliantly—but in time."

And Bertha's soft eyes brimmed with sudden moisture at the thought of Colonel Champney Durelle going away from Glen Angel, where she should never, never see him again.

Crescenda and Elizabeth Gifford lived all alone in the old stone house where, a century ago, old Sir Glorius Gifford had settled down, in a fit of pique at the grand English relations who so systematically ignored him, and where the Gifford family had ever since been growing poorer and poorer, until they had dwindled down to three rooms in the old Tower, one rheumatic old servant-woman, and a desperate struggle with poverty day by day.

Elizabeth was a beauty, and Cressy was a genius, but even beauty, and genius must have a horizon whereon to shine, and what was the Tower but a sort of living tomb?

* * * * *

"Berth! Berth! don't lie there. Come, rouse yourself up!" cried Crescenda, cheerfully.

For Beth, half-hidden in a fluffy white Aragora rug that had been one of Crescenda's models, reclined, dreaming, in the window seat, where the daffodil glow of the sunset flooded everything with light.

"But I am not going. Didn't we settle it all?"

"But you are! Look! The fairy godmother has been here. She has left you a dress."

Beth sprang to her feet in an instant.

"Cressy," she said, "much learning has made you mad. What are you talking about?"

"See!" said Crescenda, gravely, holding up something which shone and shimmered in the sunset as if it were woven out of splintered rainbows.

"A new dress!" cried Beth, with a shriek of true feminine delight "Oh, Cressy!"

"How do you like it?" said Crescenda.

Of the softest corn, with a wreath of autumn-leaves surrounding the hem—such autumn-leaves as drift down, all red and gold, when the dawn-breeze stirs the frosty foliage of a crisp October morning—and delicate sprigs of golden-rod and pale-blue aster all over it.

"Is it Pompadour brocade?" cried Beth, clasping her hands in ecstasy. "Oh, Cressy, where did you get the money to pay for it? Surely, surely you never have gone in debt?"

"Put on the dress and wear it," said Crescenda. "That is all you have to do."

Of all the young beauties in Miss Selwyn's crowded drawing room, Beth Gifford was the fairest and sweetest that night.

"Extravagance!" whispered Essie Parks.

"A dress like that, and when everybody knows how poor they are!" remarked Miss Hawkshaw, with acrimony.

While Col. Champney Durelle simply lost his heart to the rose-cheeked damsel in the autumn-leaves.

"She is a picture!" he said, enthusiastically—"a positive picture! I never saw anything so perfectly in keeping in my life as that exquisite face, and the antique dress with its hem of colored leaves, and the cluster of golden and violet flowers all over it!"

Miss Selwyn's dress had come from Worth's—a pale-blue silk, looped with forget-me-not, and edged with white blonde; but it looked insignificant by the side of the asters and golden-rod; Rosalind Hawkshaw had ordered a "costume" from Madame Victorine, in New York—an amazing combination of maize velvet and black lace, but it did not suit her dark, piquant little face, and, to a certain degree, it was a disappointment. There were other superb toilets there, of course, but Beth Gifford's was incontrovertibly the prettiest in the room. And Beth herself looked like an opening rosebud.

It was long past midnight when she ran into the old round room in the Tower, where Crescenda, still in her painting blouse, was musing before the burning logs, while the ruddy light rose and fell on Queen Guinevere's jeweled crown in the picture and a cricket sang shrilly between the red bricks of the hearth.

"Cressy!" she cried—"oh, dear, dear Cressy—I have so much to tell you!"

Crescenda looked up amused.

Was the era of transformation, then, not over? Was this brilliant young princess, with cheeks of pomegranate crimson, eyes like stars, robes all gold and violet, her little sister Beth?

"I am so happy!" whispered Beth, flinging herself on her knees beside her sister.

"Have you had a pleasant party, Beth?"

"A party!" echoed the girl, throwing back her long, silky curls. "It was a glimpse of Paradise! And—put your head down, Cressy, close to mine—he has asked me to be his wife. And I have said yes!"

"Beth—my little Beth!"

For a minute the two girls sobbed in each other's arms; then Beth sprang up, with the diamond drops still on her lashes.

"You'll tell me now, Cressy," she uttered, coaxingly, "where you got that exquisite dress! For I really believe it was the dress that Champney fell in love with as much as it was me."

"You a woman, with woman's penetration, and not to know!" cried Crescenda. "Why, it was your old cream-colored silk, darling. Peggy and I turned and remodeled it, and I painted the garlands of autumn leaves and the little cluster of aster and golden-rod, days when you were out for your walk."

"You? Oh, Cressy, you are better than any fairy godmother!" exclaimed Beth, incredulously.

"My dear," said Crescenda, "I was determined that you should have a new dress for Miss Selwyn's party, and you had it!"

"And to think that I didn't recognize it," said Beth, self-reproachfully. "But Cressy—my dear Cressy—the enchanter's wand of your pencil has opened to me the gates of enchanted land. For, if I had had no dress, I couldn't have gone to the party; and if I hadn't gone to the party, I couldn't have waltzed with Champney Durelle; and if I hadn't waltzed with him he never would have taken me into the conservatory and told me how dearly he loved me!"

And Crescenda knew that her little plan had turned out a success.

Attention Democrats!

The Democratic voters of North Plainfield Township will meet at Dunier's Hotel, Saturday afternoon, August 12th, at 3 o'clock, to elect three delegates to attend the Fourth Congressional Democratic Convention, at Newton, Sussex county, on Thursday, August 17th. By order

Executive Com. N. Plainfield Township.

REPEAL THE WAR TAXES.

Extracts from a speech of Hon. Roswell P. Flower, Democratic Congressman from New York, delivered in the House of Representatives, May 3rd last:

"I believe that prudence and justice to our constituents call upon us for some more effective policy and more sweeping reductions.

The twenty-three millions of the Committee is not equal to one year's increase from internal taxes.

It is a mere pluck at a leaf of a weed which should be pulled up by the roots.

Except as regards distilled spirits and the circulation of the national banks, the internal revenue system is oppressive and no longer necessary.

This House can provide for its repeal.

It can provide that the taxes on distilled spirits shall be collected by customs officers, and it can give an opportunity to the hordes of tax gatherers who now infest the country and draw five millions in salaries annually to discuss civil-service reform from the standpoint of private citizenship.

Such a proceeding would be prudent.

It would leave sufficient income to meet all the expenses of Government.

It would leave a margin broad enough for all contingencies.

In New York City this internal revenue has reduced the number of cigar and tobacco manufacturers from 15,000 to 1,500.

It has given such a monopoly to a few match manufacturers that they readily buy out at his own price any one who has the audacity to compete with them.

It has driven millions of capital from this country.

Its collectors patrol our streets and dictate to our tradesmen, and its inspectors invade the privacy of every home, office, store and factory when the slightest suspicion of excuse is afforded.

All over the country the same influence is at work, and the same feeling of law breaking and deception is engendered.

Spying, lying, cheating, fear, hatred, and lawlessness are its outgrowth.

We have had enough of these things.

We are past needing them.

Let them go with all other reminders of our late struggle.

If we make provision now for a sweeping reduction, if we fix a date for the death of this pest, then all will have time to get ready, all will be relieved and benefited.

If we allow it to live much longer, we will have to choose between lavish expenditure, more lavish than the present, or the heaping up in the Treasury of sums which might elsewhere be employed in hiring labor and developing the resources of the country."

IMPERATIVE DUTY.

There is nothing more emphatically Democratic than a pure, able and just Government, both Legislative and Executive, raising revenue only for legitimate purposes, avoiding oppressive taxation, and disbursing public money with prudent economy, solely for the general protection and welfare of the people, and strictly in accordance with Constitutional authority.

That is Democratic to-day and it has been such from the very organization of the party, and we fail to understand how any man claiming to be a Democrat can swerve from following a line of action so inseparably connected with the best interests of country and the integrity of free representative institutions.

Suppose every Democratic member of the present Congress had stood resolutely upon that sound and real Democratic platform of principles, and by his voice and vote had boldly protested against manifest jobbery and profligate expenditure, what a commanding—aye what an invincible attitude the Democratic party would now occupy before the whole country?

Honest voters of all parties are sick of political trading and corruption. They long for an era of fidelity and decency, when men elected to fill public offices will discharge incumbent duty as a sacred trust, and never prostitute official position into a filthy arena for the grabbing of personal gain.

Like the rumbling of an approaching thunder storm discontent is heard from one end of the land to the other.

The people are angry and well they may be.

The warning should arouse the Democratic party to hurl aside every obstacle, no matter what, and rally with determined might for the prompt and positive vindication of Jeffersonian precept and practice.

The duty is imperative.

MODERN FINANCE.

"How did you come to get in jail?" asked a gentleman of a colored American citizen he saw behind the bars.

"Dey put me in heah for borryin money from a friend."

"Why, they can't do that. It's no crime to borrow money."

"Yes, boss, but ye see I had ter knock him down wid a club several times before he would loan it ter me, an' den I had ter take it outen his pocket myself."

Respectfully referred to the Congressional Committee on Voluntary Contributions.

The State elections, the approaching Fall, especially in N. J., are of more than usual importance to the Democrats. As the Legislature now stands, the Senate has 10 Republicans and 5 Democrats who hold over, with six to elect. The Republicans, therefore, need but to elect one Senator to retain a majority. The House last year was Democratic by one majority. Should the Republicans elect 29 out of the 60 members of Assembly, they would have a majority of one on joint ballot. Senators will be elected from the Counties of Middlesex, Passaic, Sussex, Hunterdon, Burlington and Cape May. The first four of these should be carried by the Democrats, and an increased majority obtained in the House. On the political complexion of the next Legislature depends the selection of a successor to Hon. John R. McPherson, Democratic United States Senator. Democrats should bear this in mind.

In the Star-route trials Monday the case for the defense was closed and several witnesses were examined by the prosecution in rebuttal.

It is announced that the first "lighting up" by electricity on the Edison system will take place in New York on the 1st of September. Incandescent lights are not uncommon; they can be found on ferry boats and in a number of offices, but this will be the first step, on a large scale, towards the substitution of electricity for gas. The district is bounded by Spruce, Nassau, Wall streets and the East river. After more than a year of steady labor all of the mains have been laid, houses and offices have been "wired" for about 14,000 lamps, and elaborate and costly machinery has been constructed in the central station on Pearl street. Mr. Edison has not been in a hurry; he has labored to make his work perfect, and he has invented many improvements, by one of which, it is said, he can raise and lower the light at will the same as with gas. This experiment will decide the question of cost as well as of efficiency, and the result will be waited for with mingled curiosity and anxiety.

The Land Leagues of Newark and neighborhood have arranged a programme for a monster festival to last two days, to be held at the Shooting Park next month. There will be parades from the centre of the city to the grounds each day. Invitations have been extended to the Sixty-ninth Regiment of New York and to the Sarsfield Guards of New Haven, Conn. The different Irish national and benevolent associations will parade in regalia on the second day of the festival.

The next political event of national importance will be the Maine election, which takes place on Tuesday, September 12. There will be elections before that date in Kentucky and Alabama, Aug. 7; in Arkansas, Sept. 4; Vermont, Sept. 5. The result in each of these States is a foregone conclusion. In Maine the probabilities are mixed. There are four or five tickets in the field, but the real contest will be between Governor Plaisted, Fusion, and Robie, Republican machine candidate.

Arabi Bey claims that he defeated the British in the engagement last Saturday. This view is also taken by the Italian press. Some of the Egyptian outposts made a forward movement last Tuesday evening, but desisted under the fire of a man-of-war. The crop prospects continue to favor the predictions that there will be an abundant yield, especially of wheat, which will probably surpass that of any previous year. The National Department of Agriculture estimates the crop at 500,000,000 bushels, but later returns from the West, based on facts and estimates, increase this figure to 600,000,000 bushels.

The law requires Town Committees to meet on the third Tuesday of August in each year to revise and correct the duplicates. This year the third Tuesday in August comes on the 15th. Those who have not made out their schedules and returned them to the assessors by that time will forfeit their right to claim lawful deductions.

It is time for the people of this country to draw the sharpened blade of an irrepressible conflict against every species of public plunder and every grade of public plunderers. Honesty must make laws for and govern the Republic or its pillars will decay and fall. That is as sure as the rising and setting of the sun.

The depositors of the defunct Rahway Savings Institution feel very indignant at not having received any statement of the financial condition of the bank since the failure. A meeting was held a few days ago and a committee was appointed to make a formal demand for a full and complete statement.

The River and Harbor bill passed in such hot haste over the veto of President Arthur undoubtedly contained many meritorious items of general utility, but they were hidden beneath a mass of extravagant job expenditures, which plainly revealed the finger marks of money filchers.

The Republican press are lauding to the skies "Honest John Hill" for voting in favor of sustaining the President's veto of the River and Harbor bill. They, however, fail to announce the fact that "Honest John" voted for the bill when it passed Congress.

Congress adjourned finally on Tuesday last. The House did not tender a vote of thanks to Speaker Keifer, as Mr. Robeson was warned early in the day that if a motion to that effect was offered it would be opposed by the Democrats.

POST OFFICES IN NEW JERSEY.

Under the law of Congress the biennial adjustment of salaries of postmasters of the Presidential rank has been completed, so far as New Jersey is concerned. The postmasters designated as Presidential are those requiring nomination by the President and confirmation by the Senate. They all draw a salary of from $1,000 up to that of $8,000, received by the Postmaster of New York city.

A correspondent of the Newark Advertiser says the following is a correct list of the salaries of the postmasters in New Jersey whose appointments are made directly by the President, subject to confirmation by the Senate:

Office.	Class.	Salary.
Asbury Park	3	$1,800
Atlantic City	3	2,500

COUNTY FAIRS THIS FALL.

The following fairs will be held in the State during 1882:

New Jersey State Agricultural Society, at Waverly, Sept. 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22.

Monmouth County Agricultural Society, at Freehold, Sept. 12, 13 and 14.

Union & Middlesex Counties' Mutual Agricultural Association, near Plainfield, Sept. 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th and 29th.

Hunterdon County Agricultural Society, at Flemington, Sept. 26, 27 and 28.

Somerset County Agricultural Society, at Somerville, Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Burlington County Agricultural Society, at Mount Holly, Oct. 10, 11, 12 and 13.

THE ALABAMA ELECTIONS.

Montgomery, Ala., August 8. The official vote will not be known in the State election until Saturday, but enough is known to indicate the election of the Democratic State ticket by an immense majority. The vote on both sides is light, but that of the opposition is much lighter in proportion than that of with perhaps three exceptions, and there will not be more than twenty opposition members out of the 100 in the House.

The Fourth District Democratic Congressional Convention will assemble at Newton on Friday, August 17. Congressman Harris will probably be renominated.

General Gouverneur K. Warren died at Newport last Tuesday.

"Gin fizzes" are the fashionable drinks at the summer resorts.

Baby Buds and Blossoms.

G. B. Bunnell believes in encouraging home production. He consequently informs the public that his Broadway Museum will be the centre for all the babies during the week commencing September 4th, 1882. As the masses have enjoyed the howls of the Zulus, the yells of the Indians and the war cry of unnumbered savage races, there is no reason why the babies should not have a season of popularity. At all events they will revive "memories of sleepless nights and compulsory pedestrianism handicapped with pounds of squalling infancy." Bunnell ought to make it a success. The Museum at Brooklyn and the Opera House at Brighton Beach are branches of the New York establishment and attract many thousand visitors. The latest addition is a large number of automatic marvels that took the prize at the Paris exposition. There is also the celebrated Orchestra Melichon made for Napoleon. It contains 297 instruments and plays 65 tunes.

New Jersey Crops.

The Crop Report to July 1st states that the corn crop in New Jersey was rated as about 90, the same as for the past two seasons. The fields are in a healthy condition, and there is a good degree of vigor shown in the stalks. The area planted has been increased about two per cent. In wheat New Jersey is rated at 97 for Winter and 105 for Spring, rye 97, Winter; oats, 97; potatoes, 98; sweet potatoes, 91; beans, 100; sorghum, 93; wool, 99; clover, 78; Timothy, 87; pasture, 89; apples, 87, peaches, 70; grapes, 98. Locally it will be seen that, altogether, we are very well off this season, and consumers may expect fairly low prices during the Winter.

SCOTCH PLAINS SCRATCHINGS.

Our village came near losing three of its most promising citizens last Sunday. It seems these three p. c.'s went a fishing on Newark Bay. By some means the boat in which they were sitting, upset, while in mid-stream, and all three would have drowned had it not been for the opportune services of a friendly oysterman who rescued the party with his boat. When landed, not one of the party had a whole suit of clothes, but by exchanging garments with one another, they finally managed to secure enough to clothe their nakedness, and wet, hatless and shoeless the trio returned to their homes late at night. Moral—never go fishing on a Sunday; if you do, don't take too much antidote for "snake bite" along.

The members of Excelsior H. & L. Co. No. 1 contemplate making their annual excursion to the Sewaren House, Woodbridge Beach, about Aug. 23d. Those members who are liable to sea-sickness should stay on shore this time and not "a sailing" go.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER.

Messrs. A. Vanderbeek and M. M. Thorn, started on Monday last for a week's sojourn at Greenwood Lake, where the black bass await their presence with fear and trembling. They didn't take much money with them and consequently will have to catch what they bring home.

Joseph Case, who resides near Flemington, recently killed a copperhead or pilot snake, 34 inches long.

Mr. Adam Bellis of the Warren Journal, last week caught a black bass in the Delaware that weighed five and a quarter pounds.

One day last week, Mr. Lew. Potts, of Rowland's Mills, Hunterdon County, shot a crane that measured 6 feet 2 inches from tip to tip of wings.

Red foxes are said to be so numerous along Neshanic and Sourland mountains that it is no uncommon thing for them to visit farmers' barnyards in broad daylight, gobble up a chicken and carry it off with impunity.

WESTFIELD WISPS.

James L. Miller and family have gone to Warsaw, Wyoming county, N. Y. State to spend the month of August.

Ex-Surrogate Addison S. Clark on Monday ran a nail [illegible] and nearly through his foot making a very painful wound.

The record of vital statistics for the month of July for Westfield Township show two deaths and three births.

George Trimmer, residing on the corner of Broad and Elm street, is to be congratulated. The event happening on Tuesday evening. It is a fine healthy girl.

The Township Committee will meet on Tuesday evening next to correct, amend and revise the duplicate, which under the law they are required to do on the third Tuesday of August, each year.

On Saturday last Constable Koster arrested Newell Peterson for an assault on a young son of John Pfeifer. After an examination before Justice Jaques, Peterson was discharged with a reprimand.

The Westfield Base Ball Association went to Plainfield on Tuesday to play the return game with the second nine of the Crescents of that city. The Westfield nine came back the victors with a score of 16 to 5 in their favor.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Susan Townley, wife of David Townley, residing on Central avenue, died after a lingering illness. She has been very feeble for the past few years. On Wednesday, July 26, she was taken with a stroke of paralysis and laid unconscious at times until her death.

The case of Cropper & Reeves vs. C. E. Taylor, in an action of debt, was tried on Wednesday before Justice Pearsall. After the testimony was all in and the arguments of the lawyers listened to, the Justice reserved his decision for one week. This is 'Squire Pearsall's first case since his election last Spring.

The case of Trespass of James C. Moore, of Cranford, vs. Charles Tillotson, was tried on Tuesday before Justice Jaques and a jury of six men. The case was not allowed to go to the jury—a non-suit was granted by the Justice after the plaintiff had got through with his testimony on the ground that possession had not been proven.

The members of Bucket and Engine Co. No. 1, presented their foreman, Mr. Chas. Lyon, with a fire trumpet, on Thursday evening. Mr. C. F. W. Witthe made a neat speech in presenting it. Mr. Lyon was taken completely by surprise but replied in a pleasant speech after which the members were invited to partake of refreshments with Mr. Lyon.

On Friday, August 4th, a young man working for Mr. Wm. Stitt, while attempting to go across from one mow to the other in the barn, fell to the floor below striking his side across a wagon pole and injuring himself severely. Mr. Stitt immediately summoned Dr. J. B. Harrison to attend him. The young man is still in a very bad state but improving somewhat.

During the severe thunder storm which passed over our town on Monday last, the dwelling house of Mrs. Mary Canyiel on Cumberland street, was struck by lightning. The electric fluid striking the eaves and running up the gable end to the peak of the roof doing considerable damage. A large tree was also struck on Park street adjoining the residence of Mr. T. H. Love.

The parents of George Schindler received a telegram from State Prison Keeper Laverty, on Wednesday morning, August 9th, that George had died on Tuesday night of chronic dysentery. George is one of the gang of young men that officer Marsh and Keron traced and went to Richfield Springs, New York State, and arrested them for burglary and other crimes. They were tried at the May term of Union county 1879, and convicted. George was sentenced to state prison for seven years and his brother James for five years.

UPSET SALE!

Commenced This Week and Gives Promise of Great Success.

Scotch people and old-time folks all know what is the meaning of "upset sale." It is a term used when things are to be sold out to close estates, partnerships or corporations.

I propose a sale of this nature. The prosperous season so far this year, the largest I ever had, encourages me to

RING ALL THE BELLS!

and call the people in to close out, before the 1st of September,

The Balance of my Spring & Summer Goods.

Nothing stops me in executing the right plans, and if the prices must be cut down to gather the people

DOWN GO THE PRICES!

The people have treated me generously for many years and I am satisfied even though I do sacrifice my profits one month.

IN A NUTSHELL, THIS IS IT!

The practical point of all this is a radical reduction in prices from August first. They are cut, some ten, some twenty, some thirty per cent., and some on goods prepared specially for this sale, not at all. My great desire is to get the people to examine the goods and see the reality of the reductions.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - - - City Editor.

Official Paper of the State, the County and the City, and has the Largest Circulation of any Weekly in Union County.

THE Camp Meeting has closed.

THE tanks were well filled on Monday.

TO-DAY is three minutes shorter than yesterday.

MONDAY favored us with the finest thunder shower of the year.

THE Katy-Dids began their songs last week. Now look out for frost inside of six weeks.

NEW moon during Sunday evening next. Be sure you get it behind the right shoulder.

THE Mount Olive Baptist and their friends propose to visit Ocean Grove on Thursday, the 24th inst.

THE electricity in the air during Monday's storm, rang the telephone bells of many instruments in this city.

THE Trinity Reformed church is considering the scheme of a Sunday School Excursion to—probably—Glen Islands.

No tidings have been received of the horse and buggy stolen last week from the livery stables of Mr. J. G. Cadmus, this city.

WHY does not some one or body of authorities make a move toward the discovery of those incendiaries we hear so much about?

THE Plainfield Saengerbund contemplate holding a picnic during Thursday, Sept. 7th. Wooden's Grove is the probable location that is to be decided on.

THE town-clock seldom goes, never strikes, and is useless in its general condition. Yet the Council continues to pass and pay bills for "winding it."

As is the custom, the Crescent avenue Presbyterians will give the last excursion of the Summer. They will go to Ocean Grove on Tuesday, the 29th inst.

THE wife of the Irish-Republican Club demands the mere sum of $500 for "damages" to her property caused by excavation of the street on which it is situated.

THE present is one of the most stubborn Councils the city has ever had, in the unnecessary delay it obstinately insists on in the payment of just and due claims.

THE Mayor in his communication to the Council published elsewhere, deservingly compliments the members of the Plainfield Fire Department upon their efficiency.

ONE of the valuable grey-hounds, whose jumping was so much admired during the performance of Nathans & Co's circus last week, became mad at Long Branch on Saturday and was shot by the police.

IT is true that the young man in tight pants looks like a hair pin with a thimble atop of the arch. It is true that his nether limbs resemble a couple of exclamation points. But what of that? Is he not happy?

THE early closing movement is bad for the ice-cream saloons. The absence of people from the streets during the evening, cuts off much of the usual patronage that dealers in frozen-pudding were wont to catch.

THE Elizabeth Herald has added to its many attractive features a "chess column," the editor of which desires to hear from chess clubs throughout the state in reference to the formation of a New Jersey Association of the patrons of the game.

THE carpenters, painters and other artisans are at work repairing the damage to the Trinity Reformed church caused by the late fire. Organ builders were out Tuesday preparing to take away the old organ and replace it with a new instrument.

THE Council having refused to pay the December bill of the Plainfield Gas Light Co.,—claiming that a number of the lamps were not lit during that month—have secured a reduction of the sworn claim. Ten lamps at $2 each were taken off the amount charged.

THE official warning to gypsies, given by the erection of sign boards on their usual camping grounds, scared away the first band that arrived. This result is most satisfactory, as the roving gangs demoralize certain classes of the people in more ways than one.

A DOUBLE cross-walk over Front street at Park avenue is greatly needed, as the travel back and forth from the post-office is very great at times; and when pedestrians meet the gentlemen have to step into the mud and soil their patent-leather to save the ladies' Newport-ties.

A GIRL shouldn't wear a black belt around her waist when she's got a white dress on and is walking with a young man in the night time. It makes it appear from a rear view as if her fellow had his arm around her waist, which is something no Plainfield girl permits—never—never!

ALL should read carefully the communication of the Mayor to the Council published in full in the proceedings of that body. The message contains much of interest and importance, considered ably and lucidly, and is full of pertinent suggestions that should be promptly acted upon.

THE continued success of Lutkins & Hummer, the marketmen, at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, is due to many causes. They keep the freshest meats and other eatables, their prices are low, they serve their patrons faithfully and strive to please in every particular.

*COMPLAINTS are frequently made by ex*cursionists to Coney Island by way of Central Railroad Annex boats, in the failure of such boats to connect with trains when returning home in the evening. Passengers are compelled by such failure, to wait hours for a late train to reach their homes. Cannot the Central officers obviate this difficulty?

THE damage done many houses and buildings, unprotected by lightning rods, during Monday's storm, should warn everyone of the great risk of life and property caused by such negligence. Hawley's patent rods are well recommended and can be seen with references at Mulford's real-estate office in the R. R. station.

A MAN and a woman residing respectively (though not respectfully) in the upper and lower parts of a house at Third and William streets, were brought before Justice Wadsworth on Monday evening last. He accused her of spitting in his face, striking him with a pail and calling bad names. She accused him of kicking her. They were held in $30 bail each, to await action.

ON Monday the 21st inst., under the auspices of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, the next excursion for Ocean Grove and Long Branch, will leave this city. Upon that date the Camp Meeting will be in progress, and the above will be the only opportunity this year for Plainfield excursionists to witness this world-renowned gathering of 40,000 people.

THIS (Thursday) afternoon and evening the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Plainfield will hold its Fourth Annual Picnic in Stelle's Grove. There will be the usual entertaining features of such affairs, with, in addition, a separate platform and bag-pipe music especially for jig dancing. The Committee of Arrangements is Messrs. P. Casey, J. Muldowney, M. Conway, T. Marley and M. Nugent.

A COLORED resident of Battle Row entered the store of one of Plainfield's provision dealers recently, and laying nine cents on the counter asked for "two cents worth of lard, four cents worth of bacon and the rest in sugar." The clerk weighed out five cents worth of lard, took the price of it and recommended his customer to go somewhere else for the balance of his purchase.

THE well-known Feltville property, near Scotch Plains, was sold at public auction at Elizabeth last Wednesday, by order of James D. Fish, receiver of the Globe Mutual Life Insurance Company, who were the owners of this tract of 774 acres, by reason of being holders of mortgages against the property to the amount of $60,000. The bidding was slow, and Feltville was finally knocked down to the highest bidder, Mr. Warren Ackerman, of Scotch Plains, for $11,450.

A MEETING of the Joint Committees on Bridges from the Boards of Freeholders of Union & Somerset Counties, met at Miller's Hotel, on Monday last, and among other business transacted, annulled the contract given to Isaac Coulter, for the mason work of the proposed new line bridge over Green Brook at Terrill Road in consequence of expiration of time allowed in the contract to finish the work, and awarded the same to the next lowest bidder, Wm. C. Ayres.

FIRE Commissioner Jones, of the Committee on Wells, has promptly taken the necessary steps for the procurement of water for the steamers in case of fire, by excavating a large hole in the brook below the Grove street bridge, and erecting a substantial stone wing wall along the bank to keep the same from caving in, and also by causing to be cleaned out and deepened the lake of pure spring water flowing from beneath the old Randolph mill on Front street. There will hereafter be no fear of a lack of a full supply of water at these points.

ATTENTION is directed to the auction sale of real estate Thursday, Aug. 31, by P. J. Flanagan.

ON account of extensive repairs to the interior of Grace church, no service will be held therein until further notice.

DONATIONS of the generous may be dropped at any time in the Muhlenberg Hospital Contribution boxes at the R. R. station and Post-office.

ON Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, the Right Rev. Dr. Wigger, Bishop of Newark, will deliver a lecture in St. Mary's church. Tickets, 25 cents.

MR. F. H. Gardner, District Clerk of North Plainfield, advertises in this issue for proposals to furnish and deliver 25 tons of coal for the Public School.

FARMERS and others should not fail to exhibit their product and goods at the approaching Fair of the Union & Middlesex Counties' Asso., and thus help to make it the success it deserves.

THE Potter Press works nine defeated a very strong team from Elizabeth, on Saturday last, by the score of 8 to 7. The game throughout was a fine one, and the victory is a credit to Plainfield.

DR. Yerkes having left for a few weeks vacation, the pulpit of the First Baptist church will be occupied next Sunday by the Rev. Dr. Burlingham of New York and subsequently by other talented clergymen.

PROF. Lyon is pushing his new school building rapidly forward. Mr. Melbourn the mason has finished the walls. It will be ready before the other school buildings are started. Its lighting and ventilation are complete.

WE publish this week for the last time the notice of Tax Collector VanNorstrand of North Plainfield, who will advertise and sell according to law the property of those whose arrears of taxes are not paid on or before the 15th inst.

THAT well-known summer resort, Boynton Beach, at Woodbridge Beach, is now open to picnic and pleasure parties. Mr. Boynton having determined to accede to the demands of the public who appreciate the spot as a delightful one for a day's enjoyment.

CHURCH SERVICES.—Rev. Dr. Thomas Armitage, of New York, one of the leading ministers of this country, will occupy the pulpit of the Netherwood Union Chapel next Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock. All are invited to be present on this interesting occasion.

THE annual excursion of Messrs Laing & Nelson to Ocean Grove, took place during Thursday of last week and was attended by seven car-loads of mortals who returned in safety completely satisfied and entirely pleased. The day was a perfect one, and all the arrangements for the comfort of everybody were carried out in a way that was creditable to the managers and gratifying to their patrons.

Attention Co F.

About two years ago, a Government head-stone came to the depot, this city, marked "M. S. Brown, Co. F., 11th N. J. Vols." The freight agent thinks it was directed to Mt. Horeb, N. J. It has laid there ever since, no one having call for it.

One Year Ago.

On Wednesday the mother of Director Martine of Union County, died at her residence in Fanwood and on the following Saturday her husband also departed this life - - - - - Mr. Adam Craig of Dunellen was drowned while bathing at Asbury Park - - - - - Annie Decker of this city, was found dead in Snyder's barn on the New Providence road.

The Camp Meeting.

The camp meeting of the A. U. M. P. disciples having closed, the Rev. E. H. Chippey desires through the press to thank Mr. Charles Hyde for his kindness in allowing the use of the grove in which the meeting was held. Also, to the many friends in this city and vicinity who have assisted the cause, he wishes to express his gratitude.

The next camp opens the 13th inst in Atkinson's woods, on the eastern turnpike, about three miles from New Brunswick.

Scared by a Bicycle.

During Friday morning, an employee of TenEyck the butcher tied his horse in front of a Fifth street residence, and left it standing while he delivered his order. Suddenly and noiselessly a bicycle rider came along the sidewalk, and as he passed the horse from behind the animal reared on its hind-legs from fright and snapped the left shaft. Its driver coming upon the scene subsequently found the horse struggling to get loose, and the end of the broken shaft, at every plunge, was digging into the animal's side. With assistance the man was at last able to release the wounded horse, but not before it had been terribly hurt. The rider of the bicycle is unknown.

De Courcy—Flynn.

St. Mary's beautiful church was brilliantly lighted and completely filled during Wednesday evening last upon the occasion of the marriage of Miss Kitty Flynn and Mr. Michael De Courcy of this city. At the hour set for the ceremony a large attendance had gathered, among which were many well-known citizens and members of their families. The bridal party consisted of Mr. John Keeny who acted as the groom's best man and escort of the bridesmaid, Miss Maggie Flynn. The bride was dressed with a perfect and quiet taste that was particularly becoming, while the groom looked as proud over his happiness as a man should. The ceremony was according to the imposing ritual of the Catholic church, after which a reception was given by the bride's parents to a large number of invited friends. There is no young lady more admired for her charms of disposition and character nor a young man of greater popularity among the large circle of acquaintances who wish the couple a long life of health and happiness.

Increase and Multiply.

Our genial old friend, Mr. Freeman Shotwell, of North Plainfield, has just returned from a trip to the far West, looking more youthful than ever and full of a renewed health and vigor calculated to incite envy in the minds of younger men. Uncle Freeman has indeed enjoyed his trip as only one of intelligence and energy can, and is full of pleasant remembrances and interesting incidents of the journey. One experience he relates is of sufficient local interest and novelty to command publication as follows. In the town of Delavan, Illinois, Mr. S. heard of four sisters, the daughters of Mr. Jacob Shotwell, who formerly resided next to Spencer's cider mill; one of whom was married, before leaving Plainfield, to Enoch Runyon who lived at the corner of Front street and Washington avenue. The other young ladies have since secured husbands, and upon the fertile soil of the Western country have brought up large families. Three of the sisters are mothers of 12 children each, and the other has 13, making a total of 49. That is something to be proud of.

Personalia.

Councilman Robt. Simpson is slowly convalescing.

Mr. H. O. Williams, formerly of Watertown, N. Y., is the new Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in the Chautauqua building. Mr. Williams is of pleasing address, and will no doubt fill his position with credit alike to himself and Association.

Mr. Geo. Wotherspoon, Jr., has transferred his abilities from The Town of New York city to the Dramatic World, which latter, by the additional lustre to its columns, shows the mark of his cleverness as a musical and dramatic critic.

At the residence of the bride's parents, at noon of Wednesday, Miss Stella Briant of this city and Mr. Elwin R. Leland of Netherwood were married by the Rev. Thos. Stockton. After the ceremony, which was a private one, the couple left for a Summer tour.

Ex-Councilman S. C. Ryder has met with another family affliction in the death of his father-in-law, Mr. Walters, who had attained the ripe old age of 81 years. Mr. Walters had many friends in this city, who will learn with regret of his death.

Mr. Joseph Blair celebrated his 42d birthday at his residence on Somerset street, North Plainfield, last Wednesday evening, by entertaining a number of his friends in his usual hospitable manner. "Joe" was the recipient of a number of handsome presents from his wife and friends in honor of the event.

Mrs. Mayer, of Park avenue, wife of Hon. Guilford Mayer, ex-Councilman, with her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Vanderhoof and Miss Morrison of Seventh street, are rusticating at the White Mountains in pursuit of health and happiness. It is the wish of their many friends that they will succeed in finding both.

Freeholder Shover and wife started Tuesday on a visit to his eldest brother, Rev. Peter R. Shover, who resides at Akron, New York State, a few miles from Buffalo. The Rev. Mr. Shover has just passed his 70th year and spent 40 years of his life in the Ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, from which he retired last spring. They will be absent about two weeks and will visit [illegible] before their return.

The Best of the Excursions.

Those of our community who last year visited Neshaminy Falls' Grove and Rocky Glen, Pa., will uphold our assertion that of all places to spend a Summer's day it is the best and that the greatest amount and variety of out-door enjoyment can be secured thereat. On Thursday of next week, No. 2's Engine and Hose Co's will conduct an excursion to the destination mentioned, leaving Plainfield at 8 o'clock in the morning and returning from Neshaminy at 7 p. m. Refreshments of all kinds, fine boating, bathing and fishing will be available, besides dancing to the music of Prof. Bennett's orchestra, of New York, which has been engaged for the day. The tickets are one dollar each, children 75 cents, to be obtained of members of the companies or the following Committee of Arrangements: A. D. Jennings, H. M. [illegible], G. A. Moore, T. Jones, T. Carty, A. Gee, A. T. Marsh, F. C. [illegible], H. [illegible], J. R. France and C. Smith.

Nuisances to Health, Comfort and Property.

In view of the efforts being made to overcome the oil-cloth factory nuisance, the following court decisions, carefully compiled, will give an idea regarding the case in its legal status:

1. Any business however lawful in itself, which as to those residing in the neighborhood where it is carried on, causes annoyances that materially interfere with the ordinary physical comfort of human existence, is a nuisance that should be restrained.

2. Smoke, noise and bad odors, even when not injurious to health, cause a discomfort against which the law will protect.

3. To warrant enjoining a trade as a nuisance on the ground that it produces discomfort to those dwelling in the neighborhood, the discomfort must be physical and not such as depends upon taste or imagination. Whatever is offensive physically to the senses, and by such offensiveness makes life uncomfortable, is a nuisance.

Cleveland et. al. vs. the Citizens Gas Light Co. Opinion by A. O. Zabriskie, Chancellor, C. E. Green, 5, p. 201. Same 415. Attorney-General et. al., vs. Stewart & Taylor. Duncan vs. Hayes & Greenwood, 7, 25.

It is not necessary to constitute a nuisance that the smell should be unwholesome, it is enough if it render the enjoyment of life and property uncomfortable.

Davidson et. al., vs. Isham, et. al. Stockton, 1, p. 186. Opinion by B. Williamson, Chancellor.

Meigs et. al. vs. Lister et. al. C. E. Green, v. III., p. 199. Zabriskie Chancellor.

That a nuisance is not constant does not affect the right of a party injured thereby to protection. Meigs et. al. vs. Lister et. al. C. E. Green v. III, 199.

Where the nuisance operates to destroy health, or to diminish the comfort of a dwelling an action at law furnishes no adequate remedy, and the party injured is entitled to protection by injunctions. Holsman v. Boiling Spring Co. McCarter 1, 335.

Several persons may join in a suit to restrain a nuisance which is common to all and affects each the same way. For example, a slaughter house erected in a populous portion of the town. The duty of granting or refusing an injunction is a matter resting in sound discretion.

A man cannot fill his neighbor's house with smoke, nor the air which his neighbor has a right to breathe pure and unpolluted with nauseous or deleterious odors. Demarest vs. Hardham. Stewart v. II, 469.

Electricity's Extraordinary Eccentricities.

The magnificent display of Northern Lights during Friday evening of last week; the intensely brilliant meteor that flashed through the Eastern sky on Sunday night, the unusually hot weather of the past few days and other novel conditions of the atmosphere and elements that have surrounded us of late, combined to warn us of the approach of some grand electric disturbance. Such an expectation was fulfilled during Monday afternoon last, when there burst upon the city one of the most terrific showers, accompanied by wind, lightning and roaring thunder, that we remember in many years. The storm approached from the West, and after its very centre had settled directly above us, the wind made a complete circle of the compass, keeping the city, enveloped for over an hour in lurid darkness from the lowering clouds, lit up at moments by flashing lightning and shaken perceptibly by peals of resounding thunder.

That many buildings in Plainfield were not struck is due undoubtedly to the net work of telephone wires through our streets, which attracted the electric fluid and conveyed it safely to the ground. Many witnessed beautiful sights, caused by seeming "balls of fire" that played along the wires and in some places glanced off and exploded in mid-air. Around the outskirts, however, much damage is reported. On the farm of Mr. Williams of Washington Valley a cow, that was standing beneath a tree with a number of cattle, was instantly killed. Andrew Steers who was at work on the Stillman property, adjoining ex-Mayor Evans's estate, sought refuge from the rain in a barn on the place. Under the same shelter was a black horse that belonged to Mrs. Stillman, and which was struck and killed while Steers escaped unhurt. The residence building for A. C. Baldwin, Esq., at the corner of Park and Crescent aves., was struck and the chimney somewhat damaged. The workmen in the house at the time were considerably shaken up by the concussion. The lightning ran along the cornice of a Jackson avenue residence but glanced off to the curbstone without doing any harm. At the Club House adjoining the U. & M. C. M. A. A. Fair Grounds, the electric fluid passed down the leader and into the kitchen when it played for awhile around the pump handle. Subsequently it escaped through the door, after breaking up considerable crockery and frightening the inmates of the room. Possibly the greatest damage was done at the coal office of Mr. C. A. Smith, opposite the Fanwood station. There the lightning struck a tree and jumped from it to a telephone pole. Passing along the wire running into the office it would have been conveyed into the ground without harm, had not another and greater attraction presented itself. Near the telephone wire hung a bunch of weights from the coal scales, and the lightning leaving the wire for this mass of metal, exploded in the office with such force as to burst out the front and back window and considerably stun the proprietor. When Mr. Smith recovered from the shock he found the room so full of smoke and sparks that the building seemed to be on fire. A hasty examination discovered the presence of no such damage, although much of the wood work along the sides of the door was charred, boards had been partly forced from the outside of the building and the telephone wire was entirely melted and not a piece to be found.

The tank at the residence of W. Rockhill Potts, Esq., was struck and a number of holes melted in it.

Those who neglected to put the disconnecting plug in their telephone instruments upon the approach of the storm, had their bells rung by the electricity as a warning. In the general office of the company it was a beautiful sight to witness the balls of flame that played about the switch-board, waiting—it appeared—their turn to run into the ground.

The barn of Mr. John A. Currier, near Uniontown, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed, including three fine horses, about 100 tons of hay, and the crop of wheat and rye just harvested. The loss is full $10,000.

The corn in the vicinity of Metuchen was beaten flat to the ground by the high winds.

The County Hotel stables at Somerville was struck by lightning and a valuable grey mare owned by Mr. John Ryck instantly killed.

FIRE MATTERS.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock of Tuesday night, the Department was called out by the Fire alarm to give its attention to the burning of a shed on Grove street near Rockview avenue in which was stored some lumber and carpenter tools used by the employees of Mr. Jeremiah Manning who were erecting a house adjoining. Warren No. 2, put a stream on, and the other Engines with the Truck were on the spot; but the building and its contents were entirely destroyed before assistance was available. While the Department was engaged at this point, a frame building in Exchange Alley was set afire by some party (as usual) unknown. The immediate discovery and extinguishing of the flames, prevented a conflagration that would have undoubtedly consumed a great deal of property. Mr. Manning sustained a loss of $150, in tools and lumber. Mr. David Ryno lost his chest of tools worth $35. Upon the scenes of both fires was found a quantity of "waste" soaked with kerosene.

On Wednesday evening three alarms were rung. The first was caused by the burning of a lamp in the show window of Randolph's shoe store, that set fire to the curtains and threatened greater damage. Fire Commissioner [illegible] forced open the front door, however, and extinguished the flames before the arrival of the Department. Alarm number two was a false one, and the third was caused by the reflection on the sky of a conflagration in the direction of Scotch Plains.

Base Ball.

On Saturday afternoon last, the first nine of the Crescent Base Ball Association met the Mystic nine of Bergen Point on the grounds of the latter and received the defeat that has of late become customary. Although the result of the game, as one of the misfortunes of war, was easily overlooked as entirely to be expected, the Crescents will probably not soon forget the discourtesy shown in the absence of any reception. Upon their arrival at the Point the Plainfielders were compelled to find the grounds as best they might, and after reaching such discovered that the team had no choice but to dress and undress in the open field. By their own exertions the Crescents were subsequently provided with a [illegible] room, and these petty vexations together with the greater discomforts of playing on a ground that could not be worse, were drawbacks that to some extent affected the Plainfielder's interest in the game.

Mr. Clarence Hartley of Bergen Point was selected as umpire, and filled such position with extreme deliberation and entire impartiality—favoring, if either, the Crescents rather than his own club. The game opened with a blank score for both nines in the first inning. Yerkes reached first, but was declared out for not running back to his base on a foul. Bass made a slow hit to first baseman, and McGee struck out. Two of the Mystics were put out by Cornwall's activity and Bass' accuracy, and another on a fly; but as two of the nine were left on bases, their superior batting qualities were thus early apparent. By a reference to the score by innings given below, it will be seen that the Mystics took the lead almost from the start, and held it throughout the game. Home runs were made by Vredenburgh and Yerkes off of lost balls, so the condition of the grounds can be better imagined than described. The Crescents undoubtedly lost the game, as it has others, behind the bat, but neither Murray nor Yerkes (who occupied the position of catcher during the latter part of the game) is to blame for any lack of ability in a position they have never trained for. Bass on first base is to be credited with putting out nine of the opponents, and deserves commendation for good playing throughout the game. Cornwall, Doane and Lowry also filled their positions admirably.

RUNS SCORED EACH INNING.

Crescents . . . . . . [illegible]

Mystic . . . . [illegible]

Umpire—Mr. Clarence Hartley.

Time of Game—Two hours.

Left on Bases—Mystic, 10; Crescents 5.

Base hits—Mystic, 17; Crescents, 3.

Struck out—Crescents, 5; Mystic, 2.

On Thursday afternoon the second nine of the Crescent Association met the Westfield team in a return match, and followed the custom of the first nine in submitting to an unmistakable defeat. The Westfielders were all men of too much training and batting ability to be opposed by so light a team as the Plainfielders; but the latter, with hardly an exception, played a remarkably good game. In view of the number of base hits made by the visitors, the sharp fielding of the Crescents that kept the score so comparatively low was particularly commendable. In the second inning when three Westfielders on bases and only one out promised two runs at least, a double play by Rushmore and Gavett closed the inning with a "white-wash". In the next inning, however, when the score stood five to nothing in favor of the Crescents, the Westfield team caught-on Leonard's pitching and batted it for eight bases and six runs. This lead was retained until the game closed on account of the darkness, with the score as given below:

All the above referred to the proper committees.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM OFFICERS OF THE CITY.

The clerk read the following communication and the accompanying petition.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN:

Touching certain matters of current importance, I beg to offer the following statements and suggestions,

WATER SUPPLY AND FIRES.

Whatever can be done to secure immunity from conflagration, should be done. Water in pipes under pressure is a convenience. The only urgent demand for its introduction in this city, (so notably provided with wholesome well-water) arises from the requirements for the fullest and best possible protection against fire. When a system, equitable and satisfactory to the taxpayers can be devised, designed to furnish water under pressure throughout the city generally, and not confined in practical effect to the district now containing most of the fire-wells; a system designed also to furnish a wholesome means of prompt riddance of waste, then it will be wise to give that subject careful and prompt attention. Meantime, it behooves us to do our utmost, according to our powers and opportunities, for the safety of the city. It may be well for your "committee on fire, water and lamps" to confer frequently and fully with the Fire Board, or with a committee therefrom, as to what means can be concerted to that end. Both of the recent, well-nigh calamitous fires were probably of incendiary origin. One of them certainly was. Had it not been for the prompt and vigorous efforts of our volunteer fire department, the more closely built portion of our city might have been laid in ruins by a single guilty hand. It is to be confessed that the efforts of the authorities to detect the guilty parties have thus far been ineffectual, though the whole of our small regular police force was on duty on each occasion, and acted in sounding an early alarm. There is a power resting with you, under the charter, to offer rewards for the apprehension and conviction of criminals. It is true that the exercise of this power is not free from objection; but it may be worthy of consideration whether you shall not offer a reward to be paid on the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of arson.

OIL CLOTH NUISANCE.

In forwarding the petition regarding the evil arising from the oil cloth works I cannot do less than express my hope that you will put the city in the way of availing promptly of the provisions of the charter, sec. 3, amendment of 1880 [illegible] this nuisance shall not be promptly and voluntarily abated.

Labor and capital have their rights always entitled to respect; but it must be plain that no man, or company, has a right to plant a stench-breeder in a community like ours. Whilst the charter designates your body as the authority over such matters, I hold myself ready to discharge any duty which may properly devolve on me in respect to the rights of the community.

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST LATE COLLECTOR, ETC.

Being satisfied of the verity of the investigating committee's report in the matter of the tax collectorship, I took pains to consider promptly, and take careful advice upon, my own duty as the executive officer of the city. As a result, I filed a complaint, under oath, with Justice Wadsworth, who thereupon ordered L. E. Clark's arrest. Just prior to this, the City Treasurer had, under your instruction, made unavailing demands on L. E. Clark and J. B. Coward for money and books. The day after Mr. Clark's arrest Mr. Coward called on the Treasurer and paid $766.10. It will be remembered that in October 1878, Mr. Coward sent you a sworn statement called "The closing statement of the affairs of the Township of Plainfield," stating as the balance in his hands $96.41. He has now paid $766.10 and appears to be in debt in a further sum for interest on the same for 4 years.

Following the payment of the money by Mr. Coward, he was further notified that proceedings would be commenced without delay for the delivery, to the custody of the city's officials, of the tax books, and other books, under his control. Almost immediately thereafter, a number of important books were delivered from Mr. Coward's office, including tax duplicates and warrant-books. We are, I believe, still entitled to certain books and records in connection with the tax collectorship, and no effort will be spared to recover all the property of whatever character, to which the city is entitled. The laws and the city's just claims must be enforced, without fear or favor, and to the fullest possible extent. The criminal matter will go in regular course before the Grand Jury. The civil suit, or suits necessary should be promptly begun.

Nor does the taking of measures in the way of civil suits, against bondsmen or others, for the recovery of money or other property, belonging to the city, preclude action as touching criminal matters. If there has been a crime, or an offence of whatever sort, committed in contravention of the laws of the State, it is as much the duty of the constituted authorities to discover, and seek to punish, in this case as it is their duty to save the city from pecuniary loss.

Corporation Counsel Marsh has, in connection with his numerous other duties to the city, rendered all the service he has been called on to perform in these particular matters; but, though he has not asked for assistance, it seems certain that he will need help in such proceedings as will have to be taken, and I deem it wise that the custom, pursued elsewhere in similar cases, of furnishing assistance to the regular law officer be followed. I should discountenance extravagant expenditures at any point, and the means at your disposal would not admit it; but I think we ought to have the advice, at least, of the ablest counsel in the State in an affair of this importance, and I suggest that power be given to your special committee to expend a limited sum in obtaining such legal assistance as may be found necessary.

Very respectfully,
L. V. F. RANDOLPH,
Mayor.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 7, 1882.

On motion of Mr. Lindsley, seconded by Mr. Thompson, communication received.

The Clerk read the following:

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

GENTLEMEN:—

The undersigned, citizens of Plainfield, respectfully represent to your Honorable body, that the Oil Cloth Factory of Newell and Wight, near Richmond street and Central Railroad, is a nuisance, detrimental to the comfort and well-being of the people and injurious to property; and we ask that you will exercise whatever power you possess under the Charter to accomplish the speedy abatement of this evil.

Respectfully submitted,
A. VANDERBEEK,
Overseer of Poor.

Rec'd and filed.

Also a communication from the Treasurer stating that in answer to his demand (as directed by the Council) of the books in the hands of the late Township Collector, Mr. Coward had expressed a willingness to hand them over upon receiving a receipt for all claims. Also that he (the Treasurer) had seen the late City Collector upon similar business and Mr. Clark had said he "had no time to talk." That he was "in the hands of his attorney who would answer when he got ready."

Ref'd to Special Com.

Mr. Depew presented the Treasurer's and Collector's reports for July (as appear elsewhere), which were read, received, filed and ordered published.

Also a communication from the Collector stating he had obtained a list of delinquents for 1872, '73, '74, '75, '76, and '77 and returned the same to the City Judge, and that he had received the Township duplicates of 1870 to '77.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. Depew, from Finance Com., reported on the communication of Assessor Hubbard, that there were no judgments at present against the city and the levy of a tax for such a fund was unnecessary. Rec'd and copy sent the Assessor.

By the same, a resolution that the committee be empowered to employ an expert accountant to make an examination of the Collector's books for the past six months. Adopted.

Mr. Thompson, from Lamps Com., reported as correct the Plainfield Gas Light Co's bills for past six months, $1,477.45. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Also called from the table the P. G. Co. claim for December; and Mr. Depew stated that he was authorized by the Co., to deduct $20 from the original amount of the claim. Ref'd back to Com., reduction made, reported correct, and ref'd to Aud. Com.

Mr. Newhall, from License Com., reported its approval of the applications referred that evening. All granted.

Mr. Gardner, from Police Com., reported as correct the following: Geo. W. Grant, $44.75; R. Randolph, 43.51; C. W. Dodd, 58.34. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Mr. J. Simpson, from Printing Com., reported as correct the following: Runyon & Leonard, $43.40; N. Laing's Sons, [illegible]. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

Mr. Lindsley, from [illegible] Com., reported as correct the claim of W. Runyon, $150. Ref'd to Aud. Com.

NEW BUSINESS.

Mr. Lindsley presented a resolution directing the City Judge to issue alias warrants immediately upon the expiration of others to Geo. W. Moore. Adopted.

Mr. Depew presented a resolution that the City Judge issue to Geo. W. Moore warrants for the collection of the taxes of 1873 to '77 as returned by City Collector. Adopted.

Also a resolution instructing the Collector to enter in the books provided, his accounts from the beginning of his term of office. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Lindsley the Mayor's communication was taken from the table.

The Clerk re-read that portion referring to the Oil-Cloth Factory nuisance.

Mr. Thompson offered the following.

Resolved, That the oil-cloth factory near Richmond street and the Central Railroad is a nuisance.

Resolved, That the Board of Health be empowered and directed to serve notice at once on the proprietors of the said oil-cloth factory, that they be required to cease creating the odors or stenches which proceed from the factory; and if they do not immediately conform to this requirement, the Corporation Counsel is authorized and directed to take any and all practicable measures, either before the Chancellor or otherwise, to compel the abatement of the nuisance.

Also, That the Mayor and Corporation Counsel are authorized and requested to present this subject to the Grand Jury at its next term, and urge such action, as they may deem proper, in order that by all means, the rights of this community may have the fullest opportunity in the courts as against parties lawfully responsible for the said nuisance.

Seconded by Mr. Depew, who subsequently amended by striking out all but the words "The Board of Health be empowered and directed to serve notice at once on the proprietors of the said Oil-Cloth Factory, that they be required to cease creating the odors or stenches which proceed from the Factory." And that the Board report thereon at the next meeting of the Council.

Seconded by Mr. Lindsley and adopted as amended.

Mr. Depew moved that when the Council adjourn it be to Tuesday evening the 15th inst. Carried.

Mr. Lindsley presented a resolution empowering the Special Com., on accounts of the late Collector, to employ such counsel as it may think necessary in the prosecution of the suits. Adopted, all ayes.

Mr. Lindsley moved that such portions of the Mayor's communication as relate to fire and water, be referred to Lamps Com. Carried.

Mr. Depew moved an appropriation of $250 to be spent on the streets, and suggested that Park avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets be repaired. Appropriation passed.

The Council then adjourned.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING.

It seems impossible that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., should make so many and such great cures as Hop Bitters do; but when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them you must believe and try them yourself, and doubt no longer.

HAY FEVER.

MR. A. L. AVERY, Pharmacist, Newark, N. J.—Having been severely afflicted for eleven years with Hay Fever, after trying almost everything without avail, I gave up all hopes of being cured, when I purchased of you a box of Ely's Cream Balm. To my surprise, after a few applications, I was entirely relieved. R. Watson, Letter Carrier, No. 14, New P. O., Newark, N. J.

I HAVE BEEN a Hay Fever sufferer for three years, and have often heard of Ely's Cream Balm spoken of in the highest terms, but did not take much stock in it because of the many quack medicines. Great Saving of Fuel AND OF Heat in the House.

Blow Your Fire Out, When Cooking is Finished,

THE Monitor Oil Stove

Burns two quarts of Oil in eight hours; costs one cent per hour; no smell; the Oil Tank entirely separate from the flame. This being a Sheet-Iron Stove, does not radiate heat as those made of Cast Iron. The single stove will cook three different vegetables and boil tea and coffee at same time; has oven and flat heater. We can refer to parties in Plainfield who are using this stove. Call at our store and see it in operation. Take one home and try it, if it does not suit we will take it back.

The Troy laundry was established B. C. 1193; that is to say, they had Hector and Achilles collaring and cuffing each other.

Galileo discovered the movement of the contribution-box at a camp-meeting in 1612, and said: "It does go round," for which he was afterward called a rounder.

THE HUNCHBACK'S WOOING.

A pretty story is told of Moses Mendelssohn, the founder of the family whose name has the sound of music in it. He was a hunchback, and a young Hamburg maiden rejected him because he was mis-shapen. He went to bid her good-bye, and while he was making a last supreme effort at persuasion, she did not lift her eyes from her sewing.

"Do you really think marriages are made in heaven?" she asked.

"Yes, indeed," he replied; "and something especially wonderful happened to me. At the birth of a child proclamation is made in Heaven that he or she shall marry such and such a one. When I was born my future wife was also named, but at the same time it was also said, 'Alas! she will have a dreadful hump on her back.' 'Oh, God!' I said then, 'a deformed girl will become embittered and unhappy, whereas she should be beautiful. Dear Lord, give me the hump, and let the maid be well favored and agreeable!'"

The girl could not withstand such wooing as that, and threw her arms around his neck.

A NEW MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.

A change has been made in the money order system. A bill has been introduced for that purpose and has passed the House. It provides for the issuing of a "postal note at a charge of three cents, for the transmission through the mails sums of less than $5; that a money order shall not be issued for more than one hundred dollars, and that the fees for money orders shall be as follows, to wit: For orders not exceeding $10, 8 cents; for orders exceeding $10 and not exceeding $15, 10 cents; for orders exceeding $15 and not exceeding $30, 15 cents; for orders exceeding $30 and not exceeding $40, 20 cents; for orders exceeding $40 and not exceeding $50, 25 cents; for orders exceeding $50 and not exceeding $60, 30 cents; for orders exceeding $60 and not exceeding $70, 35 cents; for orders exceeding $70 and not exceeding $80, 40 cents; for orders exceeding $80 and not exceeding $100, 45 cents.

MADAME REPLIED TARTLY.

A bibulous individual was introduced to a lady who had been represented to him as quite a talented artist. He greeted her by saying:

"I understand, madame, that you paint?"

She started, blushed deeply, and, recovering herself after a few seconds, said, with as much acidity of tone and style as she could command:

"Well, if I do paint, I don't make any mistake and put it on my nose."

Congressman Harris of the Fourth District recently threw open an appointment to West Point to competition. John J. Gillson of Sussex county stood first and a son of Captain Bailey second. The former did not accept and the latter was selected. It is now rumored that the latter agreed to pay the former $1,000, and General Howard, after an investigation, dismissed Bailey.

The Democratic Congressional Convention for the First Congressional District of this State will meet August 17. Now let the Democrats put up a good man, to be elected by them, and thus help to leave the celebrated marine schemer—Robeson, "at home" in the future.

Some experienced journalist gives a chapter from life in the following remarks: "Publishers of newspapers are more poorly rewarded than any other class of men in the country who invest an equal amount of labor, capital, and thought. They are expected to do more service for less pay, stand more sponging and dead-heading, to puff and defend more people without fee or hope of reward than any other class. They credit longer, get oftener cheated, suffer more pecuniary loss, and are oftener the victims of misplaced confidence. Many people pay a printer's bill more reluctantly than any other. It goes harder with such to expend a dollar on a valuable newspaper than ten on a needless gew-gaw."

POETRY.

WHEN BIRDS FLY HOME.

A PASTORAL.

When birds fly home to Southern climes,
And flow'rs are few upon the mead,
A shadowy sadness o'er nature's face
Which makes the heart feel sad indeed;
For then all woodland songs are hushed,
The leafy orchestra has played
Its grand finale, and chilly winds
Are marshaled in a death parade,
The trees bend low with [illegible] moan.
Their leaves lie mingled on the ground;
The brooklet [illegible] with [illegible] voice,
Steals slow away with [illegible] sound.

The glistening scythe hangs dulled with rust,
The hay-stacks stand like tombs, the kine
Low in the lane, the crumbling press,
Brings forth the blood of trailing vine;
All things proclaim a [illegible] change
Outside, but round the hearth is seen
The cheer which tells the husbandman
[illegible]
There songs are sung, there's blushing maids
[illegible]
And when [illegible] have [illegible] away,
Their hearts with joy [illegible] again.

—J. Whitson Pape.

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

THE SQUIRE'S WOOING.

Squire Kimball was in his strawberry patch pulling up weeds when Lucy Keene came down the road that beautiful June morning as he was just about to throw them over the fence as she came around the corner. The sunbonnet she wore was exactly like one he remembered to have seen her mother wear twenty-five years ago; and, he remembered, too, as he looked at this one, and the fresh, rosy face under it, how that one had made his heart flutter when he saw it, and how he was so bewildered by it, or the face under it, that he had walked home with Hester Mason and had hard work to keep from proposing to her.

He wondered now, and he had wondered many times in the twenty-five years that had gone by since then, why he never did propose to her.

He had meant to marry her some time, and he was sure she liked him in the old days; but—and he sighed to himself more than once when he thought of it—something had come between them, and he had married his cousin Mary. Fate must have something to do with it, he concluded.

As he looked at Hester's daughter this summer morning the old fire stirred under the dust and ashes, and he felt a little flame spring up in his heart.

"Good morning, Lucy," he said, leaning over the fence.

"Oh!" exclaimed Lucy, with a little jump, "I didn't see you, and you came near scaring me. Isn't it pleasant?"

"Yes, it is pleasant," answered the squire, looking straight at her pretty face. "How is your mother?"

"Pretty well," answered Lucy. "Your strawberries are doing splendidly, aren't they? We're so [illegible] about ours. The hens got into the garden, and mother thinks she won't have a pailful of berries in all."

"I want to know," [illegible] the squire. "Now, you tell your mother that she's welcome to all she wants out of my patch. She can have them just as well as not. There's going to be a sight more'n we'll want, and I'd rather have 'em used than wasted."

"I will tell her, and I know she'll be delighted at the chance. You know what a hand she is to make strawberry preserves."

"Yes, I do," answered the squire, thinking of old times. "I remember she beat all the old housekeepers at that. They used to say she had a knack of making strawberry jam that nobody else could get hold of."

"She hasn't lost it yet," said Lucy. "She'll be pleased to have you come to tea sometime, and try some she made last year. She had unusually good luck."

"I'll do it," said the squire. "Let me see—to-day's Wednesday. Tell her I'll be over Saturday, if it's agreeable, and I guess the berries'll be ripe so I can pick a pailful by that time."

"Thank you!" said Lucy. "If you do we'll have a short-cake. I'll tell her to expect you to tea on Saturday."

"Yes," answered the squire, "I'll be 'round if nothing happens. Oh! I heard from Charley yesterday. He'll be home in a day or two to stay."

"That'll be pleasant for you," said Lucy, stooping to pick up a daisy.

The squire could not see how rosy the face under the bewitching sunbonnet grew all at once. If he had it might have set him thinking.

"Yes, it will," said the squire. "Charlie is a good boy."

"I guess I'll have to be going," said Lucy. "We shall expect you to tea Saturday, remember."

"I won't disappoint," said the squire, and then Lucy went on, and he went back to pulling weeds.

"I s'pose it's foolish to think of such a thing," he said to himself, "but I don't know as it's anybody's business but ours. If I see fit to marry Lucy, and she's willin', I'm goin' to do it."

From which you will see that the squire's fancy for the mother had suddenly been transferred to the daughter.

Charlie came home next day.

"I s'pose I'll have to tell him what I've been thinking about," thought the squire. "I'd 'bout as soon take a horsewhipping I declare. But there ain't any use in dreadin' it an' puttin' it off."

Accordingly, when they were sitting on the piazza after supper, the squire began:

"I've been thinking some of getting a new housekeeper," he announced, feeling his face getting uncomfortably hot.

"Won't Aunt Sarah stay?"

"I—I mean a housekeeper of another kind," said the squire, wiping his face vigorously.

Charlie gave a whistle of surprise and stared hard at his father.

"Who is it to be, if I may ask such a question?"

"Down the road," jerking his thumb over his shoulder in the direction of the Widow Keene's.

He couldn't muster up courage enough to say Lucy.

"And that's the way the wind blows, is it," laughed Charlie. "I'm glad to hear it. You couldn't do better."

"I'm glad to hear you say so," said the squire, much relieved. "I felt sure you'd like to have Lucy as a member of the family."

"I haven't any objections, if she has none," said Charlie.

"So that's over," said the squire, much relieved as Charlie strolled down the road in the evening. "I wonder he never took a fancy to her himself. I suppose folks'll think I'm an old fool, but I don't care."

While he sat there Charlie was at the widow's telling Lucy that her father had known sooner than he had given him credit for, for he seemed to understand how matters stood.

And what he told her after that is none of your business or mine, though I will say it had something to do with Lucy's becoming "a member of the family."

About four o'clock Saturday afternoon the squire, in his best coat and with a pail of strawberries on his arm, knocked at Mrs. Keene's door.

"Good afternoon," said the widow, as she let him in, with a charming suspicion of a blush in her face, which he had to admit was almost as fair as it had been five-and-twenty years ago.

"Here's some berries," said the squire, awkwardly presenting his offering. "Lucy said the hens had played the mischief with yours."

"I'm a thousand times obliged to you!" said the widow.

By this time the squire had got to the sitting-room door. Who should he see there but Charlie seemingly very much at home, as he held worsted for Lucy to wind.

"I managed to get an invitation to tea, too," laughed Charlie. "You kept it pretty sly, but I wasn't to be cheated out of my share of strawberry preserves."

Then Charlie and Lucy looked at each other and laughed; and the squire felt his face grow red.

"Just see what he has brought us!" said the widow, displaying the berries. "If you'll hull them, Lucy, we'll have short-cake for tea. I remember how fond you use to be of strawberry short-cake years ago," and the widow smiled at the squire till there was a dimple in each cheek.

"Oh, I remember, too," responded the squire.

"I've spoken to her about being one of the family, and she's willing," said Charlie.

"I don't understand!" said the squire, in great bewilderment, growing hot and then cold.

"Why, you know what you said the other night when you told me you thought of getting her mother for housekeeper," explained Charlie. "I suppose that you understood from what you said, that Lucy and I were to be married."

The squire sat speechless. What he thought in the next five minutes could not be condensed in a column of this paper.

"I—I hope you'll be happy!" he stammered at last, feeling that something was expected of him.

"I'm sure we will," said Charlie. "I hope you will, too."

Pretty soon the widow came in.

"The short-cake's baking," she said. "Lucy said she'd hull the berries and set the table, and sent me to play lady and entertain the company."

Charlie watched his opportunity, and slipped into the kitchen.

The squire made up his mind again. If he couldn't have Lucy he'd have her mother if he could get her.

Then Lucy and his mother went out.

"Come to think it all over," he told himself, "that was the best plan by all odds."

He wondered how he could have been foolish enough to think of marrying a girl so young. The idea was ridiculous.

"What's the use of waiting?" thought he. "It might as well be settled now as any other time."

"Hester," he began, getting red again. "Charlie an' Lucy are goin' to get married. Why shouldn't we?"

"Why, Squire Kimball!" cried the widow, blushing so rosy he thought she was prettier than her daughter.

"I came over on purpose to ask you," said the squire, telling a most outrageous fib. "I hope you haven't any objections."

When Lucy came in half an hour later to say that tea was ready, the squire rose up, blushing like a girl, and jerked his thumb toward the widow, and said, in a voice that shook a little:

"That's your mother-in law, Lucy. I mean she's Mrs. Kimball, or going to be. It's all settled."

"I s'pose I may kiss my father, then," said Lucy, and she plumped a kiss on the squire's lips, who said she might give him another for her father-in-law, while she was about it, if she had no objection.

"One will answer for both," laughed Lucy.

Then the squire gave his arm to the woman he meant to marry twenty years ago, and led her out to tea.

He never regretted that matters turned out as they did.

"Lucy can't be beat for a daughter," he tells himself; but he don't want any better wife than her mother makes.

PHRASES ABOUT WOMEN.

New fans are very large.

Woman conceals only what she does not know.

Women have no worse enemies than women.

Wrinkles disfigure a woman less than ill nature.

One must be a woman to know how to revenge.

Woman is more constant in hatred than in love.

Woman is a creature between man and the angels.

Most women curse sin before embracing penitence.

Women who have not fine teeth only laugh with their eyes.

Woman is an idol that man worships until he throws it down.

Friendship between women is only a suspension of hostilities.

When a woman is no longer pretty she ceases to be inconstant.

Women ask if a man is discreet, as men ask if a woman is pretty.

The most chaste woman may be the most voluptuous, if she loves.

Women never weep more bitterly than when they weep with spite.

When women cannot be revenged, they do as children do; they cry.

Woman is a charming creature who changes her heart as easy as her gloves.

There is no torture that a woman would not suffer to enhance her beauty.

Women love always; when earth slips from them they take refuge in heaven.

Of all things that man possesses, women alone take pleasure in being possessed.

A woman forgives the audacity which her beauty prompts her to be guilty of.

The whisper of a beautiful woman can be heard further than the loudest call of duty.

Before promising a woman to love only her, one should have seen them all, or should have seen only her.

We censure the inconstancy of women when we are the victims; we find it charming when we are the objects.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

A farmer near Troy has adopted a new remedy for potato bugs. He procured a number of boards and placed them here and there among his potatoes, and on these boards were placed raw potatoes sliced. At noon on the first day of his experiment he and his hired man found every piece of potato covered with bugs. The men killed this lot and at night another lot was killed, though not so large, and in a week not a bug was to be seen. [illegible] comparatively small.

TWICE WOOED.

"Tessie, my dear, how you loiter! Here it is almost 8 o'clock, and Mr. Vane will be dreadfully impatient. Try and bring a little life into your face; you do not appear as a happy bride should."

"I am a most unhappy one," I replied, drearily. "Oh, mamma, cannot this farce be stopped? I do not wish to be sold! What is poverty to such shame as this I feel?"

"You foolish, foolish girl! After all the trouble I have taken to bring about this fortunate match, you are mad to talk so. Here comes your bridegroom; mind you greet him properly."

Mamma had no time for further admonition, as the bridegroom and attendants entered.

"My dear, as it is almost time to go down," said Royal Vane, bending his dark penetrating eyes upon my poor, pale face, in a way I felt, if I did not meet their gaze.

Silently I took his offered arm and went slowly down the stairs into the brilliantly-lighted room, where the minister awaited us.

Oh, such utter silence as prevailed!

Only the grave tones of the minister's voice as he repeated the beautiful, solemn ceremony could be heard.

At last he came to the question, "Will you take this man," etc.

I heard it too plainly.

I saw my haughty mother's anxious face paling at my silence, and the surprise growing on many, many faces, but I could not speak the lie.

I knew the dark eyes of my almost husband were upon me, regarding me in pained astonishment.

Oh, it was a pitiful, awful silence, broken at last by a resistless power I could not thwart.

"No, no," I pleaded, raising my eyes to Royal Vane's white, sorrowful face. "I do not love you. I cannot be your wife. Oh, how wicked, how weak I have been not to tell you sooner!"

Then, turning to mamma, I stretched out my arms.

"Forgive me—oh, forgive me, mamma!" I cried, and fell down at her feet in a dead faint.

They told me afterward how mamma explained that I had not been well and was no doubt delirious, that it would all be made right when I recovered; but I knew that one person would never consider my actions caused by the delirium of fever—Royal Vane had understood the truth instantly; I read it in his white, stricken face.

"Of all the disgraceful, dreadful scenes," wept mamma. "I little thought that you, Tessie, would cause me such shame and mortification."

I was really ill for several days, but one day, when almost recovered, they brought me a card.

I shuddered as I read the name—Royal Vane.

"Go down," said mamma angrily, "and let him see how a little fool has disgraced his bridal and wrecked his hopes."

I went down tremblingly, dreading his reproaches, but I need not have been in such trepidation; it was one of the calmest, kindliest faces, albeit care-marked and older-looking, that met my gaze.

He came instantly forward, and in a quiet, manly voice asked:

"How is Tessie to-day?"

"Better," I faltered, "but so ashamed. Oh, Mr. Vane, try to forgive me! I wanted to tell you long ago, only mamma would not let me."

"Yes, I understand that, and it was better even at the last moment than a whole lifetime of regret."

And then so adroitly and skillfully he drew from my weak armor of subterfuge the story of mamma's embarrassments and need, and understood matters as they really were.

"Do you love any one else, Tessie?" he inquired before we parted.

"No," I said, "no one; only as I did not love you I could not be your wife. Here is your ring."

"The poor little empty ring," he said sadly, tenderly slipping it on his watch-chain, "that once graced the hand of all the wife I shall ever know. Good-by, Tessie, and Heaven bless you!"

And he was gone.

A week later mamma, jubilant and excited, came to me.

"My dear Tessie, you are a treasure, after all. In your usual silly way you let Royal Vane know of our stringent circumstances and he has—made us rich."

"Mamma!" I cried, feeling the hot blood of mortification rise to my temples, "You surely will not accept it of him? Oh, the shame, the shame!"

And I broke down and sobbed bitterly.

"It is your own doings, and it is all arranged so that we cannot avoid profiting by his generosity. The mortgage is paid, and you may yet make a suitable match when this little affair has blown over," said mamma, complacently adding, "by the way, Royal Vane has gone abroad; it was the wisest thing he could do. He will return in a few years with a bride I dare say."

Long after she left me I pondered in deep mortification of spirit on the circumstances so bitterly humiliating that surrounded me, and wondered, vaguely, how long Royal Vane would remain in Europe, and if mamma's surmise would prove true, and, by the very perversity of my woman's nature, I felt a slight twinge of jealousy in regard to this possible bride.

* * * * *

Two years crept by and mamma had not yet succeeded in bringing about the "suitable match" she had set her heart upon.

"Of all the ridiculous, old-fashioned girls I ever knew you are the stubbornest. What am I to do with you? Are you determined to be an old maid?"

"Yes, mamma."

"Royal Vane has returned, I hear; perhaps you fancy you can persuade him to attempt making you his bride again! I think he is far too wise and"——

"Mamma, do not speak to me so," I pleaded earnestly. "Royal Vane feels no worse contempt for me than I feel for myself."

At a party one night I saw him again, for the first time since his return, handsomer, graver, but the lion of the evening. Was it possible he had ever loved me? I could scarcely believe it and crept back in an alcove that, myself unseen, I might behold him to my heart's content.

By and by I perceived our hostess bringing him direct to me, and trembled with mingled dread and pleasure; but when he addressed me in his calm, pleasant way I grew more composed, that is, until some one in passing him inquired:

"Did your wife accompany you?"

My heart stood still.

I saw him smile and shake his head, but failed to catch his reply.

The music struck up, the lights danced.

"The [illegible] is great," I faltered.

"Let us go out upon this veranda. You do look ill. Come!"

I gladly went, drinking in strong, fresh draughts of the cool evening air.

"Did you say your wife"——I began, but could go no further.

"Tessie," he said gently, "do you see this?" and he held up my old engagement ring. "The only wife I ever had wore this a very little while."

And then it must have been the moonlight that betrayed my great relief, for he exclaimed:

"Tessie! Tessie! what is it I read in your dear eyes? Has it all been a mistake and do you love me? Will you wear this once more?"

I allowed him to put it on my finger; then I flung my arms about his neck and sobbed for sheer joy.

"I loved you always, only I did not know it—not until you had gone away. For all the sorrow I have caused you I will try to repay by a lifetime of devotion."

And when once more we stood before the minister there were given two earnest, heartfelt responses.

FEMININE PARAGRAPHS.

Neck chains are worn only for full dress.

Chatelaine watches are the correct style for ladies.

New French dresses are exceedingly short in the skirt.

Pansy mull in Quaker kerchiefs are new in neck wear.

Much embroidery is seen upon new bonnets of Parisian make.

Old tapestry shades of color are most in favor for summer toilets.

High pleated collars resembling collarettes will be much worn.

Woolen dresses, to be tasteful, should be made as plain as possible.

Detachable bows of ribbon are now used for trimming night dresses.

Shirrings, ruffles and puffs are used in designing summer suits of all kinds.

Beaded collars in solid jet embroidery on black Brussels net are very stylish.

The lace fichu so popular this summer will be reduced to a full ruche by fall.

Lace and embroidery remain the favorite trimmings for all kinds of dresses.

Red lace mitts and red silk stockings are worn with muslin dresses by little girls.

Small jeweled lace pins, matching the earrings, are used for fastening bonnet strings.

The new shade of blue called bleu de mer is a rival to cadet blue for street costumes.

Most evening dresses worn at watering places are white, pale blue, or shell or shrimp pink.

The wraps adopted by young American girls abroad are of masculine cut and tailor finish.

Spotted foulard neckties of dark colors with the dots in contrast, are worn with morning toilets.

Some of the new satins are such marvels of delicate flower printing as almost to merit framing.

Among the innovations of modern fashion one of the oldest is the wearing of velvet throughout the summer.

"[illegible]," in tinted silver, with diamond dewdrops sparkling on leaves and flowers, grows in favor constantly.

Full bodices shirred in surplice style are used for the thin summer silks that are preferred to grenadine for their coolness.

The round design waist, shirred at the belt and shoulders, is quite pretty for young ladies; the sleeves reach only to the elbow.

The flatly folded scarf worn by gentlemen is much used by ladies with their Norfolk jackets and tailor-made cheviot dresses.

Parisian laced shoes, with pointed perforated toes of patent leather on French kid tops, are taking the place of buttoned boots.

Many summer bonnets, following the style of the "Langtry" bonnet, have the crown completely covered with broad loops of satin ribbon.

Surah dresses of shrimp pink profusely trimmed with ivory lace or with the silk Aurillac lace are worn at day and evening receptions.

The Alpine peasant hat, called the Montaguard, with broad brim bent down over the eyes, is to be an exceedingly popular head covering for seaside use.

Among the extremely fancy summer wraps none have a greater popularity than the scarlet broadcloth coats adorned with heavy black braid disposed in hussar style.

Muslin round hats, for country wear, are made of polka dotted white and ecru muslins; the trimmings of fancy muslin handkerchief and artificial daisies, buttercups and white pink Scotch roses.

Painted roses of velvet, matching in shape the laced ones of kid now seen upon the promenade, have the toes covered with an embroidery of gold and silver beads. They are laced over the instep with gold and silver cords.

The fancy for Kate Greenaway figures is carried to absolute absurdity. Not only do they decorate fans, corners of handkerchiefs, sunshades, etc., but the latest use for them is as a procession on dress flounces and borders of overskirts.

Of Great Value.

More than twenty years ago, when it was found that prevention of cholera was easier than cure, a prescription drawn up by eminent doctors was published in The Sun, and it took the name of The Sun cholera medicine. No one who has this by him, and takes it in time, will ever have the cholera. We commend it to all our friends. Even when no cholera is anticipated, it is an excellent remedy for ordinary summer complaints, colic, diarrhoea, dysentery, &c. Take equal parts of tincture of Cayenne pepper, tincture of opium, tincture of rhubarb, essence of peppermint and spirits of camphor. Mix well. Dose, 15 to 30 drops in a little cold water, according to age and violence of symptoms repeated every fifteen or twenty minutes until relief is obtained.

The most startling parasols exhibited thus far are those of vermilion satin, lined with old gold silk and trimmed with double ruffles of old gold lace. The ferrules are surrounded by a wreath of brilliant scarlet roses, mixed with yellow sunflowers. A [illegible] has to study a long time to decide whether the thing is to be boiled or eaten.

Fancy work baskets come in a variety of novel shapes. They are made of rushes, esparto or Spanish grass, or gilded straw, and represent game baskets, panniers and other fancies, and are bordered with an embroidered valance and finished off with little wooden tassels.

It is reported that Dover will not have a fireman's parade this Fall. The business men are ready to contribute, but the "boys have agreed not to agree."

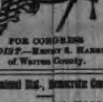
Democratic Nominations.



FOR CONGRESS
IV DIST.—HENRY S. HARRIS, of Warren County.

3rd Congressional Dist., Democratic Convention!

The Democratic electors of the Third Congressional District of New Jersey are requested to meet in their several townships and wards, at such times and places as may be designated, in accordance with the usages of the party in their several counties, and appoint one delegate for every one hundred and one for every fraction over fifty Democratic votes cast in said township and wards at the last Gubernatorial election, to represent said district in the Democratic Convention for said District, to be held in the city of FREEHOLD, ON TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER [illegible] at 12 o'clock, m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent said District in the Congress of the United States.

HENRY W. LONG,
Chairman of last Convention.

Englishtown, Aug. 12, 1882.

.*. Democratic papers throughout the District are requested to notice the time and place of holding the Convention.

Fourth District Congressional Nominee.

As we go to press we are in receipt of the following telegram:

NEWTON, N. J. Aug. 17th.

The Hon. Henry Schenck Harris renominated for Congressman in this District on the fourth ballot. A. L. F.

RAISE THE FLAG.

There was a time when Democratic Senators and Representatives in Congress with bold and united front defended strict obedience to the Constitution, fidelity to national obligations, equitable taxation, and the legitimate and economical expenditure of public money as vital party principles, against which no personal consideration could for a moment find weight.

Then the Democratic party stood high in popular favor and was victorious throughout the land.

The people rallied to its support with confidence and zeal, because they saw and knew that its leaders and chosen representatives were honest and patriotic.

Then Democratic Congressmen went to Washington for the single purpose of advancing the public good, and returned seasonably to their constituents, not spoils laden, but honor crowned.

So might the party of Democracy stand now, and if it did, irresistible would be its strength. No human power could arrest its onward course.

It can be brought back to former usefulness and glory, and as sincere Democrats, loyal to sound government, we urge all fellow partisans who value principles above pelf to commence at once the work of regeneration.

The task is plain, but to be made effective, determination must control action.

Re-inaugurate the principles and measures espoused by Jefferson.

Fearlessly uphold integrity, morality and justice at all times and everywhere.

Insist upon purity and freedom of choice in nominating as well as in electing.

Make no man a candidate for any office unless proof positive exists that he is capable and worthy, that he will devote time and interest to the faithful discharge of duty for the general welfare, and that he would willingly forfeit his right hand rather than engage in corrupt jobbery of any name or description.

That programme, Democrats, rigidly enforced, would soon raise the flag of our party from the dust and cause it to wave triumphant.

Up with the Jeffersonian banner!
Nail it to the mast!

ENGLISH OUTRAGE.

An American citizen, Stephen J. Meany, well known in New York as a public writer and speaker, being on a fraternal visit to Ireland, the land of his nativity, was there recently arrested under one of Mr. Gladstone's laws and held to bail as a disorderly character.

England should be made to understand, through official language that can neither be mistaken nor forgotten, that freedom of person and opinion is a sacred prerogative of citizenship in the United States, and that any foreign power daring to touch an unoffending American, whether native born or naturalized, will be held accountable for the committed outrage.

If England would direct one half the time and money she is now spending for the national and financial control of Egypt to the bettering of Ireland's condition, and instead of bombarding Arabs, would look near home and confer simple justice upon Irishmen, the world's respect for her would be vastly enhanced.

Had we now a William L. Marcy Secretary of State, Mr. Gladstone might hear a report more deafening than his broadsides against unarmed Alexandria.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Most of the Congressional Districts in New Jersey comprise two or more Counties, and the custom has always been to accord a Representative two terms only, and to extend the courtesy of a nomination to each County in rotation.

That is a salutary and satisfactory rule in every particular, and we see no valid reason why it should be set aside in this or any other District.

It is strictly just, because each county thereby enjoys the rightful opportunity of having one of its immediate citizens occasionally elected.

It is essentially wise, because the frequent return of power into the hands of the people is a safeguard against personal presumption and wrong doing.

Nothing can be truthfully advanced in opposition to the two term principle, but everything in its favor.

Let it be preserved.

Justice and courtesy demand that the Democratic candidate for Congress be this year taken from the County of Union.

POLITICAL.

Hon. Josephus Shann is spoken of as the Democratic candidate for State Senator from Middlesex county. He is an experienced legislator and a sound Democrat.

John Carpenter, Jr., editor of the Clinton Democrat, is spoken of as a candidate for State Senator from Hunterdon county this Fall. Mr. Carpenter is well fitted to so represent the people of his county. We hope to hear of his nomination and election.

And now it is gravely stated that some wag in the Philadelphia Custom House returned to Mr. Hubbell the name of the office cat as among those to whom no assessment circular had been sent, whereupon an assessment of two per cent. was laid upon "Sallie Binns." The time for the Congressional convention in this district is approaching; the Democratic nomination is conceded to Union county, if we can unite upon a candidate. Shall we do it? Recent events at Washington have raised a moral cyclone out West. A Democratic Congressman from Illinois has been invited to stay at home after the fourth of March next, and two Republican members from the same State, frightened at the storm, prudently decline to be candidates again. Let the elements rage. The result will, we hope, be purification of the political atmosphere.

There is a muddy creek in Robeson's domain, South Jersey, about fifteen feet wide and with from four inches to two feet depth of water, for the ostensible purpose of improving the navigation of which a fat appropriation was made by Congress. That is a specimen of much. Where will the money settle? Concentrate thoughts, Taxpayers, even if you cannot catch your flying greenbacks.

What a glorious thing it would be at the present day could Democrats proudly point to Democratic action in Congress and say—"They were faithful servants of the people, they resolutely maintained the time honored and liberty saving principles of Jefferson and Jackson, and indignantly refusing to clasp hands with corruptionists, they locked shields and frustrated treasury spoliation?" Democrats! It is your duty to cause such a saying to have truthful utterance in the future.

Relative to the appropriation in the River and Harbor bill for the improvement of Cheesequakes Creek, the New Brunswick Times says: It is only on account of the bar at its mouth that the Government is called upon for an appropriation. During the past fiscal year according to statistics of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, nearly 800 vessels were admitted through their drawbridge into Cheesequakes creek, all carrying out large cargoes, of the net value, delivered, of probably not less than half a million of dollars.

Twenty-five feet of the Hudson River Tunnel has been completed on the New Jersey side in the last week. On the New York side of the river work has been continued on the iron plates of a section fifteen feet long, two-thirds of which are in place. Air-locks have been set up in the tunnel so as to make two chambers of compressed air, one in the extreme heading, the other in the caisson back of the locks just put in.—Twenty-six pounds pressure is maintained in the heading and sixteen in the caisson. This arrangement makes it easier to maintain adequate pressure in the heading, and it has been found to relieve the men greatly. It has been found by experience that it is not so much the pressure which affects laborers in it as sudden changes to the normal atmosphere. The duplication of locks so arranged as to give an intermediate chamber with less pressure relieves this difficulty.

A list of 428 appointments to special clerkships in the Pension Office, the first batch of the 800 provided for in the legislative bill, was given to the press. The Stalwarts control the bulk of the patronage distributed, and no women have been appointed. It is expected that a few will be on the next list.

An exchange says: The engines on the Pennsylvania Railroad are now being fitted up with spark arresters which are, at the same time, steam arresters. Unless frequent halts are made, it is impossible for the engines to keep up a full head of steam, and when long distances are to be covered with heavy trains the making of schedule time is an impossibility. This is why the Long Branch trains are late half an hour or more every day. The engineers and conductors do their best, and are annoyed exceedingly at the delay which it is beyond their power to remedy, and they chafe and inwardly boil when irritable passengers growl and curse them because they are behind time.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS OF THE COUNTY OF UNION.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular monthly meeting of the Board held Thursday, Aug. 3, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Present—Director Martine and Freeholders Briant, Clark, Doty, Eller, Halliday, Hubbard, Husbands, Ieenmann, Mapes, Newberry, Oliver, Runkle, Smith, Stover, Thompson and White —17.

The minutes of the last meeting were read (omitting list of bills ordered paid) and on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following statement from the County Collector was read:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—The amounts of unpaid taxes due the county at the present time are as follows (not including interest):

From Rahway on 1879, 1880, 1881 .... $[illegible]
From Summit, old account .... $1,[illegible]

Total .... $37,[illegible]

Since your last meeting the Attorney of Summit (Wm. L. Curtis, Esq.,) has fulfilled his promise then made; that he would get an order from the Chancellor directing the immediate payment of a large part of the claim from moneys of the township which were in litigation; the payment was $3,[illegible], this leaves $1,[illegible] and the interest still due. Respectfully submitted,

F. SHERIDAN,
County Collector.

On motion of Freeholder Hubbard, received and ordered spread upon the minutes.

A communication from D. K. Ryno, Esq., of Rahway, in relation to the compensation of morgue keepers was read.

On motion of Freeholder Runkle, received and ordered on file.

The following from the Committee on Bridge between Union and Morris counties, at Stanley, was read:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

GENTLEMEN—The undersigned, a com. appointed to build a bridge over the Passaic River, between the counties of Union and Morris, at Stanley, having our attention called to the condition of the bridge at Franklin Mills over the same river, we made an examination of the same, and advise the appointment of a special com. of five (5) to meet a like com. from Morris county, and they give the matter their immediate attention and report their conclusions to this Board within two weeks.

WM. H. BRIANT,
R. M. STOVER,
THOMAS WHITE,
SAMUEL C. SMITH,
JOHN IHENMANN,
Com. on Stanley Bridge.

Elizabeth, August 3, 1882.

On motion of Freeholder Clark, received and recommendation of the com. adopted.

A com. from M. M. Meloon, Esq., St. Com'r. of the city of Elizabeth, calling the attention of the Board to a resolution adopted by the city council in regard to the pavement on the bridge on West Jersey street; also to the condition of culvert at Pearl and Cherry streets, was read.

Freeholder Hubbard moved com. be received and referred to a com. of five.

Which was carried.

The County Attorney made a verbal report as to the papers referred to him at the last meeting of the Board, signed by Rev. W. J. Wiseman, in regard to bridges and road matters in Cranford township, to the effect that the Freeholder[s] [illegible] the duty in repairing or building a bridge or culvert where it had been previously located (providing such repair was a public necessity). As to incumbrances on the highways or side lines of streets, or improper locations, they are local matters beyond the jurisdiction of the Board, as the members of the Board, and under control of the officers of the township, or township road board, where there is one, and where no such road board exists, disputed lines of streets are fixed by local officers under general provisions of law.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

From Com. on Bridge over Green Brook, Plainfield.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

GENTLEMEN—Your com. appointed and authorized to construct a [illegible] bridge in the city of Plainfield over Green Brook, on Norris road, at an expense not to exceed $[illegible], would respectfully report that the same has been placed under contract and to cost $[illegible], one-half to be paid by this county.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. J. HALLIDAY,
WM. H. BRIANT,
J. F. HUBBARD,
WM. M. OLIVER,
Committee.

Elizabeth, August 3, 1882.

On motion, received and ordered spread on the minutes.

From Committee on Leland Avenue bridge, Plainfield, N. J.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN—Your com. appointed to report as to the necessity and probable cost of a new bridge over Green Brook, in city of Plainfield, at Leland avenue, would respectfully report that the bridge in question was [illegible] ago from Green Brook street; it is of white pine, much decayed, and [illegible] in the passage of [illegible] in its present condition, that repairs would be a waste of money. As the walls are in a good condition, we would recommend the building of a new bridge [illegible] or bridge at a cost not to exceed two hundred and fifty ($250) to this county.

While your com. were in conference with the Somerset Freeholders, our attention was directed to another bridge over the same stream at Gilbert place, Plainfield. This bridge was built some (30) or (12) years ago by private enterprise, and is now in the midst of good improvements on a street subject to much travel and heavy loads. Its condition is so dangerous that we deem it a duty to call attention of the Board to its removal, and advise the appointment of a committee of five (5) with power, to build a new bridge at the earliest moment at an expense not to exceed four hundred dollars ($400) to this county for the walls and superstructure.

Our attention was also called to the condition of the planking under the arches of the bridge on Somerset street. This is a bridge of three arches (3) of twelve (12) feet span each, and fifty (50) feet across the street. This planking is for the purpose of protecting the foundations and needs attention. We would recommend the appointment of a com. of three (3) to attend to it.

Although your com. was appointed to consider the necessity and probable cost of the bridge on Leland avenue only, yet while in conference with the Somerset Freeholders it was unanimously decided that a new bridge at Gilbert place was also necessary, and that the planking under arches on Somerset street needed attention; therefore we deem it a duty to present the above recommendations that accompany this report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. J. HUSBANDS,
WM. M. OLIVER,
Committee.

Elizabeth, Aug. 3, 1882.

On motion, received and ordered on file.

From Com. on Stanley Bridge over the Passaic River.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

GENTLEMEN—Your com. on Stanley bridge over the Passaic authorized to build a bridge to cost not over $4,[illegible], would respectfully report that they have placed the masonry superstructure under contract, the cost of which will be about $1,[illegible] one-half to be paid by this county. Iron contract to Post & McCord of New York, $3,[illegible]; masonry to J. F. Sinnott of Passaic, [illegible] per yard (estimated cost with [illegible] about $[illegible]). Owing to a change then made in the location of the bridge, masonry and grading [illegible] cost, each county [illegible] additional.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

WM. H. BRIANT,
R. M. STOVER,
THOMAS WHITE,
SAMUEL C. SMITH,
JOHN IHENMANN,
Committee.

Elizabeth, Aug. 3, 1882.

On motion, received and ordered spread upon the minutes.

From Com. on Robinson Branch bridge.

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your com. appointed Aug. [illegible], 1881, to build a bridge over Robinson branch, between Rahway city and the township of Clark, near the Hazelwood Cemetery, would beg leave to report that the same has been completed in the same location of the old, at a cost of $[illegible].

WM. J. THOMPSON,
A. J. HALLIDAY,
C. W. L. MARTINE,
STEPHEN S. MAPES,
W. J. HUSBANDS,
W. E. CLARK,
Committee.

On motion, received and ordered spread upon the minutes.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Director Martine:

Whereas, The Clinton street bridge, in the city of Elizabeth, has been rendered useless by the diversion of water in other channels; and

Whereas, A bridge of the same style and capacity has been decided upon to be erected in Union township; therefore be it

Resolved, That the parapet walls, coping and such other material as can be used in a new bridge, that is now contained in Clinton street bridge, in Elizabeth, be moved to North avenue in Union township, near the Roselle depot, by the com. in charge of the erection of said North avenue bridge.

On motion, adopted by a unanimous vote.

From Com. on Leland avenue bridge.

Resolved, That a com. of five be appointed with power to build a bridge over Green Brook, in Plainfield [illegible] the [illegible] not to exceed [illegible] to this county.

[illegible]

On motion adopted by a unanimous vote.

By Committee on Leland avenue bridge:

Resolved, That a com. of [illegible] be appointed to act with a like com. from Somerset county to replace [illegible] under the arches of the [illegible] bridge on Somerset street in the city of Plainfield, at a cost not to exceed [illegible] to this county.

On motion, adopted by a unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Hubbard:

Whereas, Our County Collector, Francis Sheridan, has kindly presented the members of the Board with [illegible] copies of the [illegible] of the Board for [illegible]; therefore,

Resolved, That we tender him our thanks for the gift and assure him that we fully appreciate the friendly feeling that prompted his generosity.

On motion, adopted.

By Freeholder Thompson:

Whereas, The walls on Robinson Branch bridge have required much more work than was anticipated; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the appropriation be increased $[illegible].

On motion, adopted by a unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Thompson:

Resolved, That Post & McCord, of New York, be paid the balance due on Robinson Branch bridge, by the County Collector, upon the presentation of a proper voucher.

On motion, adopted by a unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Oliver:

Resolved, That the County Attorney be directed to compile and revise for publication, all general and special laws affecting the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county, and the powers and duties of its members, together with all laws affecting the duties of the officers appointed by the Board, and all laws which relate to county, roads, bridges, or criminal companies over which this Board of Freeholders has supervision or control, together with a complete index to all subjects and marginal notes, and report the same to this Board.

Freeholder Hubbard moved to amend that the resolution be referred to the Publication Com., to report at the next meeting of the Board.

Which was carried.

The resolution, as amended, was then on motion, adopted.

Freeholder Hubbard from the Jail Com. presented the quarterly statement of the Warden, which was read, and, on motion of Freeholder Stover, ordered printed with the minutes.

RING ALL THE BELLS!
and call the people in to close out, before the 1st of September,
The Balance of my Spring & Summer Goods.
Nothing stops me in executing the right plans, and if the prices must be cut down to gather the people
DOWN GO THE PRICES!
The people have treated me generously for many years and I am satisfied even though I do sacrifice my profits one month.
IN A NUTSHELL, THIS IS IT!
The practical point of all this is a radical reduction in prices from August first. They are cut, some ten, some twenty, some thirty per cent., and some on goods prepared specially for this sale, not at all. My great desire is to get the people to examine the goods and see the reality of the reductions.
